As for the right to vote, hopefully, 18-year-olds will take advantage of the right they have been clamoring for so long and will register with the intent to vote in all elections. The 18-year-old vote may bring about a change in the teaching of civics and government. Ideally, now that the older students can take an active part in government, they will need an even more thorough dissection of government and will participate more avidly in classroom discussion.

As for the age of majority bill, the Free Press sums it up very nicely:

"The age of majority bill in our judgment is a triumph for the philosophy that we ought to provide as much personal freedom as we can for individuals. The corollary to it is that we hold adults accountable when they do injury or seriously risk injury to others. That sort of dual recognition of rights and responsibility will go a long way, we believe, toward giving law enforcement machinery a job it can manage and toward encouraging good citizenship as well."

Doll-Pet Parade Saturday

"Yes, kids there will be a Doll, Pet and Dress-up parade during the Venetian Festival this year," according to Mrs. Thomas Pence and Mrs. James Bell, co-chairmen.

The parade will be held in East Park at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 24, immediately following the street parade.

There have been questions regarding the parade, Mrs. Pence said, but added that the answers to most of them will be found on the official entry blanks which may be picked up at all grocery stores in Charlevoix and at the office of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the event.

There will be cash prizes for each category and all children entering the contest will be presented with a treat furnished by Edwards IGA.

The contestants will be presented from the park stage in East Park by Al Shindorf who will serve as master-of-ceremonies. Judges will be the Rev. Albert F. Mansen, Mrs. Joseph Ballergeon and Mrs. Thomas Merta.

All children planning to enter are asked to return their entry blanks as early as possible and to be at the park stage in the park at 3:30 p.m. the day of the parade.

Paul Martin Ranked High

Paul R. Martin, son of Dr. and Mrs. R.G. Martin of Charlevoix, was among 133 students named to the President's List at North Central College, Naperville, Ill.

Martin, who was graduated in June, achieved a 3.923 point average during the second semester of the school year just ended.

State Participating In 'Cycle Study'

Michigan police agencies beginning Aug. 1 will participate in a special 90-day two-state study of accidents involving motorcycles for the National Highway Safety Administration, the State Police traffic division reported.

Michigan, which has a motorcycle helmet law, will be paired in the study with Illinois, which has no such law.

Forms for supplementary information on motorcycle and motor scooter involvement in accidents are being distributed to all law enforcement departments in the state.

Information sought includes description of injuries to operators and passengers, make and size of motorcycle, estimated speed at collision impact, helmet type and condition, license and mileage data, and operator experience.

As of July 15 this year, Michigan motorcycle deaths total 63, a slight increase from 60 for the same period last year, while the state in 1971 is showing a 10 percent decrease in all traffic accidents.

Motorcycle accident deaths in Michigan last year numbered 136.

Wants U.S. to Reimburse Counties for Federal Land

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe today introduced a bill in Congress to provide for payment to compensate county governments for tax immunity of federal lands within their boundaries.

The bill, entitled the "Federal Lands Act of 1971," provides an annual payment to local counties in lieu of taxes on the Federal lands within each county. Payments would be based on a percentage of the normal tax rate for similar private lands. Federal payments would range from 60 percent to 90 percent of the ad valorem tax in each area, spending upon the benefits to the public derived from the Federal activities carried out on the land.

"Where there are heavy concentrations of Federal land ownership," stated Congressman Ruppe, "the burden on the local taxpayer is rapidly becoming unbearable. I strongly feel that the Federal government must provide adequate compensation for the loss in local tax revenues when it assumes land ownership."

Ruppe added, "A preliminary study of Federal land ownership in the 11th Congressional District of Michigan indicates that local government would receive approximately six million dollars in Federal tax payments annually."

Ruppe earlier introduced a bill to provide for a minimum payment of 25 cents per acre on Federal forest lands.

The bill Ruppe introduced today, as well as similar public land bills, will be the subject of hearings next week in the House Interior Committee. Ruppe, who is a member of the Committee, said, "We can no longer ignore the effects of Federal land ownership on the local tax structures. As long as we are going to have a property tax system, the Federal government is going to have to live up to its responsibilities as a local landowner."

STILL UNDECIDED

The fastpitch first round title was still up for grabs as the final games take place this week. Three teams, Novaks, First State Bank and County State Bank all are crowded at the top.

County State Bank beat Potters behind the pitching of Tom Drenth. While Potters was only able to collect three hits off Drenth, the bank boys banged five early inning runs for the victory. Hank Wagner had two key hits for the winners.

Novaks continued its hot play with a convincing 10-3 win over Morweld. Pitcher Larry Potter stroked three of the winner's hits while teammated Ralph Doan got two.

County Airports Slated For Big Improvements

Gov. William G. Milliken has released a five-year State Airport Plan that recommends construction of 73 new airports and modernization of 137 others at an estimated cost of more than $229 million.

Included in the plan are extension of the runway and other improvements at the Charlevoix Airport, construction of an administration building and other improvements at the Boyne City Airport, and construction of an administration building, runway paving and other improvements at the East Jordan Airport.

The governor said the plan, developed by the Michigan Commerce Department's Aeronautics Commission, is the most comprehensive airport needs study ever made in Michigan. It is a further development of the Governor's transportation program presented to the Legislature in a special message March 11.

"The State Airport Plan was developed to enable the state and local communities to establish priorities for airport development during the next five years," the Governor said.

"We must continue to improve and expand our system of airports to meet Michigan's air transportation needs in the years ahead. This report establishes desirable goals for the next five years.

"Michigan now has one of the finest airport systems in America and the proposed airport development program will enable us to maintain our leadership in aviation."

The governor said Michigan's existing airport system includes 204 licensed or approved airports – 118 publicly owned and 176 privately owned. Of these, 32 have runways of 4,000 feet or longer, 107 are lighted, 96 are paved and 65 have published instrument approach procedures.

There was a 70 percent increase in the number of registered aircraft in Michigan between 1960 and 1970, increasing from 3,136 in 1960 to 5,333 in 1970. The number of airline passengers arriving and departing from Michigan increased by 148 percent between 1962 and 1970, increasing from 3.6 million to 8.9 million during the eight-year period. Air cargo shipments increased by 129 percent during the same period.

The governor stressed that the State Airport Plan is a needs study and it is not anticipated that all of the recommendations will be accomplished during the five-year period.

"It should be clearly understood that this plan represents an ideal development program. Federal and state funds are available to assist local communities in the development of their airports but the key to success will be local financing," he said.

The Governor said the Aeronautics Commission anticipates that an estimated $43 million in federal funds and approximately $20 million in state funds will be available during the next five years. Local communities would be required to provide an estimated $40 million to accomplish an airport improvement program totaling about $100 million during the five-year period. As a first step in reviewing the report, Milliken asked his staff to review the revenue projections.

"The Aeronautics Commission does not believe local communities will be able to meet their funding requirements unless additional local funding sources are found," the Governor said.

He said a study is being made to determine whether additional funding sources at all three levels—federal, state and local – may be available in the future."

Who Will Be Crowned Miss Charlevoix - 1971?

By BETH BALDWIN

Ten local beauties have entered the competition for the title of Miss Charlevoix. One of these girls will be selected Miss Charlevoix of 1971 and will reign over Venetian festivities this weekend.

Since the middle of July, the contestants have been attending meetings to prepare them for the beauty pageant. Thursday all the girls are invited to attend a free make-up and hairstyling session at the Modern Beauty Salon of Charlevoix. On Friday they will meet again at the Weathervane Inn for a Queen's Brunch. At that time Miss Congeniality will be chosen.

Friday evening is the big night. At 8 p.m. the pageant will begin at the high school in the gymnasium. All contestants will appear in bathing suits and formal dress. They also will take part in a talent show.

Miss Charlevoix of 1970, Sherry Austin, will crown the new queen after the judges announce their decision.

Debbie Bartlett, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bartlett, 1228 State-st. A junior at Charlevoix High School, she is involved in the Pep Club, GAA, Spanish Club, Girls' Basketball, Ski Team, and is also a majorette. Standing a petite five-foot-three and weighing only 101 pounds, Miss Bartlett plans to go on to college for training as a physical education teacher and eventually get married. During the summer she is working at the A & W.

DEBBIE BARTLETT

Kris is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brady, 731 Mercer. A 1971 graduate of CHS, Miss Brady intends to continue her education this fall at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey with hopes of going into the field of medicine. While attending high school, she participated in the Pep Club, Science Club, Ski Team and German Club. She also was on the Flash staff, the office staff and in GAA. A lovely brunette, Kris is only five-feet-five and weighs 115 pounds. She works at Grey Gables.

KRIS BRADY

A 1971 graduate of CHS, Nancy Fochtman will enter Michigan State University in East Lansing this fall. This summer she is attending North Central Michigan College in Petoskey and works as a waitress at the Weathervane Inn where she has worked for the past two years. She is undecided about whether to go into nursing or communication arts. She leans toward public relations. In high school she was president of her senior class, a member of the debate and forensics team, the school newspaper and the ski club. Miss Fochtman, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fochtman, 304 Meech-st. Nancy has redish-brown hair, stands five-feet-two and weighs 110 pounds.

NANCY FOCHTMAN

Another petite contestant, Sally Keie, at five-foot-three and 102 pounds, is just the right size for the stewardess profession which she hopes to enter after finishing school.

SALLY KEIE

Sally will be a junior at CHS this fall but until then is employed by the Argonne. While in school, however, her duties as a majorette keep her busy. Miss Keie, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Keie, 205 State-st.

DELLA PATRICK

Della Patrick is a 1971 graduate of CHS. She works at Oleson's Variety Store and hopes to continue in the business world. While in school, however, Miss Patrick participated in the Pep Club and the Co-op program. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Patrick of Lake Terrace-Mobile Court, Della, 17, is five-foot-one and weighs 107 pounds.

Dori, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peters, 304 W. Lincoln. A 1971 graduate of CHS, Miss Peters was vice-president of FHA, a member of GAA, Girls' Track and the Volleyball Team. She stands a stately five-foot-six and weighs 132 pounds. According to Dori, marriage definitely figures into her future plans.

DORI PETERS

A junior at CHS this fall, Carol Russell is treasurer of FHA, a member of girls GAA, the Pep Club, and Girls' Track. After high school she plans to attend beautician school or become a physical education teacher. Miss Russell, who holds a summer job at Oleson's Variety Store, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell of 102 W. Hurlbut. She stands five-foot-three and weighs 120 pounds.

CAROL RUSSELL

The 1969 homecoming queen has entered competition for the title of Miss Charlevoix. Jackie Warner, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Warner, 317 Mason-st.

JACKIE WARNER

She attended Lansing Business University for three months enrolled in a IBM Keypunch course. Miss Warner now is working at Freedman Artcraft Engineering as a secretary. Standing five-foot-eight and a half inches tall and weighing 128 pounds, Jackie graduated from CHS in 1970. While in school she was active in the Spanish Club, both the symphony and marching band and was a majorette. Her future plans include training as an airline hostess.

Lisa Wasoski, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wasoski, Rt. 2. She intends to enroll at Michigan State University after she graduates in 1973 and then go on to law school. However, while in school she participates in debate and forensics, the Pep Club and Spanish Club, is a member of student council and the annual staff and was a freshman and junior varsity cheerleader. Another tiny contestant, Miss Wasoski is five-foot-two and weighs 111 pounds.

LISA WASOSKI

SHERRY WESTENBROEK

As they say, last but certainly not least is the blond five-foot three daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Westenbroek, Sherry. A junior at CHS this fall, Miss Westenbroek, 16, is a member of the Student Council, the Pep Club, GAA, and a cheerleader. She intends to continue her education at college after graduation but is presently working at Charlevoix Hospital.

That concludes the list of contestants for 1971 Miss Charlevoix. Coordinating all activities this year as the Queens Committee are Lorraine Warner (chairman), CeCe Rlehardson, Blance Smith and her daughter Barbara who was Miss Charlevoix in 1969.

Camp Charlevoix Corral Chatter

By KEN

We have been having great camping weather, real warm days and cool nights. Camp activities are running very smoothly and boys are happy doing new things, learning new skills and making new friends. On Friday, cabins 1 and 3 walked down to the campcraft area, where they enjoyed their first overnight of the year. Dave Tuttle and Dick Geddes took their boys from Cabin one, William Phipps, Tommy Weidner, Kevin Culeman, Bobby Hutner; Cabin 3 with Ken Craig and Scott Benjamin in charge, the boys being, Gordon Bennett, Robert Batts, Mark Vasu, Billy Bissell, Lloyd Collins, and Todd Pline.

Several of the boys have remarked on the beautiful sunsets we enjoy from our parade grounds on the shoreline. Most everynight, the colors are vivid and the sight spectacular. It is interesting that little boys, and even some big boys, get such enjoyment from a beautiful sunset.

On Saturday we had several visitors, and it was good to see the parents of some of our boys. There were about ten sets of parents here, and from here on we expect some visitors every day. It was great over the Fourth to have several of our former campers and staff visit us, among them, John Deane and his new bride; John Wardrop and his new bride; and Hank Holste and his new bride. It is always so good to see these boys who are men now. In the evening, we had a "Skit Night" with several cabin groups putting on a skit. Boys enjoy these. After the skits we had a movie, after which the boys went to their cabins to end the second full week of camp for this season.

Sunday morning our chapel service was held in our outdoor chapel which overlooks the lake and is a most inspiring spot with its tall evergreens and pines. The scripture was read by Brian Weeks and the prayer was given by Mark Wilson. The talk was given by Tom Dorsek, a fourth year counselor, who chose as his topic "What You can take away from Camp." It was a very fine talk and he closed it by reading Kipling's "IF". In the afternoon we had our first Waterfront afternoon. This was Green-Grey competition in swimming, canoeing, sailing, and it was most exciting.

In the Junior Section, the following boys won events: Mike Chen, Tom Largo, Mark Vasu, Don Cook, Peter Gardellu, Billy Bissell, Gordon Bennett, Glenn Graber, Lloyd Collins, and Robert Phipps. In the Prep Section, these boys won their events: David Minas, John Harvey, Dave Barnett, Jim Bennett, Linc Craton, Duke Scott, Dave Asulin, Ben Dancer, Chris Jones, Dean Lewis, Mark Roberts, Paul Edison and Chris Kelly.

In the Intermediate Section, the following boys were the winners: Jim Shook, Scott Williams, Jeff Edison, John Graham, David Townsend, Larry Webb, Jay O'Neill, Jimmy Chalberg, Kris Matson, and John Breitinger.

In the Senior Section, there was much rivalery, and the competition was close. These boys won events for their team: Scott Packard, Steve Horwitz, Eric Musekamp, Mark Wilson, Bill McKee, Jeff Taylor, Tim Washburn, Frank Perron, Mattie Koivula, and Brian Weeks. The Greens picked up three points and the Greys won one point, making the score Greens 8- Greys 6 at this point.

In the evening, we had a council fire where the star winners for the week were announced. It is always a pleasure to see the results of the boys' hard work to honestly accomplish something.

Monday morning at 6:30 found the Mackinac Island boys eating breakfast in order to get an early start to this historic island. Each year the boys who are enrolled during the current camp season for the following year are given this trip. The first trip for this season had 34 boys and five staff men on the trip. Bill Townsend, director of activities drove the school bus. Staff men making the trip were Vince Tuminello, Andy Case, Scott Benjamin, and Eldon Frandsen. The lucky boys on this trip were: Brad Hillis, John Bauer, Billy Bauer, Eric Artman, Tommy Weidner, David Roe, Billy Gates, Peter and Howie Kay, Sanny Greenawald, Jay O'Neill, Eric Musekamp, Peter Gardella, Jimmy Eberts, Jim Shook, Brian Weeks, David Howell, Jim Osborn, Steve Lichtenauer, Billy Guggenheim, Duke Scott, Bill McKee, Larry Webb, Ben Dancer, Bob Swain, Harry Heck, Steve Baker, Mark Wilson, Don Cook, Jim Bennett, John Breitinger, Gordon Bennett, David Townsend, and Chris Jones. Upon their return, the boys reported a very fine trip, and everyone said they had fun. It rained in the evening, and as it was much needed, first one in over a month, everyone was delighted. We had a movie in the Bigwam and off to bed at taps.

Tuesday morning was a very windy morning, bright, sunny, and the lake was a beautiful green with large white-caps. The canoe boys left for a three day trip down the Manistee River. Curt Huber and Tom Dorsek were the counselors and the boys chosen by them for this trip were: Steve Lichtenauer, Steve Horwitz, Mark Wilson, Billy Gates, Jim Osborn, Tey Marzetti, Jawn Marzetti, Jeff Edison, John Bauer and Howie Kay. This is a long canoe trip and the boys were eager to get started. In the evening the Juniors had a Capture the flag game and the Greys won, making the overall score Greens 9-Greys - 7.

Wednesday, another beautiful day, with activities going full tilt. In the evening, we had the "Capture the Counselor," in which staff members hide in the woods and are hunted by campers. Each man has a price on his head, and the team getting the highest money value wins the points. Boys love the event and there are always humorous stories by both the campers and the staff. The event lasted an hour and after the money totals were added up, the Greens had picked up three points and the Greys had one. The score at this stage was Greens - 12, Greys - 8.

Thursday morning early Lee Fernstrum left to pick up the canoe trip on the Manistee, and the riders were getting ready for their horseback overnight trip. Boys enjoy trips and it is on these trips that they learn much regarding living in the woods and not having all the comforts of home. The following boys were chosen by the cowboys to take this trip: Dave Minas, Mike Hoffman, Bob Swuin, Matti Koivula, Jeff Taylor, John Kittredge, Scott Packard, Brian Mathews, Peter Whitman, Duke Scott, Paul Edison, David Barnett, Tim Goldich, and Don Cook. The canoeists arrived home and raved about their trip. In the afternoon, there was a Sailing Race and Jim Osborn skippered his boat to a victory over Frank Perron's boat. Jim Osborn had Lincoln Craton, Gordon Dobie and John Harvey in his boat. Frank Perron had Steve Taylor, Michael Chen and Peter Perrun in his boat.

On Thursday afternoon we had the finals for the Junior Life Saving Awards, and these boys really worked hard. Our head of waterfront, Vince Tuminello, really drilled these boys and was plenty tough in giving the numerous tests. Seven boys started the course and all seven finished and passed. Those receiving this well-earned honor are: Billy Guggenheim, Mark Wilson, Bill McKee, John Graham, Eric Musekamp, Jim Shook and Jim Chalberg. Congratulations to these boys.

As this is being written, boys are excited about the Annual Camp Carnival on Saturday. The Senior Section is looking forward to the party and dance at Camp Chi-Co-Mi a girl's camp about 35 miles from Camp Charlevoix.

Days are rapidly passing by and it doesn't seem possible that three weeks of camp have passed already. The momentum gets faster each week, and the final weeks really fly by.

Democrats Eager to Spend, Unwilling to Tax: Friske

By REP. RICHARD FRISKE
104th District

This column does not normally make a big issue of partisanship. However, I must report to you this week that the battle of the budget has taken on distinctly partisan overtones. It is impossible to separate these Republican-Democrat differences from the central issues. That's how sharply some of the lines are drawn.

Most of the decisions of this session have been made in that grey area of partisan overlap, where the coalition which forms on either side of a given issue is more sharply defined by individual attitudes than party affiliation.

It has boiled down to a very fundamental split in thinking between Republicans and Democrats.

The Democrats, which is to say House Speaker William Ryan, are committed to the concept of piecemeal establishment of spending levels, including massive increases in social welfare programs and other areas. In their concept of government, this legislature would first decide how much it would like to spend, or perhaps how much it thinks would be popular with various groups to spend. Then they would hope that the taxes would be imposed on the public to pay for their spending.

If past history holds true, with Democrats eager to spend but unwilling to tax, they will expect the Republican Party to play the responsible role and put up the votes for taxes, as we have done before.

Most Republican members, on the other hand, believe we should finance reasonable levels of government services, with budget priorities established in relation to total services. Only in this way can we follow a responsible course in providing revenue for essential state services.

We are also committed to the idea that the people should have a firm promise of real property tax reform before any increase in taxation is imposed.

Once we have faced the tough responsibilities of taxation, then we should adopt a budget within our means. That is the attitude of Republicans in the House.

There is also a clear-cut difference in the approach to property tax reform. Both parties say they are for this idea. However, when Republicans moved to discharge the property tax reduction proposal from committee and bring it up for a vote, majority Democrats beat back the effort on an almost pure party-line vote. All but one Republican voted for immediate consideration of the property tax relief, while all but one Democrat voted to keep it bottled up in committee.

In addition, there is conflict over the form in which property tax reform should be submitted for a public vote (required because it is a constitutional amendment). Democrats want to tie property tax reduction to the imposition of a graduated income tax. The graduated tax was soundly defeated by voters a few years ago. But under the Democrat plan, if you wanted to vote to reduce your property taxes, you would also have to vote to take a graduated income tax.

Republicans will support placing the graduated income tax before the voters. But we will not support combining it with property tax reduction. We believe that would be a great disservice to Michigan's citizens, preventing them from making a clear choice on either item, and jeopardizing property tax relief. We contend that the two issues should go on the ballot as separate entities.

Finally, we strongly object to the manner in which the majority Democrats have chosen to place the budget before the legislature.

After months of procrastination on the key issues, they are now sliding the budget bills into the House one at a time. Their strategy is apparently to take up each bill without allowing the members an understanding of the total budget picture.

Indian Rights Inquiry Warrants Speedy Reply

Although the state Attorney General's office is not noted for its speedy decisions, we hope Rep. Philip E. Ruppe's request for a review of the Michigan Supreme Court decision relative to Indian hunting and fishing rights receives prompt attention.

On April 5, the state Supreme Court affirmed a treaty granting certain hunting and fishing rights to Michigan's Chippewa Indians.

Since then, certain Indians in the Bay Mills area of the Upper Peninsula reportedly have been exercising their reaffirmed rights to the fullest by netting lake trout and selling them to commercial fisheries.

Ruppe questions whether the century-old treaty in question governs commercial as well as private hunting and fishing.

The representative also would like the Attorney General to clarify the position of the state Department of Natural Resources, insofar as Indian hunting and fishing privileges are concerned.

We believe Ruppe's questions are valid and should be answered promptly by the Attorney General, even if he has to huddle with members of the high court in order to come up with answers.

If the treaty covers only the Indians' private fishing and hunting rights, outlawing the sale of game to commercial interests, then the ruckus should die a-borning. Certainly few men would argue the right of an impoverished Indian to feed his family from the bounty of the land, particularly if such a right is guaranteed by treaty.

On the other hand, if the treaty permits the sale of game to commercial interests, then it seems the Department of Natural Resources is fighting a losing battle to restock our lakes and preserve our wildlife.

Ruppe's questions are pertinent to the issue. They should be answered with all possible dispatch.

National Geographic Feature

Old Egyptians, Romans Tried to Beat the Heat

When the temperature hit 100 degrees one July day in Illinois, a farmer hurried into town to buy an air conditioner—for his hogs.

"They need it worse than I do," he explained.

The hogs are indebted to Dr. Willis Carrier, who in 1902 perfected a device that controlled temperature, humidity, and air cleanliness in a Brooklyn printing plant.

Since then, hundreds of uses for air conditioning have developed, the National Geographic Society says. Air conditioners now are so widely used that 133 room-sized units were sold in Alaska in 1969.

WORKS AT NIGHT

The latest development is a system that stores coolness at night and releases it in the day. The air conditioner employs eutectic salt-hydrates that freeze at 55 degrees. They are frozen at night when power demand is low, then used for cooling in the day, reducing electrical drain at critical periods during heat waves.

The prototype under development at the University of Pennsylvania is designed for the fast-growing home market. More than 6.5 million dwellings in the United States have central cooling systems; they are being sold at a rate of more than a million a year.

From 75 to 80 percent of all office buildings have central or room installations. This has settled the old argument about where the electric fan should go, but has created a new one.

Women generally like warmer temperatures than men. A Tucson law firm solved the problem by creating "filly stalls," an office area for women that is kept 4 to 6 degrees warmer than the men's quarters.

Air conditioning isn't for people only. An Illinois watch company installed an elaborate atmosphere-control system to keep rust and dust from gumming up the delicate works of its timepieces.

Air conditioning also keeps lumps out of sugar in refineries, protects telephone cables from excessive humidity, and prevents temperature changes from expanding or contracting precision parts.

Broiler chickens, hogs, and cattle fatten quicker under controlled temperatures. Studies show that cool cows are more contended and give more milk than those housed in stuffy barns.

SNOW COOLED ROMANS

For centuries man has experimented with artificial cooling. Egyptians soaked the walls of their homes with water. As the dry desert winds evaporated the moisture, the houses grew cooler. Roman slaves journeyed to distant mountains for snow to pack in hollow outer walls of their wealthy masters' villas to chill the interior.

Leonardo da Vinci devised a large paddle wheel that drew cool air from the surface of a river into a conduit leading to the home of his patron, the Duke of Milan.

Sir Humphrey Davy, the English chemist, attempted to cool the House of Lords by boring holes in the floor to let chilliness seep up from lower levels. The experiment failed. A contemporary versified:

"For boring 20,000 holes,
The Lords paid nothing.

Dear Editor:

I would like the people of Michigan to know about a very gratifying experience I have just had with Senator Robert Griffin. I feel he has dramatically proven that our system of representative government is not only workable but is truly responsive.

I am a 24-year-old medical student who wrote to Senators Griffin and Hart about a solution that could alleviate the critical shortage of physicians in rural and ghetto areas. Apparently Senator Griffin, who was aware of the problem, felt my idea has merit. In less than one month Senator Griffin transformed my basic concept into an amendment to the draft bill. The amendment was then passed by the U.S. Senate. Presently the bill is in the Conference Committee where I hope the amendment will remain as part of the final bill. If not, the senator has assured me he will enter an entirely new bill concerning this matter.

I want to point out that I am an ordinary citizen who is opposed to the war and tends to vote democratic. I have no prior political experience, no money, no connections, or political influence, yet I was able to convince Senator Griffin of the urgency of the problem and the validity of my solution. He then took the action which he deemed to be the most rapid and effective. The results of the Senate vote area testimony to his skill as a legislator.

I wish I could relate this experience to every citizen of this nation and especially to those who feel the individual citizen cannot be heard. Certainly, the credit must go to Senator Griffin who recognizes his responsibility and listens to his constituents irrespective of their political views and financial influence. Although I tend to vote democratic, I sincerely hope that the people of Michigan will see fit to re-elect this capable and responsive senator in 1972.

Sincerely yours,
Sol Edelstein

Charlevoix Courier

To the Editor

Dear Bob,

Thanks for the editorial about fighting rag weed. It attracted attention and was informative.

The little samples have been in various shops and businesses around town for two weeks now and a lot of people have come to recognize it. Our aim now is for everyone to be so conscious of it that they will pull it on sight! Probably people have thought I was some kind of nut when they've seen me pulling it from city property here and there!

Let's hope all the citizens of Charlevoix will make it their battle!

While I'm here, I have another beef which was pointed up by a letter to the editor last week. Noise pollution. If a passenger car needs a muffler there is a fine in most cities for driving without it. It is possible to put a muffler on a motor cycle, so why are we constantly battered with the roar of motor cycles?

My green thumb is purple plastic, but I keep trying, so keep it up—more power to you!

Sincerely,
Joanna Gunn

2-Dog Family

By BOB CLOCK

It is something of a status symbol to have two cars in the family, even if one of them is a 1953 Ford with 400,000 miles on the speedometer and no muffler.

But what about the two-dog families? You don't hear anything much about them, do you? Except maybe snickers and expressions of sympathy.

But as of last Tuesday, the Clocks became a two-dog family and we're all tickled silly except dog No. 1.

I say "tickled" advisedly, because dog No. 2 is a bundle of fuzz who sends shivers down your spine when she brushes up against your bare legs while your're shaving.

Her name is Holly, short for Holland Rusk, and she is a Keeshond — a relatively rare breed of Dutch dog that is only recently gaining popularity on this side of the Atlantic.

You might remember reading about Keeshonden in the Courier a few weeks ago when the Charles Lehmans' two dogs of that breed gave birth to a litter of eight puppies at the Lehmans' home on South Barnard-rd.

The Clocks hurried out to take some pictures of the litter and it was a case of love at first sight.

We tried to forget about acquiring a Keeshond because dog No. 1, our rat terrier Ginny, was still hale and hearty. But we still talked about them and Judy kept reminding me repeatedly that a Keeshond was the only "good dog" she would ever want to own. (Of course, we never discussed Keeshonden in front of Ginny, who is quite sensitive about her position in the household.)

Then came the day of the Hobbycraft Show and who should we run into downtown but Chuck Lehman with one of the Keeshonden puppies in tow. The pups are 14 weeks old now and as big and fluffy as koala bears.

Should we or shouldn't we?

Finally we told Chuck to save the last of the female pups for us. We promised to pick her up Tuesday after the paper was off the press.

Holly has been an instant hit with all of the children in the neighborhood, including our own. Tuesday evening we trotted her over to Fran Martin's house on Nicholls-st. to let Fran have a look at our latest acquisition. On the way we picked up a coterie of about 40 youngsters, all of whom troooped into Fran's house with us to help show off Holly.

Wednesday night I couldn't resist a temptation to take Holly to the band concert in the park, although I wasn't sure she really liked music. And now I know where the expression "putting on the dog comes from."

En route downtown we were stopped a dozen times or more by curious passersby, some of whom weren't exactly sure whether Holly were a dog or a bear cub. She was smooched and hugged a-plenty after we assured them that Keeshonden are as gentle as diaper detergent and have been raised for centuries as children's pets.

If I had a dozen more just like her, I think I could have sold them on the spot.

Needless to say, we were all concerned about how Ginny would accept her new roommate and I frankly wouldn't have been surprised if she had shown some of the canine hostility she shows towards squirrels and motorcycles.

But she hasn't. Instead, dog No. 1 ignores dog No. 2 with a hauteur that would do credit to a society dowager. Holly might as well be a dust ball under the bed or an old sock, for all Ginny cares.

Of course, the kids are under orders to be extra nice to Ginny now that Holly has arrived and the poor beast is wilting under all of the tender, loving care being heaped upon her from all quarters.

I just hope they don't over-do it. I don't think I could live in the same house with two spoiled dogs, three spoiled kids and a wife who thinks she has made the "Blue Book" now that she is the major domo of a two-dog family.

Quiet, Please

By JIM FITZGERALD

The mail brought a question from a woman who'd seen me at a church supper. She wondered if I knew that I always have a "shy look" on my face.

The fact is, I am not so much shy as I am defensive. I use sort of a glazed, flinchy look to defend myself against an attack of small talk.

I am lousy at talking about nothing. I first realized this when I was a small boy, getting my hair cut. The barber was continually asking me what I learned in school that day. There is a bright question. I couldn't think of an intelligent answer and besides, I couldn't believe the barber really cared a darn about my schooling. So I limited my answers to one syllable, mumbled. Or sometimes I pretended I didn't hear him.

My dad went to the same barber. One day they talked about me and Dad came home to say: "The barber says you are a remarkable boy. He says he cut your hair 3 times before he realized you were deaf and dumb."

Today I use magazines to defend myself against barbers. But I can't live with my nose in a book ("But he sure tries," yaps my wife) and thus I've taken on protective coloring which might easily be mistaken for shyness, rudeness, or even snobbishness. The idea is to discourage anyone from asking me how I like the weather.

Some people, mostly women, are expert at small talk. My wife is the champion of the world. There are people in this world who don't know my name, but they know I don't wear pajamas because they bumped into my wife in a doctor's waiting room.

They end up discussing such earth-shaking subjects as muddy little boys, rice instead of potatoes, cats, college girls, and the health of Pat's cousin's brother-in-law's goldfish.

There is no such thing as two or more women, even total strangers, sitting silently in the same room. They'll talk if they have to discuss the cracks in the ceiling. On the other hand, I stood in line for 3 years in the army and never talked to the guy in front of me. I don't know if there was a guy behind me because I never turned around. I was afraid it might be a barber.

I think a man with nothing to say, shouldn't say it. I think silence is golden (you may quote that, if you wish). I think I am doing a guy a favor if I don't ask him if he's had enough rain. I think it is friendly not to disturb a man who is obviously thinking about a big fish he almost caught. The man alone at the end of the bar is not necessarily a lonely soul who would love to hear why the Tigers blew the pennant. He may be seeing splendid reflections of his childhood in his beer.

My wife says I am "just not friendly." Measured by the most popular yardstick, I guess I'm not. But there should be another measuring stick for us quiet types. After all, I'm willing to share great gobs of my silence with perfect strangers, free. Any stranger who says that isn't friendly, he's not perfect.

I do not tell the garrulous man to shut up. He should not tell me to speak up. That's simple courtesy, isn't it? Nowhere is it written on a stone tablet that it is a sin to enjoy silence. No law says a nightdream is more important to the soul than a daydream. A man should be awakened from neither except for good reason.

Hotels supply "Do Not Distrub" signs to hang on doorknobs. Until I hang such a sign around my neck, I must depend upon my "shy look" to ward off inane conversation. This look says plainly I will faint dead if anyone asks if it is cold engough for me.

But if it is anything important, just knock on my nose.

Door Co. Fan Takes Hard Look at Tourists

(The following article by columnist Sydney J. Harris was submitted to the Courier by a subscriber who ran across it in the July 8 issue of the Leelanau Enterprise-Tribune. She thought Charlevoix readers might find it interesting, since it deals with Door County, a resort area in Wisconsin directly across Lake Michigan from Charlevoix. Mr. Harris is a columnist for the Chicago Daily News, the Detroit Free Press and other newspapers. The article appeared in the Leelanau newspaper as a public service statement by The Pollution Solutioners and Other Concerned Citizens. It was entitled "Do You Remember Leland?")

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

FISH CREEK, Wis. - This is an anti-travel piece. It's against tourists. The wrong kind, anyhow. That belchingly unsilent majority.

Stay away from the Door. Door County, that is. We love it too much to want it cluttered up by gawkers, guzzlers and gooks. A "gook" is somebody who's "looking for the action."

There's no "action" in Door County. Practically nothing to do here. No night life to speak of. All you can pick up here is a smallmouth bass, if you're lucky.

This is beautiful country. Too beautiful for the Ugly Americans. For the litterers and gum chewers, the ladies with pink curlers in their hair and the men swinging six-packs down the street in their undershirts.

NEVER MIND what the Chamber of Commerce says, you won't like it here. It isn't meant for you. You'll be bored stiff-nothing but the cool waters of Green Bay, the limestone cliffs, lots of old trees, old quarries and old barns. Hardly a neon sign anywhere. No organized activities. The nightclubs are a laugh. Only a couple of good restaurants, always too crowded in the summer. And absolutely nothing to do when it rains.

It's a place for people who like to loaf, to walk, to paint, to sit in a boat, to read a book under a tree, to re-acquaint themselves with the basic verities of life.

It's a place for people who value their privacy, who dislike noise and auto fumes, who wear their oldest clothes, who respect sailboats and regard motorboats as a sometimes necessary nuisance, who are obdurately snobbish about the subdued tone and leisurely pace and noncompetitive atmosphere of their summer heaven.

AND WE RESENT IT - even though it may be "good for business" - when a magazine like National Geographic or Today's Health runs a glossy article, with pictures, extolling the "charms" of Door County. We know, and fear, that it can't remain charming very long under the assault of popularity, that its very success would destroy it.

Of course, we want the merchants and resort operators to prosper but not at the expense of turning the area into another whiz-bang tourist trap, where the flamboyant weekenders are despised privately as much as they are encouraged publicly. There are already plenty of places like that in Wisconsin and the Midwest. We don't need another.

OUR AFFLUENT society suffers from what John Maynard Keynes has dubbed "the paradox of the aggregate." Things that are good and desirable for the few become intolerable when overrun by the many. As more and more people emerge into affluence, their very numbers make it impossible for them to enjoy what the few once possessed. This is a grim paradox our prosperous democracy has barely begun to face.

And this "paradox of the aggregate" is complicated by the bleak fact that our affluence is not accompanied by education, the development of taste or the cultivation of public manners. So that the people who can now afford what only a few could relish in the past do not have the same regard for quiet loveliness, the same standards of privacy, the same respect for the ecology of land and water and air.

As an ideal, democracy should rise to the level of its highest, not sink to the level of its lowest; but the opposite has too often been the case, and area after area has been despoiled by people with more money than manners, more demands than responsibilities, more sensations that want satisfying than emotions that need tranquilizing.

Look at the rape of the public parks in the last decade or so. Or even the degeneration of the closely guarded national parks. Only the young people among us seem aware of our depredations against nature.

SO, PLEASE, don't venture into Door County this summer, unless you're carrying the green ecology "E" as a sticker on your car, and really mean it.

Unless you respect the fact that the road running past my house be kept as clean as your living room, and that your children have no right to toss wrappers on my lawn.

Unless you are looking for a place to unwind, and not just get rid of the repressions you've stored up all year. Save those for the American Legion convention; we don't appreciate blatant behavior, and if we never see you again, it's too soon.

Don't believe all the commercial guff you read. Door County is the end of the line. It goes nowhere. It does nothing. It just lies there, inviting your indolence and asking only in return your gracious manners and deference to the environment.

If it's your kind of place, we welcome you. If it's not-and it's not for most people-then don't tax your vacation fund and our patience by coming up and trying to transform it. The only bunnies we have, or want, are the original four-legged kind.

REFLECTED in the placid waters of Round Lake, fireworks provide a dramatic climax to the Venetian Boat Parade. The fireworks will begin about dark Saturday evening and are clearly visible from all sides of Round Lake.

The new diocese was created on orders of Pope Paul VI, as announced by Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, Apostolic delegate to the United States.

The new diocese embraces 21 northern Michigan counties, including Charlevoix, which formerly were assigned to either the Grand Rapids Diocese or the Saginaw Diocese.

Taking part in ceremonies establishing the new diocese were Apostolic Delegate Raimondi, John Cardinal Dearden; archbishop of Detroit; Most Reverend Charles Salatka, D.D., bishop of Marquette; and Most Reverend Joseph D. McKinney, D. D. bishop of Grand Rapids.

Attending as concelebrants were Rev. E. Francis Denay, pastor of St. Marys Church, Charlevoix; Rev. Jerome Szydlowski, pastor of St. Matthew Church, Boyne City; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Gallagher, a native of Beaver Island and present pastor of St. Mary Church, Grayling, and other church officials from northern Michigan.

Also in attendance were 25 bishops representing the various dioceses in the United States, hundreds of priests and sisters and approximately 1,000 laity.

Bishop-Elect Szoka, 43, was born in Grand Rapids and attended elementary and high school in Muskegon and Grand Rapids. He studied for the priesthood at St. Joseph Seminary in Grand Rapids, Sacred Heart Seminary in Detoit, and St. John's Provincial Seminary in Plymouth.

After ordination in June 1954 at the Marquette Cathedral he served a year as the assistant pastor in Manistique and for seven years as secretary to the Bishop of Marquette and chaplain in St. Mary's Hospital there.

He interrupted his assignment from 1957 to 1959 to study Canon Law at the Lateran University in Rome where he took two degrees in Canon Law. In 1962 he became assistant chancellor of the Marquette Diocese and Chancellor in 1970. He also served for a year as pastor of St. Pius X in Ishpeming and then pastor of St. Christopher Church in Marquette.

The new Gaylord Diocese covers 11,171 square miles with a total population of 288,556, has 66,600 Catholics in 59 parishes and 24 missions served by 81 priests.

Local Church to Aid New Unit in E.J.

"Jordan Valley Day" will be observed this Sunday at the Charlevoix Assembly of God, 203 East Upright.

Jordan Valley Assembly of God is the name of the new Assemblies of God church being started in East Jordan on Highway 66. The church will be affiliated with the Assemblies of God, Michigan District.

Rev. and Mrs. John Roy along with their two sons presently live in East Jordan and serve as the pastors of the new work.

Plans and preparation for the new work to open have been in the making for over a year.

Eight families from the local Assembly of God will soon be forming the beginning congregation. These families live in East Jordan and have been traveling to Charlevoix to worship.

Construction is underway for the first addition of the church, which will have an auditorium seating capacity of 150 people. The building has a full basement, containing 10 class rooms, and an assembly room. These facilities will later be converted to educational facilities as the church grows.

On Sunday Aug. 1, the Charlevoix congregation will honor the East Jordan pastor and congregation with a special love offering for their new building.

At the close of the morning service a potluck picnic will be held at Ferry-ave. Beach for all of the church family and visitors for the day.

Singing, testimonies from members of the East Jordan congregation, and a water baptismal service will be a part of the afternoon activities.

Magazine Publishes Poem by Andrea

Charlevoix's newest published authoress is Andrea Brown, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Brown, 208 Clinton-st.

"This section of the August, 1971, 'Wee Wisdom,' is just crammed with stories, puzzles, drawings and poetry, created by you," the publishers wrote. "These outstanding award winners have been chosen, from hundreds and hundreds, to receive this symbol of excellence. To us they represent all of you. So the symbol of excellence really belongs to you all. You're the greatest.

Andrea, who just completed Fourth Grade at Charlevoix Elementary School, won a set of encyclopedias last winter for submitting a question to a Detroit newspaper.

Following is Andrea's poem:

UNDER THE SEA

Under the sea I found
A mermaid with fins,
And a fish that sings,
And all sorts of things,
Under the sea.

I found lots of fish,
And a pretty blue dish,
Under the sea.

I found lots of shells,
And little twinkly bells,
Under the sea.

I found a penny made in 1902,
Under the sea.

VENETIAN QUEEN Sherry Westenbroek and her court rode the Chamber of Commerce float in the Venetian street parade Saturday. Miss Westenbroek will reign as "Miss Charlevoix" for the coming year.

Queen Sherry Reigns Over Venetian Festival

Sherry is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Westenbroek of E. Dixon-ave. A petite five-foot-three, Miss Westenbroek is a member of the Student Council, the Pep Club, GAA and a cheerleader at Charlevoix High School where she will be a junior this fall.

Her court consists of second runner-up Nancy Foehtman, first runner-up Jackie Warner and Carol Russell as Miss Congeniality. Other contestants were Debbie Bartlett, Kris Brady, Sally Keie, Della Patrick, Dori Peters, and Lisa Wasoski.

Judging the contest were Mike Harrington of WJML, Virginia Gocha of Gocha's Casuals in Boyne City and Petoskey, and Ruth Trulson, president of Northwestern Savings and Loan Association.

Joyce Davenport (nee Cunningham), 1955 Miss Charlevoix, was mistress of ceremonies.

Tom Merta, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce commented that, "The contest went off beautifully. We had 10 lovely contestants and the talent portion of the pageant was superb. I'd like to thank the queen's committee who did an excellent job and Sherry Austin, Miss Charlevoix of 1970. The contest was just a preliminary to one of the best Venetian Festivals we have ever had."

Besides the honor of being Miss Charlevoix for the year 1971-72, Miss Westenbroek also received many gifts from local merchants and almost $200 from the pageant gate receipts. This money will be used to cover her expenses in other contests throughout the year.

Bergeon's Clothing Store, Oleson's Variety, the Antique Store, Fay's Dress Shop, Mardean's Hobbycraft and the Post Script Shop all have $5.00 gift certificates waiting for Sherry.

Millies House of Charm, Schroeder Drugs and the Cutty Sark Gift Shop also have gifts for the queen.

Miss Charlevoix will receive a two-pound box of candy from Murdick's Candy Kitchen, a wash and set from Helene's Beauty Shop, a $25 gift certificate from the Little Shop 'Round the Corner', $15 gift certificate from the Shop of the Gulls, $20 from Bits of Yester-year, $10 from Lieberman's.

Sherry is also the lucky recipient of cash gifts of $5

Board Plans to Borrow

The Charlevoix board of education, at a special meeting Monday night, voted to seek permission to sell tax anticipation notes; to borrow against anticipated State Aid and to hire two teachers.

A number of bids were opened and all but one referred for tabulation and evaluation. Athletic assignments were made and others were discussed, before the meeting adjourned to the session hall to view a film strip on the proposed state Equal Quality plan for school financing.

Committee appointments for the 1971-72 year were made by Jerrald Redeker, president of the board.

The board voted to seek permission from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission to sell $200,000 in tax anticipation notes. The first $100,000 would be dated Oct. 1 and would mature six months later and the remaining $100,000 would be dated Nov. 1, 1971 and mature April 1, 1972.

In order to meet financial obligations due presently, the board voted to borrow $25,000 against anticipated State Aid payments. The bid submitted by the Charlevoix County State Bank offering a interest rate of 4½ percent was accepted. The money may be borrowed by Aug. 5 of past-due State Aid payments are not forthcoming by that date. A second bid of six percent was entered by the First State Bank.

Contracts will be offered to Richard A. McLenon, a vocational auto mechanics instructor, and Nancy K. Ryswick, a Spanish-English instructor on the recommendations of High School Principal Vane H. Smith.

McLenon holds a master's degree in Industrial Education from Eastern Michigan University and has three years of teaching experience including one year in the area of vocational drafting and two in automotive. He will teach in the new automotive repair class being initiated in the curriculum this year.

Miss Ryswick is a 1971 graduate of Hope College with a major in Spanish and a minor in English. During the fall term of her Junior year she studied at the Antioch College program in Bogota, Colombia.

Harold Kaufman, business manager, was asked to obtain bids for 15 tables to be used in the cafeteria at the new elementary school. Manpower is a problem at the school and the new tables, which have benches attached, will be easier to handle.

The present tables at the elementary school will be used at the Middle School and those that can be salvaged from the tables presently at the Middle School will be utilized in the lab and art rooms.

Bids for milk, fuel oil and gasoline, bread and fleet insurance were opened. However, only the bid for milk was accepted. The bid of Maxbauer Dairy being the lowest, was accepted. It was in the amount of .0597 per half pint for white milk and .0647 for chocolate milk. Other bids were .0660 for white and .0690 for chocolate milk by Sealtest Foods and .068 and .073, respectively, by the Ideal Dairy.

Other bids were opened and referred to the business manager for tabulation and evaluation. A final decision will be made at the Aug. 9 meeting.

Bids for fencing for the athletic field were also opened. They are as follows: Farm Bureau Services, $5,880; Perfect Fence Co., $5,975.90; American Fence Co., $6,783; Edward B. Koerner, $7,658.96 and DeWitt Fence Co., $7,678.37. After discussing the bids, it was decided to make a few minor adjustments in the installation which will change the overall cost slightly. Kauffman was advised to contact the two low bidders and discuss the proposed changes with them. The fence will be six feet high with another foot of barbed wire topping the cyclone fence for a total of seven feet. There will be gates across the chute and at the northeast corner to

The possibility of expanding the harbor facilities by using floating docks in Round Lake is under consideration. Would you favor such a project?

Results of last week's question: Do you think President Nixon should visit Red China?

No, 67 percent. "What good would he do."..."It's only a political move to help him get reelected."..."More ping pong diplomacy!"..."It costs the taxpayers too much money."..."What for?"

Yes, 33 percent. "Anything to help world conditions."..."As long as he stays there."..."I think it's great that he is taking the initiative."..."It's about time we established formal relationships with Red China."

$22,083 Goal In Chest Drive

The Charlevoix Community Chest board of directors has set the goal in this fall's chest drive at $22,083, according to John Lachman, president.

The money will benefit 13 local health, community and welfare organizations, plus the Michigan United Fund, which supports 36 other state and national agencies.

This year's goal is only $969 more than the 1970 goal of $21,114, Lachman said.

He added that less than one percent — $200 — has been earmarked for campaign expenses. Expenses in many charitable drives run five percent or higher.

Only one new agency was added this year: The Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood Association, which serves the Charlevoix area. The organization will receive $200 to help in the distribution of literature relative to Planned Parenthood and to finance lecture costs.

Although the Charlevoix drive will not begin until late September, Lachman said summer business and special gifts solicitations will be held in August. Both divisions are headed by Charles Duerr.

Overall chairman of the 1971 drive will be Thomas LaBlance, vice president of the board of directors.

Following is a list of the local participating organizations and the amounts they will receive.

Families of Airmen See Plaque Unveiled

The families of several of the airmen killed in the crash of the B-52 bomber in Lake Michigan off Charlevoix Jan. 7 were in town Saturday to attend the unveiling a plaque commemorating the deaths of the men.

Cast in solid bronze, the plaque will be mounted on a boulder in Elzinga Park on U.S. 31 North, close to the site of the crash.

MC'd by Bill Supernaw of Charlevoix, speakers at the dedication ceremony included Col. Leroy Hansen, 99th Wing Commander from Westover Air Force Base, Mass.; state Sen. Robert Davis, state Rep. Richard Friske and Charlevoix Mayor Andrew Essenburg.

Col. Hansen discussed the importance of radar bomb scoring missions, pointing out that such preparedness is a "deterrent to war."

"This vigilence is the price of freedom," he added.

Sen. Davis read a resolution passed by the Senate commending the airmen.

Addressing family members, Rep. Friske said he was proud of the sacrifice they had made and condemned "those who say there is no honor in wearing the uniform of their country."

Mayor Essenburg commented that although many men have given their all fighting a war, "these men have given their all fighting for peace."

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the Air Force staged a fly-over of F-106's out of Wurtsmith AFB.

Attending the ceremony were Mrs. David Barnhart and son Billy of Akron, Ohio, sister and nephew of Lt. Dennis D. Ferguson; Mrs. David Ferguson, Ridgeville, Ohio, mother of Lt. Ferguson; Mrs. Joan Lemmon, Sacramento, Calif., widow of Col. William B. Lemmon; Mrs. John M. Simonfy, widow of Maj. John M. Simonfy; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bachman of Highland Park, N.J.; parents of 1st Lt. Douglas Bachman; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Weaver of St. Louis, Mo., parents of Capt. John E. Weaver; Mrs. John E. Weaver jr., of St. Louis, widow of Capt. Weaver; and Mr. and Mrs. William Depelheuer sr. of St. Louis, grandparents of Capt. Weaver.

1st State Increases Capital

The sale of $100,000.00 of capital notes has been successfully completed by First State Bank of Charlevoix, according to Jerrald H. Redeker, president.

The addition of this capital, approved by the Michigan Commissioner of Financial Institutions and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation will allow First State Bank increased loan capacity to business and individuals in this community. Total capital and paid-in surplus of the bank now total $350,000.00.

"Especially gratifying", Redeker commented, "is the fact that almost all of these ten-year debentures were purchased by the citizens of Charlevoix."

Library Notes

New titles that make good, light reading for rainy summer days include:

"The Wheel of Love" is a collection of short stories by Joyce Carol Oates, winner of the National Book Award. This is one of the finest collections of short fiction ever written by an American.

"The Jade Eagle" by Elizabeth Baldwin Hazelton is a new mystery-adventure novel. The setting is Southern California on the Rancho del Aguila de Oro, the ancestral home of 16-year-old Victoria Velarde Morgan. When Vicki arrives at the ranch, she finds her grandmother ill and is plunged into a situation of danger and intrigue. The novel is skillfully plotted and full of suspense.

"In This Sign" by Joanne Greenberg is bound to have a long waiting list. The author of "I Never Promised You A Rose Garden" has gained a readership of over a million, and this new novel displays the same gifts and power and deals with a similarly neglected subject – the silent world of the blind. It is a remarkable, original and unquestionably major novel.

"Murder in High Place" was written by R. B. Dominic who keeps the reader guessing right up to the final page as he moves along a path of mystery and intrigue through a Washington setting featuring the manipulations of a governmental agency.

A book by Mary Elgin is always good news, and her fans can look forward to "The Wood and the Trees" and be assured that it is just as entertaining as her two earlier novels. Miss Elgin wished to write an unconventional romance that would be an "motional-suspense" novel as well – in order to carry the reader along with the drama of the story of hero and heroine. She also wanted to show that love and romance are not the monopolies and perogatives of youth. With charm, humor and good taste, she has succeeded in entrancing fashion.

"A Week at the Most", a new novel by Louise Field Cooper, revolves around sudden complications in the life of the Monro family. Until this particular October, Elizabeth Monro–a pleasant, contented woman enjoyed the comforts of her New England town house, the company of her friends and neighbors, and the hard-won ease of a mother whose children, she believes, are reaching the age of wisdom. Then everything happens at once. Two letters, unexpected phone calls and startling announcements make this a lively tale full of warm, human touches.

Gaylord M.D. New Chief at State Home

Donald E. Christensen, M.D., was appointed today superintendent at Mt. Pleasant State Home and Training School. Dr. Christensen has been superintendent at Gaylord State Home for the last nine years.

The appointment was made by E. Gordon Yudashkin, M.D., director Michigan Department of Mental Health who simultaneously announced the transfer of William Diamond, M.D., former superintendent at the Mt. Pleasant Home, to Gaylord as clinical director.

Dr. Yudashkin said he will begin interviewing applicants for the medical superintendent's position at Gaylord.

Donna VanDeCar Wed at Horton Bay

By MRS. THOMAS MAXWELL

Arrangements of giant pink mums surrounded by miniature white mums decorated the altar of the Horton Bay United Methodist Church for the July 17 afternoon wedding of Donna Ruth VanDeCar of Charlevoix and Alan H. Russell of East Lansing. Rev. Curtis E. Cruff of Byron Center officiated at the double ring rites in the presence of 175 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. VanDeCar sr. of Hayes are the parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Russell of Wolcott, Conn.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a gown of floor-length white lace over nylon, with sequins down centerfront, and long sleeves. It featured a small standup collar and small train attached at the waist, that folded into a butterfly shape when fastened up. A white ribbon held her elbow length veil and she carried a spray arrangement of light pink carnations and deep pink roses.

Kay Lafrinere of Cheboygan was the maid of honor and wore a Empire style gown in pink chiffon with scalloped neckline and long sleeves. She carried a small basket of daisies and pink carnations.

Douglas Robinson of East Lansing assisted the groom as best man. Ushers were William VanDeCar and Bob VanDeCar, brothers of the bride and Ed Drost of Charlevoix.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the parish house. Mr. and Mrs. Don Kilwin made the four-tier wedding cake, decorated in pink and white, with the traditional bride and groom on the first tier, four ceramic swans on the second tier and a lighted fountain, spraying water, on the third tier.

The mother of the bride chose a turquoise blue and green print dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding, and the mother of the groom wore a green chiffon dress with white accessories. Both wore a corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, North Central Michigan College and Michigan State University. The groom is a graduate of Wolcott (Conn.) High School and is working on his second master's degree at Michigan State University.

After a brief honeymoon the couple will return to East Lansing, until his graduation in August, later they will move to Connecticut to make their home.

Guests attended from Ocqueoc, Cheboygan, Rochester, Fowlerville, East Lansing, Wayne, Romulus, East Jordan, Petoskey, Boyne City, Harbor Springs, Alpena, Byron Center, Bay Shore, Charlevoix, Ohio and Connecticut.

Medusa Portland Cement Co. showed an upturn across the board for the second quarter of the year, ending June 30.

Compared to the second quarter of 1970, billings to customers were up 44 percent (from $20,018,000 to $28,739,000); income before taxes was up 67 percent (from $1,528,000 to $2,403,000); net income was up 40 percent (from $1,096,000 to $1,539,000); and earnings per share of common stock were up 33 percent (from 54 cents to 72 cents).

For the six months ending June 30, the picture wasn't quite so rosy. Billings were up 40 percent, but income before taxes was down nine percent, net income was down 23 percent and earnings per common share were down 35 percent.

In their quarterly report to stockholders, Chairman Ellery Sedgwick jr. and President Robert W. Fort, said:

"Volume of shipments in the second quarter was excellent in all segments of our business. Weather conditions were nearly perfect for construction activity. Billings to customers increased 44 percent and profits rose commensurately, despite a higher effective income tax rate this year.

"Cement operations still suffer from a cost-price squeeze, and the profit improvement was not commensurate with the volume improvement. As an example of cost reduction efforts, we began during the quarter to receive coal shipments at our New York plant under a favorable long term contract negotiated with a small mine in West Virginia whose equipment we financed.

"Further, modifications at the Charlevoix Plant have improved production and reduced fuel and power usage. However, such savings were negated by the wage settlement of 11 percent which became effective May 1st."

The statement concluded: "The gains in the second quarter were not large enough to overcome the poor first quarter results, and hence profits for the six months were below 1970. However, all evidence available to us points to a marked improvement in profits in the last half year."

The regular 30-cent-dividend was paid on common shares June 15.

Corral Chatter

Friday morning dawned dark and dismal with the threat of rain at any minute. Regular activities were held in the morning, but as the rain came in the afternoon, the program had to be changed. The Senior Section was busy getting ready and primping up for the dance that night with a girls' camp, Camp Chick-O-Mi, where we were the guests for dinner and the evening. The rest of the camp had Quiz programs which were Green-Grey Competition and at the end of the tree sections programs, the Greys had picked up two points and the Greens picked up one point. The score at this point was Greens-13, Greys-11. The Seniors left about four o'clock very excited about visiting the girls' camp. In the evening, we had a movie "Danny Boy" which the boys enjoyed.

CARNIVAL DAY arrived on Saturday and boys were excited and anxious to get to the building of their booths, and anxious to get them equipped for the big event of the season so far. Boys love a Carnival, and the imagination they use in arranging, decorating and running these booths is really terrific. The Smith's porch was loaded with prizes, string, paper, signs, paint, scotch tape, thumbtacks, staplers, etc. Ruby, and our nurse, Bobbie, were busy all morning handing out supplies and helping boys in their preparations.

At three o'clock in the afternoon the bell rang, the carnival started and the booths open for business. Dave Tuttle was chairman of the Carnival Committee and from all reports this was the best one ever. The booths were clever, well-arranged, well-decorated and well-advertised. Cabin 14; Eldon Frandzen's boys won the prize as the most original booth. Ralph Boldt's Cabin 8 boys won the prize for taking in the most tickets. It was a very successful afternoon, boys were excited and happy, and are already asking for a repeat performance. In the evening, the entire camp met in the Bigwam for a movie "The Flying Fontanas", a circus story that they enjoyed.

At Sunday morning Chapel, which was held in the outdoor chapel, Curt Huber, a fourth year man and head of our trips department, spoke on "Opportunity", urging the boys to take advantage of their many opportunities here at camp. It was a very well written, well thought-out talk, and gave boys as well as staff much to think about. Jimmy Bennett read the Prayer and Harry Heck read the Scripture. At Sunday Dinner (thick roast beef) we had several musical numbers and sang some camp songs. In the afternoon, the Mile Swim was cancelled due to cool weather and an athletic afternoon was held. As the games were Green-Grey Competition, there was much excitement. The Greys picked up three points, the Greens one, so that the Greys went into the lead 15-14. In the evening we had a council fire in our council ring and it was most impressive.

Monday morning arrived bright, sunny, cool, with promise of hotter weather later in the day. Each year a camper council is formed with one boy from each cabin meeting to decide to which charities we should send our chapel collections, carnival proceeds and rodeo proceeds. The boys elected by their cabin groups were: Will Phipps, Pete Gardella, Mark Vasu, Don Cook, Jimmy Bennett, Pat Green, Scooter Smith, Duke Scott, Jeff Edison, Sanny Greenawald, Jay O'Neill, Jimmy Chalberg, David Roe, Mark Wilson, Brad Hillis, and John Kittredge.

This being the final week for our first session boys, activities were really jumping as boys wanted to finish up work they had started. In the afternoon, the three day sailing trip left camp, and there was much excitement as the boats made a beautiful picture leaving our bay and sailed out into the open water of the lake. The boys on the sailing trip were: Larry Webb, Chris Kelly, Mike Hoffman, Jay O'Neill, Jim Batts, Linc Craton, Gordon Dobie, Peter Perron, Sanny Greenawald, Scooter Smith, Steve Taylor, Scott Williams, and Frank Perron. In the evening, the Prep Section had a Capture the Flag game which the Greens won, making the score at this stage, Greens-15, Greys-15. Nothing like a tie score to add interest.

Tuesday was another beautiful, sunny, warm day, and the boys going to Beaver Island were up early and packed their gear. This is a hiking trip and the boys chosen were carefully picked. The lucky boys were: Jeff Taylor, Jimmy Shook, John Graham, Ricky Coleman, Billy Guggenheim, John Breitinger, Don Huffman; Jimmy Eberts and Matti Koivula. The boys take the boat from Charlevoix and arrive at this beautiful Emerald Isle about two hours later. This is a very historic island, being the only place in the United States (I believe) that has been ruled by a King. King Strange ruled this island for several years. It is a very historic island and boys always enjoy visiting it. In the evening the Jolly Juniors had a Scavenger Hunt, which was won by the Greens.

Wednesday another beautiful day but very windy and the sailboats had to really maneuver. The boys reported a very exciting trip, and from all reports they learned much about sailing in rough weather. In the evening, Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, had worked out a new and very difficult scavanger hunt, with the entire camp taking part. After the hour hunt, the event was won by the Greens who picked up three points, the score now being at this point, Greens-18, Greys-16. Cabin 12 (Bruce Jendrusina), Cabin 13 (Gard Garvie) and Cabin 20 (Vince Tuminello) took off with their boys for the campcraft area and an overnight. These boys were: Larry Webb, David Howell, Peter Whiteman, Howeie Kay, Jeff Edison, David Taylor, Billy Gates, Harry Heck, Dennis O'Brein, Steve Lichtenauer, Brian Mathews, Skipper Littel, Kris Matson, Sanny Greenawalt, Steve Baker, Jim Osborn, Scott Packard and Brad Hillis.

Thursday morning dawned dark and dreary. We slept in until 8:30 with breakfast at 9:15 and during breakfast the rains came and came and came. In the afternoon, the regular activities were held, though it was very overcast. The winners in each section for cabin clean-up went into the movies, seeing Walt Disney's "Barefoot Executive." The winning cabins were: Junior Section, Cabin 2, Prep Section Cabin 7; Intermediate Section, Cabin 14, and Cabin 21 won for the Seniors. The rest of the camp had a movie here as it was a rainy night.

As the end of the first period drawns near, boys are feeling a little sad at leaving their friends. It has been a fine camping session, and it has been a great group of wonderful boys.

Slow Pitch

The Airport Bar made the big noise as the second round of play started. Unable to win in nine trys in the first half the Airport gang surprised the Argonne 13-7. Rick Manning and John Withers each homered to pace the winners. Phil Skeel's three hits weren't enough to save the losers. Freedmans may have it all together for the second round as they beat the Townhouse 6-2. Joe Beaudine's first inning round-tripper sent the Artcraft boys off and running.

Medusa proved it too must be reckoned with in the second half as they bested Argonne 4-1 behind Dick Putman's three hits. Nat Herriman allowed only the one first inning run in picking up the pitching victory. Topside picked right up where they left off. After winning the first round they opened with a late inning victory over American Mold 9-1. Jim Kluge and Bob Crain powered homers for the winners while slugger Lawerance Bergman countered with one for the losers.

Howard's surprised Portside Sports in a well played contest 4-3. Bill Dunlop's homered proved the margin of victory. Sonny Wright homered in a losing cause.

The biv upset was the way Townshouse turned on Andy's. Andy's had won second place in the first round but Townhouse wasn't impressed as they posted a 5-4 victory. Joe Battle's sixth inning homer proved to be the margin of victory.

FAST PITCH

With only one game left to play there loomed the possibility of a three team tie for the fastpitch first round title. First State Bank could make it simple by beating Morweld in last night's important game. However every time these two teams play it's a real buzz saw. Novak's and County State Bank have finished with 5-3 records and a Morweld win will leave First State the same.

The two banks went at each other last week with First State emerging the winner 4-2. Ken Balch's homer was the only extra base hit in the three allowed by loser Tom Drenth while Denny Warner had an extra base hit in the three allowed by Nate Boss.

VINTAGE YEAR FOR PLYMOUTH DUSTER

ONE OF OUR BEST YEARS. It takes something special to come up with a Vintage Year. But that's what '71 has been for Chrysler-Plymouth. Everything—from drawing board to final assembly—has come together in great fashion. We like to think our slogan "Coming Through" had a lot to do with it, because it's more than a phrase. It's a pledge, a dedication to one purpose: To come through for you with the kind of automobiles you want—not only in style, size and price—but also in quality you can live with for years to come. A good example is Plymouth Duster.

ECONOMY CAN BE BEAUTIFUL, TOO. Plymouth Duster is a rare breed of economy car. It comes through small enough for easy handling and good gas mileage, big enough for families with baggage. Now add Duster's high resale value (a leader in its class, along with other Plymouth compacts), and you have a rare breed of economy car indeed.

NOW, A GREAT SELECTION COMING THROUGH FINAL CLEARANCE PRICED. '71 has been a Vintage Year for Chrysler-Plymouth. Quality shines and shows in every line. Drive a Plymouth or Chrysler. Prove how our '71 models have come through. Check our great selection. We think you'll agree: quality cars at final clearance prices is what "Coming Through" is all about. For us. For you.

Rift Doesn't Mean GI Draft Is Over

Selective Service System Executive Secretary Barbara Gallagher, who manages the Charlevoix County draft board office, says the current congressional impasse over extending the induction authority has created great uncertainty among area draft-age men.

Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr has recently stressed the importance of explaining to our draft-age men the high probability that draft calls will resume in the near future and that the current impasse in Congress is not likely to affect any registrant's chance of being drafted," Mrs. Gallagher said.

"Our local board has been specifically instructed to continue to register and classify men, and to order for preinduction physical examinations those young men who may be needed to fill draft calls in the coming months," Mrs. Gallagher said.

Men with lottery numbers through 125 were eligible for induction in June in order to fill draft calls. Since then, the Defense Department has asked Selective Service to draft 16,000 men in July-August. This request is being held by Selective Service headquarters pending final Congressional action on the draft bill, which is expected within several weeks.

"Those young men with relatively low lottery numbers who are eligible for induction this year, particularly those with numbers below 175–the current processing ceiling–have a very good chance of being processed for induction after draft calls are restored," Mrs. Gallagher said.

"Many young men," said Mrs. Gallagher, "seem to think that the Selective Service Act has permanently expired and that they probably will never be drafted. Some of them also think that the entire system has stopped. They are wrong since it is only the induction authority that has expired. They, therefore, may be unintentionally breaking the law by failing to register at age 18, by not keeping their local boards informed of their current address, or by failing to report, if ordered, for their preinduction physical examination."

Mrs. Gallagher also stressed that local boards are continuing to consider CO, hardship, and student deferments and to take other classification actions.

"Young men who had planned to submit requests for deferments or exemption are encouraged to do so," Mrs. Gallagher said.

Mrs. Gallagher may be contacted at 207½ Bridge-st., the office of Charlevoix Board No. 15.

Lincoln-Mercury sales in the State of Michigan and Northwest Ohio have broken all-time records for May and June!

First in May, then again in June, we set all-time sales records. Never before had we sold so many cars in either month!

And not only did we sell record-breaking numbers of cars ... we did it when sales were generally slow for our competitors. Obviously, we're doing something better.

We started by offering you many kinds of cars. In fact, nobody in the business offers more. And each car's designed and built to give you better ideas ranging from sophisticated pollution control devices to Ford Motor Company Lifeguard Design Safety Features.

We don't stop there! At the sign of the cat, good service facilities are also important. Used cars, too. We try very hard to keep coming up with better ideas to serve you better in every way.

We want you to keep coming back. After all, that's how sales records are set.

Nobody in the business has more kinds of cars for more kinds of people.

HEALTH WAYS
MIGRAINE HEADACHES

Headaches have long been plaguing man and have kept him from doing his daily task as effectively as he was intended. There are many types of headaches, but the one that manifests itself on one side or one area of the head is many times diagnosed as a migraine. We have a tendency to mask this pain with aspirin or some other pain killer which will wear off in a short time, only to leave the patient with the pain he had before.

About this time the patient believes he will just have to live with the pain. This is not always the case. If more people knew about modern chiropractic I personally believe our drug companies would have to have a layoff.

REMEMBER! When we have pain of any kind it means something is amiss.

Deaths Up, Births Down

The Charlevoix County clerk's office reports that 70 deaths have been recorded since January 1971 compared to only 59 for the first six months of 1970.

However, the birthrate has dropped slightly. Fifty-seven births have been reported through June, 1971. In 1970, 66 births were recorded during that time.

Antique Fair Set Aug. 3-6 At Petoskey

PETOSKEY - Petoskey's annual Antiques Fair is set to open August 3, to run through August 6, in the 4-H Building of Emmet County Fairgrounds, according to an announcement from Merle C. Lutz of Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commrece, sponsors of the event.

Antiques exhibitors from seventeen cities in six states will offer a range of antiques and collectibles to please every taste and every budget.

Furniture, Oriental rugs, china, art glass, books, lamps, dolls, toys, tools, paintings, buttons, silver, pewter, statuary, porcelain, jewelry, clocks, and historical memorabilia are but a few of the items offered for inspection and for sale.

"This show has come to be a favorite with summer vacationers as well as area residents," says Lutz. "Many recognize the advantage of antiques as wedding or Christmas gifts, as they are seldom duplicated and will increase in value, rather than depreciate."

Hours of the Petoskey Antiques Fair, in the 4-H Building of Emmet County Fairgrounds, are Tuesday through Friday, August 3-6, are from 1 to 10 p.m. daily.

Another Icebreaker Due on Great Lakes

U.S. Sen Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.) reports that the Coast Guard will assign a second icebreaker to the Great Lakes next winter to meet the demands for increased shipping on the Lakes.

Griffin, ranking Republican on the Senate's Merchant Marine Subcommittee, said the polar icebreaker Edisto will be put to work during a three-year trial period clearing ice in Whitefish Bay, the St. Mary's River, Straits of Mackinac and throughout the upper Lakes.

The transfer of the Edisto from her home port at Boston to a berth at Milwaukee is a phase of Coast Guard participation in the Great Lakes Season Extension Demonstration Project, Griffin said.

"The Edisto will break ice in the Great Lakes for peak traffic periods in the winter and will make routine Arctic deployments in the summer months," Griffin said.

She has a 64-foot beam and a 29-foot draft.

Senator Griffin has supported efforts to explore the feasibility of year-around shipping on the Great Lakes, saying it could mean 30,000 new jobs for Michigan.

"If we could overcome winter's barriers to a nonstop shipping season," said Griffin, "experts estimate that $170 million a year would be added to Michigan's production of goods manufactured for export."

No Reservations At State Parks

Contrary to a current rumor, there is no system in Michigan for making state park camping reservations through the Department of Natural Resources.

With a large number of requests for such reservations now flowing into their Lansing office, DNR Parks Division officials report that campsite vacancies at state parks are available only on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

They term that system as the fairest one for all campers who seek sites at state parks.

DNR parks officials say it would create a nightmare in paperwork and significantly jump their division's clerical costs to set up an operation for handling camping reservations. More importantly, they fear such a system would lead to a waste of state park camping space.

Parks spokesmen believe it would not be unusual for many sites to stand idle for several days because campers reserving them could not make use of the units during all or part of the designated periods. At the same time these sites might be tied up by reservations but unused, hundreds of potential state park campers could be turned away for lack of uncommitted space.

In a move to help recreationists find state park camping vacancies, the DNR has reactivated its phone-in service which provides the latest information on these openings.

State-wide listings of available campsites may be obtained by calling the DNR's Detroit Information office (Area Code 313,868-1640), its Roscommon field office (Area Code 517, 275-8041), or the Lansing office of the Department's Parks Division (Area Code 517, 373-1270).

The same "leads" are offered to campers who drive into Tourist Information Centers of the State Highway Department, located at Mackinaw City, Sault Ste. Marie, Clare, Coldwater, Port Huron and Monroe.

Friske Doesn't Know Meaning of 'American'

After two decades as a resident of the United States and six months as a Michigan legislator, Rep. Richard Friske still has a lot to learn about being an American citizen.

A case in point is his "no" vote on a resolution by the Michigan Legislature extending sympathy to the Russian people on the deaths of three cosmonauts upon their return to earth after a voyage into space.

Their loss probably was felt more deeply in America than in most countries, because we, too, are engaged in mankind's "great adventure." We admire all men who venture into the unknown, regardless of the political complexion of their parent lands.

But not Richard Friske.

Because Georgy Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev flew under the banner of Soviet Russia, Friske will have no part of them, dead or alive.

Friske's narrow view, of course, stems from his repeated assertions that he and members of his family suffered under communism before emigrating to the United States from eastern Europe.

As a member and leader of the John Birch Society, Friske firmly believes that there is a centuries-old plot afoot to bring free people everywhere under the yoke of Communist slavery.

Certainly his views are not shared by the majority of the American people, particularly his constitutents in the 106th Representative District.

The deaths of the three cosmonauts transcended international politics and touched the hearts of brave men and women everywhere.

Friske's childish refusal to extend the sympathy of the people of the 106th District to the people of Russia is typical of his twisted thinking on international issues.

If the United States and Russia are ever going to reach any kind of accord, the overtures must be human---not political.

Out of deference to our representative, we are printing Friske's objections to the resolution elsewhere on this page.

However we are ashamed and embarrassed that the representative from the 106th District saw fit to utter such remarks on the floor of the House.

It almost seems impossible that a man could live in the United States for 20 years and still not understand what it means to be an American.

Schooner, Not Ketch Expert Says

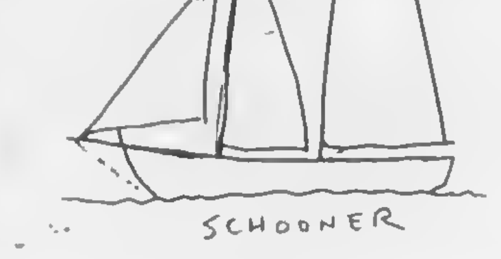
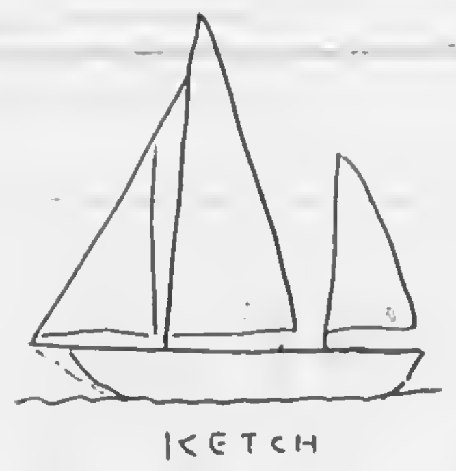
Dear Bob:

The vessel in the attached picture is not a KETCH (Pg. 3, Courier, July 21). It is a SCHOONER. It is the yacht BAGHEERA, a fine vessel which I almost bought about 20 years ago.

Please feel free to consult me on nautical matters at any time.

Warmest regards,
L.A. (Pokey) Wheeler





Clockwise

Where, O Where?

By BOB CLOCK

We have a new standing order at the Courier office. Everytime a stray dog walks down the street we all turn our heads and look the other way.

Let me tell you how it came about.

Late one afternoon two weeks ago Secretary Pat Lass and ad-gal-reporter Beth Baldwin noticed a bewildered-looking little dog pacing back and forth in front of the Courier office. From time to time he would venture out into Bridge-st. or Park-ave. and there was a wild screeching of brakes until he scurried back to the safety of the sidewalk.

Once inside the office, we noticed that the shaggy vagabond was wearing a collar with a license tag issued by the city of Troy. Obviously someone cared.

A quick check with the Police Department and the Sheriff's Department showed that no dogs from Troy had been reported missing.

Next we contacted radio station WJML in Petoskey and gave the announcer on duty a description of the dog. We couldn't decide what kind of dog he was, so we called him a "miniature sheep dog" – although I doubt the American Kennel Club sanctions any such breed.

By quitting time no one had called and we were in a quandry deciding what to do with the dog. You just don't leave any four-footed animal in a carpeted business office over night.

Finally, we decided to lock our guest in the back room with an ashtray full of drinking water and leave big signs on the front door and the front window advertising the fact that we had found a "Skye Terrier," giving my home telephone number.

I decided on "Skye Terrier" instead of "miniature sheep dog" because I have no idea what a "Skye Terrier" looks like, and honestly this little creature resembles no dog I had ever seen before.

But there were no telephone calls.

After supper, I returned to the office with a box of Chuck Wagon dog food and fixed dinner for our unexpectedd house guest. He just picked at his dinner and I imagined he was lonesome fur his master.

I didn't like to leave him in the office any longer, but I had a picture assignment waiting, so I left the big signs in the window hoping someone would call the house. But they didn't.

Reluctantly I hooked a dog leash on his collar and led him out to the car. The sheriff's department had told me they had a cage waiting, if I cared to bring him in.

The dog and I met Deputy Jim McCallum on the front walk of the new jail and he obligingly escorted us to the rear of the building where the dog catcher's rig was waiting.

McCallum suggested putting him in the enclosed compartment and opened the door. He stuck his head inside to find if the cage were occupied and found himself eyeball to eyeball with a gigantic German Shepherd who didn't enjoy having his sleep interrupted so late at night.

"Let's try the front compartment," McCallum said as he hastily closed the door.

We started to open the second cage when my friend at the other end of the leash suddenly realized what was about to happen. With one massive effort, he reared backward, snapping open his chain collar. He circled the jail once, and then disappeared into the darkness hell-bent-for-election.

"You might as well keep the collar," I said handing it to McCallum. "If the owners stop by, they might want it as a keepsake."

"I don't blame him one bit," McCallum said. "I would have done the same thing myself, rather than be locked up."

But the story has a happy ending.

The following Sunday over coffee in the basement of Christ Episcopal Church, the conversation turned to dogs and Lillian Bergmann mentioned that a dog owned by her granddaughter, Colleen Mol, had run away, only to return four days later without his collar.

The following week I received this letter from Colleen, age 9:

Dear Mr. Clock:

Thank you so much for taking care of Bimbo. He came home Sunday morning. I was at my girlfriends. She lives by the jail so went and got his collar. We are keeping him tied up now. We let him sleep inside. Thank you very much.

Colleen Mol
Age 9

On second thought, maybe we'll take in more strays, if we can meet nice people like Colleen.

Representative Tells Why He Voted 'No'

By Rep. Richard Friske

I voted "No" on SCR 130 introduced by Sen. Brown in memoriam of the three Soviet cosmonaughts who perished on June 30th because I cannot in good conscience support and sympathize with a system that keeps people in slavery through brutality and intimidation.

Ladies and Gentlemen, I have lived under that system and I know whereof I speak. We cannot, we must not, in the interest of our own survival, condone or lend support to the enemy who would destroy us. As one representative so aptly quoted, "They say they will bury us." And believe me, my fellow legislators, if we continue to actively accept their political actions and ignore their philosophy of destruction of freedom by naively sitting back in admiration of their claimed technical successes and in sympathy with their failures we are lending credence to their brutal subjugation of their people.

Passage of SCR 130 by the Michigan Legislature will be picked up by the Soviet newspapers and presented to the people as a sign of approval from a free nation, the greatest nation in the world. I am sure you will agree that most, if not all, of their technical knowledge and prowess was gleaned from the West. Expressions of sympathy and plaudits for accomplishment are but tacit expressions that we, the citizens of the United States of America, view their system with admiration - and these expressions will be made known to the people with the idea of conveying to them our endorsement of a government of slavery. It is a way of saying, "See, you are not in slavery, after all. The U.S. does not disapprove of our system, does not fear us, is in sympathy with our loss. They like us. They are people with us."

Unsaid is that we are all indeed people, but their people are subjugated and kept in line by brutality and imprisonment. If they stray from the fold they may never be heard of again. And the people know it but are afraid to speak out.

If we were to withdraw our embassies from these communist countries, take down our flag, divorce ourselves from any political or diplomatic relations and thereby give voice to our disapproval, the downtrodden and fear-ridden people of those countries would take hope. Hope from the fact that we do not approve of their imposed masters, and I sue the term advisedly - they are not the people's representatives but their masters - and from our action of withdrawal of relations with their oppressive government derive courage to shake off the yoke of slavery.

We lend help, or rather give it outright, to these communist governments which helps to perpetuate their power. If we were to withhold our dollars and our diplomatic relations most of these communist codictatorships would fall in a short time and the people could begin to find their way back to freedom and democracy.

SCR 130 is but a chip on the ocean. But it is an act of communication-an act of sympathy-an act of tacit approval of the communist system. Do not delude yourselves, ladies and gentlemen. Such acts, however small and however unrelated to political philosophy, are exploited to the utmost in the communist newspapers and other news media. I repeat, we cannot, we must not, commit national suicide by these gestures. We are free people, free to express ourselves, free to be compassionate, free to move about, free to criticize, disagree with and elect our leaders. Do not lend credence to a system that is repugnant to our way of life and under which we and our way of life will perish. Do not make friends with your executioner. He will not deviate from his dedication of purpose which is our destruction. By seeming to accept their actions we are making our executioner's job easier.

The corpse is freedom.

All that reamins is the burial ceremony.

Direct Line

Senator
Bob Davis

By SEN. ROBERT W. DAVIS

As a legislator, I receive letters each day from constituents requesting my assistance in dealing with state agencies and contacting those in government who can solve their problems.

Constituents also often write seeking my views on current issues and legislation which directly affect them and many other residents of our state.

My daily review of these letters reveals similar problems that no doubt trouble many of you. Unaware of where or to whom to turn for a solution, however, you become bewildered and discouraged.

As your state senator, I may be able to help solve your problems with state agencies and, through this bi-weekly column, inform others with similar problems of possible solutions.

The editor of your newspaper has generously offered sufficient space to publish letters and answers to constituent problems I feel are of most concern and interest to those I represent. Each letter I receive will be personally answered and those of widespread interest will be published in "Direct Line."

In addition to answering your requests for assistance, I hope to include responses to inquiries regarding my views on state issues and legislation and your responses to questions I will pose on current actions by the Legislature.

I believe close communication with my constituents is vital to fulfilling my responsibilities as your senator and helpful in informing me of issues most important to you.

Please address your correspondence to Senator Robert Davis, State Capitol Building, Lansing, Michigan 48902. I am looking forward to hearing from you.

Claims Island Already Has Two Airstrips

Charlevoix Courier
Mr. Editor
111 Bridge Street
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Mr. Editor:

It appears Mr. Karl Erber and Mr. Robert Neff have expressed the dominant feeling of the Charlevoix - Beaver Island flying community, in regards to the need for a second airport on Beaver Island.

Mr. William Welke, Beaver Island, telephone 448-2326, has through a substantial personal effort and expense constructed an excellent airstrip on Beaver Island, which is open to the public. Also, the airport will soon have aviation fuel and related services available, as well as tie down areas adjacent to the Circle M Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge for those interested in a pleasant dining atmosphere.

The need for a second Beaver Island airport has been accomplished. Congratulations from the flying community.

I Got No Culture

By JIM FITZGERALD

Only one thing bugs me about driving to Detroit to see the Tigers or ogle the go-go girls: I can't get there without passing by Oakland University where they have the Meadow Brook Music Festival every summer.

"We have got to go to that festival sometime," my wife always says. "Sixten Ehrling is conducting the Detroit Symphony orchestra next Sunday, with Pinchas Zukerman on the violin."

"Yeah, we really gotta," I say. But, deep in my beer-can heart, I know it can never happen.

Wrong. It happened. An invitation came from Donald O'Dowd, president of Oakland University. He wanted my wife and me to join him for cocktails and dinner at his home, after which we would all go to the concert.

"I think it's time we got some of that culture," I told my wife.

"You just can't resist the free booze and food," she said.

Anyway, that Sunday, after watching the Tigers blow one in the 10th to the lousy Senators on TV, we were off to Oakland U. in search of culture.

President O'Dowd appears amazingly young to be head of a large university. "You don't look a day over Sixteen," I said, chuckling at my clever use of a pun to demonstrate that I knew the name of the band leader.

My wife nudged me gently, spilling my drink. "Sixten Ehrling is not conducting tonight; Arthur Fiedler is," she whispered in my ear as I licked my gin off the table.

This set me to thumbing through a brochure which listed all Meadow Brook attractions for 1971. She was right. Fiedler was waving the baton that night. A few days later, Andre Previn was taking over, and then Mitch Miller, followed by Skitch Henderson. Sixten was also scheduled several more times.

What surprised me was that all these guys lead Sixten's orchestra--the Detroit Symphony.

"You mean guys like Previn and Fiedler don't have their own groups? They just come into town with a little stick and take over some other guy's band?" I asked my wife.

"Lick your gin," she answered.

"Major League baseball should look into this idea. They could station 2 teams permanently in each city. Only the managers would travel around, taking turns managing each team against each other. They'd save millions in transportation costs," I said. "And managers are as important to baseball teams as conductors are to orchestras. If changing leaders can make the same violinists and horn blowers sound different, why wouldn't switching managers improve a 3rd baseman's throw to first?"

"Quiet," my wife said, "someone might hear you. Any idiot knows that different conductors conduct different types of music and that's what makes the same orchestras sound different."

"At $5 a seat, it smells gypy to me. These traveling conductors are only in town for a day or so. The musicians read every note off the sheets. The conductor could mail them his orchestrations and it wouldn't make any difference who waved the stick," I said. "Did Glenn Miller lead Tommy Dorsey's band? No. They all traveled from town to town in buses, with Betty Grable singing in the last seat."

Our discussion ended when the music began. And my wife gave me a triumphant look every time she caught me tapping my foot to Arthur Fiedler's pop tunes.

"You did enjoy it, didn't you?" she insisted as we headed back home.

"Yes," I admitted, "but I would have enjoyed it more if the Tigers had won today."

"You just ain't got no culture," she said.

Cool, Dark Caverns Appeal to Tourists

The hot summer months especially are likely to find family after family, lured by the promise of adventure, exploring the nation's cool, dark caverns.

As tourists, most will be guided through the 165 or so caves open to the public. Several thousand cave explorers calling themselves spelunkers will squirm, climb, and wade through hundreds of other caves, some perhaps never before entered by man.

Nobody knows how many caves have been found and forgotten at one time or another across the country, but estimates range from 20,000 to 50,000 the National Geographic Society says.

Most American caves are of limestone and are found in a wide bank that runs roughly from New England south and west through the Appalachian mountains into the South and central Midwest.

Others have formed as lava cooled after volcanic eruptions or as waves chiseled away at cliffs.

Limestone caves are produced by weak carbonic acid formed when carbon dioxide from decaying vegetation dissolves in water. The acidic water seeping into cracks gradually dissolves the rock with spectacular results:

LARGEST CAVE

-The world's largest cave room in New Mexico's Carlsbad Caverns, measuring 4,000 feet long, 625 feet wide, and up to 285 feet high.

-A 60-foot stalagmite built up of mineral-rich water dripping for three billion years onto the floor of Cathedral Caverns in Alabama.

CAVEMEN

The first human visitors braved the cave darkness in search of shelter possibly 20,000 years ago, according to tests of spearheads found among the bones of mammoths and other long-extinct animals dug up in a New Mexican cave.

- In Russell Cave, Ala., scientists on an expedition sponsored by the National Geographic Society uncovered evidence of a 4,000-year-old killing: the skeleton of a man apparently struck a fatal blow by the spearhead that lay buried near his spine.

Newcomers Tell Why They Enjoy Charlevoix

304 Michigan Avenue
Charlevoix, Mi. 49720

Editor
Charlevoix Courier

Charlevoix, Mi. 49720

Dear Sir:

As new residents of Charlevoix the Beautiful we have been most pleased by many of our new experiences here. Although we know it's wrong to write about more than one subject in any business letter, permit us to cite a number of examples of why we're happy to be here:

1. The editorial page of your good paper. We turn to it first! We find it one of the best we've read. Your issue of July 21 carried letters and editorial comment that were "close to our hearts."

A. The praise of Senator Robert Griffin who is one of the great young statesmen serving America. Bravo!

B. The editorial on noise pollution. If Charlevoix has a law on the books covering mufflers or lack thereof, let's enforce it and, if there is no such ordinance let's pass one at once! Let's cover snowmobiles, too.

C. The reprint of the article by Sidney H. Harris on the attitude of the residents of Door County, Wisconsin toward the swarm of affluent, but unappreciative (of our great and beautiful out-of-doors) tourists should suggest some serious thinking among our local elected officials.

D. Your map of pump-out stations which tells a fantastic story of total refusal to comply with the admittedly ridiculous Michigan State regulations regarding the disposal of sewage from small pleasure craft. Your map shows no pump-out facilities at Holland, Michigan which supports a large number of marinas each of which caters to a number of very sizeable yachts. Having docked our boat at one of the largest marinas in Michigan where there were many large yachts at dock and at anchor, we found it hard to believe there were no pump-out facilities available there or at any place on Lake Macatawa! Even the Coast Guard station knew of none! What goes on? Why not editorialize on that subject a bit and we'll be happy to supply some of the nitty-gritty details.

2. The great and friendly people we've met who have been so much help to us. To mention a few by name: Oscar Stroud, Tom Merta, Bob Neff, Ed Thorp, Don Smith, Grant Rowe and Gene Steele, George and Edna La Blance, Bob Hamilton, Dick Aull, George Nipson, Hal Forbrig, Cal Peters, "Pokey" Wheeler, "IGA" Edwards, Tom Hanna, Ted McCutcheon, Julius Gilbert, Phil Lawrence and many others.

3. The beautiful scenery, Lake Michigan sunsets and your winter wonderland which we look forward to seeing!

Sincerely,
Rod and Gail Stebbins

allow the use of the track at the chute and vehicles such as an ambulance, trucks, cars, etc., near the new building now under construction. There will be smaller gates at the side entrances.

Student insurance was discussed at length. A proposed plan that would allow insurance for all students at approximately $1.00 each through the Intermediate School District office was presented. More information will be obtained before a decision is made.

Golf, which has always been a spring sport, is now being introduced as a fall sport. Since it is a low cost sport, the board decided to keep it in the program if possible and to follow the decision of the Michigan-Huron Shores league regarding its place in the school calendar.

The skiing program was also discussed but no immediate decision was made. However, it was the consensus of the board that skiing would be the first sport to go if one has to be eliminated.

Harry Ladd appeared before the board to ask that something be done about the parking problem at the Charlevoix Public Library. He said that property had been purchased to allow parking for library patrons but that employee of downtown business places were using the facility to meet their parking needs. He asked that a policy regarding this be established. He was advised that the problem would be taken under consideration by the new library committee appointed at the meeting.

Supt. Robert L. Miller discussed proposed legislation and State Aid proposals.

Michigan Bell Report to Customers

Fixed-and low-income families can save on their telephone bills.

Actually, almost any family can reduce its telephone bill . . . by first understanding that increased bills come largely from increased telephone usage (not increased rates). Your present telephone rate structure is based on the idea that you pay for what you use. We think that's only fair. Now, if your family doesn't need to use your telephone too frequently, there is a money-saving plan that may be right for you:

Measured Budget Service for $3 a month . . . available statewide. Michigan Bell's two-party line Budget Service is not best for everyone, but can be just the thing for retirees or, perhaps, singles with minimal telephone needs. Because, you pay just $3 a month, if you stay within the monthly calling allowance on local and interzone calls. Also, in most areas a one-party line Budget Service is available at $4.50 a month.

Talk for a minute, pay for a minute, not three. Another way to save . . . with Michigan Bell's "pay for what you use" plan, you are no longer automatically charged for three minutes on long distance calls within Michigan. In other words, if you make a brief long distance call, you pay only for what you use. If you talk for one or two minutes, that's all you pay for. Plus, by dialing direct you can save 20% or 40% on long distance calls within Michigan.

For more information on economic use of your telephone, call your Michigan Bell Business Office. We want to help.

A & W Must Move Back

Council Insists On Clearance

The Charlevoix City Council, meeting as the Board of Appeals, agreed Monday night that the A & W drive-in on U.S. 31 south will have to move its new addition back about 10 feet in order to comply with highway right-of-way and zoning restrictions.

Work on the addition was already well underway when it was discovered that the addition, which is to house an indoor restaurant, encroached about four feet on the highway right-of-way.

Compounding the problem was the fact that the owner, Bruce Withers, had been told by City Superintendent Thomas Hanna that the property was zoned Commercial-1 instead of its actual classification of C-2.

C-1 permits building up to the lot line. C-2 requires a 10-foot set back.

When the error was discovered, the Council waived four feet of the set-back restriction.

Mr. and Mrs. Withers, their attorney, Norm Ance, and contractor Ray Wood attended Monday's council meeting with plans to relocate a portion of the addition on the south side and to design the front so that it cleared the highway right-of-way.

The Council admitted that errors had been made, but insisted that Withers abide by the limitations of the set-back waiver.

Ance pointed out that the minutes of the Board of Appeals meeting at which the waiver was granted specifically exempts the entire 10-foot setback. However, the council said the application for the waiver asks permission to construct the building "approximately six feet" from the lot line.

Ance said a "terrible mistake" had been made by the city in telling Withers the property was zone C-1 instead of C-2.

He said Withers didn't ask for the waiver but that it was granted by the council after the mistake had been discovered.

"All Bruce is here for is consideration," Ance said.

"I can show you all over town where there have been waivers of setback restrictions," he added.

Al Smith, owner of the Villa Moderne motel just south of the restaurant, objected to the addition on grounds that his sign is not visible to southbound motorists. Other southside businessmen also have objected that the building is too close to the highway.

In other business the council:

– Heard a report by City Attorney Robert Hoffman that he had talked to Mr. and Mrs.

Sidewalk Bargains Galore!

Charlevoix merchants are getting ready to wheel out their best bargains Friday and Saturday for the annual Chamber of Commerce "Sidewalk Days" sale.

Prices on all items have been drastically reduced, to bring shoppers the kind of bargains they have been dreaming about all summer.

Stereo tapes, shoes, clothing, sports equipment, home furnishings, gifts–all are going at prices you won't believe.

Check the special "Sidewalk Days" ads on Pages 8 and 9. You'll be glad you did.

BRUCE WITHERS, owner of the Charlevoix A&W, discovered too late that the addition to his building on Bridge-st. encroaches on the U.S. 31 right-of-way. The state Highway Commission has told him that he will have to move the building several feet back from the highway.

AT 97, ALBERT BALCH remembers Charlevoix was a tiny fishing village surrounded by tall timber. Balch has seen plenty of changes in his day–and he remembers most of them.

He Recalls Charlevoix Before Lumbering Era

The First Congregational Church has stood at the corner of State-st. and Park-ave. for as long as most people can remember.

Even old photographs of Charlevoix in the basement of the First State Bank show the church standing sedately on the corner, a proud relic of yesteryear.

But there's one fellow in these parts who looks upon the church as one of the newer buildings in town.

He is Albert Balch of Ellsworth who was born July 31, 1874, in a small white frame house on the lot where the venerable church stands today.

At 97, Balch could pass easily for 65.

His complexion is ruddy and smooth.

He reads everything he cares to read, without glasses, and he hears everything he cares to hear, with a hearing aid.

His mind is as keen as a new ax.

Balch, who has spent all of his life except the past three years in Charlevoix County, is one of the few people around who remember what northern Michigan was like before the lumbering era.

He describes the tall-timbered forests that spread eastward from Lake Michigan and how eagles nested in giant pines where Charlevoix Hospital now stands.

And he remembers how old timers used to tell each other: "We'll never see the day when all the timber is gone."

Looking back over almost a century, Balch is acutely aware of how many truisms of the past have turned out to be not true at all. He has seen one "inexhaustible" natural resource after another fall victim to man – including the forests and passenger pigeons.

Balch was the son of Newton Balch, a New Hampshireman who moved west as a pigeon catcher in the days when passenger pigeons darkened the sky over vast swatches of North America during their annual migrations. The senior Balch caught the birds in baited nets, plucked them, packed them in barrels and shipped them to large cities where they were served in the best hotels as that long-forgotten delicacy – squab.

A veteran of the Civil War, Mr. Balch senior trapped pigeons in 13 states before the birds finally became extinct.

When Albert was a boy, his father worked for Fox, Rose and Buttars, a well-stocked general store located on Bridge-st. across from where Hess Furniture now stands. He recalls visiting the store many times on errands for his mother.

Later the family moved to a house on Bridge-st. where Mont's Restaurant is today. Young Albert worked across the street for a grocer named Bert Mason.

"I spent all my time roasting peanuts and grinding coffee," Balch recalls.

Were there any resorters in Charlevoix in those days?

Just one family, according to Balch. He says they stayed in what is now Winchester's Funeral Home. There were no buildings between Winchester's and Bridge-st. and Balch recalls watching the visitors shoot arrows into bales of hay on their big front lawn.

He says they got their archery equipment from Chief McSauba who lived north of the city near Mt. McSauba.

Balch attended school in Charlevoix until he was about 10 years old. Then the family rented a farm at Norwood and he attended the Norwood school until about the sixth grade.

"It was hard to get a schooling in those days," he says. "Everyone had to work, and when my father needed me, I hleped him."

Balch remembers digging potatoes on what is now Dixon-ave. when he was a boy.

By the time Balch was a young man, the logging industry was in full swing and he worked for many years at one sawmill after another throughout the county. He was known as an "edgerman" in the trade – the fellow who decides how to best cut a sawlog after it had been through the mill once and only the rough edges are left at the corners.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION:

Do you think parking along Bridge-st. should be eliminated?

Call 547-6558 or drop a post card in the mail to the Courier, P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720.

Results of last week's question; The possibility of expanding the harbor facilities by using floating docks in Round Lake is under consideration. Would you favor such a project?

Yes, 60 percent. "As a licensed Michigan boater, a large yes"....."It's a shame to turn any boats away"....."Would help the city tremendously."...."A very worthwhile project."...."Charlevoix definitely needs more docking facilities."

No, 40 percent. "It would clutter up Round Lake."...."Costs too much."...."Not feasible at all."...."We have enough problems now."....."There's electrical and water supply shortages now."

Modular Housing Plant Will Be Built in Area

Dick Wood, owner of the Woodshed, has announced plans for construction of a factory in Hayes Township or Charlevoix Township for production of modular homes on an assembly-line basis.

The new company is called Space Modules, Inc., and is an affiliate of International Space Modules, Ltd., headquartered in Vancouver, B.C.

Other partners in the firm are Dick Blackmar and John Reagan who already are operating a similar plant at Portland, Ore.

Although many of the financing details must still be worked out, Wood hopes to break ground for the new facility Oct. 1, 1971, and be ready to go into production by April 1, 1972.

Location of the plant also is uncertain. Wood says he owns 60 acres of land in Charlevoix and Hayes townships, running from north of the Charleboyne Motel to the Blue Dot Farm. He plans to sell 20 acres of the parcel to the new company.

The plant will construct modular homes which will be shipped by barge, rail and truck within a 1,500 mile radius of Charlevoix.

Wood is excited about the possibility of shipping by barge, since it will bring most of the high-density population centers in the Midwest into the new company's market area.

The plant will measure approximately 440 by 260 feet and at full production will employ about 250 people.

The modular home concept attempts to bring the economies of assembly-line production into the home-building business, at a savings of about 25 percent.

According to a brochure prepared by the company: "Modular manufacturing means most simply constructing a relative 95 percent of a housing entity within a factory and the lesser five percent on jobsite. This modular system brings materials and pre-fab parts together in an assembly-line factory and combines them into large and sometimes complex elements of

Ted Bergmann Retires

Frederick A. (Ted) Bergmann, 57, retires Aug. 4 as tender of the bascule bridge carrying U.S. 31 over Pine River Channel.

A native of Charlevoix, Bergmann has been a bridge operator for the State Highway Commission for 29 years. He was granted an early retirement because of ill health.

Bergmann became a bridge tender March 4, 1942, at Cheboygan, transferring to Charlevoix in 1947 when the present bascule bridge was under construction.

As an interim measure, U.S. 31 traffic was carried across Pine River Channel on a pontoon bridge from the city dock to Charlevoix Lumber Co. property across the channel.

Vehicles then climbed the south hill between the Jack Rader and Robert Bridge homes and proceeded north on Nicholls-st. to the highway.

The pontoon bridge was opened and closed by means of winches, allowing watercraft to pass to and from Lake Michigan and Round Lake.

Bergmann and his wife, the former Rose Tegderine, whom he married in February, 1938, live on Division-st.

They have seven children: Doug, Charles, Jim and Ken of Charlevoix, Bruce of Boyne City, Jack of Akron, Ohio; and Mrs. Paul (Lois) Michelin of Newberry.

FREDERICK (Ted) Bergmann retires Aug. 4 as tender of the U.S. 31 bascule bridge over Pine River Channel. However there will still be a Bergmann on the bridge. His son, Charles, became a tender four months ago.

BMCS ROBERT J. SMITH (right) took over command of the Coast Guard's Charlevoix Station in ceremonies July 29. He relieved BMC Bobby Rose, who has been transferred to the Cutter Zinnia, stationed at New Orleans. A native of Antigo, Wisc., Smith is no stranger to Charlevoix. He served aboard the Sundew in 1957-58 and was assigned to Charlevoix Group headquarters from 1963 to 1968. For the past 27 months he has been stationed at Cheboygan. He and his wife, Ann, have a daughter Jeanie, 13, and a son Douglas, 12.

Home Herb Garden Boon to the Chef

Herbs as they are known and used today are plants that are valued for their essential oils which are used for cooking, fragrances, medicines, dyes and industrial purposes.

In a flower garden their foliage is as appealing as their bloom. In the kitchen garden they are as aromatic and beautiful as they are edible. In a garden by themselves they combine all the features of usefulness, attractiveness, and fragrance that have made herb gardens popular for many, many years.

Fresh herbs are within the reach of everyone. They can be grown in pots as easily as any house plant. In fact they can be grown anywhere under almost any conditions the poorer the soil the better the plant. A rich soil produces lush foliage but fewer oils for flavoring, so when planning your garden choose herbs of your choice and plant one or two to change the flavor of your favorite dish.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Elsie Redeker on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 10. Mildred Campbell will give the lesson on "Flowers and Gardens of the 1900's."

Special Vote Registration Is Planned

Joyce Matchett Wed At Barnard Church

Barnard United Methodist Church was the scene of the early afternoon marriage of Joyce Marie Matchett and Steven Henry Tchozeski Saturday, July 31.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Sanford W. Matchett, Route 1, Charlevoix, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Tchozeski of Grand Rapids.

The couple repeated their vows before an altar decorated with baskets of ferns and Queen Ann's lace and bouquets of garden flowers. The Rev. Lester Priest of East Jordan officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Pianist Beth Ann Boss of Charlevoix played selected music including "Edelweiss", "The Bridal March," and "Laura's Theme" as the recessional. Ray Griffith of Pellston played the guitar and sang "Follow Me" and "The Lord's Prayer". Sharon Berg sang "We've Only Just Begun."

Escorted to the altar by both of her parents, the bride wore a gown of white lawn material styled with tiers of old fashioned lace that circled the hemline. Panels of old fashioned lace lined the front and back of the gown and the neckline and puffed sleeves were trimmed with layers of delicate lace.

The wedding gown was made by the bride's great-aunt in 1908 and first worn by her grandmother (Mrs. Robert Matchett). The bride's aunt (Mrs. Lee Shapton) wore the gown in 1940. In 1965, Mrs. John A. Werner III, cousin of the bride, wore the gown.

Assisting her cousin as matron of honor was Mrs. John A. Werner III of Miamisburg, Ohio. Bridesmaids were Sharon Berg of Harbor Springs and Mrs. Melvin Matchett, Cedar Springs, sister-in-law of the bride.

They wore old fashioned floor length gowns of yellow and white flowered voil over yellow taffeta styled with an empire waist and streamers to the hemline. They carried giant yellow mums.

Thomas Weller of Grand Rapids was best man. Groomsmen were Robert Petrovich, Grand Rapids, and David Moyer, Petoskey.

Seating the guests were John Hines, Battle Creek, who is the grooms' brother-in-law; and Melvin Matchett, brother of the bride from Cedar Springs. Timothy Matchett, another brother, lighted the candle operas.

A reception followed immediately after the ceremony on the lawn of the church. Beth Ann Boss, Charlevoix, and Sue Bradford, Gaylord, cut the cake. Also assisting were Linda Boss, Charlevoix; Mrs. Gene Hurd, Ypsilanti; Nancy Tchozeski, Grand Rapids; Judy Cellner, Charlevoix; Theresa Kolinske, Petoskey; Sue Lakles, Charlevoix; and Mrs. John Hines, Battle Creek.

Honored guests were Mrs. Leo Mollhagen, Petoskey; Mrs. Lee Shapton; and Mrs. John A. Werner III.

After a wedding trip to the Maritime Provinces of Canada and northeastern United States, the couple will be at home on Bostwick Lake near Belding. Both the bride and groom will teach in the Belding School System.

The mother of the bride chose a powder blue knit dress accented with a lace waistline. Mrs. Tchozeski selected a pink, sleeveless knit with a skirt of small pleats. Their corsages were of white daisy mums.

State Tax Hike Adds Fuel to Economic Fire

By BETH BALDWIN

MAINLINING

"Starting this week, pay checks will be even smaller due to a 50 percent increase in the state income tax."

Many people heard the discouraging announcement last weekend and they must have shuddered.

With 1971 only half over, one tends to wonder almost pessimistically if the next six months will be as bleak as the first. A bigger chunk out of your income certainly won't be an event to celebrate. It's like adding coals to an already raging fire, that fire that eats up your pay check before it even arrives.

And if the past is any indicator, we'll be plagued with strikes until doomsday and probably won't be able to pay for them until a hundred years after that.

A vicious circle has evolved: Workers strike, forcing the company to raise prices in order to meet the workers' demands. Strike is settled but as a result the cost of living goes up. Workers strike again because of the greater cost of living, and on and on.

Topping things off, it looks like inflation is going to be around for quite awhile yet. The Detroit News reports that the June consumer price index increased at a six percent annual rate.

But according to Pat Shontz, a Detroit News columnist, the postal rate increase and the decrease of mortgage rates are partially to blame. However, the columnist's notes that mortgage interest rates have stopped declining. Hopeful, isn't it?

We also have the election of 1972 to worry about, the judicial mess, the education problem and old standbys like Vietnam, unemployment, drug abuse, alcoholism, even more taxes, pollution, crime; one could go on forever.

What happened to that great American Dream? Did someone pop the bubble?

Coho Run May Start In August in North Lakes

Michigan's annual fall coho salmon runs may begin a month early this year in Lake Superior and northern Lake Michigan, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

The expectation is based on last fall's planting of 500,000 Alaskan cohos in some of the state's northern streams. These fish spawn a month earlier than the popular Oregon strain of cohos which provide exciting fishing in late September and October.

Fisheries specialists of the Department are optimistic about the experiment with the Alaskan strain. They point to the success of limited introductions into Thompson Creek near Manistique the past three years. These cohos have produced spectacular fishing in August at the mouth of the stream and along the Lake Michigan shore where fishermen wade out to catch them.

Of the half-million Alaskan cohos planted in the fall of last year, 150,000 went into Lake Superior waters–50,000 each in the Falls, Anna, and Dead Rivers. Plantings in Upper Peninsula Lake Michigan waters included 25,000 in Whitefish River, 73,100 in Thompson Creek, and 25,000 in the Manistique River. For Lake Michigan in the Lower Peninsula, 50,000 went into the Bear River, 25,000 into Porter Creek, 100,000 into Brewery Creek and 50,000 into the Little Manistee River. Lake Huron's Carp River received 50,000 Alaskan cohos.

The Alaskan cohos planted in 1970 were a part of the 4,225,000 total coho plantings in the Great Lakes last year. Of these, 3,175,000 went into Lake Michigan, 475,000 into Lake Superior, and 575,000 into Lake Huron streams.

Corral Chatter

Friday was the final day in camp for many of the boys, and as it was a rainy morning, the boys packed their belongings and got ready for leaving. About noon, the weather cleared, and in the afternoon we had the Mile Swim which is a very important event in the life of the camp. Boys enjoy trying their swimming ability in swimming the mile, and several boys swam the course twice, making it a Two-Mile.

This is a great accomplishment and all boys finishing either the Mile or the Two-Mile deserve a great deal of credit. There was a Green-Grey event and each side won in two sections, bringing the team scores up to Greens–21, Greys–18. The fastest times in each section were: Seniors, Eric Musekamp and Steve Horwitz; Intermediates, Billy Gates and Jim Shook; Prep Section, Billy Bauer and Chris Kelley; Junior Section, Don Cook. The fastest time for the mile was Billy Gates, Grand Rapids, with a time of 37.45. Friday evening we had our Final Council Ring with the activity men reading off the names of boys who had made accomplishment during the week.

The evening was topped off with a fine talk illustrated by slides, given by Russ Epker and "scooter" Smith of Bloomfield Hills. These boys spent three weeks in early summer touring Greece with a group from their school. They gave a most interesting talk, and it showed much preparation. Boys were very interested in the slides and the talks. Taps was sung to close the evening and the first four week session was brought to a close. Boys were sad eyed and sorry to leave on the morrow.

Saturday dawned bright and beautiful, and as we were eating breakfast the first parents arrived to pick up their boy. By noon the first four-week boys were all gone and many of time have enrolled for next year, the 1972 season. By enrolling now the boys get on the Mackinac Island trip next summer, so there was a line in the office of mothers and dads enrolling for next summer.

In the afternoon, the new boys arrived and by supper time most everyone was here. In the evening we had the traditional pillow-fights for the first night of a session. Boys enjoy this and there is much excitement. The following boys were winners of their match: William Phipps, Farmington; Dave Lewis, Akron, Ohio; Steve Osborn, Dearborn; Don Cook, Chicago; Chris Mebus, Grosse Pointe; Miller Bransfield, Wilmette, Ill.; Bob Lyman, Grand Rapids; Blake Rhein, Rocky River, Ohio; Don Huffman, Cincinnati; David Busch, Grand Rapids; Hudson Mead, Grosse Pointe; Matt Foster, Wheaton, Ill.; Dave Lockhart, Grosse Pointe; John Harbeck, Grand Haven; Mike Foster, Wheaton, Ill.; Mike Dupree, Birmingham; Jeff Taylor, Oxford, Mich.; Tony Woods, Dearborn; Wally Dickson, Livonia; Chuck Zitsman, Springfield, Ohio; Bob Wilson, Birmingham.

Sunday morning was a beautiful sunny morning, with our chapel service being held in the outdoor chapel. Bill Townsend, director of activities, was the speaker. He gave a challenge to the boys suggesting that they take the many opportunities offered here at camp, opportunities to improve ones self morally, physically, mentally and spiritually. John Harbeck read the Scripture and Mark Wilson gave the prayer.

In the afternoon, the new boys were busy with swim tests and physicals. The eight-week boys had a football game and a softball game. In the evening we had the initiation council fire in our impressive council ring. Four of our staff, Mike Kelly, Lee Fernstrum, George Tilton and Dave Tuttle gave four of the finest talks we have had in a long time. They inspired the boys to the many avenues of camping, urging them to get the most out of their summer here.

Parents would have been amazed and very pleased at the wisdom of these young men, and boys were indeed lucky to have men bring to them the very essence of living a full and happy life. The new campers received an arrow "C" painted on their foreheads, and it was a most impressive ceremony. The evening was closed with the singing of taps, which was followed by two trumpets playing taps as a duet from the shore of the lake.

Monday was a cold, dark day, with boys starting their activities. Late afternoon, Cabin 20 took off for the campcraft area for an overnight. The boys on this trip were: Steve Baker, Brad Mast, Brad Hillis, Eric Meyer, Craig Hanson, Robbie Quinn, Dave Timmons and John Dickson. The evening was beautiful sunny, cool, and the temperature was falling fast, so fast in fact that there were announcements of snow flurries tonight. Imagine that. Snow on July 26.

Tuesday: Well, it didn't snow last night but it did get pretty cool. Cabins 12 and 13 went down to the campcraft area for an overnight. Bruce Jendrusina and Gard Garvie were the counselors and the boys were: Larry Webb, Bill Harrity, David Lockhart, A.B. Nickels, Bob Mantho, Charles Morris, and Beau Hopkins. Also Dennis O'Brein, Sanny Greenawalt, John Harbeck, Kevin McCarthy, David Murray and Geoff Gluck. The Prep Section had a game called "Capture the Bacon" which the Greys won, bringing the score at Greens–21, Greys–20. Good stiff competition, each side struggling to build up a lead.

Wednesday was a dark, dismal day, no rain, but not very nice for camping. Cabin 18, George Tilton, and Cabin 19, Lee Fernstrum, went down to the campcraft area for their overnight. These boys were: Mark Wilson, Tony Woods, Tom Harbeck, Ernie Evans, Richard McClaughry, Mike Mulcahy, Doug Morton, Chuck Hartly, Frank Perron, Steve Horwitz, Jeff Taylor, Derek Van Fossen, Chuck Hunter, David Chope, Fritz Henderson, and John Vander Veen. Earlier in the afternoon, Tom Dorsek took his boys on a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were: Eric Artman, Tim Washburn, Chuck Zitsman, Greg King, Larry Hyde, and Bob Wilson. After the noon meal the Green-Grey elections were held for new leaders for this second four week period. The winners of these important positions are as follows: (the first name is the name of the Capt. Second and third names are the Lieutenants. Junior Greens, Don Cook, Joe Timmons, Andy Harrity. Junior Greys, Glenn Graber, Pete Gardella, Mark Reeder. Prep Greens--Ben Daneer, Pat Green, Chick Taylor. Prep Greys--Bill Hall, Larry Schuler, John Norris. Intermediate Greens--John Harbeck, John Breitinger, Greg Mantho. Intermediate Greys–Dave Townsend, Billy Guggenheim, Jim Shook. Senior Greens–Bob Wilson, Tim Washburn, Frank Perron. Senior Greys–Chuck Zitsman, Steve Baker, Tom Harbeck. Congratulations to these boys who have a tremendous job to do in leading their team to victory. In the evening, we had "Capture the Camper" events, the boys hiding in the woods with the counselors trying to catch them. After an hours time limit, the sections divided the points, each getting two points. Boys enjoy this event in trying to out-fox their counselors.

THERE WAS plenty of action at the Charlevoix High School athletic field Thursday and Friday during the annual summer track events.

RAINY DAYS in Charlevoix find people either dodging the drops or slowly strolling through town like this couple apparently unaware of the drizzle.

ON WARM, sunny days visitors in Charlevoix are often content to leisurely watch activity on Round Lake and Pine River Channel.

SEVENTH GRADE bandsmen put on a recital for parents Friday at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium. The program marked the wind up of their summer instruction.

Michigan Bell Report to Customers

The cost of your long distance calls will not be affected by the new proposed rates.

Don't expect the new proposed rates to make a big difference in your phone bill. Because they won't. The new rates would apply mainly to your basic rate and would not in any way affect the charges for long distance calls within Michigan. For example, you can make a one-minute call from Flint to Traverse City for 30¢ or less (depending on whether you dial direct). The same call would cost exactly the same under the new rate proposal.

But, as always, the more toll calls you make, the more you pay.

Though the new rate proposal will not increase long distance rates, your bill will still go up or down in direct proportion to the number and length of such calls. So, to a great extent, the size of your bill is up to you. You can lower it by making fewer and briefer long distance calls, if you choose.

If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call your Michigan Bell Business Office.

We want to help.

LEAD TANGLED

Topside, Medusa and Howards remained undefeated in the second round. Topside beat Portside 10-6 with Jim Klunge and Bub Crain hitting two home runs and Ralph Doan and Stew Coleman banging one each. Sam Supernaw's homer was the only extra base hit for the losers.

The Argonne hung on to hold off the Townhouse 10-9. Ron Weislek's second home run in the seventh made it close. Phil Skeel had two circuit blows for the winners.

Medusa bombed Airport Bar 13-5 behind the home run bat of Larry Nunemaker, who had two long blasts.

Freedman's won a good one and Andy's a heartbreaker as the Artcraft boys scored twice in the bottom of the seventh for a 7-6 win. Gayle Sheldon homered twice for the winners while Harv Cole did likewise for the losers.

Topside knocked Freedmans from the unbeated with a record nine home runs–two by Ralph Doan, Lee Cross, and Stew Coleman plus one each by Tim Doan, Jim Klunge, and Terry Blissett accounted for 17 runs while the losers could only muster 7.

Andy's handed the Argonne a 9-7 loss behind the two home runs by Tom Collins. Howard's continued unbeated as they scored a seventh inning run to edge American Mold 5-4.

Portside got their first win of the round when they squeezed by Airport 7-6. A three run sixth inning did the trick.

FASTPITCH

First State Bank finally cinched the first round title with a 2-1 win over Morweld. Losing pitcher Maury Taylor deserved a better fate as he allowed only two hits. But both were key safeties as Nate Boss's one bagger and two errors produced the first marker and Ken Boss singled in the winner with a fifth inning safety. Murweld threatened in every inning but never could score except for their fourth inning run. They left 9 men on base. County State Bank got their run for the second round title off on target with a 8-3 win over Potters. The winners scored five times in the sixth frame.

EDWARDS CHAMPS

Edwards pulled a surprise and upended favorite Burger Chef 1-0 in the final game of the first round to take the title with a 3-0 record. A walk to Ann Willis and Lil Gallagher's three base hit scored the only run in the well played contest. Willis allowed only three hits in picking up the win. The Burger Chef had won the preseason tournament in impressive style but Edward played well and hustled all the way for the win. Arts exploded against Martins to win third place as they scored a season high 28 runs against the 6 gathered by the losers.

JUNIOR MISS

The Junior Miss league went to Davenports as they edged Sladeks 6-5. Both teams were undefeated at the time so the winners have a game lead with one contest left to play before they can cinch the title.

Nearly 70 girls and women attended the first softball clinic held at the city diamond. Top notch players and managers introduced techniques necessary to become a good pitcher, catcher, hitter, fielder, and baserunner.

PEANUT LEAGUE

The Lions edged first round champs, the Braves 2-1 on Tom Fowler's seventh inning single and a Brave fielding error. Both pitchers, Brian Warner and Bob Alger allowed only two hits each in the well played contest. The Cards hung on to beat the Tigers 11-10. The losers had the winning run on second when the game ended.

The third thriller of the week saw the Astros score four times in the seventh to beat the Cubs 10-9. Hank Berry's long triple was the key blow.

We've Come a Long Way Since First 'Sputnik'

Although it seems almost impossible, astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin are the seventh and eighth men — all Americans — to walk on the surface of the moon since the first landing only two years ago.

Although launches, moon landings and re-entries receive a good deal of public attention, the latest voyage certainly hasn't generated as much excitement as earlier junkets into space, which is probably the way it should be.

Our successes in space, as spectacular as they are, are becoming old-hat to the man-in-the-street, who must go about the business of earning a living regardless of dramatic events taking place in the heavens.

Our complacency, however, is a far cry from the awe, mingled with dismay, experienced by most Americans back in October of 1957 when Russia announced that it had launched its first sputnik into earth orbit.

We saluted the Soviet achievement, but at the same time we wondered why the United States was caught asleep at the switch in the field of space exploration.

In view of our late start, our progress in only 14 years has been astounding and it staggers the imagination to envision what feats will be accomplished before the end of the century.

According to geologists, the present moon junket will probably yield more information about the origin of the moon — and the earth — than the first three trips combined.

Falcon has touched down in a raw, mountainous area of the moon where the primitive crust has remained unchanged for billions of years.

"We hope we can start to understand just what happened in the early days of the formation of the moon — a body in the solar system of a composition similar to earth," according to Dr. Harrison Schmitt, a scientist astronaut who is a member of the Apollo 15 backup crew.

Dr. Schmitt says the Sea of Rains, the area of the present exploration, was formed early in the moon's history when a large object from space struck the lunar surface, gouging a 600-mile-wide hole. The hole later was filled with lava welling up from the lunar interior.

Studying the lunar crust will help write a heretofore missing chapter in the history of the earth, Schmitt said.

Clues to the origin of the earth have long-since been masked by erosion, volcanic action, earthquakes and other tumultuous changes that took place as the earth's crust cooled and buckled.

Of course, there are those among us who believe that the information to be gained from the Apollo 15 flight will never be worth the cost of the trip, which is somewhere in the neighborhood of $455 million. The critics say there are more important ways to spend such vast amounts of money, right here on earth.

But man isn't built that way. If the money and the know-how are available, he'll use both to satisfy his insatiable thirst for knowledge.

And he won't stop until every last corner of the universe is mapped and catalouged.

By Year 2048, We All Will Be Slaves of State

By REP. RICHARD FRISKE

There's no way to obscure the fact, and I won't try. The state income tax was increased last week, effective Aug. 1.

The bill passed by the House and Senate (SB 616) provides for 1.3 percent increase in the personal income tax, to a total rate of 3.9 percent or 50 percent above the present level. Corresponding increases in the corporate income tax (up 2.2 percent to 7.8 percent) and the financial institutions tax (up from 2.7 percent to 9.7 percent).

The final vote on the bill in the House was 58 to 44. This came after an earlier attempt to pass the measure failed on a 32 to 71 vote. A call of the House (under which absent members are sought out and all legislators are "locked" in the House Chamber, thus assuring the best possible attendance) was employed during the debate, arm-twisting and voting process on the bill.

The final vote showed 33 Democrats and 25 Republicans supporting Senate Bill 616. Opposing the measure were this representative and 24 other Republicans and 19 Democrats. Passage required 56 votes.

Many members were agreed that additional revenues would be necessary to balance the state's budget demands for 1971-72. In fact, many Republicans were pleased that if an income tax increase had to come, it came before final action on the budget. We had been fighting for a "taxes first" approach, while Democrats generally favored a "spending first" approach. We feared that if spending action was finalized first, that an even larger increase in taxes would be necessary to pay the bills for the enthusiasm many members have for excessive spending.

BUDGET PROGRESS

Passage of the revenue bill cleared the way for resolution of the 1971-72 budget, which had been stalemated for such a long time. It now appears that final budget action may be possible by the present deadline of August 31, when the expenditure authority of an emergency appropriations bill lapses.

By the time Senate Bill 616 was given final approval, the House had passed all but one of the budget bills originally assigned to us. But that one bill was a whopper–the social services bill, which calls for spending more than one billion dollars, better than half of it in state tax money ($535 million) and the rest in federal funds ($504 million).

With the addition of an estimated $250 million from Senate Bill 616, total revenue is now estimated at about $2 billion and $80 millions. Now we have to see whether our eager spending colleagues are able to restrain themselves so we can hold appropriations below that inflated level.

GOVERNMENT OF THE ABSURD

One of my colleagues recently circulated to legislators some figures which do point up some startling trends in state government.

The figures were drawn from a newsletter from Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. The bank figured out what would happen if the growth of state taxes, welfare spending and government employment were to continue, at compound rates, for an indefinite period.

Assuming an unchecked rate of growth consistent with previous years, here are the results:

Since 1958, general employment has grown at the compound rate of 1.5 percent annually. During the same period, state and local government employment rose 4.3 percent. Extending that trend into the future, the bank's newsletter observed that by the year 2048 (77 years from now), everyone in Michigan would be working for some governmental unit. I predict we will all be slaves of the state and work for a mere existence on bread and water.

The personal incomes of Michigan residents have grown at a 6.9 percent compound rate since 1958, while taxes have increased at a corresponding rate of 11.3 percent. In just 63 years, if that trend held, every penny of personal income made by everyone in Michigan would go to state government. I'm sure the federal tax collectors would have something to say about that!

But you don't really have to worry about those two things happening. All of us will be on "welfare" long before that.

Says Friske Ignored Bible In 'No' Vote

R-2 Box 239

Charlevoix Courier
Bridge St.
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Dear Editor:

I was deeply distressed this evening upon reading Repres. Friske's remarks concerning the three Soviet cosmonaughts. Your editorial amply stated the feelings of most of the people and I do not intend to repeat them here.

As I understand it, Rep. Friske maintains that he is a Christian and implores us to return as a nation to the Bible and Christian ways. I for one am puzzled as to what he means by this, for he appears to be saying one thing on one occasion and the opposite on another. I wonder how in good conscience he can refuse sympathy for three men who died performing their duty to their country and still profess to be a Christian.

For I too profess to be a Christian, and when I make that profession of faith I am telling all men that I believe in the teachings of Christ and that to the best of my ability live my life in accordance with those teachings. I quote one of those teachings in part from the book of St. Matthew Chapter 5: "You have heard that it was said, You shall love your neighbor, and shall hate your enemy.' But I say to you, love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who persecute and caluminate you, so that you may be children of your Father in heaven, who makes his sun to rise on the good and the evil, and sends rain on the just and the unjust." No one is asking for Rep. Friske's sympathy for the "system" only for three brave men.

Rep. Friske's protestation that he has lived under the system fails to impress me very much. My family too has suffered at the hands of communism. But while we are deeply grieved at the loss of our son-in-law from wounds in Vietnam, I have yet to hear one word of hatred from my family for the Vietcong who fired the shot. I have heard these words: "Forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do."

I further believe that Rep. Friske's remarks are a prime example of how people have failed Christianity. If we, through the years, had acted in accordance with our Christian beliefs the world now would be at peace. Many years ago a priest said to me: "You cannot take only what you want from your religion and leave the rest. Either you firmly believe all that Christ taught or you believe none of it."

So while I cannot sympathize with the Soviet system I am saddened a little and breathe a prayer for three brave men. Perhaps Rep. Friske could soften his heart a little and do the same.

Yours truly,
Valois A. Avery

Dear Sir:

The late Alf Loomis of "Yachting Magazine" wouldn't have spared you on the photograph caption on page 3 of your July 21st edition so we won't either. The sleek black sketch you describe is actually a conventional schooner. Also, if my memory is correct, she is not a visitor to Charlevoix having been moored at Hamilton's yard on Round Lake for the past three or four years. In fact, I remember seeing her in Charlevoix as long ago as 1964.

We would estimate her length as about 52 ft. o.a. and wonder if she could be the famous Alden designed Malabar VI built in 1925 in Maine and once owned by Walter D. Randall of Charlevoix. The Malabars were a series of yachts designed and built by John Alden for his personal use and gained considerable fame during the early days of ocean racing. The last time I saw her was in Detroit during the early sixties.

At any rate, the excellent photograph brought back some memories but some people around Charlevoix might be sensitive about having her called a ketch.

Yours sincerely,

Berries, Bears & Chocolate Bars

By BOB CLOCK

The first time I encountered a live bear in the woods was in 1948 while I was working as a section hand for the Gorman Lumber Co. at Ontonagon on the Lake Superior shore in the Upper Peninsula.

The second time I encountered a live bear in the woods was Saturday, July 31, 1971, at Tahquamenon Falls, also in the U.P.

My first meeting with bruin in the wilds scared me out of a year's growth.

Gorman's logging railroad ran east out of Ontonagon along the shore into country still heavily timbered with virgin hemlock and white pine. At noon the section crew broke for lunch, which was always followed by a quick dip in Lake Superior in the buff by members of the section crew.

This particular day was rather chilly and I was the only one who lingered in the water for any time at all. When I returned to shore, everyone else had dressed and returned to the track, about a quarter-mile distant through a berry patch.

I pulled on my clothes, laced my heavy boots and started toward the truck, cool and refreshed for an afternoon of tamping ties. I was midway through the berry patch when I ran into a bear who was very upset at the prospect of sharing his berries with anyone. He growled.

Without so much as a "Good afternoon," I put my heavy boots into high gear. As I recall, I went straight up into the air and didn't touch ground again until I was back on the shore. Then I headed west, hell bent for election, toward the Flint Steel River where a narrow path followed the river bank back to the railroad track.

That area was still untouched wilderness for miles in all directions, a beautiful spot, but all I could see were dozens of bear tracks in the damp sand along the shore.

Only a week before, one of Gorman's logging crews working in the area had come across the body of a dead lumberjack. When they took him into town, the undertaker discovered that his rib cage had been crushed like a bag of potato chips and everyone — even the sheriff — theorized that he had been done in by a bear.

All of which didn't do anything to improve my frame of mind. I didn't breathe easy again until I was safely back with my colleagues on the section gang, even though I was ribbed about the incident unmercifully for weeks afterward.

My second encounter with a bear in the wilds was not quite so alarming.

Saturday, Judy, the kids and I took a one-day trip through the eastern U.P., with stops at Tahquamenon Falls and Sault Ste. Marie. We had just left the village of Paradise on the shore of Whitefish Bay and were heading west toward the falls on M-123 when I noticed quite a few cars parked along the road shoulder. We had been looking for a place to eat our picnic lunch, and at first I thought we had found one. But we hadn't.

Our fellow travelers had stopped to watch the antics of a young bear who had come out to the highway to beg food from passing motorists. Of course, we stopped, too.

This bear didn't seem the least bit ferocious and I can understand why. He was too stuffed to move. He sat in a clump of ferns next to the road and ate everything that was offered him.

One family kept feeding him marshmallows, which he seemed to enjoy even after they had rolled in the sand.

Another fellow fed him potato chips and sandwiches. A third motorist produced a huge block of cheddar cheese and gave the bear half of it. A girl let the bear eat a soda cracker from her fingers.

Not to be outdone, I rummaged in the picnic basket and came up with a cookie which I tossed in his direction. He wolfed it down.

Watching the bear made us all hungry, so we decided to have our own lunch right where we were. I had parked some distance from the bear, but apparently the aroma of our tunafish sandwiches and hard-boiled eggs got to him. He kept edging closer, and before we finished he was practically in the back of the back of the bus—to the mingled delight and consternation of the kids.

After viewing the falls, both upper and lower, we headed back to Paradise. On the return trip there were two bears alongside the road, each one a traffic-stopper. Tourists were feeding them cupcakes, Frit-O-Lays and chocolate bars.

We didn't stop this time, although the kids greeted each one with a chummy "Hello, Bear!"

I wonder what has happened to the bears of yesteryear, the ones that ate berries and growled at strangers?

Old Newsboy

By JIM FITZGERALD

Make way for youth. And all that jazz.

But sometimes it gives me a pang. Not a pain; a pang. You get a pain in the neck. The pang pings your heart.

The other day Mark Beltaire, the Detroit Free Press columnist, wrote about short railroads. He mentioned the Port Huron and Detroit Railroad which, he said, is privately-owned by George and Jim Duffy of Port Huron.

I stopped reading in mid-paragraph so as to indulge in some incriminating nostalgia. About 30 years ago, I delivered newspapers to George Duffy's home in Port Huron. He was my best customer because he always paid several weeks in advance. The charge was 20 cents a week but, when Duffy owed 20 cents he'd give me a buck so I wouldn't bother him again for 5 weeks. But he never marked a calendar and he had a poor memory. I'd come back in three weeks, or whenever I was broke, and he'd give me another buck for five more weeks. And then I'd be back in three more weeks and so on......

I didn't consider this stealing. Stealing was copping dimes from your mother's purse, which I also did. But with Duffy, I simply owed him some newspapers. I figured that some day I'd be flush and I'd skip collecting from him for several months, but keep delivering papers, until my route book balanced. But I still haven't got flush and I had to give up the newspaper route to protect my eligibility for Social Security. I still owed Duffy 1,347 copies of the Port Huron Times Herald.

While nostalgiating, I remembered that Duffy is about 7 foot tall and I immediately thought, columnist Beltaire should hear how my late dad once introduced Duffy to a friend. "This is George Duffy," Dad said, "the only railroad owner in the world who is longer than his track."

Then I returned to Beltaire's column and discovered that, by gosh, he had heard about Dad's wisecrack. There it was, in print for the first time. But Beltaire credited it to "Eddie Fitzgerald of the Lapeer Fitzgeralds."

And that's when I felt the pang.

There is an Eddie Fitzgerald who lives in Lapeer but he is not my father; he's my son. The Eddie Fitzgerald who knew George Duffy never lived in Lapeer. He was "of the Port Huron Fitzgeralds" and he never lived anywhere else in all his 71 years. His swinging widow still lives there, pretending she was his daughter.

All of which is a small mistake, and certainly understandable. Writing this weekly nonsense has gained me a certain amount of notoriety and "the Lapeer Fitzgeralds" has a valid enough ring to it, I suppose. But it makes me feel uncomfortable, like a usurper of the throne.

My father was quite a guy and I've always been pleased to be recognized as his son. I love to be told that I look like him. To me, it could never be right that he be remembered as my father. He accomplished a lot more important things than to help produce me, as any of my four sisters would be quick to tell you.

Dad wouldn't be miffed by Beltaire's mistake in geography. He'd just laugh. On the other hand, he'd be madder than hell to learn about me gypping George Duffy. Just thinking about his anger makes me feel like a little boy.

Which isn't a bad way to feel. I guess I just want to be my father's son for a few more years, anyway.

Make way for my youth.

'I Love You All,' Toni Tells Guard

July 28, 1971

Dear Sirs,

Just a short note of thanks for your fantastic work in locating the "Beatrice", the boat with the sheared propeller shaft. I just can't begin to explain my feeling of utter helplessness knowing my parents (Jean and Roger Beckley) were out somewhere in the middle of the bay and in trouble. You certainly deserve any and all credit due you. It's really great to know there are people like you to turn to, in a situation like this. So on behalf of my parents, and myself, I'd like to take this opportunity to say thank-you and keep it up! You're just fantastic, and I love you all.

Sincerely,
Toni Beckley

Lamprey Chemical Still Puzzles Biologists

The Government evidently has solved the lamprey problem, and now would like to know how it did it.

Since 1959 the United States Fish and Wildlife Service has treated hundreds of Great Lakes tributaries with TFM, a nitrophenal compound. The chemical apparently is harmless to mammals and to most aquatic life, but kills sea lamprey larvae by asphyxlation.

The Commerce Department recently granted $26,500 to the Medical College of Wisconsin to determine which element of the poison does the job and what happens to it afterward.

TRUE HORRORS

The sea lamprey, which at one point virtually halted Great Lakes fishing, is a finned vampire that looks and acts like something from a horror film on late-show television.

Petromyson marinus survives by drinking the blood of living victims, and is one of the most primitive vertebrates still in existence, the National Geographic Society says.

Lampreys may have evolved at least 400 million years ago. Fossils 300 million years old show that the fish has changed little.

A sea lamprey may grow up to 30 inches long. Snaking through the water, it resembles an old piece of garden hose. The fish has no jaws, but its circular mouth is lined with more than 100 sharp teeth. Even the lamprey's tongue has teeth.

The parasite hooks a rubbery mouth onto its prey, then uses the filelike tongue to rasp a hole in the fish. The lamprey injects a secretion into the open wound to prevent the victim's blood from coagulating, then drinks its fill. The victim usually dies.

Sea lampreys are native to Lake Ontario, as well as the oceans. Until completion of the Welland Canal in 1829 enabled them to bypass Niagara Falls, they were blocked from the other lakes.

The first sea lamprey in Lake Erie was found in 1921. By 1937 the invaders were in Lakes Huron and Michigan, and by 1946 they had infested Lake Superior.

PROLIFIC AND VORACIOUS

An adult lamprey destroys an average of 20 pounds of fish in its lifetime, and females may lay more than 200,000 eggs. As a result, the trout catch in the Great Lakes fell in one decade from 8,600,000 pounds a year to less than 26,000 pounds.

"One year we caught six trout – six in all of Lake Michigan," related a commercial fisherman. Whitefish and game fish similarly disappeared. Officials called it "a biological disaster."

Fishermen suggested using flamethrowers on mudbanks where lampreys spawn or putting a bounty on them. There was talk of trying to sell them as food, since lampreys had been a delicacy from Roman times through the Middle Ages. But people preferred trout.

The United States and Canada formed the Great Lakes Fishing Commission to try to save the fishing industry. Mechanical traps, then electrical barriers, were placed in tributary streams before the lampricide TFM was discovered after testing more than 6,000 chemicals.

By 1967 the sea lamprey population had fallen 94 percent in the Great Lakes. Today trout and whitefish are abundant.

LaFreniere

Funeral services for Isabelle G. LaFreniere, 26, of Lansing, were held at Holy Cross Church here Monday with the Rev. Herbert Graf, O.F.M. (Conv) officiating. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Miss LaFreniére was killed outright in a three-car crash at St. Johns Friday morning while enroute to Beaver Island to spend her vacation with her parents, Mrs. Elizabeth LaFreniere and Patrick W. LaFreniere. Details of the accident were not immediately known by the family.

Born at St. James Aug. 12, 1944, Miss LaFreniere was graduated from the Beaver Island Community School and served with the WACs (Women's Army Corps) from October, 1963, to March, 1965. Since then she has been employed in the Secretary of State's office in Lansing. She was a member of Holy Cross church.

Besides her parents, she is survived by three brothers, Patrick E. of Manistee, John N. of Ludington and Joseph W. of Chicago and three sisters, Mrs. Archie Minor of St. James, Mrs. Margaret Plemons of Lansing and Mrs. Jean Osmolinski of Lowell.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Zednicek

Funeral services for Michael Zednicek, 83, father of Frank Zednicek, who died Monday at his home in Saginaw, were held Wednesday at the Case Funeral Home in Saginaw. Burial was in Oakwood Mausoleum.

A native of Czechoslovakia, Mr. Zednicek came to the United States in 1907 and worked briefly in the steel mills in Pennsylvania before coming to Saginaw where he became a machinist.

Surviving are his wife, Anna; two daughters; one son, Frank of Charlevoix and seven grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

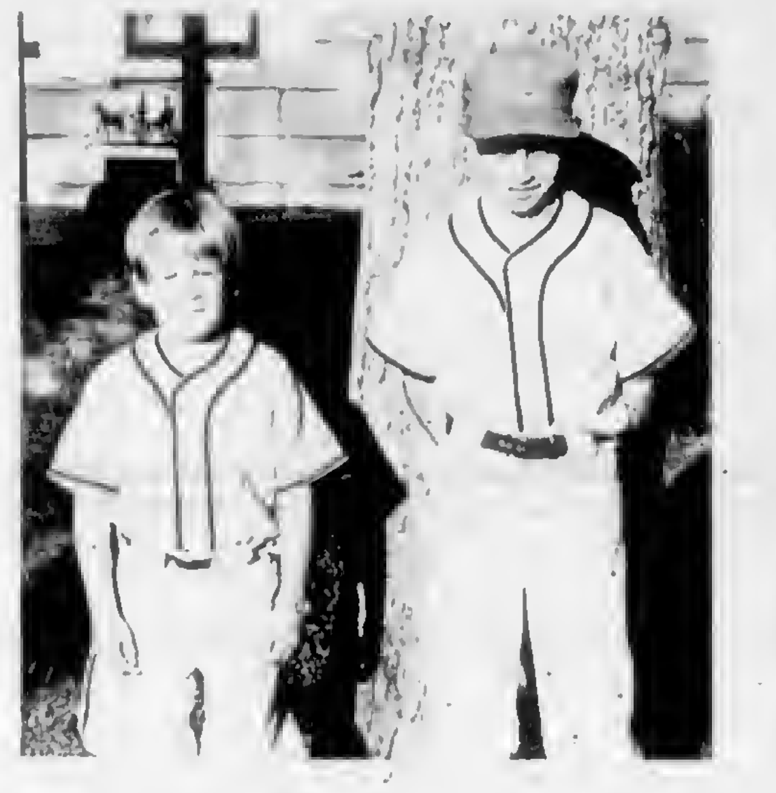
"From the assembly line emerge components (prewired, pre-plumbed, carpets, cabinets, furnace and all fixtures pre-installed) as large as one-half a whole house, all designed to fit together with a minimum of on-site craft labor. These elements are then transported to the site and lifted or rolled onto a foundation."

The firm hopes to start with a capital of about $2 million, which will be supplied by a federal government grant for manpower training, the Charlevoix Development Corp., a plant mortgage and a public stock offering.

The plant itself, including land and mechanical features, will cost about $625,500.

Locals

Mrs. Earl Kroll has returned home after spending the past weekend in Dallas, Texas, attending the wedding of their son, Steven.



JOHN SUPERNAW (right) of the Peewee League and Don Wells, a little leaguer, both sold 50 tickets to the Circus sponsored by the Charlevoix Baseball Program winning them a dinner at the Argonne with Coach Larry Ford.

Portside Arts Fair Set This Weekend

East Jordan's annual Portside Arts Fair will be held this weekend in Memorial Park on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, according to Mrs. William Huckle, publicity director.

More than 90 artists have signed up for space to date and the fair committee expects to reach the 100-limit by the time the fair opens.

The fair will be held from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday and from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday.

The Lutheran Church will sell home-made pie and ice cream on the premises throughout the fair.

A new feature of this year's fair will allow patrons to vote on what they consider the best painting or interpretation of a local scene.

Mrs. Walter Midener, a native of East Jordan and senior instructor of children's classes at the Detroit Society of Arts and Crafts School, will select a local art work for purchase by the Portside Arts Fair Committee. The work will be displayed in a public building in East Jordan.

Balch saw his first automobile in Charlevoix. It was a chain-driven rig owned by a doctor. However, the roads were either sand or mud and the vehicle wasn't much help to the doctor in getting around. The poor man finally abandoned it on Dixon-ave. one day after he ran off the roadway and became bogged down in sand.

"Mr. VanPlanten paid $5,000 for that car," Balch recalls," and the day it arrived in town he shut down the mill so we could all have a look at it."

Balch married the former Mary Jane Dixon in Charlevoix in 1897 and when the timber was gone they purchased a farm at Phelps which they ran for 28 years. Later they bought land near the intersection of U.S. 31 and Barnard-rd., which they sold to Clayton Smith.

Mrs. Balch died in 1960. For the past three years, Balch has made his home in Ellsworth with his eldest daughter, Mrs. Florence Jackson.

In addition to Mrs. Jackson, he has four children still living: Mrs. Flossie Howell of Berkley, Mrs. Rita Dunn of Petoskey and Archie and Kenneth Balch of Charlevoix.

Another daughter, Mrs. Ethel Greenman of Mt. Morris died several years ago.

How does a fellow live to be 97 years old – and still enjoy every minute of it?

"Well, I never smoked or drank," Balch explains, although he doubts that has had much to do with it.

"I've known fellows who drank enough to float a ship and still lived a good long time," he says with a chuckle.

He thinks his parents might be responsible for his longevity. His mother died at age 76 and his father at age 80.

Although his figure is trim, Balch has a voracious appetite.

"I'm still looking for something to eat three times a day – and I never get enough," he says. "I'm not what you would call a fussy eater."

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Archie Balch, whom he visited in Charlevoix last week, says he likes to help around the house.

"I canned beans yesterday and he snapped them all for me," she said

Mrs. Balch and other members of the family are amazed at grandpa's memory. Unlike most nonogenarians, Balch can remember things that happened two weeks ago as easily as incidents that happened before the turn of the century.

Balch drove an automobile up until six years ago when one eye gave out and he didn't have the periphery vision he thought he should have.

"No one told me to stop. I just quit," he says.

But he still misses hopping in his car and driving downtown.

"Once you stop driving, you've lost your best friend," he says wistfully.

Now that grandpa is up in years, folks like to make a big fuss about his birthdays. Last year he received a birthday card from President and Mrs. Nixon. This year, for some inexplicable reason, he received two cards from the Nixons.

Mrs. Balch said the family hadn't planned anything special for his 97th birthday on Saturday.

"We used to always have a party and a big cake, but I think it's too much for him this year," she said wearily.

After talking to Balch, however, you get the idea that although the rest of the family is tuckered out, grandpa won't be ready to call it quits for a good many years.

Art Fair Set Aug. 14

Charlevoix's annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen will be held this year on Saturday, Aug. 14, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and continuing all day.

Because many visitors last year complained that the fair had become too large, the fair committee has carefully screened all entrants this year in an attempt to come up with a select list of the top artists in the Midwest.

As in other years, most of the art works on display also will be for sale.

Archeologists At Work

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY archeologists, headed by Dr. Charles Clelland, are back in the Charlevoix area this summer seeking artifacts left by Woodland Indians who lived in northern Michigan hundreds of years ago. Above, Clelland examines arrowheads and pottery shards found at an undisclosed site in the city of Charlevoix. Location of the "dig" is "classified" in order to discourage visitors. These relics date back 1,000 years.

CRAIG NERN, an MSU senior, examines "post mold" at former Bells Bay village site. A vertical discoloration in the sandy loam is evidence that a post was once driven in the spot as a support of an Indian dwelling. Some of the buildings measured 10 feet by 20 or 30 feet.

NANCY NOWAK of Detroit, an MSU graduate student, carefully measures the exact location of arrowheads, pottery shards and other artifacts found in the "dig." The archeologists will prepare a book on their findings.

Will Indians Ruin Fishery?

DNR Chiefs Split On Threat to Trout

Will Indian commercial fishermen, exercising their newly reaffirmed treaty rights, wipe out the state's entire supply of lake trout within five months?

This was the question posed Monday by Detroit Free Press writer Tom Nugent on information from John Scott, director of the Great Lakes Fisheries Section of the State Department of Natural Resources. (DNR).

Scott is quoted as saying:

"At the present level of Indian fishing, I predict that lake trout stocks will be completely depleted by the end of December. Something has to be done, and done immediately, or we're going to watch a decade of trout-stocking go right down the drain."

However local DNR officials and a spokesmen for the Indian fishermen believe the true situation has been blown all out of proportion.

Mrs. Robert Dominic, whose husband is chief of the Tribal Council of non-reservation Indians, says that there are only 17 Indian commercial fishermen throughout the state, three of whom are semi-retired.

Conservation Officer Harvey Burris agrees that the situation has been over-stated.

"It doesn't appear that they (the Indian commercial fishermen) are hurting anyone," Burris said.

He said Kenwabakisi's tug is equipped with six boxes of nets and brings in about 1,000 pounds of fish a day.

Of the 1,000 pounds, only 40 to 60 pounds are lake trout. The rest are whitefish.

John Cross, owner of John Cross Fisheries in Charlevoix, says he doubts that Kenwabakisi is bringing in any lake trout at all.

Under a recent Michigan State Supereme Court decision, Indian hunting and fishing rights under an 1854 treaty were reaffirmed. Sport fishermen and DNR officials in Lansing are afraid that the Indian fishermen will clean out the Great Lakes of lake trout, which have made a spectacular return in recent years thanks to state and federal restocking programs.

Cong. Phil Ruppe recently asked Attorney General Frank Kelley for a decision on whether Indian fishing rights include the right to fish commercially.

Chief Dominic says there is no question that commercial fishing was intended by the treaty.

He points out that a federal proclamation, dated May 27, 1836, promised the Indians 100 barrels of salt and 500 fish barrels annually for 20 years, in exchange for land.

He believes that the federal government wouldn't have entered into such an agreement unless it was clearly understood that the Indians had permission to fish commercially.

Dominic says the Indian traditionally has used fish and game in barter with white man.

Mrs. Dominic says Michigan Indians have met twice this summer, once in Cadillac and once in Petoskey, in an effort to draw up guidelines for Indians who fish commercially.

The guidelines:

–Prohibit fishing near swimming areas.

–Prohibit fishing near the mouths of creeks and rivers.

–Establish net sizes.

–Require that buoys be placed to work net.

–Bar whites from fishing with Indians, unless the white man is a member of the immediate family. Then he may accompany the fisherman, but he is prohibited from fishing.

–Limit catches to Menominee whitefish, chubs, smelt, herring, perch, lake trout, whitefish, cisco and suckers. All other species will be returned live to the water. If dead, they may be used for personal consumption only.

Mrs. Dominic says the guidelines are not complete, but when they are they will be voted upon and enforced by the Indian community. Violaters will be penalized and will lose their fishing privileges.

Burris doubts that many Indians will go into the fishing business, because of the expense involved in purchasing boats and equipment.

However, he is pleased with the efforts being made by the Indian community to govern commercial fishermen.

According to Mrs. Dominic, anyone with one-quarter Indian blood is eligible for Indian fishing and hunting rights.

Book Sale is First Event In Effort to Aid Indian Kids

Books and old magazines of all descriptions will be on sale on the lawn of the Charlevoix Library Aug. 12 through 14 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. in a Women's Club effort to raise money to keep Indian youngsters in school.

The project has been dubbed Ch-I-C-O, short for Charlevoix Indian Children's Opportunities, and the book sale is the first major fund raising activity.

The Women's Club is accepting donations of books and magazines which will be displayed and sold for three days.

Mrs. Charles Duerr is sale chairman and will accept donations even after the sale starts. Donors may have their donations picked up by calling 547-2603 or they may leave them at the library.

The group also is excepting gifts from groups and individuals. One gift of $200 was received from the Atwood Reformed Church, Bible School.

According to Mrs. Duerr, the purpose of project Ch-I-C-O is to improve educational opportunities for Indian students.

"Funds given to or raised for Project Ch-I-C-O will continue his education," Mrs. Duerr said.

Present officers of Ch-I-C-O Steering Committee are Mrs. Robert Martin, chairman; Mrs. Charles Duerr, secretary; Mrs. Hewitt Johnston, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Barnum, member-at-large.

Distribution of monies received will be handled by a Selection Committee, composed of two members of the Women's Club, including one from the Steering Committee; a representative of the public schools; two representatives of social service agencies and at least one member of the Indian community.

Currently on the Selection Committee are High School Principal Vane Smith, Mrs. Robert Martin, Mrs. Eugene Bergmann, Mrs. Robert Bergmann, Mrs. Keith Miles and Mrs. Calvin Peters.

The Selection Committee held its first meeting Aug. 4 and will meet again Sept. 1 to establish administrative procedures. No funds will be allocated until a survey of the school Indian population is made.

Mrs. Duerr says the money will be distributed to Indian youngsters who need assistance in order to remain in school.

Grants could be made for such wide ranging purposes as the purchase of school clothing to aid in the payment of tuition or rent for college students.

Mrs. Duerr says the Selection Committee must be flexible in order to allocate funds where they are most needed, just so long as there is a connection with education.

School Registration Scheduled Aug. 24

On Aug. 24 the Elementary School will be open from 9 until 12 and from 1 until 3 for the following purposes:

–Parents who registered their children for kindergarten last spring should return the completed health forms as was requested to qualify their child's entrance into kindergarten. When they do this they will receive their child's room assignment and whether he will go, in the morning or afternoon, and the number of the bus he will ride, if any.

–Any kindergartener who was not registered last spring should be registered at this time. He must be five by Dec. 1. Please bring the birth certificate. Health forms will be given out to these parents.

–Any child who was not in attendance last spring in the Charlevoix Elementary School but plans to be in grades one through four should be registered at this time.

GOP Picnic Set Aug. 22

The Charlevoix County Republican picnic will be held Sunday, Aug. 22, at Memorial Park in downtown East Jordan, starting at noon.

CHARLEVOIX is bracing for one of the biggest weekends of the summer when almost 200 artists and thousands of art patrons will come to town for the big Waterfront Art Fair Saturday, Aug. 14. This photo was taken during the fair in East Park last year.

Original in Art Swindle Will Be Shown at Fair

Between 175 and 200 artists from throughout the United States will converge on Charlevoix Saturday for the annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen in East Park.

The show will open at 9 a.m. and will continue throughout the day, closing about 9 p.m.

The fair committee received more than 500 applications from artists interested in exhibiting in the show – which has become one of the largest in the country.

However, because of space limitations, a one-man jury from Ohio was asked to review the applications and send applications to only the 200 artists best qualified to exhibit, according to Tom Merta, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

As in past years, art collectors Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings, who have a summer home on Lake Charlevoix, have donated a painting from their collection to be displayed at the band stand throughout the day.

This year's featured painting will be Raoul Dufy's "The Reception," a copy of which was part of a million dollar art swindle four years ago.

The story of the swindle broke in 1967 when a forgery of the painting was discovered among 43 others in the collection of Texas oilman Alger H. Meadows.

The Art Dealers Association of America declared the original was owned by Nathan Cummings who had purchased it 15 years ago from Nico Mazaraei, the dealer who represented the French Impressionist artist in his early days.

Board Accepts Bids At Short Meeting

In one of its shortest meetings in several months (90 minutes), the Charlevoix Board of Education accepted bids for bread, gasoline and fuel oil and fleet insurance, voted to go ahead with work on a sewer line leading from the high school to the street, to pickup an option on property as a site for another house and to order new typewriters.

The bid of the Oven-fresh bakery of Grand Rapids for white bread (20 oz. loaf) at 19 cents, as compared with 19.35 last year, wheat bread (20 oz. loaf), 20 as compared with 25.6 for the larger loaf last year and hamburg and hotdog buns in bulk lot at 30 cents per dozen, two cents more than last year was accepted for the forthcoming school year.

The Standard Oil Co. bid of 14.98 cents per gallon for gasoline the same as last year, and the Carey Oil Co. bid of 13.9 cents per gallon for No. 2 fuel oil, an increase from 13.75 last year, were accepted. There were two bids for each item.

The Farm Bureau bid of $1,019.81 for fleet insurance was approved.

The need for replacement of typewriters in the commercial department, some of them as much as 20 years old, was discussed. Harold Kauffman business manager, said that 23 should be replaced. However, the teachers, Mrs. Sandra Fassett and Mrs. Doris Robinson, advised that they could do with 15 new typewriters; 10 electric and five standard, so that a planned replacement program could be initiated. Quotations on three manufacturers were obtained. The board recommended that the typewriters be ordered at the lowest price, that of the Olivetta at $250 for the electric and $125 for the standard.

The board also voted to pick up the option on a lot on Hampton-rd. as a site for a house to be constructed by the Building Trades class. The price for the lot is the same as was paid for the first lot, $3,500.

After hearing a report on the cost of replacing a sewer line that has had to be cleared out at least once a month, Kauffman was advised to continue with the work. He said that there is apparently a broken tile that causes a back up regularly and that the only way to remedy the problem is to find the tile and replace it.

He also reported that he had discussed the installation of sewer and water to the new concessions stand where toilet facilities are to be made available with Dean Mikulski of the Health Department. Mikulski advised the installation of a lift station because there is not enough fall to the existing sewer or a 2,000 exclusive of water, tile,

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

This summer, there has been a marked increase of people using the two tennis courts at the Middle School. Do you think the City of Charlevoix should build additional tennis facilities?

Call 547-6558 or drop a post card in the mail to the Courier, P.O. Box 117, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

Results of last week's question: Do you think parking along Bridge-st. should be eliminated?

Yes, 52 percent. "Would certainly cut down on the summer traffic problem."..."In the summer months only"..."There's enough room on the side streets"..."Only if a parking ramp is built." "Maybe it would eliminate parking tickets."

No, 48 percent. "Would hurt the downtown merchants."..."There's a shortage of parking facilities now."..."Where would they want us to park, in Round Lake?"..."What would happen to the parking meters?"

Corral Chatter

Friday, a bright and sunny day until late afternoon, found the boys busy with their activities. In the late afternoon, Cabin 10 with Andy Case as counselor and Cabin 11 with Steve Banta as counselor left for an overnight down to the campcraft area.

These boys were: Chris Holm, Larry Schuler, Todd van Fossen, Hud Mead, Tony Noel, David McClaughry, Tom Miller, Todd Barrett, Alan Lockhart, Matt Foster, Tom Fox and Martin Field. As it was raining after supper, we had a movie about Norway called "The Valley of the Eagles." Boys enjoyed it very much.

Saturday was a bright and sunny day on the cool side but very enjoyable. In the evening we had our first all-camp Capture the Flag event. It was a great effort and played up in the pasture. After an hour of play, the game ended in a tie as neither side had gotten its opponent's flag.

Sunday morning, our chapel service was held in the outdoor chapel. Mark Herschede read the prayer and Larry Hyde read the Scripture. Chuck Osborn gave the talk and it was a thoughtful discourse, showing much thought and concern on Chuck's part regarding what boys get out of camp. A waterfront afternoon had been scheduled, but the wind was stiff, the waves were high and it was rough. So an athletic afternoon was held with all sections having Green-Gray games. In the evening, we had our council ring in the Bigwam as it started to rain. The activity men read the names and had the boys stand up, those boys who had made accomplishment during the week. It is always good to see certain boys being named several times.

Monday morning early, about six, the boys going to Mackinac Island were called and they had breakfast at 6:30 leaving here on the school bus at 7 for a day over on this historic island. These are boys who enrolled last summer for this summer. The boys on this trip were: David Chope, Andy Griffith, Jeff Zoeller, Larry Engel, Steve Osborn, Martin Field, Joe Timmons, David Timmons, Tom Fox, Mike Mulcahy, Brad Mast, David Murray, Richard and David McClaughry, Alan and David Lockhart, Mark Whitehead, Chris Hanson, Kevin McCarty, Scott Rose, Chris Holm, A.B. Nickels, Glen Kirlin, Tom Miller, Chuck Zitsman, Eric Meyer, the four Mantho boys, Mark, Mike, Greg, Robert; Chuck Hartley, Scott Striglos, the four Harrity boys, Andy, Mike, Pat and Bill; Larry Schuler, Tom Harbeck, John Harbeck, Mark Reeder, Tim Washburn, and Greg King.

The staff of this trip were Bill Townsend, director of activities, Ron Schultz, George Tilton, Mike Derrickson, and Dick Geddes. The sun was out bright and glorious all morning, and it was a perfect trip to the island.

The Mugwump was hidden during supper and immediately upon dismissal from the dining room, the boys took off like a shot to find the Mugwump. It was found by Tim Washburn, a Green, who hid it again and this important week "MUGWUMP WEEK" was off and running.

Tuesday, a little warmer day, was a busy one with activities going great all day long. Cabins 8 and 9, Ken Craig and Chuck Osborn's cabins took off for an overnight at the campcraft area. These boys were Pat Green, Ben Dancer, Jim Wiant, Scott Striglos, Andy Griffith, John Norris, Blake Rhein, Dave Barnett, Don Huffman, Bill Hall, David Busch, Don Sinelli, Chuck Taylor and Basil Rowe.

Our Junior Softball team was host to the team from camp Sea-Gull, and our boys came through with a hard-fought victory, 16-8. In the evening, the Intermediate Section had a track meet which the Greys won, bringing the score to Greens- 26, Greys- 27. Cabins 2 and 4 also took off for an overnight, the counselors being Mike Kelly, Ron Schultz and Kim Miller. The boys on this overnight were some of our Jolly Juniors, David Lewis, Robert Phipps, Peter Gardella, Mike Green, Scott Rose, Jimmy Farley, Don Cook, Glenn Graber, Mark Reeder, Andy Hartity, Joe Timmons, Paul Johnson, and Jim Kiraly. It was a beautiful moonlit night with the lake shimmering in a golden light.

Wednesday was a beautiful warm and sunny day and the temperature was climbing, bringing us the warm weather that adds so much to camping. Late afternoon, Eldon Franzen of Cabin 14 took his boys down the Jordan River on a canoe trip. These boys were: David Townsend, Jim Shook, Billy Guggenheim, Greg Mantho, Mike Foster, Jim Norris and Paul Rynak. After supper we had an event that the boys really enjoy. It is called "Capture the Counselor." The staff each has a price on his head, and the team catching the most men adding up to the largest total, get the points. Posters are put up with a picture of each man, and these are all very funny. Some are worth $75, some $300, some $525. After an hour of searching the woods for

Big Mac Invites Walkers To Labor Day Marathon

The 14th Annual Mackinac Bridge Walk on Labor Day morning led by Governor William G. Milliken, starting at 7:30 a.m., is expected to attract between 16,000 and 20,000 participants.

The Mackinac Bridge, which is closed to pedestrian traffic expects

The Mackinac Bridge, which is closed to pedestrian traffic except for Labor Day morning, is geared up for record 20,000 persons taking part in the traditional 4½ mile trek which began in 1958 with 65 members of the International Walkers Association led by then Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

For the past several years the Bridge Walk has attracted more than 15,000 persons, rain or shine. During election years it has become the focal point of political activity, with candidates for state and local offices participating in the Walk and taking advantage of the opportunity to meet and greet bridge walkers as they complete the trek.

Vehicular traffic, both northbound and southbound, is maintained during the Bridge Walk. The two east lanes are reserved for walkers. In past years, southbound traffic has experienced some delay. However, plans are going forward to eliminate the problem this year.

Prior to the general walk, which is not a race, the International Walkers Association will sponsor novice races across the Bridge for men and women, and boys and girls. Registration to participate in this event will be open at the Bridge Plaza (north side) prior to the commencement of these races, which will start at 7:15 a.m.

All walkers completing the trip are given certificates attesting to same. These certificates are numbered and keyed to prizes valued at more than $1,500 awarded by the merchants and the Chamber of Commerce of Mackinaw City.

Marching bands, Boy Scout troops, and community promotion groups are encouraged to participate in the Bridge Walk. However, running, jogging roller skating, bicycling, anything but pure and simple strolling is prohibited during the General Bridge Walk.

Efforts to obtain buses to transport walkers from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace early on the morning of the Walk will be made, but it is strongly recommended that Bridge walkers make provision to be at the Bridge Plaza, north side, on the morning of the Walk without depending on the bus service, which at best is subject to unusual traffic congestion. Persons planning to walk the Bridge must start before 10 a.m.

Thursday morning was another bright warm day, the canoe trip being picked up at East Jordan. Our Junior Softball team went down to Camp Sea Gull where we played two games, each team winning one. In the afternoon, Camp Sea Gull brought its Senior team here, and we won the first game 7-5. The second game went to Sea Gull.

We are busy getting ready for the grand finale of this season, with boys working on the rodeo events. Enrollments are coming in for next summer and boys are anxious to get enrolled so as to get the Mackinac Island trip next summer. Boys are talking about the long trips next week and great plans are being made for the trip over to Beaver Island for three days.

Library Notes

The Library has some new and highly significant nonfiction to recommend this week.

"The Joy of Music" by Leonard Bernstein proves that this extraordinary conductor, composer and pianist is as much an artist with words as he is with music. This handsome volume contains hundreds of musical examples that were performed on television, and even those who cannot read music will be able to follow them by reading the accompanying test, and they can be played on the piano if one wishes. There is a full photographic section, black and white illustrations and numerous diagrams.

"The Years of MacArthur—1880 to 1941" was written by D. Clayton James who studied thousands of documents and spent many hours interviewing and corresponding with men who knew Douglas MacArthur before 1942. These efforts have made possible the most complete biography of MacArthur that one could imagine. There is a marvelous section of photographs. Those who remember these important years will find this book extremely worthwhile.

"Einstein, The Life and Times" is a large and scholarly work by Ronald W. Clark who has written many widely praised books on scientific subjects. Albert Einstein was far more than the physicist who confidently claimed that space and time were not what they seemed to be. Mr. Clark has drawn an extraordinarily moving picture of a man who was one of the great tragic figures of our time. Einstein was one of the greatest contradictions of our times: a German who hated the Germans; a pacifist who changed his mind; an ambivalent Zionist who was asked to head the Israeli state; the physicist who believed in a God.

"The Greening of America" by Charles A. Reich has had such fine reviews and comments that very little more can be said about it. Written by a professor of law at Yale University, it is a serious attempt to analyze sympathetically the youth culture that is turning our country around. The author says that America's institutions are now working, that we suffer from a lack of community and a loss-of-self. Americans, he feels, are violently alienated from themselves and from each other. It is an absorbing and thought-provoking book, and it deserves the high praise it has received.

Of particular interest to a special group of patrons will be "The Diabetic" Gourmet by Angela Bowen, M.D. In this slim volume are delectable recipes chosen by a doctor to make the diabetic diet versatile, appetizing and enjoyable for the whole family. It is a little goldmine of basic nutritional information and meal-planning techniques for well-balanced and tasty meals.

W. Michigan Artist Plans 1-Man Show

Nature artist Yvonne Carlson will present her paintings in a one-man show in Pentwater, Western Michigan's newest art center, in the Village Art gallery on Wednesday through Tuesday, August 18-24.

Mrs. Carlson, of Ludington, is currently concerned in her work with the exploration of nature forms in the Michigan woodlands and beaches around the Ludington-Pentwater area. She paints in oils, watercolors, acrylics, and draws in pencil and Indian ink.

A housewife and mother of seven boys, Mrs. Carlson had held two other one-man shows in the past year, besides participating in juried and invitational shows.

Yvonne Carlson will be painting in the Village Art gallery twice on Friday, Aug. 20, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., and again between 2 and 4 p.m. On Saturday she will also demonstrate her painting skills in the morning, and then attend a reception in her honor 2 to 4 p.m. in the afternoon to which the public is invited, at the gallery.

"Her use of sunlight in her paintings merits special attention," according to Stanley Larson, manager of the Village art gallery. "The light seems to emanate from the canvas itself, and suffuses the whole canvas with a luminous glow. It is a very artistic use of light in a painting."

By BETH BALDWIN

"The policeman is your friend.

"Remember that motto that mother and father drilled into you and told you always to go to the nearest policeman when lost or in trouble.

And now today you're not sure if that man in the blue uniform with the badge they call "pig" is a friend or foe.

Well, in Charlevoix you can almost always count on the man in the car with the bubble gum machine on top. He is your friend and his purpose, assures newly appointed Police Chief Jack Mol, is to make Charlevoix a nice, safe place to live.

The City of Charlevoix has six men and a meter officer on the police force and a fleet of two cars.

At present, according to Mol, "They're tighting down on traffic violations and noise problems."

However, Mol stressed that the men are all very fair and have given out many more warnings than tickets. He said that they realize that when motorists enter a town after driving 65-70 miles an hour on the highways it is difficult for them to adjust to the lower speed limit.

Of course, the question of the youths that seem to inhabit the park must come up. Mol said, "I haven't had any trouble so far and don't expect any the rest of the summer. As long as there is no trouble in the park, the kids are more than welcome."

However, Mol did point out that sleeping on the beaches and hitch-hiking are prohibited within Charlevoix city limits.

Mol admits that drugs are a problem and more education and emphasis must be put on drug abuse within the school system, preferably in the lower grades.

Officer Bryon Stockwell has had narcotics training and the new police chief said he himself hopes to bone up in the subject.

Mol, who was appointed by Mayor Andrew Essenburg jr., in June, studied police administration for two years at Lake Superior State College. He also has served the county as a deputy sheriff and the city as a special police officer.

Other members of the department include Glenn Pemberton who has been on the staff since 1951; Robert Sommerville, 14 years; Kenneth Sweet, since 1958; Sam Alexandar, since 1968; Pat Martin, since 1970; and Bryon Stockwell who joined the department June 15, 1971. Stockwell was a former Sheriff's deputy.

Big Ship Owners Appeal Order to Quit Polluting

Great Lakes commercial ship owners, who lost a recent court case challenging the 1970 Michigan Watercraft Pollution Control Act, have filed a notice of appeal of the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

William Turney, assistant chief engineer of the Michigan Water Resources Commission, expressed the State agency's dismay at the new July 29 action of some members of the Lake Carriers Association. The suit continues the companies' protests against complying with the law through installation of no-discharge sewage systems on vessels.

"We're disappointed with this new holdup in Michigan's water pollution abatement program," said Turney. "We (the staff) have made every effort to show our willingness to work with the carriers on a time schedule and program for installing new waste treatment facilities."

A three-judge federal court panel dismissed the previous district suit on July 12 and dissolved a temporary court order halting enforcement of the Michigan law. Included in the new action by the ship owners is an appeal to reinstate that order.

The shippers charge that federal agencies have indicated plans for water quality standards for watercraft which would be less restrictive than Michigan's. Federal standards would pre-empt any regulations set by the states.

DNR Expects Big Drop In Anterless Deer-Kill

Fewer than 19,000 antlerless deer are expected to be taken this fall by Michigan's firearm deer hunters under 1971 shooting regulations adopted last week by the Natural Resources Commission.

As set by the Commission, the 1971 season's firearm kill quotas on antlerless deer have been limited to 6,120 animals in the Upper Peninsula, 8,760 in the northern Lower Peninsula, and 4,140 in southern Michigan.

Those three figures add up to 19,020 antlerless deer. However, Department of Natural Resources wildlife officials don't look for the actual harvest to hit that total mark, a probability which makes the season's conservative quotas even more so.

They point out that there have been only two firearm seasons—in 1958 and 1959—when the total take of antlerless deer reached the preset quota for the entire state.

In line with the 1971 season's state-wide quota, the DNR will offer a total of 89,500 antlerless deer hunting permits. Hunting under those permits will cover about 38,500 square miles in Michigan.

In the Upper Peninsula, where antlerless shooting was banned last fall, hunting this season will continue to be restricted to bucks-only in Keweenaw County and parts of Gogebic, Ontonagon, Houghton, Baraga, Marquette, Alger, and Delta counties.

Elsewhere above the Straits—on about 12,270 square miles—the November 15-30 firearm season will be open to a very limited take of antlerless animals. Some 32,920 permits will be offered for that part of the Upper Peninsula.

The Commission's decision to lift the U.P.'s moratorium on taking antlerless deer is tied to the fact that the region's deer range is steadily worsening and causing greater winter food shortages for the animals.

The impact of this situation, combined with severe weather conditions, was felt last winter when an estimated 15,000 or more whitetails starved in major yarding areas above the Straits.

DNR wildlife specialists termed that loss a "senseless waste." They called for the small-scaled harvest of antlerless deer in the U.P. to let hunters take some of the animals which otherwise might be lost in another hard winter.

In the northern Lower Peninsula, where this fall's antlerless kill quota was chopped nearly in half from 1970, the area for harvesting these animals has been shrunk by about one-third to cover 9,400 square miles.

Some 37,340 antlerless hunting permits, only about half as many as last season, will be available for that region where the DNR hopes to build up whitetail numbers by taking advantage of a better balance between the deer herd and carrying capacity of its winter range.

The plan there, as reflected by 1971 regulations, is to temporarily cut back on the firearm kill of antlerless deer in those areas where food supplies will allow more animals to be carried through the winter.

The Commission last week voted for 3-percent rollbacks in both southern Michigan's antlerless deer hunting area and its quota of permits. As approved, antlerless deer will be legal targets over 16,828 square miles in that part of the state, with 19,240 permits offered for taking those animals.

Southern Michigan's antlerless kill quota, down about 9 percent from last season, is aimed primarily at easing the major hazard of car-deer accidents which totaled over 5,000 last year in that heavily traveled part of the state.

It is also scaled to maintain southern deer numbers at the highest levels compatible with the region's highway system, agricultural interests, and other matters which involve interplay between people and deer.

4-H Counting Horses As Disease Threatens

Every horse in Michigan will be accounted for if local 4-H groups across the state meet their goal in the battle to minimize the threat of Venezuelan Equine Encephalomylitis (VEE).

"Vaccine must be prepared in case of a VEE outbreak in Michigan," according to a recent report by Dr. Oscar Swanstrom, equine specialist at Michigan State University.

"We need to know how may horses are in Michigan so we could get enough vaccine if an outbreak threatened, and we need to know where every horse is located so that mass vaccinations could be done rapidly," Swanstrom said.

A census of all equines (horse, mules, donkeys and ponies) will be taken by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service on Aug. 11-12. Cooperative Extension Service officials plan to mobilize more than 11,000 4-H members and leaders for a "barn-to-barn" survey in every Michigan county.

"Little can be done to treat horses infected with VEE," noted Dr. Swanstrom. "About 85 percent of all horses infected die within six to seven days after disease symptoms appear."

The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture has declared a state of emergency and federal veterinarians are vaccinating all healthy horses in the southwestern states. No VEE has been reported in Michigan yet, but a mass horse vaccination program, based on the equine census data would probably be started if a VEE outbreak occurred, according to Swanstrom.

VEE can infect humans but is generally not fatal. Many animals can carry the VEE virus in their bloodstreams. These include horses, rats, mice, rabbits, dogs, cats, sheep, humans and maybe others.

Biting insects such as mosquitoes and biting flies spread VEE from the carrier animal to horses and humans. It can also be spread between horses by direct contact, through mouth, nasal and eye secretions and by milk and urine.

The present quarantines and vaccination programs should control the VEE outbreak in the U.S., predicts Swanstrom. But if an outbreak occurs, the equine census data should help provide prompt control, he said.

Radio Club Plans Picnic At Whiting

The Straits Area Radio Club will hold its annual picnic and regular monthly meeting on Sunday, Aug. 15 at Whiting Park which is located just west of Advance on the Boyne City-Ironton Road.

Main topic of the meeting will be a proposal to organize classes for the instruction of simple fundamentals of radio theory and International Morse Code.

All persons presently or potentially interested in amateur radio operation will be welcome.

Official hours are from 1 to 4 p.m. but come early-stay late and bring your own lunch and soft drinks.

Artists Reminded Of Yule Seal Contest

Michigan artists are reminded of the Aug. 31 deadline for submitting designs for the 1973 Christmas Seal in the Call For Artists contest, said John R. Pettibone, Lansing, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

The winners of the Michigan contest will go on to compete nationally for a $1,000 cash award offered by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association to the artist whose design is chosen to spearhead the annual drive against emphysema, tuberculosis, and other respiratory diseases and air pollution.

The design itself will appear on the Christmas Seals mailed to millions of U.S. homes during the 1973 holiday season. It will also appear on posters, billboards and television screens.

Production schedules require that the Christmas Seal design be selected two years in advance of issue, Pettibone explained. The 1971 Seal, created by James J. Clarke of California, goes in the mail this Fall. The 1972 Christmas Seal, now in production, was designed by Linda Layman of Massachusetts.

It is hoped, Pettibone said, that a Michigan artist will submit the design of the 1973 Christmas Seal. Rules and information are available from the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, 403 Seymour Avenue, Lansing 48914.

Sorority Plans Events

Beta Sigma Phi sorority will hold a picnic for members, prospective pledges and their husbands Saturday, Aug. 21, at Depot Beach at 7:30 p.m.

The group's "Beginning Day" will be held Aug. 30 at 8 p.m. at the home of Martha Parsons.

"SIDEWALK DAYS" combine the romance of an old-world marketplace with Saturday evening shopping trips of yesteryear in rural America.

'Sidewalk Days' Have Old-World Flavor

The Ginza in Tokyo.

Maxwell-st. in Chicago.

Lincoln-blvd. in Miami Beach.

And Piccadilly Circus in London.

Charlevoix's Bridge-st., was all four rolled into one on Friday and Saturday during the Chamber of Commerce's annual "Sidewalk Days" sale.

Townspeople, farm families and resorters jammed the downtown section both days, picking up a wide assortment of bargains at unbelievably low prices.

There was a carnival atmosphere in town throughout the sale that kept cash registers jingling from early morning until closing time.

Of course, the shoppers didn't stop with the sidewalk bargains. Participating stores were filled with customers eager to examine — and buy — merchandise not included in the shoppers' bonanza.

We don't know if there has ever been a serious study made of "sidewalk days" as such, but we suspect their success, particularly in Charlevoix, is due to a number of psychological factors.

Although people tell you they object to crowds, man is an essentially gregarious animal. Forget what he says. He enjoys mingling with his fellow human creatures, whether its at a carnival, a fair, a theater or a sidewalk sale.

Secondly, there is an "old world" charm about a sidewalk sale that has been all but lost in the antiseptic merchandising practices of the Space Age.

Remember farm towns on Saturday night? How the whole family would pile into the jalopy or the hay wagon right after supper for the weekly trip to town to shop?

The men would swap farm talk in front of the bank or the hardware store, while the womenfolk bought groceries and calico and the kids stocked up on goodies at the dime store.

Charlevoix's "Sidewalk Days" rejuvenated a good deal of the camaraderie of a small town Saturday night, to the delight of everyone involved.

The only off-beat note was that a number of merchants, for one reason or another, elected not to participate. Although they undoubtedly benefited from the unusually large numbers of people in town, we're terribly afraid that they missed out on both fun and profits.

At the next sidewalk sale, we hope everyone with something to sell takes part.

And what a sale that will be!

Vietnam Vets Having Trouble in Job Market

U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin has called for revision of Labor Department guidelines which he said are barring thousands of returning Vietnam veterans from Manpower Training programs.

In a strongly-worded letter to Labor Secretary James Hodgson, Griffin labelled the guidelines "unrealistic and unfair" and called for a "new blanket policy" declaring all returning servicemen eligible for federal job training.

Under current Labor Department policy, an unemployed veteran is ineligible for Manpower Training if his salary while in the service exceeded the Department's maximum wage level for classification as "disadvantaged."

The Senate Minority Whip noted that a veteran who may have advanced to the rank of sergeant during his military service is automatically rejected because his earned income while in service exceeded the Labor Department's criteria.

Similarly, he said in the letter, a veteran whose wife works or whose parents may have an income above the poverty line is barred from participating in Manpower Training programs even though he may be unemployed and untrained for civilian work.

"Of course, I realize the primary purpose of the Manpower Training program is to reach the disadvantaged. But young veterans are disadvantaged, too.

"While others were attending school or otherwise beginning their careers, these young men were fighting in an unpopular war far from home and far from the rewards of the civilian marketplace," the Senator said.

Griffin urged that preferential eligibility for veterans be adopted not only by the Labor Department but by other branches of government which offer educational or vocational training.

Such a policy, he said, would conform with President Nixon's recommendations to assist veterans and would support national and local efforts to rehire and retrain Vietnam era servicemen.

Calling his requested guideline revision "of critical importance to my state," Griffin emphasized that in the Detroit area alone there are an estimated 23,000 unemployed Vietnam era veterans, many of whom desire job training.

He noted, however, that under the current program only 255 veterans are receiving Manpower Training in the nation's fifth largest city. "Frankly, I am shocked and dismayed at this record," he said.

Enjoyed Festival Edition

August 2, 1971

Editor
Charlevoix Courier
111 Bridge Street
Charlevoix, Mi. 49720

Dear Sir:

A friend of mine who lives in your city, was kind enough to send me a copy of your July 28 issue of the Charlevoix Courier whereby I would share in the activities of the Venetian Festival.

I was in Charlevoix during the week of 12-18 July and only wish I could have stayed longer. It is a beautiful city and I was most impressed with the neat, clean, manicured appearance I observed everywhere. Also, the people I met while there were friendly and very gracious.

In reading this particular issue, however, I noted the defense Mr. Friske gave on his behalf for not voting "yes" on SCR 130 which represented an act of sympathy extended to the Russian people on the death of the three Soviet cosmonauts (he misspelled the word).

I thought his defense weak and somewhat callous. I do not think that SCR 130 was designed to express sympathy "with a system that keeps people in slavery"– the sympathy was extended to the millions of Russian citizens who were experiencing a grief that is not often felt by a nation.

True, they are Russian citizens, but they are not the system (the communist party of the USSR only represents some 3 percent of the total population). They are Russians by chance, not by choice, and they possess a sense of nationalism as much as we do as Americans.

I thought your editorial "Friske Doesn't Know Meaning of 'American'" was appropriate and sincere. However, I must take a slight exception to that article. You state "Friske firmly believes that there is a centuries old plot afoot to bring free people everywhere under the yoke of communist slavery." I support him in that belief.

As a Political Science major and one who has read much about the communist threat to the free peoples of this world I say that the threat is there and has been there actively since just before 1917. A quick review of history will confirm this fact. And if you would consent to the publication of a series of articles outlining the evolution of this threat, I would be happy to supply them at no cost.

I otherwise think your newspaper is very fine and it gave me a great deal of pleasure reading it–it contained mostly good things in life and that was a refreshing experience.

Sincerely,

THOMAS E. BROWN, MSGT, USAF

'Stay As Is Until Law Enforced'

(The following letter was received by the Courier in response to a "Window Box" question on floating docks on Round Lake. It arrived too late to be included in the weekly tabulation of answers.)

Aug. 1, 1971

Sirs,

We are recent purchasers of property on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix and are definitely against more docks until the law is enforced on sealing off the "heads" on boats and then rechecking to see if they are still sealed.

We have just had guests who docked in town - their boat was never checked to see if it was self-contained. Boaters are selfish people and care little about the places they visit.

We love this area and want to preserve what we have. Also boaters even though they are self-contained will leave their docking space, go out into the lake - dump their refuse and come back in, rather than pay the fee. Believe me, this happens.

So, please, unless the boats can be properly patrolled, let's remain as we are. It might be beneficial if some of your members would visit the marinas near Detroit and see the filthy conditions that exist there.

Sincerely,
Mrs. George Henkle

Polish Jokes

By BOB CLOCK

You've heard Polish jokes, right? And Irish jokes and Jewish jokes and jokes about Englishmen, Frenchmen, Chinamen and Mexicans.

Just about every nationality group going has had jokes made up about them dealing with real or imagined idiosyncrasies of the species. Some are funny; some are not, depending on what makes you laugh.

There are probably more nationality jokes current in the United States than in any other country because Americans are an odd assortment of people from so many different lands.

Most Americans seem to take nationality jokes in stride, even when they themselves are the butt of the humor. After all, it is better to be laughed at than ignored.

The one nationality group that has been catching heck in the joke department for some time now are the Poles. If you haven't heard a Polish joke you just haven't been listening.

He is a millionaire from Philadelphia by the name of Edward J. Piszek, president and founder of Mrs. Paul's Kitchens, a food firm.

To counteract all of the Polish jokes he has heard, Mr. Piszek intends to launch a $300,000 advertising and educational campaign this fall to instill pride in Polish-Americans and apparently to educate non-Poles as well.

The campaign will highlight the contributions, heritage and accomplishments of Poles in America and the rest of the world.

"There were just too many Polish jokes going around last year," Mr. Piszek says, "and I thought it time to stand up and do something positive.

He believes too many young Polish-Americans are not proud of being Polish because they don't know enough about their heritage.

"The Poles who came to this country originally were poor, from the most destitute parts of the country, where they had the least education and least exposure to that which is really Polish," Mr. Piszek says. "Consequently, their children never knew what Poland really is."

"It's like if you moved a colony of people from central Georgia to Australia. They never knew what America was and they would never be able to say what it is because they never were a part of it," he continues.

Being in the newspaper business, I think it is very admirable of Mr. Piszek to spend $300,000 on an advertising campaign. But I wish he would spend his money pushing Mrs. Paul's delicacies rather than his fellow Poles. They really don't need it, despite the jokes about them.

As a former resident of Detroit, which has one of the nation's largest colonies of Polish-Americans, I grew up struggling to pronounce the long Polish surnames of my schoolmates and later my co-workers.

I also learned to like kielbasa, perogi, and glumke — although I never never learned to spell them.

And I discovered that Poles make fine friends. If I were pressed into picking out one nationality group that goes out of its way to be friendly and courteous, it would have to be the light-hearted Poles.

I think they invented the word "hospitality." Enter a Polish home, and you are king. You'll be offered something to eat and drink before you sit down and if you are not invited to stay for dinner I miss my guess.

But what about Polish culture, heritage and all that?

When I was about 10 years old, my mother took me to a piano recital at Masonic Temple in Detroit to hear an old fellow who was making quite a name for himself in musical circles. I remember sitting in the darkened auditorium listening to him play and I still recall the goose-bumps I suffered everytime he did something fantastic with the keyboard.

His name didn't mean much to me then, but it did later. He was Ignace Jan Paderewski, one of the foremost composers and pianists of all time, who was elected President of Poland during World War II.

Any country that elects a pianist to the presidency certainly isn't lacking in the culture department.

So I am afraid Mr. Piszek's ad campaign is a lost cause right from the start. How can you improve the image of a nationality group that is already first-rate?

Mr. Piszek might better spend his money doing something about us poor shanty Irish.

Or advertising Mrs. Paul's goodies.

Hypocrisy Allowed

By JIM FITZGERALD

In historic Yankee Stadium, where Babe Ruth smacked all those home runs, there is an unusually graphic display of hypocrisy. It boggled my small town mind and I didn't know whether to laugh or cry. So I simply stifled my emotions with another beer. There was no sense making an ass of myself in front of all those blase New Yorkers who obviously weren't even aware of the 3 signs that had prompted me to grab my son and say: "God God, look at that!"

The first sign, and the biggest, extols the virtues of OTB - Off Track Betting. In New York, you don't have to go to the racetrack or patronize the corner bookie to get a bet down. You can march right up to one of the caged windows at Grand Central Station, among other public places, and pin your money on the horse's nose.

The second sign, almost as big, urges you to buy a ticket on the New York State Lottery. You can win $1,000 a week for 6 zillion weeks, or something like that. The tickets are sold at every cigar counter and in every church vestibule.

The third sign is small and rather weather-beaten. It advises the baseball fans: "No Gambling Allowed."

This is similar to putting up a "No Eating" sign in a restaurant.

The New York government is bombarding citizens with neon pleas to "please place your bets with us, your state needs the money." But if you bet the guy next to you $1 that the Yankees don't score in the 5th inning, you can go to jail, you dirty gambler.

The important thing to remember is that nothing is wrong unless your government says it is wrong. But keep your eye on the atlas. Be sure you know where every freeway exit is spitting you out. It is illegal to bet with a bookie in Michigan. You can't even play bingo there without risking arrest. But in Las Vegas you can shoot crap in the wedding chapels. In New York, Governor Rockefeller will bet you 10 to 1 that Mayor Lindsay won't collect your garbage before it can be smelled in Florida.

The day after the Yankee game we went to NBC to watch the taping of the game show, "Concentration," and we did the usual mugging when the camera swung our way. We were back home a month before that show appeared on the tube. It was the same day Apollo 15 took off for the moon. My son Eddie was terribly concerned that "Concentration" might be pre-empted by coverage of the space launch. Thus he would be gypped out of seeing himself on TV.

His values were obviously out of whack. A moon shot is certainly more important than a silly game show, even if it does star Red Ed and His Waving Hands.

After all, it's been months since anyone brought back a bag of rocks from the moon and the supply must be running low.

But anyway, moon trips are becoming ho-hum things, restricted to the regular news shows. "Concentration" appeared as scheduled and, if you looked closely for 1 second, there was the Fitz family, waving at the world and wondering how long it would be before Ed Sullivan phoned. So there was no immediate need to talk to Eddie about the warp in his values.

Besides, it would have been a hypocritical thing to do. I didn't want Apollo 15 knocking us off TV either. I'm against moon trips anyway, even if they pre-empt Doris Day. The fare is way too high for a lot of people who can't afford to go downtown.

No father wants to be a hypocrite to his son, so I was glad to escape the sham. If I did want to be a phony, I'd aspire to much higher things than pious lies about moon trips. I'd want to work for the New York government, painting signs. I just thought of 3 pips:

1. "This Is A Library." 2. "The Books Are Free." 3. "No Reading Allowed in This State."

Q. I am a student at Michigan State University in East Lansing and am interested in finding out how I can apply for a position as a State Capitol tour guide. I have long been interested in government and feel this would give me an opportunity to view the state legislature first-hand, while earning money for my education. What are the requirements for this job and who should I contact? A.B., Gaylord.

A. The deadline for applications for this has already passed. However, applications will be taken by the State Department of Civil Service for limited openings as State Capitol tour guides for the fall of 1972. Tour guides must have the ability to meet the public and speak effectively before groups. The major responsibility of the job is to point out and explain points of interest in our century-old State Capitol Building. To qualify for the position, you must be enrolled in a college and have completed 12 semester credits toward obtaining a degree as of May 10, 1972. A solid background in Michigan history and government is essential.

The State Department of Civil Service bases it choice of tour guides upon a written and an oral appraisal. The position is classified as permanent part-time, requiring four hours of work each day Monday through Friday and at least two weekends per month. Contact the Department of Civil Service, 320 South Walnut Street, Lansing, for an application that must be returned by May 10, 1972.

Shiftless Male Ants Loaf, Mate and Die

Some ants are so lazy they won't even stir out of the nest for a picnic.

In fact, male ants never work a day in their brief lives. Their only duty is to mate–and die.

A few of the hard-working females loaf on the job. And almost any ant will take a nap, but out of sight in the middle of its nest, thus preserving the family image.

Most ants, however, deserve their industrious reputation. Their great physical capacities and complex societies have helped them survive for some 70 million years, the National Geographic Society says.

The highly adaptable ants have spread all over the world, though they prefer the tropics and avoid arctic regions. The ant family Formicidae numbers about 6,000 species, ranging in size from 1 25th of an inch to more than an inch long.

CASTE SYSTEM PREVAILS

Like bees, ants are social insects living in colonies. Three castes dwell in an ant community: the queen ant, an amazing egg-laying machine; worker ants, sterile females who serve as nursemaids and soldiers; and males, who expire shortly after their nuptial flight with the queen.

After the flight, the queen establishes a colony, building herself a small nest in the earth, under a rock, or in a decayed tree. She lays a few eggs, tending them until a small nucleus of workers develops.

From then on, the queen does nothing but lay eggs. Her single mating leaves her productive for as long as 15 years.

Female workers excavate the nest, clean it, forage for food, care for the young, and defend the colony. Their work is never done. But entomologists studying army ants in Panama found that about 20 percent of the workers were careless housekeepers and lax nursemaids.

The leaf-cutting ants of tropical America are farmers. They cut tree leaf segments and carry them back to their immense nest–often 16 feet deep–where they are used as beds for fungus spores. The ants plant and tend the fungus, their principal food.

ANTS MAKE 'BREAD'

European harvester ants gather seeds and grain, storing them in granaries deep in their nests. After the harvesters husk the seeds, a "chewing society" assembles to masticate them for hours at a time. Saliva transforms the starch into sugar, and the result is a nourishing "ant bread."

Harvester workers take naps within the nest, but often rest at strategic passageways, where they block the way. Worker ants who act as guards usually have a thick skull protected by a helmet-tough skin.

Soldiers are essential, because, as a leading entomologist said, "Most ant societies are organized for total warfare...Fighting goes on constantly." The blood-red slavemaker ants of the United States raid other colonies to steal pupae. When the stolen ants hatch, they take over the work in their masters' nests.

Ants undoubtedly are successful, but they aren't infallible. With single-minded dedication, workers that specialize in nest-building may dig away until the whole nest caves in.

etc, that would be extra. The matter was referred to the Building and Site committee.

Jerrald Redeker and Richard Donaldson were designated as official voting delegates for the Charlevoix board of education at the annual convention of the Michigan Association of School Boards in Detroit Sept. 17-19. Charles Elzinga was named as an alternate.

Kauffman reported that the negotiating teams representing the board and the Charlevoix Education Association had met with the mediator and that other than a few issues relating to specific departments, the negotiations were continuing and that another meeting would likely be called when Richard Donaldson, who represents the board, returns from a business trip.

Supt. Robert L. Miller concluded the meeting with a report on the 24th annual Administrators workshop at Northern Michigan University in Marquette that he attended.

The next meeting is scheduled for Aug. 23.

After consulting with its legal advisor, John Thomas of Flint, the board was advised that it must pass a resolution in order to have cars towed from the library parking lot at a cost to the car owner. The issue was referred to the policy committee. The matter relates to the use of the library parking lot, planned originally for library patrons, by others who utilize it for all-day parking while employed in the business district or by shoppers in the downtown area.

IGA Store Heist Nets $2,500

Safe Removed From Building

Charlevoix City Police are continuing their investigation of a daring weekend break-in at Edwards IGA on Petoskey-rd. and the theft of $2,500 in cash.

The thieves entered the building through a rear window, trundled out the safe through a side door and transported it to vacant land in the Charlevoix Industrial Park, 3 10th of a mile from Mercer-blvd.

There they pried open the door and removed Saturday's cash receipts.

However they left checks totaling $3,900 and the store's file of accounts receivable.

The break-in was discovered at 6:50 Sunday morning by proprietor Dick Edwards when he opened the store.

Police Chief Jack Mol says the break-in occurred sometime after 9:15 Saturday evening when the store closed for the day.

Mol figures that more than one person is involved, because the safe, which measures 22 by 25½ by 30 inches, weighs about 350 pounds and is too heavy for one man to handle by himself.

Marks on the store floor show where the heavy safe was wheeled on its casters to a side door where it apparently was trucked to the Industrial Park.

Entry to the building was gained by breaking a pane of glass in a rear window and opening the latch.

The window is shielded from view by a coin-operated ice dispenser at the rear of the building.

Police managed to get a plaster cast of a footprint beneath the window, but Mol says there were no finger prints on the safe.

The store has been entered on different occasions, but only whiskey, cigarettes and candy have been taken.

Charlevoix police also investigating a theft of gasoline from the Charlevoix City Airport Sunday night and a breaking and entering, accompanied by malicious destruction of property, at a motor home parked behind Freedman Artcraft Engineering on Saturday night.

ENTRY to Edward's IGA was gained through a rear window, partially hidden by a coin-operated ice dispensing unit. The thieves removed a safe containing $2,500 in cash, $3,900 in checks and the store's accounts receivable. The checks and records were recovered with the safe in the city's Industrial Park off Mercer-blvd. The money was missing.

Low-Level Flights Resume

The Strategic Air Command resumed low-level flights over the Bay Shore Bomb Scoring Site Aug. 16, according to the Air Force.

The flights were stopped Jan. 7 following the crash of a B-52 in Lake Michigan off Nine Mile Point. Nine crewmen were killed.

The bombers approach from the north and will cross the coastline about five miles west of Petoskey along a newly designed route. They then continue south to a point about five miles northwest of Boyne City, begin ascending and pass approximately 10 miles southwest of Charlevoix.

Although the new route lies about six miles east of the plant, the AF is continuing its studies relative to relocation of the RBS site.

Pay Freeze Clouds School Bargaining

School Superintendent Robert Miller reported Monday that it is uncertain how President Nixon's 90-day freeze on wages and prices will affect teacher contract negotiations now underway between the Board of Education and the Charlevoix chapter of the Michigan Education Association.

Miller says he hopes to have more information later in the week after conferring with state Department of Education officials.

Since contracts have not been signed, the freeze could mean that Charlevoix teachers will receive wages based on the 1970-71 contract, at least until mid-November.

–Invited world markets to devalue the dollar.

–Imposed a 10 percent surcharge on imports.

–Erased a 7 percent excise tax on automobiles.

–Recommended tax breaks for individuals and businesses, and –Ordered a 5 percent reduction in federal government employment.

The dramatic economic reforms were announced by the President in a special radio-television address to the nation to counteract worsening inflation, coupled with unemployment, soaring imports and a weakening of the dollar in world markets.

City Guards Save Three Swimmers

Deano Davenport, city recreation director, has reported that life guards at all three beaches made important "saves" during the past week.

Sheri Gebeau made a deep water rescue at Ferry Avenue Beach when a swimmer grew tired and panicked in 15-feet of water. The rescue was made about 100 feet from the dock.

Scott Strange, Lake Michigan guard, had a deep water rescue near the platform when a swimmer grew exhausted from swimming in the rough water. The rescue was made about 150 feet from shore.

Tom Webb made a shallow water save when a young four-year old was pushed off the dock at Depot Beach.

The three saves brought this year's total to nine.

However, Davenport added: "We're always happy to announce that our alert guards have made saves, but it must be pointed out that with the water growing colder and rougher, parents should precaution their youngsters about their swimming habits."

Solid Rock Hikes Cost Of Tunneling for Sewer

The Charlevoix City Council learned in a special post-meeting session Monday night with City Superintendent Thomas Hanna that the cost of tunneling under Lake Shore-dr. for the sewage plant outfall sewer will probably run between $7,500 and $10,000.

Hanna said workers have encountered a strata of rock which will considerably boost the original $4,400 estimate.

The city had hoped to "open cut" the road to lay the three-foot sewer line, but the Charlevoix County Road Commission and Charlevoix Township officials objected.

After encountering the rock, Hanna said he met with the Road Commission and Charlevoix Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud for permission to open cut the road.

The commission was agreeable if the city placed $2,500 in escrow for two years to make repairs.

Stroud agreed, if the city would pave Lake Shore-dr. from Lake-st. to Eastern-ave.

Hanna said rather than dicker with the commission and the township it would probably be cheaper to pay for the higher cost of tunneling.

During the regular meeting, the council:

–Heard a renewed plea by Robert Sommerville for improvements to the Pike property on Palmer-st. He was told improvements would be ordered after an inspection by the Health Department. Sommerville and his neighbors claim the unoccupied Pike house is a health and safety hazard.

–Agreed to increase the size of Lots 6 and 7 on Alice-st. owned by Mr. and Mr. Jake White jr., incorporating the former McKinely-st. right-of-way. McKinley-st. has been closed. The two 66-foot lots will now measure 82 and 83 feet. One of them has been purchased by Emil Olach.

–Approved the appointment of Alderman Sam Supernaw to the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission, replacing Alderman Nathan Boss.

–Gave the Corps of Engineers permission to tie up vessels at the city dock and at the foot of Mason-st. when docking space is needed.

–Learned from Cong. Philip E. Ruppe that the Air Force is conducting studies relative to the relocation of the Bay Shore Bomb Scoring Site. The studies will be completed by the summer of 1972. Consumers Power Co. wants bomb scoring runs moved further from its nuclear plant at Big Rock Point, although the city council has objected to any move of the base from the Court Aides Resign Posts

Mrs. Robert (Lillian) Bergmann, Probate Court juvenile officer, has announced her resignation, effective Sept. 1, "for personal reasons."

Resigning at the same time will be Mrs. Bergmann's aide, Mrs. Andrewina Matthews, the juvenile register.

Mrs. Bergmann has served as juvenile officer for five years, serving first under Probate Judge John Makel. Since Jan. 1 she has worked under Probate Judge John Murphy, who serves the combined Charlevoix-Emmet Probate District.

"I intend to renew acquaintance with my husband and take a vacation," Mrs. Bergmann said.

Dutch-Born Sculptor Among Fair Artists

Charlevoix's annual Waterfront Fair for Artists and Craftsmen had an international flair this year.

Sidney VanderWerf, formerly of Holland and now a citizen of the United States, was among the exhibitors.

Though his main field is sculpture, he is also proficient at painting, drawing, lithography and still life photography.

VanderWerf arrived in Canada in 1953 and then moved on to New Jersey in 1956 where he obtained a high school diploma. Later he entered Calvin College in Grand Rapids and four years latter emerged with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

This June, after three years at Michigan State University, he received his Master of Fine Arts degree. He lives in East Lansing.

H now hopes to get a part-time job teaching which would allow him to spend the rest of his time sculpturing. Besides his work he also enjoys music, sailing and traveling.

VanderWerf's specialty is copper tubing. Explaining how one works with it he says that the material (tubing or sheet) is cut with a copper cut, welded, grazed or soddered. Then it is cleaned with acid and water. Finally, in order to give the copper some color, he heats it with a welding torch using a low flame.

Usually, "VanderWerf pointed out, "I have a definite purpose when I start, then I make a drawing and go from there."

His work is usually priced between $40 and $600 depending on size and work involved. Although some people are aghast when the cost is mentioned, he explains that copper tubing is quite an expensive material and also much time, effort and thought goes into each piece of work.

Asked if there is a symbolic meaning to his work, VanderWorf replied, "Yes and no, Most often when I do a piece on commission, I relate it to the building, place, and the purpose."

Church Plans Faith Survey

During the next several weeks, the Community Reformed Church will conduct Community Religious Index.

This involves making a house to house canvass, taking only about three minutes to ask you some questions concerning religious background and belief.

With this information, several charts will be drawn showing: area concentration of different denominations, basic community religious preference breakdown, total of active church participation, and diversification of denominations represented.

This information will be made available to the local ministerial association, hopefully before the end of the summer.

Many of the surveyors are working on the canvass during the day, usually on Saturday, but there will be a concerted effort during the next two Sunday evenings between 9 and 10 p.m.

Ghostly 'Nonsuch' Visits Island

She was the "Nonsuch II", a full-sized replica of the original vessel built in England nearly 300 years ago.

Nonsuch II also was built in England — at Appledorn, Devon — and was launched Aug. 26, 1968.

The Nonsuch I sailed from the Thames River June 3, 1668, opening up the northerly route to the lucrative fur trading of the Hudson Bay area.

The Nonsuch II was socked in at St. James for two days during foul weather before she finally set sail for Chicago.

Later she will return to Canada and be shipped to Winnipeg, Manitoba, where she will be a permanent display in the Museum of Man and Nature.

"The sight of this proud little vessel under full sail would bring a lump to the throat of all who have any interest at all in the sea and ships," commented the island newspaper, The Beaver Beacon.

Yvonne Matchett Wed In Traverse City Rites

Yvonne Davine Matchett of Traverse City became the bride of Carl Timothy Bey, AE2 c, U.S. Coast Guard, in services Aug. 14 at the Central United Methodist Church in Traverse City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Matchett of Charlevoix. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bey of Rogers City.

The rites were witnessed by about 200 guests. Robert Murphy was organist and James Scranton soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white nylon organza styled with scalloped Bordone lace empire bodice, bishop sleeves and A-line skirt that swept into a chapel train. Self-covered buttons accented the bodice and a large fabric rose the waistline added back interest. A band of seed pearls and irridencents secured her elbow length veil. She wore pearl earrings and necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a nosegay of daisies and mums.

Marylou Gergely of Drayton Plains, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Margaret Ann Gergely, another cousin also of Drayton Plains and Katherine Armstrong of Traverse City were bridesmaids and Tammy Best of Ellsworth, junior bridesmaid. Their gowns of fern green crepe had tucked bodices, puffed sleeves and mandarin collars. They each carried a single rose, the honor attendant's white and the others yellow.

Michelle Bey of Rogers City, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Scott Kelly of Charlevoix, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Matchett chose a navy summer linen suit with lace accents and white and navy accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Bey, mother of the bridegroom, wore a white and blue lace gown and white accessories. Their corsages were of daisies and yellow roses.

After a wedding trip around Lake Superior, the couple will be at home at 7206 Cherry Lane in Traverse City.

Can Lot Support Sewage System?

The following warning has been issued by District Health Department No. 3 relative to the purchase of building sites:

"Persons purchasing building sites in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet or Otsego counties should be sure that such sites are suitable in all aspects for the purpose. Many remaining undeveloped sites present problems for installation and functioning of sewage disposal systems. The Sanitary Codes of the above mentioned counties do not allow habitation of any dwelling that does not have an adequate sewage disposal system. A permit must be issued by District Health Department No. 3 prior to the installation of any sewage system."

"Several applications for sewage disposal permits have been rejected because of such existing conditions as impervious soils and high ground water levels. This action means that such sites must remain undeveloped until municipal sewerage is made available or until something is invented that will adequately dispose of sewage on an individual basis in such difficult areas."

"Therefore, persons contemplating the purchase of property for a building site should either ask for an evaluation of the site by an environmentalist from the Health Department or request that the realtor handling the property request such an evaluation."

"Don't make a bad investment. If you are purchasing property for a building site be sure you will be able to build there."

CONSUMERS POWER COMPANY

A Frustration
In Collective Bargaining

"AMNESTY"

Is it a Dirty Word...?

For more than three months, 5,400 employees of Consumers Power Company have been on strike. They are operating, maintenance and construction employees, all members of the Utility Workers Union of America.

For more than six months, the Company and the Union's Executive Committee have endeavored to reach a mutually-acceptable working agreement to succeed the two-year contract that expired April 1, 1971. Finally on August 4, State and Federal mediators evolved a settlement formula which, in the Company's opinion, resolves all major issues. Except one. "Amnesty."

What is the Hang-up...?

Well, here are the facts: The overwhelming majority of our employees are decent, law-abiding citizens. However, over the period of the strike a few militants -- probably fewer than 100 out of a total of 5,400 -- have resorted to violence and sabotage. These individuals have cut primary and secondary power lines, have pounded employees' and customers' cars with clubs, have attacked nonstriking employees with shovels, have slashed tires of nonstriking employees, have slapped nonstriking employees in the face, have thrown eggs and other objects, and have committed assaults on Company personnel, property and vehicles. In some cases, the homes of supervisory and management personnel have been damaged with paint, or have had windows broken.

About 25 of these persons have been identified and, on the basis of good and sufficient evidence of wrongdoing, have had their employment terminated.

The mediators recommended, as part of the settlement package, that the Company and the Union review the evidence against these men, and endeavor to reach agreement whether the dismissals are justified. If agreement cannot be reached in two weeks, the matter would be referred to third-party adjudication.

The mediators presented this proposal as part of a package, along with other compromise recommendations. Many parts of this package were not palatable to the Company. Nevertheless, the Company accepted the mediators' formula, in its entirety, in a major effort to get 5,400 striking employees back to work.

The Union rejected the proposal, insisting on "Amnesty." The Union's position is: Boys will be boys! These incidents should not be considered causes for dismissal. Take back all of these men, without prejudice.......or we will hold 5,400 employees on strike, indefinitely.

Consumers Power Company believes every person is entitled to a fair trial. The mediators recommended -- and the Company has agreed to -- essentially the same procedures that Labor and Management have long recognized in settling individual grievances. That is, mutual review of the evidence and, if agreement is impossible, submission of the case to third-party adjudication.

Consumers Power Company deplores the continuation of this strike. It believes that the mediators' recommendations represent a reasonable compromise.

It is impossible to rationalize the position of the Union's Executive Committee in keeping 5,400 men out of work, depriving them of employment at substantially increased wages, while rejecting negotiation and adjudication to determine the guilt or innocence of those few persons involved in violence and sabotage.

It's High Time City Built Tennis Courts

By BETH BALDWIN

Good news for all those tennis players awaiting new, improved courts in the fair hamlet of Charlevoix. There is an excellent chance that two, or possibly three might be built in time for use next summer.

City Manager Tom Hanna reports that up to $10,536 is available from the state's recreational bond fund for the construction of tennis courts. The City of Charlevoix would have to allocate money for such a project in next year's budget in order for work to begin in early spring.

At present the tennis court project has been put into committee which met Aug. 7 and has been considering property, looking over other courts and getting bid costs.

Max Novak, who met with the committee, feels that asphalt courts painted green would be the most feasible, giving us the most for the money.

According to both Novak and Hanna, the ideal property would be somewhere near the municipal golf course so that both recreational facilities could be run out of the club house.

Hanna said that it is most likely a small fee would have to be charged for use of the courts due to maintenance costs. There is also the possibility of extending memberships.

"The cooperation and sportsmanship at the Middle School courts has been excellent." Novak reported "destruction and vandalism have been nil and there has been very little litter around," he added.

This is all encouraging news to the many tennis players that have been frequenting the Middle School courts since new nets and temporary fence have been installed.

Although the courts are less than perfect, a good number of people have been using them this summer. In fact, many of them took time out to answer in the affirmative to this week's question in the Window Box which asked if the City of Charlevoix should build additional tennis facilities.

One man said, quite truly too, that Charlevoix has the distinct, but rather unfortunate distinction of being the only northern resort town without any courts. Hopefully now the city fathers have seen the growing interest in tennis and will go ahead with the project for more courts. It's their serve.

SLOWPITCH SCRAMBLED

Even though it's the final week of regular play the slow pitch second round race is far from over. Four teams have a shot at winning the title. Medusa and Topside, both tied with one loss, played Saturday night with the winner having the best chance at becoming champ. Freedmans and Andy's both are one game behind and anxiously await the leaders to make a mistake.

Andy's handed Topside its first loss of the round beating them 7-2. Dean Mikulski and Tom Collins each homered for the winners while pitcher Bill Supernaw was scattering six Topside hits.

Freedmans scored seven runs in the seventh inning to beat Medusa for their first loss of the round 10-5. Larry Nunamaker's two homers were in a losing cause. Townhouse edged Airport Bar 4-1 in a well played contest. The winner's Ron Weislek allowed only seven hits.

Portside scored five third inning runs on home-runs by Kraag Lieberman and Dick Oestrike then had to hang on for a 5-3 win over American Mold. Herb Cummings had three hits in a losing cause.

Mold rebounded to pin an 11-5 loss on the Argonne. Mike Crain homered twice and Lawrence Bergmann one for the winners. Bob Holtzman hit one for the losers.

Medusa had little trouble with Townhouse winning 15-7. Sluggers Larry Nunamaker and Pat Kerr continued their torrid hitting collecting two and three hits respectfully.

Andy's needed two seventh inning runs to beat Howards 6-5. Harv Cole's pinch home run did it.

A relaxed Portside team dimmed Freedmans title hopes with a 14-5 win. Harry Gibbs homered twice and Norm Probert once for the winners while Duane and Glenn Taylor hit one each for the losers.

Freedmans used Gayle Shelden's homer to edge Argonne 5-3.

Howard's split a doubleheader losing to Medusa 7-2 but bouncing back for a 4-0 win over Airport Bar.

Andy's had to go extra innings before finally subduing Portside 3-2 on the bat of Ken Balch. Balch's two-run homer tied it in the sixth then his base hit won it in the eighth.

Topside had trouble but had enough to beat a stubborn Argonne team 5-3.

PEANUT LEAGUE

It appears a playoff to determine the second round winner will be in order as the Braves and Lions appear to be tied with each having a game against the last place Tigers during the week.

The Lions beat the Astros 8-1 despite collecting only three hits. Bob Alger scattered four hits for the win.

The Lions knocked the Cards out of the title picture with a 12-6 win.

The Cubs edged the Tigers 6-4 on Darrell VanLoo's three hits.

Friday was another beautiful day and the air was filled with excitement as it was the final day of the Mugwump activity and boys were busy trying to either run the Mugwump or trying to stop its running. Cabins 6 and 7 left by canoe for the campcraft area. These counselors were Mike Derrickson, Paul Dancer, and Craig Schuman. The boys enjoying this trip were: John Briggs, Miller Bransfield, Charles Ruwe, Steven Busch, Chris Mebus, Dean Lewis, Bill Foster, Glen Kirlin, Robert Lyman, Pat Harrity, Jeff Zoeller and Phil Mebus.

It was a great day for activities and a full moon at night made it a day to remember. It is amazing that several boys have mentioned that they had never seen a moon so huge, so round, so golden. Our site here makes both sunsets and moonrises, events to behold, and boys are quite excited at seeing these for the first time and really noticing how beautiful they are.

Saturday was another hot day, great for camping. Several parents were in camp seeing their sons and we always enjoy these visits. Boys are enrolling for the 1972 season. The Seniors worked all afternoon getting the Bigwam decorated for the dance that night with Camp Chieka-Mi Girls. These dances are an important part of the program, and our Senior Boys all look forward to this social activity. The rest of the camp had a Seavanger Hunt which ended with the Greys winning two points, the Greens-1 point. The score at this stage was: Greys-35; Greens-30.

Sunday morning we had our church service in the outdoor chapel. Mark Herschede gave the prayer, with Tony Wood reading the Scripture. The talk was given by Lee Fernstrum who made the boys think of what the summer here at camp has done for them. There were several parents visiting us for this service. In the afternoon, we had the mile swim which is a big event, with many of the better swimmers going after two miles. It is quite a sight to see all the camp boats, sailboats, canoes, rowboats, power boats, all lined up along the course, to keep an eye on these swimmers. The water was a little rough, but it was a hot afternoon.

Twenty-three boys finished the Two Mile Swim which was a record number, with thirty-eight boys making the mile. The first boys to finish were: Derck Van Fossen, Greg King, Matt Foster, Brad Hillis, Martin Field, Jim Shook, and Steve Soderberg. In the evening, we had a council ring down on the shore of the lake. It was a beautiful night, and boys enjoy good singing, good talks, and an atmosphere of quietness and beauty.

Monday morning dawned dark and hazy and there were many anxious boys waiting word as to whether the long trips would leave camp or not. The canoe trip left first, our trips man taking them to the Manistee River for their three day trip. These lucky boys were: Larry Webb, Mark Herschede, Jim Shook, Glenn Graber, John Breitinger, Chick Taylor, Tony Woods, Derek van Fossen, Tom Harbeck, Don Hoffman, Steve Osborn, David Busch, Robbie Quinn, and Eric Meyer. The men on the trip were: Tom Dorsek, Ken Craig, and Chuck Osborn. The riding department took off right after lunch. All the cowboys were along and the boys chosen for this trip were: Jim Norris, Mike Foster, Dave Townsend, Paul Rynak, Greg Mantho, Brad Hillis, Mark Wilson, Doug Morton, Dean Lewis, Tod van Fossen, Nick Ashplant, Ben Dancer, Pat Green, Blake Rhein, Andy Griffith, Dave Lockhart, Larry Schuler, Bob Mantho and Mike Dupree. The sailing department got away after lunch for their sailing trip around Lake Charlevoix. Boys chosen for this trip were: David Timmons, John Vander Veen, Craig Hanson, David Stringer, Chuck Hartley, Larry Hyde, Eric Artman, Bill Hall, Frank Perron, Matt Foster and Mike Mulcahy. It is always a thrilling sight when our fleet of boats take to their sails and silently steal away down the lake.

Tuesday dawned bright, sunny and hot and gave promise of another fine day for camping. At nine thirty, the entire Junior and Prep Sections, plus Ruby, Ruth, Bobbie, boarded the school bus for a Mystery Trip. The boys were all excited and could hardly stand it. They were taken to Boyne City where they boarded the Boyne City Railroad for a ride to Boyne Falls and back. The English Train, with its steam locomotive "Flying Dutchess", with its English passenger cars were all imported from England in 1970

The Mosoryak girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosoryak, owners of Al-Ray Cottages in Ironton. The other skiers were in the area for a two-week vacation.

Here's How to Protect Your Favorite Road

Guidelines to help Michigan counties preserve local byways as natural beauty roads were announced this week by the Department of Natural Resources.

Availability of the guidelines opens the way for county road commissions to designate minor roads in accordance with an act passed last year by the Legislature.

Purpose of the act is to make possible the preservation of native vegetation and other natural features of "back roads" throughout the state; to protect them from cutting, spraying, dusting, salting, mowing and other practices which would affect their natural attractiveness.

The act provides that 25 or more property owners of a township may petition their county road commission to designate a county local road or part of it as a natural beauty road. It also stipulates that the road commission shall hold a public hearing within 60 days of receipt of the petition. Following the hearing, the road commission may officially designate the natural beauty road by filing a resolution with the county clerk.

The guidelines for designation of the roads were drafted by the Department of Natural Resources with cooperation of the County Road Association of Michigan and a citizens advisory committee. Copies have been distributed to county road commissions and are also available from the Department of Natural Resources, Mason Building, Lansing 48926.

In order to qualify for designation, according to the guidelines, a road must have outstanding natural features along its borders which set it apart from other roads. These include native trees and vegetation, scenic vistas or other unique features.

Minimum length is one-half mile, and the road should preferably have no development adjacent to it. Normally the road should function as a local access road carrying a minimum of traffic.

Maintenance should be at the same level as performed on the road prior to its designation. Mowing should be limited to the area immediately adjacent to the road, and grading should be as narrow as possible. There would be no herbicide spraying, according to the guidelines. There would be no herbicide spraying, according to the guidelines. Tree and shrub trimming should be done only where safety demands it.

Busing is Rocky Route To Integrated Classes

Poor Richard Nixon is catching the Old Harry again, this time over his refusal to use federal monies for the busing of students in the interest of classroom integration.

In fact, he has said he will transfer or dismiss any federal official who requires more than the minimum of busing that the law and the courts will tolerate.

The reaction of the liberal press and Civil Rightists has been predictable. They claim Poor Richard is a tool of the bigots, the racists and others who would promulgate segregated classrooms forever.

Even Gov. George Wallace has gotten into the act on the side of the President. The governor has countermanded a federal court order assigning a white girl from the Birmingham, Ala., area to a school 22 miles from her home. Wallace has given her permission to attend a school only four miles away.

The governor explains that he is merely going along with the President's wishes.

Which is a lot of hogwash. President Nixon and Gov. Wallace are no closer together on the issue of racial integration than Spiro Agnew and Timothy Leary are on the issue of legalized marijuana.

Unfortunately, the President doesn't express himself very clearly and all kinds of misinterpretations are bound to result from his most benign pronouncements.

There are plenty of valid reasons for not busing students any further than absolutely necessary, but the President doesn't mention any of them.

In the first place, the busing of school children started out to be a means toward a better education and should never have become a football in the arena of school integration.

The only reason for busing students at all is that broader curriculums and more highly specialized instruction are available in large, consolidated schools.

To be economically feasible, particularly in rural areas, such schools must draw their enrollment from a wide area. And since it is unrealistic to expect youngsters to walk several miles to and from school each day, buses are necessary.

However, the Civil Rights people have hitched a ride on the school bus as a means of achieving with one stroke the classroom integration they have sought for the past 20 years--and hang the expense.

If they have their way, large city school districts, which have never owned a school bus because every kid lives within walking distance of a school, will now have to buy whole fleets of them to transport suburban youngsters to inner-city schools and inner-city children to the suburbs.

Instead of attending the closest school to his home, a youngster may find himself assigned to a school 10, 15 or even 20 miles distant. He may spend as much as one-quarter of his school day riding a bus.

Which is sheer nonsense in our book. A youngster's time is far too valuable to waste traveling hither and yon unnecessarily on a school bus.

Furthermore, the tax dollars paid by his parents are too hard to come by to be squandered on the purchase of unneeded school buses, bus maintenance and the salaries of school bus drivers.

Then there is the safety factor. Despite their superb construction and skill drivers, stop-and-start school buses pose one of the nation's most deadly traffic hazards. And one school bus accident can wipe out in a flash the hopes and dreams of an entire community.

Are artificially integrated schools worth the risk, the expense and the inconvenience? We doubt it.

Even the most adamant school integrationists admit that an even balance of blacks and whites in every classroom is not the answer to America's racial dilemma.

The products of integrated classrooms tell us that although they had friends of both races in school, by and large the blacks associated mainly with blacks and the whites with whites--the same people they associated with in AFTER school activities.

Teachers, furthermore, tell us that it is far easier to maintain a healthy learning atmosphere in a classroom that is all black or all white rather than in a mixed classroom.

Such a situation is a sad commentary on America today, but perhaps it is one to be expected at our stage of interracial development.

The dream of the Civil Rightists to achieve equal education for all Americans should not be abandoned, because equal education is the foundation of equality.

But we believe it is folly to insist on classroom integration, via the school bus route, when so many other segments of society must be integrated first.

Old-Time Telegraphers Have Lost Their Luster

A "brass pounder" with a good fist is worth his weight in gold during a storm at sea. On land he finds it hard to make a wooden nickel in fair weather or foul.

A brass pounder is a telegrapher who taps out the dot-dash Morse code on a single key. Each pounder has his own fist, or personal style of sending.

International regulations require cargo and passenger ships to carry Morse operators, though teleprinters and the telephone have replaced them on land, the National Geographic Society says.

Sending code signals by radio telegraph to ships at sea often is the best way of keeping in touch with the constantly moving vessels. Low-powered transmitters are adequate, and changing frequencies is easy.

More importantly, code will penetrate the static that disrupts voice messages. A good operator can send and receive messages through the most severe storms.

A few Morse strongholds survive ashore. An amateur radio operator must pass a Morse test before getting his novice license. Boy Scouts learn the code. Military messages often are sent in coded Morse code.

It's a far cry from the golden age of Morse when green-eyeshaded operators were important personages at railroad stations, newspaper offices, and the World Series.

Trademark of the Morse men was a tobacco can stuck in the magnetic sounder to amplify the dots and dashes. A brass pounder dented his tin to give his clicks a distinctive sound. Seated at their "bugs," high-speed sending keys, the operators licked out 50 words a minute, or more.

In his youth the late Dr. John Oliver LaGorce, who became president and editor of National Geographic, was a fast and talented Morse man. He worked out of the U.S. Capitol press galleries.

Telegraph operators had to be fast typists to transcribe incoming messages often peppered with abbreviations: When a sender transmitted POTUS, the receiver typed, "The President of the United States."

Stolen Canoe Shakes Faith In Our Area

Box 204
Charlevoix
Aug. 9, 1971

Dear Editor:

Perhaps the Courier can help restore my faith in the goodness of people in our clean North Country. My children had a canoe and now it's missing from our cottage here at Pine Point.

For years we have always left it on the beach and it was never disturbed. We don't like to think that someone deliberately took it, and are more inclined to think that someone "used" it and neglected to beach it properly.

It has not turned up through the Sheriff's Department and we are at a loss as to what could have happened to it.

Speaking for Mike and Kristen, please, if anyone has seen a red canoe beached somewhere, call us. We can identify it and will gladly repay anyone for their trouble in returning it. Phone 347-2310.

Thank you,
Mrs. Anna McClure

Why Can't Americans Buy Gold

Charlevoix, Mich.
8-11-71

Mr. Bob Clock,
The Charlevoix Courier.
Dear Mr. Clock:

Thirty-eight years ago, it became illegal for citizens of our United States to own gold.

There must have been a good reason at the time for our government to deprive us of this freedom, but why is it still imposed upon us?

The price of gold is now about seven dollars per ounce above the pegged price established by our government.

The rest of the world may invest in this commodity, but an American citizen may not hedge against inflation by purchasing it on the world market. It seems he should have the same privilege enjoyed by the peasants of Europe who have become prosperous on the foreign aid paid for by American taxpayers.

Despondently,
Geddie.

U.P. Bears Dangerous

Dear Mr. Clock,

I was appalled by your insinuation in the "Clockwise" column that the U.P. bears are not dangerous and could be approached as you would a neighbor's dog. You and the family you observed were extremely fortunate in not being injured.

I hope no one is injured because of a false sense of security around wild bears that was created by your column.

Sincerely yours,

The Last Laugh

By JIM FITZGERALD

When I take my kids into strange and wondrous towns, full of beautiful scenery and historic monuments, the first thing they do is run into the motel room and make sure the TV works.

Which, whether I like it or not, broadens my education. On our last trip, through 6 states, I learned that local TV newscasters are the same everywhere. At 6 and 11 o'clock every night they sit around a table and titter, guffaw and giggle at each other. The weatherman always says the sportscaster was drunk last night and the anchor man's assistant always laughs so hard at the boss's jokes he has trouble telling you that 10 children were burned to death that afternoon.

Those fellows sure have fun while they work. It's never that many laughs working on a newspaper. Oh, we chuckle once in awhile. Like when a Scout troop tours the plant and one of the kids falls into a printing press and the other kids fight about who gets to read him first.

But mostly, it's pretty sober back here behind the typewriter keys where the day to day record of life is reported, interpreted, explained and frozen to pages so that future historians may study them and know the who, what, when, why and where of long-ago 1971. (If you wrote crap like that, could you laugh?).

I've been wondering how things might be made more jolly around the newspaper I edit. I called my staff together and told them what I had in mind: "I don't expect you to write funny news. Anyone can do that simply by reporting on the everyday activities of our state legislature. What I want is a crew that can say funny things to each other while writing sad news. I want a reporter who can giggle when he hands the copy boy a list of the 153 people killed in this week's air crash. I want you to be like those newscasters on TV."

"You got drunk last night," my assistant said to the sports editor who happens also to be me. Mine is a small newspaper and I am editor of everything including the restroom walls.

"That's because this is a small newspaper and one man has to do the drinking for a dozen editors," I said. "It's a wonder I get time to work at all."

"Hey, that's pretty funny," my assistant admitted.

"Thanks," I said. "Now you say something funny. I can't do all the work around here."

"Well," he said, "according to this U.S. weather report there is going to be a tornado, a tidal wave and an earthquake in the tiny seaport town of North Ring-a-Ding which means those people will finally have something to do Saturday night except go to town and watch haircuts."

"Now you're getting the idea," I praised him. "Keep slipping in those zingers. But remember to save your greatest knee-slapper till the end of the day, just before we go home. I've noticed that those TV newscasters always leave 'em laughing. The anchor man always delivers the topper and, as the program fades out, everyone is rolling on the floor, laughing fit to cry and yelling at each other about what a great card the anchor man is."

"On a newspaper," my assistant said, "I suppose the editor is the anchor man. Lord knows our editor has enough lead in his butt to anchor the Queen Mary."

"Very funny," I told him with a chuckle. "You're fired."

Clockwise

Woodshed Or Psychology?

By BOB CLOCK

Any adult who has ever spent 24 hours under the same roof with a child has some pretty well-entrenched ideas about child discipline.

And Dr. Wallace LaBenne of Eastern Michigan University's Department of Education Psychology is no exception.

In fact, he has written a book on the subject entitled "The Cure Is the Cause."

As the father of three and a life-long educator, Dr. LaBenne thinks it is surprising that his university doesn't offer a course in child discipline, since it is the "number one thing parents and teachers are concerned about."

I agree that we all are interested in raising a crop of children sufficiently well-disciplined that they manage to escape the gallows, the gas chamber or the firing squad.

But I don't think it is at all surprising that universities, even EMU, have failed to come up with a body of course work in such a vast and unfathomable area as child discipline. There probably are as many theories about how to discipline a child as there are adults to do the disciplining.

Furthermore, it is futile to try to come up with any hard and fast set of rules governing the mercurial relationship between parent and child.

Dr. LaBenne is a strong believer in what he calls "corrective discipline."

"Parents assume that children are inferior creatures," he says. "They have a preconceived notion of what a child ought to be and try to force their child into that mold."

"We impose our own limitations on our children. Children are human beings. They are individuals. They have rights. When they misbehave, they are portesting something. It's up to the parents to find out what underlies that behavior."

Dr. LaBenne believes that children are actually sensible creatures who will do what's best for themselves as long as parents don't set up meaningless 'obstacle courses."

Dr. LaBenne's ideas are interesting, but from a practical standpoint, I'm afraid they are applicable only to the doctor and his family.

Disciplining a child is such a personal thing that we seriously doubt whether the experts can give us laymen any help at all.

Some parents, for example, try to correct erratic behavior with gentle cajoling and verbal warnings. Others let the paddle or the razor strap (remember the razor strap?) do their talking for them.

And still others, probably the great majority, use a combination of the two, depending on circumstances.

Like our kids, we are all victims of our own upbringing. If we think our parents did a half-way decent job, we will probably discipline our children in the same manner.

If we think they did a lousy job, then we probably will bend over backward to do things differently. And no amount of lecturing is going to change us.

Although kids don't realize it until they are parents themselves, the greatest motivating factor in any kind of discipline is the child's safety.

A toddler doesn't realize how bad it hurts to get hit by a Mack truck. But it doesn't take him long to learn that daddy will paddle his bare butt if he steps off the curb again.

Of course children are human beings and I suppose they have their rights. But they are also young, inexperienced and pretty dumb when it comes right down to it. They must have discipline of some kind — name your own brand — if they are going to live long enough to exert their humanity and their rights as adults.

Dr. LaBenne's ideas, by and large, are sound. But I'm afraid they wouldn't work for everyone.

Q. Last year my father changed automobile insurance companies to get lower rates. Just recently, he received a letter stating that his policy would not be renewed because my brother and I have had too many speeding tickets in the past three years. Can anything be done to renew his policy, at least until my brother and I have a chance to clear up our records? B.K., Escanaba.

A. According to the State Insurance Bureau, a company may not cancel a policy that is in force, but it is allowed to decide which customers it will accept. Apparently, your company is exercising this right in refusing to renew your father's policy.

However, to make sure that every driver will have a source of insurance, the state, by law, has established an insurance pool. Any driver unable to obtain coverage through normal channels may make application through an insurance agent to the Michigan Automobile Insurance Plan, Claude Sheets, General Manager, 18971 Greenfield-rd., Detroit. The driver will then be assigned to one of the companies licensed to do business in the state.

Q. I am interested in finding out how I can apply for a summer job with the Department of Natural Resources. I would like to work in a state park near my home, but do not know who to contact for an application. P. V. Sault Ste. Marie.

A. Recruitment for state park employees is handled by the Department of Natural Resources through a Civil Service Examination. The exam for summer employment, however, was offered in February. Mr. James Wilkinson, assistant personnel director of the Department, informs me that over 4,000 persons qualified on the tests for the 150-200 seasonable positions available.

If you think you might like to work in a state park next summer, however, you should apply now. Contact Mr. Robert Ring, Department of Natural Resources, Mason Building, Lansing 48926, for an application form. He will also notify those who apply of the next date scheduled for the required Civil Service Examination.

Charlevoix--The Beautiful

By JOHN ROSQUIST

This northern hundred miles of Northern Michigan
God gave it special care
That is why you see so much beauty here.
Do you really know why? The sky seems so blue and so high?
Why the good fresh air makes you feel so much better here?
In the middle of this beauty is the city that we enjoy
It is our beautiful City of Charlevoix,
We must rather say the name in full, Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Of our natural beauty we should not be proud
For it really is a gift to men from God.
But to keep this beauty here
We must give it special care.
If you come here to play golf
That is a problem that we can easily solve.
Oh, we have many good golf clubs here
One has a big tournament every year.
There's another game that takes some skill
And you can play it if you will
For we have eight shuffleboards in our City Park
Young and old can play all day
Or under the electric lights after it is dark.

Of marinas we have quite a row
Where you can rent boats fast or slow
Beautiful yachts come here and these you will adore
For them there is mooring at the piers on our Round Lake Shore
So if it is swimming, fishing, boating, water skiing you enjoy
You can have it both in Lake Michigan or Lake Charlevoix.
If you are young or old, if you are a girl or a boy
There are so many things you can enjoy
Both in and around our City of Charlevoix.
We do like to say the name in full
Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Hardware stores, banks and drugstores come in pairs
There is some competition there.
We have also many other stores
With merchandise of the kind that you adore.
Supermarkets we have three
With plenty of parking that is free.
If you are looking for a place to eat
That requirement we can easily meet
For we have many restaurants
Which try to serve the very best.
They will be glad to have you as their guest.
So if it is shopping and eating you enjoy
You can have both here in Charlevoix the Beautiful

Of that name we are so proud
But its beauty really comes from God
But to be fair we must admit
There are other beautiful cities around here
Which of beauty God gave them their share.
We really like this beautiful part of our State
As a summer resort it highly rates
People come here from all our states
They come here to enjoy our good air and our beauty
To take good care of them shall always be our aim and our duty.

This is also a good winter resort
If you enjoy skiing, skating, snowmobiling and other winter sports.
We must not forget to mention our popular Venetian Night

We must do all we can to justify
The beauty in our City's name
Let us all do what we can – it really is our duty
To see that the City keeps its full name and its beauty.
We must also do all we can
To keep our air and water pure
For that really is the reason why
The sky is so blue and so high
For this good air brings to you so much pep
And so much lighter and faster is your step.

There's another attraction we will mention here
That is our yearly much attended Artists' Fair
And now this poetry is near its end
But the beauty in this land we must always defend.
To our guest-to-be a welcome sign you will see
And we really mean what we say
You are welcome if you come here on a visit or to stay.
Now we wish some song writer will come along
And with some music put this poem into a song
So we could sing our name in full
Charlevoix the Beautiful.

Camp Charlevoix Chatter

after having been in British Railway Service for many years. This was a high point of the season for many of the boys and it was truly an adventure which they will always remember. The horseback trip returned, tired but happy. Late in the afternoon, we had a terrible rain storm and shortly the telephone began ringing with calls from both the sailing trip and the canoe trip asking us to please pick them up We sent our power boats to pick up the sailors and our truck to pick up the canoers. The boys in camp had a movie, and at supper time the sun was out, it was a beautiful evening and the Greens picked up a point in the Junior Section, bringing them within four points of the Grey leaders.

Wednesday dawned sunny and beautiful, a little cool, a typical football day, crisp. Four boys passed their Junior Life Saving tests, Brad Hillis, Greg King, Brad Mast and Robbi Quinn Late afternoon, our hikers took off for Beaver Island via the boat from Charlevoix They were well packed with back-packs, and ready to hike around that famous island. Boys choosing that trip were: Bob Wilson, Greg King, Ernie Evans, David Chope, Tom Vander Veen, Peter Perron, Beau Hopkins and Rick McClaughry. The head of our trips department, Bruce Jendrusina, accompanied these boys on what is really a hiking trip. The Green-Grey competition was in its final week and getting hotter by the day. In the evening, the four sections meet in four separate competitions, with the Greens picking up a point.

Thursday was rather cloudy, with regular activities going full force. The riders were busy at the stables practicing for the Rodeo, which is Friday afternoon, Aug. 20, at 3 p.m. We hope all the parents will be there. Camp is rushing to its climax and special events are piling up, preparations being made, and boys getting excited. Enrollments are coming in for next summer and we pope that all the parents will be here for the closing events on Friday, Aug. 20.

The North Michigan Chapter of the National Health Foundation met Monday evening at the Community Room of the First State Bank.

Following a short business meeting president, Rosalee Ottinger introduced William H. Sturm, DDS of Bay View, Detroit and Del Ray Beach, Fla.

Dr. Sturm spoke on "Nutritional Deficiencies" as detected through dentistry. Dr. Sturm practiced preventive dentistry through a long career up to his recent retirement.

From time to time he quoted Dr. Melvin E. Page, DDS of St. Petersburg, Fla., who has been advocating the prevention of degenerative diseases for many years through the Page Foundation. He confessed that Dr. Page's publication, "Young Minds and Old Bodies" started him on the road to a close association with Dr. Page and his theories.

CHARLEVOIX

TWO CHARLEVOIX natives, Bill and John Haggard, have purchased the former Mol Plumbing and Heating business at the corner of Antrim and State-sts.

Haggard Brothers Buy Mol Plumbing Business

The Mol Plumbing and Heating shop at the corner of State and Antrim-sts., has been purchased from Jack Mol by Bill and John Haggard.

Details of the transaction were completed June 8 following Mol's appointment as Charlevoix chief of police, but the sale of the business was not announced until last week.

Both natives of Charlevoix, the Haggard brothers are partners in the business, which was started almost 60 years ago by Bob Bonthron.

The plumbing shop was operated by John Mol and his son Jack for more than 30 years.

A master plumber, Bill Haggard was graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1955. He attended Michigan State University and later worked for the Michigan Department of Conservation. He worked under a local plumber from 1962 until 1967 and later did plumbing in southern Michigan before going into business for himself in the Charlevoix area.

He and his wife, the former Mary Richardson, have one daughter, Diane. They lived on Mercer-blvd.

John Haggard was graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1959 and attended the University of Tennessee and Ferris State College, receiving his B.A. degree in business administration from Ferris. He spent two years in the Army and worked at the Dearborn Iron Foundry for Ford Motor Co. before returning to Charlevoix to make his home.

He and his wife, the former Phyllis Stevens, have one daughter, Marylea. They live on Meech-st. but plan to move to North Point in the near future.

The brothers are the sons of the late George O. Haggard, who died in 1953, and the late Mrs. Polly Haggard Shadko, co-founder of Charlevoix's Polly-Kay Shop on Bridge-st.

Working with the Haggards will be bookkeeper Ed Edwards and two plumbers, Jim Shivley jr., and Herb Cummings.

DAR Told of Efforts To Help Indian Kids

The annual mid-summer Daughters of the American Revolution, (DAR) meeting, to which all vacationing daughters from chapters other than Petosega Chapter are invited, was held at Greensky Hill Indian Church.

Guests from Bay View and others from as far away as California came to hear Mrs. Robert Martin and Mrs. Charles Duerr explain the Charlevoix Women's Club new project of assistance to Indian children in school.

Insofar as help for Indian education has ever been of prime importance to the DAR on the national level, the Charlevoix project was heartily endorsed by Petosega Chapter.

The meeting, which was hosted by Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff, vice-Regent of Petoskega Chapter, was held in the ancient church but refreshments were served in the adjacent dining room where Mrs. Isabel Oliver the oldest living member of the Greensky Hill Church at age 94, was acclaimed guest of honor.

Following the business session a memorial was held for Helen Elizabeth McKnight (Mrs. R.D. McKnight) in commemoration of her work in Petosega Chapter

Bump, who was bicycling down the South Hill was struck by a west-bound car on Antrim-st. driven by Larry Warner, 226 Antrim.

The son of Mrs. Barbara Bump, 206 E. Dixon-ave., Bump said he saw the Warner car but thought he had time to cross the intersection in front of it. Warner was not charged.

Bump graduated from Howe Military Academy in June and will enter Charlevoix High School as a senior in September.

'Fleamarket' Planned By Chamber Sept. 25

Residents Invited To Set Up Booths

Charlevoix's first "Harborside Flea Market" has been scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 25, in East Park, according to Thomas Merta, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

And everyone in town is invited to take part.

The Fleamarket will amount to a gigantic city-wide rummage sale. Anyone with anything to sell is invited to set up shop in the park from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. to hawk their wares.

Antiques, furniture, clothing, dishes, housewares, bicycles, toys, appliances—all are fair game for the Fleamarket, according to Merta.

Churches and service organizations also are invited to set up booths to raise money for charitable purposes.

"This event is something that the North has needed for a long time," Merta said. "It will bring a buying audience from miles around."

The Chamber of Commerce will charge a modest fee for space rental. Each vendor will be given his own designated stop, as it the case during the Hobbycraft Show, the Venetian Festival and the Waterfront Art Fair.

Merta hopes that Charlevoix merchants will take advantage of the large numbers of persons expected to be in town for the event, possibly holding their own Fleamarkets on the sidewalks.

If the first Fleamarket is a success, it will become an annual September event.

Miss Fran Milner Retires as Teacher

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at a special meeting Monday night, approved the borrowing of monies to meet current needs, accepted the resignation of a veteran teacher, adopted an interim code of conduct, approved tax levies for operational and debt retirement purposes and acted on several other issues.

The board voted to borrow $100,000 against anticipated State Aid at this time since the Municipal Finance Commission has not completed processing a request to borrow against anticipated taxes making it necessary to borrow in this manner to meet September payrolls and meet current bills. The notes are to be dated Sept. 1 of this year and marked for maturity on Sept. 1, 1972. Since both bids on the notes quoted 4.25 percent interest, $40,000 was borrowed from the Charlevoix County State Bank and $60,000 from the First State Bank. Earlier, $25,000 was borrowed from the Charlevoix County State Bank.

In a resignation that came as a surprise, Miss Frances Milner who has taught second grade in the Elementary school for 37 years tendered her resignation, effective at once. The board accepted the resignation and asked that the secretary write a letter in behalf of the board commending her for her work in the classroom and thanking her for her years of service.

A code of student conduct received the attention of the board which discussed it at length before adopting an interim code to serve until

Al Smith's Texaco gas station on S. Bridge-st. was broken into sometime Friday night, according to Police Chief Jack Mol.

Twelve new tires and a quantity of cash from the cigarette machine were taken.

Mol said entry to the building was gained by prying open the front door.

The break-in was the second in Charlevoix in less than a week.

Bike Trip Around Lake Charlevoix Set for Aug. 11

Bicycle buffs have been talking about it all summer, but now it's about to become a reality: A 40-mile bike-hike around Lake Charlevoix.

Tom Merta, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, says the long distance bike ride will be held Saturday, Sept. 11, beginning at 8 a.m. at Edwards IGA parking lot on Petoskey-rd.

Men and women over 18 years of age are invited to participate.

Although the itinerary hasn't been definitely established, the group will probably break for lunch in Boyne City, returning to Charlevoix either by way of East Jordan or the Peninsula route, crossing the South Arm on the Ironton Ferry.

Riders should make sure before hand that their bicycles are in good working condition.

They also are advised to take along a canteen of drinking water and quick-energy snacks, such as raisins or candy bars.

If it is successful, Merta hopes the bike tour will become an annual early September event in Charlevoix.

Out-of-towners are cordially invited to take part, of course

THE WEATHER for the annual GOP picnic Sunday at East Jordan couldn't have been worse if it had been ordered by the Democrat State Central Committee. But the doughty Republicans lined up in the rain to wait for their barbecued chicken, potato salad and cole slaw. Attending the picnic were U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin, State Sen. Robert Davis and state Rep. Richard Friske.

City Wins Rebel Regatta

Charlevoix has been selected as the site of one of the country's foremost boating races next summer, according to Tom Merta, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Merta said the Rebel National Championship Regatta will be held in Charlevoix next July. This year's regatta was held in Dallas, Texas.

Rebel class sailboats carry a crew of from two to four men. Between 50 and 100 boats are expected to be entered in next year's competition, meaning that Charlevoix will play host to from 400 to 500 boaters and members of their families.

Members of the Rebel National Championship Regatta committee, led by secretary-treasurer John Campbell of Jackson, are expected to be in Charlevoix Aug. 28 to work out details of event with Coast Guard officials, Merta said.

U.S. SEN. ROBERT GRIFFIN meets William Ohle of Petoskey and Hortons' Bay at GOP picnic Sunday in Memorial Park, East Jordan. In back is County Commissioner Robert Davis.

VERNON (Dick) LaFreniere, proprietor of the general store on Beaver Island, is ever ready to lend a hand to a colleague in trouble. After reading about the safe cracking at Edwards IGA store in Charlevoix last weekend, LaFreniere packed his own 73 year old safe aboard the motor launch Beaver Islander and shipped it to his mainland counterpart, Dick Edwards. The strong-box had been in use on the island since 1898.

ATTORNEY General Frank Kelley (right) attacked President Nixon's domestic and foreign policies at the annual Antrim County Democratic dinner in Elk Rapids Aug. 12. With Kelley are Peter C. Johnson of Boyne City, Democratic candidation from the 106th Representative District in 1970, and campaign worker Pam Wilson of Gaylord.

Antrim Democrats Hear Frank Kelley Rip Nixon

Two, hundred northern Michigan Democrats gathered to hear Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley blast the Nixon administration Aug. 12 at the Rainbow restaurant in Elk Rapids.

Speaking at the Antrim County Democratic Committee's annual dinner, Kelley severely criticized the administration's handling of both inflation and unemployment.

Kelley said that Michigan's morale and economy were at an all time low, and that the Democratic Party was uniting to challenge Nixon's ineffectual policies in 1972.

Kelley spoke three days before President Nixon announced his sweeping economic reform program Aug. 15.

The attorney general also denounced the present Vietnam withdrawal schedule and called for an immediate removal of troops from Southeast Asia. He also demanded increased job opportunities for returning veterans.

Erika Belmoor of Elk Rapids preceded Kelley at the rostrum to introduce prominent democratic guests attending the dinner from Presque Isle, Otsego, Crawford, Kalkaska, Isabella and Charlevoix counties.

Used Book Sale To Be Annual Event

The used book sale held at the Charlevoix Library during Art Fair week was so successful that it will become an annual event, according to Mrs Hewitt Johnston, publicity chairman.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix Womens Club via its subsidiary known as Ch-I-Ch-O (Charlevoix Indian Children's Opportunities), the sale lasted three days and attracted buyers among townspeople, resorters and art fair patrons.

Mrs. Johnston asks summer residents to keep next year's sale in mind before they close their cottages for the summer. She said books and old magazines may be dropped off at the library now for resale next August.

Year-round residents also are reminded to save their used books over the winter for the 1972 sale.

Mrs. Johnston said the Ch-I-Ch-O Selection Committee will meet Sept. 1 to begin work on the allocation of funds to needy youngsters for educational purposes.

Parents Responsible For Kids at Beach

Parents of swimming children in Michigan this summer are urged to watch those youthful water sprites as though their youngsters' lives depended on it. Because they do.

The appeal is sounded by the Department of Natural Resources' Marine Safety Section, which points out that 44 youngsters drowned in this state last summer because they were not supervised closely enough. Adult shortcomings in supervision collectively represented the No. 1 contributing factor in Michigan's swimming and wading deaths a year ago.

Robert Dyke, head of the DNR's Marine Safety Section, stresses that "being there" is not enough when it comes to adults supervising kids who are swimming or wading. "Parents who have children in or near the water must keep fully alert at all times as to where their youngsters are and what they are doing," explains Dyke.

He also urges parents to back the attack on swimming deaths by seeing to it that their children learn how to swim well, and gain skill in the drownproofing method.

Corral Chatter

By KEN

Friday was a hot, sunny day and boys were busy with Rodeo preparation and cabin 1 and cabin 3 took to the campcraft area for the last overnights of this season. Dave Tuttle, Dick Geddes and Cabin 1, and Ralph Boldt and Scott Benjamin in Cabin 3 took the following boys: William Phipps, Mark Mantho, Kevin Douglas, William Vander Veen, Michael Harrity, John Gearhart, Michael Mantho, Scott Mason, David Magee, Jimmy Barnett, Doug Henderson and Steve Osborn. In the evening, the boys from the Beaver Island trip were met in town at the Ferry and they reported a most enjoyable trip.

Saturday was a beautiful day. In the evening, the Greens-Greys met in a series of Shuttle Relays in all sections. The Greys going into the event with a six point lead. In the four sections, each team won two, so the Greys knew then that they had won the competition for the season.

Sunday morning our chapel service was held in the outdoor chapel in the woods, with Mark Herschede reading the Scripture and Mark Wilson giving the prayer. Mike Kelly gave a talk on the Golden Rule.

In the afternoon, we had the traditional Obstacle Relay that takes in about 120 boys with events from riding a horse to pushing an orange with the nose, from canoeing across the lake to eating a cracker and peanut butter and whistling. This event counts four points and usually is the one that gives us a winner for the summer. As the Greys had a six point lead going into this, they couldn't possibly lose. However, their Captain, Chuck Zitsman, gave the Grey Team a talk and urged them to go all out in this event which takes about an hour and ten minutes to run. And go they did, for the Greys won this event, too.

Bob Wilson, the losing Green captain, was the first to congratulate Chuck, and boys were excited and some were tearful. In the evening, we had our last council-ring in the outdoor council ring down the lake. Accomplishments were announced, boys gave talks about their long overnight trips, and both Bill and Ken gave the boys challenges to do their best in the coming last week of camp.

Monday was a beautiful day and boys were very busy trying to finish work started in the activities. Bruce, our trips man, started rehearsels for the Indian Dancers for our Final Council Fire, and to hear the steady beat of the tom-tom all morning, and all afternoon, was music to my ears. It just seems natural to hear a drumbeat in a boys camp.

In the evening, the Prep Section boarded the school bus and was taken over to the shores of Lake Michigan for a marshmallow Roast and to hunt rocks. They really enjoyed this. Plans were taking shape for the GREEN-GREY Banquet on Tuesday night. Committees were meeting, boys were rehearsing, and Jack Middleton, Head of Crafts, carved the word Grey-71 on the log in the dining room, and it was interesting that right above this carving is GREY-41. Thirty years is a long time.

Tuesday morning was another beautiful day with the sun bright and the temperature about 65. The beat of the tom-tom was heard all morning, and the boys were busy. Cabin 21 husked 30 dozen ears of corn for the banquet that night. This was a new effort for some of these boys, though most of them did it last year, too. In the afternoon, the boys were busy decorating the dining room, and boys on the program were busy practicing.

There was excitement in the air and the banquet was a huge success. Bill Harbeck, an assistant counsellor, was the toastmaster and did a great job. The eight team captains all gave short talks. The engraving on the wall was unveiled, the Green-Grey trophy was presented to Chuck Zitsman, winning Senior captain, and the MUGWUMP was given him to take home for his room. Glenn Graber played his guitar very well in two solos; Steve Busch played a piano solo, Cabin 11 sang a song, and several of the campers gave a short skit which was hilarious. It was a very fine banquet and everyone enjoyed it. Of course, special mention was made of the sweet corn.

Wednesday was a busy day with this being the last day to finish up an activity. In the evening, the winners of the cabin inspections this four weeks, were taken into Petoskey to the movies. The winning cabins were: Juniors, Cabin 4, Mike Kelly. Preps winner was Cabin 10, Andy Case. Intermediates winning were Cabin 14, Eldon Franzen, and the Seniors winning was Cabin 20, Vince Tuminello. The boys were all pleased with the movie and it was a fitting climax to the clean-cabin competition. The rest of the camp had their final cabin nights when each cabin does something as a group.

G

Thursday dawned dark and dismal, and as this was the day to rehearse the rodeo, there was much guess-work as to the weather for the afternoon. The sun came out and it was a beautiful afternoon for the rodeo rehearsel. Back here in camp the dining room was a bee-hive of activity with Jack Middleton and his committee working hard to decorate the dining room. Ruby, Ruth, Bill, and Bobbie, our nurse, worked hard helping as did Mary Staheli. By six o'clock all was ready, giving everyone an hour to spare.

At seven o'clock the banquet started and what a sight to see everyone in sport coats, slacks, white or colored shirts and ties. Everyone was all dressed up and it was a beautiful sight in a beautiful dining room. Jack Middleton was the Toastmaster, introducing Chuck Zitsman, who gave the grace in Hebrew, Ryoji Isomura gave the grace in Japanese, and Tom Dorseck gave the grace in English.

Larry Hyde gave the talk from the campers, and did a great job. Mike Kelly, who started here as a camper nine years ago, and is now a counsellor and one of our cowboys, gave the talk representing the staff. This is always a sad banquet as the season is at its close, friendships started are interrupted, and all our fun together will soon be a memory. Bill Townsend, director of activities, gave a talk and Ken closed the speeches with a talk summing up the season. The musical program was outstanding, Phil Mebus played two piano solos, David Stringer played the piano and sang accompanied by Fred Matora on the guitar, Larry Hyde played a piano solo, Tom Dorsek, counsellor, sang a solo, accompanied by Ken. The log with everyone's name on it was unveiled by Harry Heck. It was made by Jack Middleton and it is a beauty. The program was concluded with the traditional staff singers, with Ken at the piano, going through a medly of songs. The dining room lights were all turned out and the men marched in holding lighted candles and singing "The Whiffenpoof Song." Their medley followed, and it was most impressive, and what a picture. There were many wet eyes in the dining room, and it was a fitting climax to a great season. Taps were sung, followed by two trumpets playing it from the lake shore in a duet. This will probably go down as one of the finest, most impressive final banquets in our 46-year history.

Aviation Meet Set Oct. 13 At Bellaire

The Michigan Commerce Department's Aeronautics Commission announced today that it will conduct industrial aviation seminars in northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula in October.

The one-day seminars will be held at Bellaire on Oct. 13 and Escanaba on Oct. 14.

Library Notes

Before the season officially comes to an end on Labor Day, we suggest a special list of fine titles for our fine summer patrons.

Allan W. Eckert's acclaimed series "The Winning of America" continues the narrative of "The Frontiersmen and Wilderness Empire, the violent and monumental story of the wrestling of the North American continent from the Indians. But the locale has moved westward--to the northern frontiers of Pennsylvania, to Michigan and the Green Bay area, especially the crucial outposts of Fort Pitt and Fort Detroit, Sandusky and Mackinac.

"The Conquerors" is the story of Pontiac's uprising and the men involved in it; the conquering English, both soldiers and civilians, who undertook the dangers of the Indian trade for profit and the adventure of opening a new land, and, most importantly, the Indians, who refused to accept the yoke of the conquered and were driven to violence to protect their homes and their way of life.

"Wilderness Empire" is the second work in Eckert's great series. It is the story of English strength hamstrung by incredible incompetence, of French power sapped by corruption. It is the story of the English, Indian and French individuals whose lives entertwine in the greatest territorial struggle in American history--the French and Indian War.

Allan Eckert has written the most complete history of the Northwest Territory ever to appear. This book is one of the rare volumes we hate to finish if only because a great adventure ends for the reader on the last page.

"We Talk, You Listen" was written by Vine Deloria jr., who gave us "Custer Died For Your Sins." It is strong medicine and boldly unconventional thought from the brilliant and witty Indian spokesman who has turned his penetrating vision toward the disintegrating core of American society.

Bridge Walk Big Event Of Labor Day Weekend

No matter what your interest--baseball, bridge walking, a parade, historical pageant or rodeo--there should be something to attract you to one of the seven major fun-filled family events scheduled during early September, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Highlighting the 10th in a series of 14 feature maps showing what to do and where to go in the Wolverine State is the annual Labor Day Mackinac Bridge Walk between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace, Sept. 6. The 4½-mile jaunt, to be led by Governor William Milliken, should attract nearly 20,000 persons.

Approximately 40,000 visitors are expected for the 30th annual Michigan Peach Festival at Romeo, Sept. 3-6. Included will be a carnival, marching bands and coronation ball.

The City of Troy will celebrate its 150th anniversary with a Sesquicentennial Week, Sept. 4-11. Main attraction will be a giant parade on Labor Day with a beauty pageant, arts and crafts festival and a salute to business and industry also planned.

A reenactment of the arrival by Canoe of Father Marquette and his reception by the Indians highlights The Black Gown Tree presentation at St. Ignace, Sept. 3-5.

Bronco busting, Brahma bull riding, steer wrestling and clowns all are part of Sparta's Championship Rodeo, Sept. 4-6. The Big Rapids Art Festival is scheduled on Labor Day.

Baseball enthusiasts can attend the regional finals of the Amateur Baseball Congress Sept. 3-6 with the finals set from Sept. 11-13.

U.S. Tries To Save Eagles

Federal wildlife officials are urging citizens in Michigan and across the nation to file reports of dead or injured bald and golden eagles to help save these majestic birds whose populations are being plagued by poaching, pesticides and other man-made pressures.

That appeal, sounded by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, comes in wake of the shock-wave report that more than 500 eagles were gunned down from aircraft over Wyoming and Colorado last winter.

The skyway slaughter is but one of many factors contributing to the sharp decline in America's eagle numbers which has federal wildlife officials "increasingly concerned."

"We need prompt reports on any dead or injured eagles found by citizens if we are to be able to investigate and determine the cause of death or injury," stresses Travis Roberts, regional director of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

U.S. game management agents have been assigned to coordinate the reporting and investigation program. Michigan residents knowing of dead or injured eagles are urged to contact these federal agents:

William Fuchs, agent-in-charge, Lansing, (telephone 517-372-1910) or John E. Cross, Bay City, (telephone 517-893-6411)

DNR Weighing Plans To Limit S. Fox Deer

An experimental hunting season designed to reduce the over-winter deer herd on South Fox Island to 100 animals was among subjects to be considered by the Natural Resources Commission at its meeting Aug. 12-13 in Sault Ste. Marie.

South Fox Island is located in Lake Michigan, 26 miles west of Charlevoix

Department specialists estimate the island's present herd at 350 animals – too many, they say, for five square miles of hard-pressed range to support.

A special season was held on South Fox last year in which hunters were allowed to take two deer, one of which had to be antlerless, from Nov. 15-30. During December, three deer, two of which had to be antlerless, were permitted. Total deer removed from the island in 1971 numbered 450.

Two alternate plans will be presented to the Commission by the Department for reduction of the herd to 100 animals and for collection of research data.

The plans are contingent upon negotiations with the owner of two-thirds of the island, whereby through an exchange of land or hunting rights a solid block of state-owned lands (1,100 acres) would be provided on the north end of the island. This would leave the center two-thirds of the island intact and in one contiguous block for the guests of the landowner.

If the negotiations provide for the desired consolidation of land or hunting rights, Plan I would go into effect and the island would be divided into three hunting areas: the private land in the center of the island, state-owned land on the north end, and the federally-owned land on the island's south tip. Firearm hunting would be by permit and for one-week hunts, Nov. 15-21 and Nov. 22-28, with hunter numbers limited. After these first two weeks an unrestricted number of permits would be available and hunting would continue through Dec. 19.

According to Plan II, which would go into effect if there was no exchange of land or hunting rights, an unrestricted number of hunters would be permitted on the island, but special permits would be issued for the entire 35-day season.

Regardless of which plan is adopted for the island, a bow and arrow season will be recommended for Oct. 1-Nov. 14. No special permit or registration will be required other than a regular bow and arrow license. One deer of either sex may be taken.

Throughout the firearm deer season on the island, Nov. 15-Dec. 19, two deer of either sex may be taken.

Local Units To Get State Road Funds

Second quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections are being distributed to Michigan counties, cities and villages, the State Highway Commission reports.

State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth said net receipts of the fund during April, May and June of 1971 amounted to $91,275,495, an increase of $4,129,009, or 4.7 percent, compared to the same three months of 1970.

Charlevoix County will receive $147,734 in the quarterly fund divvy, compared to $139,838 in the same period last year. Emmet County's share is $167,883, up from $158,128, and Antrim County will receive $146,286, up from $139,369.

Charlevoix, $12,148 ($11,379); Boyne City, $14,147 ($13,588); Boyne Falls, $1,716 ($1,427); East Jordan, $8,012 ($7,428); Ellsworth, $2,943 ($2,930); Harbor Springs, $7,582 ($7,038); and Petoskey, $20,667 ($19,919).

All state gasoline and diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees go to the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund. The money is distributed after deduction of collection costs, 1.5 percent of gasoline taxes to the State Waterways Commission and other fixed costs.

The Department of State Highways receives 46 percent of net proceeds, the 83 counties receive 34 percent and the 529 cities and villages, 20 percent.

Under this formula, the Highway Department will receive $41,986,728 as its share of second quarter collections. The counties will receive $31,033,668 and the incorporated cities and villages $18,255,099.

SLOWPITCH FINALS

The second round title went right down to the final game and at press time either Medusa or Topside will emerge as the winner. If it's Medusa the two will have to play a two out of three for the city title. If Topside wins they will be champs as they have already won the first round.

In other action during the week Andy's beat Airport Bar 1-3 behind Harv Cole's two homers and a solo blast by Ken Balch.

Freedmans beat American Mold 10-6 with Glen Taylor, Gayle Shelden, Joe Beaudine, and Al Wojan all homering for the winners. Larry Bergmann and Mike Crain did likewise for the losers.

Medusa used last inning heroics to edge Andy's 10-9. Andy's had two on but could not score in their final time at bat. Pat Kerr homered twice and Denny Spence once for the winners. Dean Mikulski homered twice to lead the losers.

Jim Kluge, Ralph Doan, and Lee Cross all homered to lead Topside past Howard 13-10.

American Mold scored three times in the bottom of the seventh to bump Townhouse 11-10. Mold's Lawrance Bergmann and Townhouse's Jerry Stewart traded home runs.

Mold used similar late-inning action to dump Andy's 3-2 when Roger Crain singled home two runs with two outs. Harv Cole homered for the losers.

FASTPITCH

First State Bank dumped Novak's 3-1 and prevented them from cinching the second round title. A rained out game with Morweld now stands between them and a tie for the second round title with First State Bank. Nate Boss scattered five hits and his teammates made their seven hits count as they scored single markers in the second, third, and fifth inning.

NOVAK'S CHAMPS

Novak's edged Electra 2-1 to finish an undefeated season. The winners picked up both runs in the fifth inning, collecting their only two hits off pitcher Dan Oliver. Denny Crain limited the losers to three safeties.

LIONS UPSET

The Tigers had sweet revenge in their final game of the season as they handed the Lions a stunning 5-1 defeat to knock them out of first place. The loss enabled the Braves to win the round and that together with their first round crown gave them the Peanut League championship.

KIWANIS

The Gold Sox and Blue Sox ended up tied for first place and the winner will meet first round winner the Red Sox in the playoff to determine the champion.

Friends Shared Horses In 'Good Old Days'

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dykstra (Cecelia Kass) of Jenison were Sunday morning coffee guests of Jake and Kathryn Timmer and Mrs. Margie Oosterbaan. Mrs. Anne Osterbaan was also there to renew old aquaintance. The families were neighbors during the early years of the 1900's and one thing recalled was that the Kasses and the Timmers each owned one old horse and they would take turns using these horses as a team. Mobile Auto School Is Coming to Town

Charlevoix is one of 23 northern Michigan communities designated as a training center in an unusual automotive service instruction program offered by Ferris State College.

Under terms of a contract for $18,782 granted Ferris by the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission, Ferris' automotive mobile training unit will begin a series of educational tours designed to upgrade the skill level of 250 automotive mechanics in the northern part of the state.

Instruction will be given in tune-up, carburetion systems, scientific diagnosis, brakes and automatic transmissions.

The mobile unit will set up in garages, schools or automotive wholesalers' places of business.

Automotive wholesalers originally started the program about 10 years ago and until recently have provided for its support. Under the new contract, jobbers still will serve as coordinators in the various areas visited by the mobile unit.

Other cities to be visited are Alpena, Cadillac, Cheboygan, Clare, Escanaba, Frankfort, Gaylord, Grayling, Houghton Lake, Kalkaska, Ludington, Manistee, Marquette, Petoskey, Rogers City, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Scottville, Standish, Tawas City, Traverse City and West Branch.

Date of the Charlevoix visit will be announced later.

'Freeze' Is Good Time To Reduce Prices, Increase Productivity

Although President Nixon brought down the wrath of union leaders and others with announcement of his wage-price-rent freeze on Aug. 15, most Americans welcomed the President's' efforts to do something about our shakey economy.

If nothing else, the 90-day freeze will give us time to collect our wits and try to find a solution to the twin problems of sky-rocketing inflation and sky-rocketing unemployment.

Under normal conditions, inflation and unemployment would never be uttered in the same breath, but these are scarcely normal times.

Although our friends in the labor movement will scarcely agree, we believe the giant gains won by big labor unions in recent years -- particularly in recent months -- have thrown our economic system out of kilter. When such gains are not accompanied by increased productivity on the part of every individual workingman, then prices must, of necessity, increase.

Furthermore, unwieldy payrolls have forced management into labor-saving "automation" which further increases the ranks of the jobless.

Although we agree that Nixon might have better put his freeze into effect several months ago, his recent actions are "better late than never."

Perhaps it is wishful thinking, but we believe the period of the freeze is a good time for everyone with a stake in the nation's economy -- and that includes all of us -- to do some deep thinking about what we can do to keep the dollar sound.

Merchants and businessmen might ask themselves if the "mark-up" on their goods and services is fair to all concerned. In many instances it might be possible to cut prices and still realize a satisfactory return.

The workingman might look for ways to make his time more valuable to his employer, taking it upon himself to increase his own productivity.

He also might take an added measure of pride in his work, thereby upgrading the quality of American-made merchandise. It is no secret that the quality of American products is not what it was 20 years ago. If it were, we would not be faced with such formidable competition from abroad.

Housewives who do most of the nation's shopping could take a good, hard look at prices and simply not buy those items that are priced beyond their true value.

There is a way out of America's economic dilemma. There has to be. But it is up to everyone of us to help find it.

Pump-Out Facilities Inadequate

Water's Edge,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Editors,
Charlevoix Courier:

Dear Sirs:

In response to Mrs. George Henkel's letter of Aug. 1: Taking exception to her statement, "Boaters are selfish people and care little about the places they visit," I am wondering by what authoritative source she makes such a positive statement? I maintain the last majority of boaters are most assuredly interested in clean water, and do comply with the law, inspection or not.

Before accusing the boater of violation in order to save a paltry pump-out fee, let's consider the poor facilities offered him at city docks for this specific purpose. Larger boats experience great difficulty maneuvering and docking because of inadequate length of the dock and a gate most inconveniently placed, a hose too short to reach across wide boats, shallow water and boats left unattended in the space reserved for pump-outs. Getting into this space is nigh onto an impossibility in a high wind, which we have had plenty of this summer. In all, perhaps, the desperate yachtsman is driven to violate Michigan's new law.

In personally believe this to be a good law, but feel that better facilities need to be provided before it can be practically and reasonably enforced.

I am a boater and speak from first-hand experience. Of necessity I made other arrangements to have my boat accommodated and I do not refer to going out in the middle of the lake, either.

Sincerely,
Myrtle Bendor

Thanks Kids Who Helped With Waterfront Fair

August 20, 1971

Mr. Robert Clock, Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Mr. Clock:

This letter is not only a thank-you letter to the 55 young lads and ladies who so graciously gave of their time to serve as Junior Hosts and Hostesses at the Waterfront Art Fair, but it is a letter to inform the residents of this community of the civic service that these young people performed.

It takes a lot of behind the scenes elbow grease to make our Art Fair the success that it is. Starting at 7 a.m., working in two hour shifts until 9 p.m., these young people assisted exhibitors in unloading cars, toting tons of material across the park, running errands, sitting with exhibits, and then reloading cars. All of this was done graciously as a civic service without tips or payment. Those who served are:

Jodi Alger, Janet Begrow, Donna Bellows, Nancy Berg, Paul Berg, Allan Bergmann, Clint Berlage, Hank Berry, Karen Berry, Kim Blanchard, Chris Bresnahan, Ellie Carey, Karen Carter, Kim Carter, Dennis Cohrs, Maureen Cudd, Sue Cunningham, Chris Davenport, Maggie Dillon, Barb Dillon, Sue Donaldson, Pam Foehtman, Sue Fowler, Tom Fowler, Kevin Gallagher, Mark Gallagher, Barb Goss and Greg Grubaugh.

Others were: Diane Haggard, Judy Hamilton, Mark Hosmer, Peggy Hosmer, Sandy Hufford, Amy Lesser, Meg Lesser, Nora Lewis, Darcy McCandless, Dawn McKenzie, Sally Michael, Brecky Niswander, Gretchen Olsen, Carole Osterberg, Cheryl Pence, Terry Phelps, Nita Potter, Debby Powell, Julie Richardson, Laurie Saunders, Vicky Thomure, David Tollas, Rita Wososki, Ron Winchester, Sue Winchester, Linda Wood and Shelly Wood.

When you see one of these young people on the street, let's give them a pat on the back for a job well done. Let's let them know we're proud of them as citizens of this community.

Gratefully,

Joyce Hosmer
Member of the Art Fair Committee

Friske Begs President To Call Off His Visit To 'Godless' Red China

(Rep. Richard Friske has asked the Courier to reprint the following letter which he sent to President Nixon relative to the President's forthcoming visit to China.)

18 August 1971

The Honorable Richard M. Nixon
President of the United States
Washington, D.C.

Dear President Nixon:

Your acceptance of an invitation by Red Premier Chou En-lai to visit China has come as a shock to most U.S. citizens, including this legislator.

I am sure you were elected because of the stand you took against Communism and the collaboration with the Communist as a private citizen. For you to make a complete about face as our President is very unfortunate.

Our Nationalist Chinese allies, who are most immediately affected by your move, have termed your visit "foolish," "shameful" and humiliating to you. I am sure most Americans hang their heads in shame, and we owe an apology to our loyal friends on Formosa and all anti-communist nations and peoples, including the subjugated slaves in China, Russia, Cuba, East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, North Korea, Yugoslavia, Estonia, Latvia and others who are hoping that the United States of America would realize their plight and cut off all support to their gangsterous slave masters.

But you, Mr. President, have chosen to disregard all these pleas and decided to drive a knife into the back of all our loyal anti-communist friends. Will God Almighty ever be able to forgive us for that?

You accepted the invitation by Premier Chou En-lai on July 15, 1971, 10:30 p.m. (Washington time) and the following was a broadcast by Radio Peking on the same day, July 15, 1971, 10:45, only 15 minutes later: "People of the world, unite and defeat the U.S. aggressors and all their running dogs.".

Mr. President, must we as a free nation of our own choosing blindly subjugate ourselves to a blood-thirsty, Godless rulership, the enemies of all freedom of the individual?

I realize that I am not telling you anything new about the nature of the Communists. You know that as well as I. It is simply that I have had the unfortunate "privilege" of the personal experience as a victim of that devilish system.

The rulers of Red China have, according to NBC news of 8 14 71, killed from between 35 and 69 million innocent Chinese people in order to solidify their brutal hold on these subjects.

May I in the name of most of my constituents ask you to reconsider, and not visit these Communist rulers of Red China.

My, and many other Americans' prayer is, please reconsider.

The favor of a reply is requested.

Most respectfully yours,

RICHARD FRISKE
State Representative

Inadequate Parking Costs Us Money

As another tourist season draws to a close, Charlevoixans are painfully aware that they must do something -- and soon -- about the abominable lack of parking spaces in the downtown section.

There is no way of knowing how many tourist dollars sailed right on through Charlevoix this summer simply because tourists couldn't find a place to park. But you can bet your next parking ticket that Charlevoix merchants would have enjoyed a better summer if we had been able to offer our visitors an abundance of easily accessible off-street parking.

Of course, merchants themselves and their employes are not blameless.

Day after day most of them drove their cars downtown, occupying parking spaces that could have been more profitably used by their customers.

Valley residents, particularly those with rooms to rent, often found that overflow parking from the downtown section deprived them of their legitimate parking spaces in front of their homes.

Increased use of bicycles by downtown businessmen and their employes could provide an interim answer to the parking dilemma. And, in truth, more bikes were in evidence this summer than in past years as bankers, postmen, reporters, lawyers, dental assistants, garage mechanics and others discovered that it is far easier to hop on a two-wheeled steed than to buck heavy traffic in an automobile and then find you have no place to park it.

The State Highway Department is aware of Charlevoix's parking problem.

The City Council knows that something must be done.

The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission has pinpointed parking as one of the city's principal problems.

Now all that remains is to do something about it.

Our Man In Lansing

By BOB CLOCK

Well, sir, Our Man in Lansing has done it again.

Only he sounds more like Our Man in Washington, which he isn't, thank heaven.

State Rep. Richard Friske has come out flatly against President Nixon's proposed visit to Communist China, a trip which could ease the terrible international tensions under which we have lived ever since the opening guns of World War II.

In fact, our representative has written a letter to the President telling him such a trip is tantamount to driving a knife in the back "of all our loyal anti-Communist friends."

"Must we as a free nation of our own choosing blindly subjugate ourselves to a blood-thirsty, Godless rulership, the enemies of all freedom of the individual?" he asks the President.

I don't think the President even remotely suggested turning the United States over the Reds, but Friske has a way of misinterpreting almost everything he hears or reads.

The representative's latest effort to engender hate and mistrust between the United States and other nations comes hard on the heels of his refusal to affix his name to a joint Senate-House resolution extending the sympathy of the people of Michigan to the people of the Soviet Union on the deaths of three Russian cosmonauts during a space flight. Friske looked upon such a resolution as an expression of aid and comfort to the enemy, believe it or not.

It is idle to point out that as the representative of the 106th District, Friske's role is to represent his constituents in Lansing in state affairs. He has no business interferring in national or international matters, but you can't tell him that.

During his election campaign, Friske made it abundantly clear that he considers his job in Lansing merely as a stepping-stone to Washington, where he feels he will be more effective.

In his diatribes against the Communists, Friske always manages to work in the fact that he and his family, as former residents of eastern Europe, suffered horribly under the Reds — a fact which lends a note of authority to what he says.

However, the Friske family's unpleasant encounters with communism occurred a quarter of a century ago. The "gangsterous slave masters" of that by-gone era are all dead or in their dotage.

I, for one, see evidence that communism in both Russia and China has matured to a point where "peaceful co-existence" with free nations is a distinct possibility.

The time is ripe for mending fences. We have snubbed our nose at Red China for 22 years, in hopes that Chiang Kai-Shek would somehow manage to return to mainland China and set things to rights.

But it has been apparent for several years now that such an eventuality is the opium dream of an old man.

Red China is a fact of life we must learn to accept and live with, whether we like it or not.

At the risk of bringing down the wrath of Friske's John Birch Society, I would like to point out that the United States, more than either Russia or China, has been the world's most conspicuous warrior in the past 25 years.

Although Russia has supplied arms to other nation's, she has not been actively engaged in open warfare since the end of World War II.

Chinese soldiers fought in the Korean War on the side of North Korea, but China has somehow managed to sidestep direct involvement in the war in Vietnam.

Needless to say, the United States has been deeply committed in both wars, supplying both manpower and weapons.

Now the people of the United States at long last are demanding that our government stop its infernal interferrence in the domestic affairs of other countries.

President Nixon has gone one step further by planning to visit China, a trip which could mark the dawn of a new era of peace for the entire world.

I am sorry Friske feels the President should continue our blind contempt for the Chinese government.

I am sorry Friske is so full of hatred that he will not offer a modicum of sympathy to a nation that lost three brave men engaged in space exploration.

I am sorry that a man with Friske's great potential for doing good is so committed to the narrow, pinched ideology of the John Birch Society that he is unable to appreciate, or even tolerate, different shades of political thinking.

Is That a New Dress?

By JIM FITZGERALD

Women are like this:

"It was worse than World War III it was just terrible," my wife was telling our 21-year-old daughter, Karen. "The people in front of us were hitting each other; blood was squirting all over and some splashed on my white stole. A man in back of us had a gun and started shooting at everybody. Little children were crying and an old woman fell down at my feet and couldn't get up..."

"When did you get a white stole?" Karen interrupted.

"I got it for only $24, marked down from $40, at Genesee Valley," my wife answered. "It was a wonderful bargain. And then I found these shoes..."

Thus is World War III forgotten.

When I write things like this, my wife always accuses me of "putting women down." Not true. I'm only reporting the facts, the way I learned in journalism school. And it is a fact that women are obsessed by clothing.

I grew up with four sisters who would trade sweaters with total strangers rather than wear the same outfit to school twice in the same month.

Now I have two daughters who live apart but visit each other's closets regularly. They spend entire weekends simply trying on each other's clothes. If man behaved that way, their wives would write worried letters to Ann Landers (Dear Ann: Oswald's brother Jack visited us last night and he spent three hours trying on Oswald's t-shirts. Do you think I should have a talk with my minister...)

But the strangest thing is when my wife appears in a new dress.

"That's a new dress," I say.

"Don't be silly," she says, "I've had it for months."

For the first few years of our marriage, this fooled me. Then I gradually became convinced that I couldn't be wrong that many times. So I added a question:

"Have you ever worn it before?" I ask.

"No," she admits.

And so continues my education in Species Female. It turns out that Mable doesn't buy a new dress because she needs it. She buys it because she went shopping with a friend, or because there's a sale, or because the store is air conditioned, or because her husband lost $200 playing poker, or because it's 2 p.m. Monday and yesterday was Sunday.

Mable then hangs the dress up in her closet and may not wear it for months, even years. In fact, she may never wear it at all. It may go out of style, just hanging there.

This is difficult for most men to understand. When I buy a new suit, I wear it home from the store. I don't take it off for days.

I want everyone to know that I could finally afford a new suit. I wear it because I don't have anything else to wear. Otherwise, I wouldn't have bought it. That makes sense, doesn't it?

Not to the woman who gave me a pair of red slacks for my birthday and then was disappointed when I assured her I liked them and would wear them.

She was disappointed because she had been certain I'd reject the color. She'd bought them in the big city and had already planned a three day shopping trip built around the necessity of having to return the slacks.

Two weeks later I was telling her about a terrible auto accident I'd just seen. "12 people were killed, limbs were scattered all over the street," I said, "and I think I saw a body I recognized..."

She interrupted me: "Are you sure you like those red slacks?"

Onward and upward.

Did Ungainly Manatee Spark Mermaid Stories?

A manatee has a face only a mother could love and a figure only a sailor too long out of port could confuse with a mermaid.

The ungainly aquatic mammal has no ears, blubbery cleft lips, a bristly mustache, and a sunken eyes. But its sparsely haired, bulbous body does taper to a pancake tail, giving rise to the mermaid legend.

No less a sailor than Christopher Columbus reported he had seen a manatee mermaid in the New World, but the admiral conceded that "they were not as beautiful as they are painted though they had something like the human face."

COUSIN OF ELEPHANT

These distant cousins of the elephant range in length from 8 to 15 feet and weigh from 500 to 1,200 pounds, the National Geographic Society says. Understandably, they have voracious vegetarian appetites.

Manatees manage to survive in the rivers of West Africa, Central and South America, Caribbean islands, and Florida, but man's encroachments endanger them.

The animals have been hunted and harpooned; manatee steaks are a prized supplement to native diets. Even in Florida, where a poacher risks a $500 fine, manatees occasionally are killed for food or so-called sport.

FOOD DESTROYED

The Florida building boom is preempting wildlife habitats, and pollution already has destroyed the manatee's food supply in several rivers.

Curiously, the manatee's appetite may be its salvation. It thrives on water hyacinths, a pestiferous aquatic plant that chokes clogged Florida canals, and efforts are underway to breed the mammals.

Manatees spend a quarter of the day indiscriminately eating whatever submerged aquatic plants happen to be at hand. They eat more than a pound of vegetation daily for every 10 pounds of body weight.

LIP-SMACKING EATER

They do not, as was once held, use their flippers to guide vegetation to their lips. They don't need to. All a manatee has to do is turn inside out its horrendous lip pads and tuck the food into its mouth, with the attached bristles.

Daniel S. Hartman, who studied manatees in Florida under a National Geographic Society grant, swam with them in the warm waters near the source of the Crystal River. He wrote:

"At play, manatees touch muzzle to muzzle in what best can be described as a kiss. This behavior is one facet of a whole repertoire of nuzzles, nibbles, nudges, butts, and embraces. The performance as a whole becomes a serene ballet, a slow-motion ritual of lazy posturings and positionings, twistings and turnings."

Though manatees are shy, Hartman became accepted by some. "A few were so tame that, when soliciting a back scratch, they would hamper my work by lolling directly in front of my mask," he wrote.

Hartman coped bravely with the problem described by one versifier:

"I'd hate to be kissed by a manatee.
The prospect's too much for my vanity.
Her bristly mustache would give me a rash and destroy my last vestige of such time as a more complete evaluation can be made, particularly in relation to suspensions, expulsions and search and seizure.

The amount of taxes to be levied this year has been cut by 1.05 mills over the 1970 levy it was revealed when the issue was brought up for discussion. A total of 22.49 mills are to be levied for operational purposes including 7.8 mills allocated, 13.9 mills extra voted for this purpose including the 6.5 mills approved for a three-year period, 1.0 mills for Materials Center and .5 mill for the public library. This is .3 of a mill less than was levied for this purpose in 1970.

Debt retirement will require 3.15 mills or 1.425 mills for bonds on the high school and 1.725 for bonds for the new K-4 elementary school and remodeling of the Middle School. The increased valuation in the school district made it possible to cut this levy by .75 mills.

In other action, the board adopted a resolution stating its intent to adopt parking regulations at the Charlevoix public library as soon as the Policy Committee can develop the details of the policy;

Voted to participate in the student insurance program offered by the First Agency of Kalamazoo whereby every student in the school will be covered while participating in any school sponsored event throughout the year. The school will underwrite the cost at $1.00 per student. The policy is offered to the school through the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, thus the low rate.

Voted to rescind its recent action relating to Lot No. 6 in the Hampton Village subdivision and instead to purchase Lot No. 14 and to extend options on Lots No. 6 and 9 to two years, all at the same price of $3,500 each. This was done to scatter the building of Building Trades houses throughout the subdivision rather than confining them to one area.

Voted to authorize the administration to advertise for bids on the Building Trades house in Hampton Village at a minimum net price of $27,500. This was done after the board voted to refund the deposit of $560 to James Bogg and to declare the offer to sell and to purchase the house nul and void. The deal was called off because of financing difficulties.

Gave their approval to a 10-point principal's job description as drawn up by the administration.

Heard Supt. Robert L. Miller report on the lack of information regarding president Nixon's 'freeze' order in relation to teacher negotiations; on State Aid and on legislation being considered at this time.

A NATIVE of Arranmore, Ireland, Philip Boyle of Chicago charmed Beaver Islanders with Irish songs played on the bagpipes during a visit to the Island last week. Many Island families originated in Arranmore.

Irish Bagpiper Charms Kin on 'Emerald Isle'

Although he had never been to Beaver Island before, Philip Boyle's first trip to "America's Emerald Isle" Aug. 24 was just like "old home week," so far as Boyle and the Islanders were concerned.

He retired in January as a machinist with the Chicago Transit Authority and a trip to Beaver Island was one of the "musts" on his retirement agenda.

He even brought along his bagpipes with the green windbag, as evidence of his Irish origin.

Bagpipes in Ireland!

"The Irish invented them," he insists, in his Irish brogue, "and the Scots stole them from us."

Boyle is certain that he must have many cousins on the Island – since they all came from the same town in Ireland – but he isn't sure just who they are.

For Boyle, his trip to Beaver Island was the next best thing to a trip back to the Auld Sod itself. He spent two evenings at Archie LaFreniere's Shamrock tavern in St. James, entertaining Islanders and their visitors with authentic Irish songs, played on authentic Irish bagpipes.

He even broke out the pipes for the return trip to Charlevoix aboard the Beaver Islander.

When the motor launch entered Pine River Channel, Charlevoixans were surprised to hear "The Wearin' o' the Green" coming from Boyle's pipes on the forward deck.

Boyle, who immigrated from Arranmore in 1926, was accompanied on the trip to Beaver Island by his wife, a native of Donnegal who came to the United States two years earlier.

Although the weather was rainy during most of their visit, the Boyles thoroughly enjoyed their stay on the Island.

"We'll be back again next year," Boyle promised.

Before leaving Charlevoix, Boyle paid a call on barber Darrel Sommerville, who is learning to play the bagpipes.

Ski & Shore Opens Torch Lake Tract

A new recreation home development to be known as WeatherTop has been announced for a 270-acre site on the west shore of Torch Lake. Developers of the project are Ski & Shore Investments, Ltd., of Bellaire. The firm also has an office in Charlevoix.

The WeatherTop site is about six miles northeast of Elk Rapids in Lower Michigan's scenic Grand Traverse Bay region which abounds in golf courses, water sports, ski resorts and year-around recreation developments.

The site, acquired from Dr. Thomas Cohn, features 1,700-foot frontage on Torch Lake, capped by a bluff rising to a vertical height of 190 from the shoreline. Much of the plateau west of the bluff has a wilderness appearance that will be preserved by the developers.

"We will offer 10-acre parcels master-planned for development," said Richard

School Starts Next Tuesday; Pay Unchanged

Summer vacation for more than 1,500 Charlevoix youngsters ends officially Tuesday morning, Sept. 7.

Supt. Robert Miller says classes will start at 8:30 a.m. at the High School and at 8:45 at the Middle School and Elementary School.

Bus schedules will be the same as last year, although some of the bus numbers have been changed.

Kindergarteners will not be bussed the first day, according to Elementary School Principal Glenn Snider. Parents are asked to bring their youngsters to school on Tuesday and to pick them up.

The morning kindergarten session starts at 8:45 a.m. and ends at 11:15. The afternoon session begins at 12:30 p.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

Kindergarteners will be bussed the second day of school, Wednesday, Sept. 8.

The hot lunch program will start on Tuesday, according to School business manager Harold Kaufman says he expects a slight drop in enrollment this year. At present, it looks as though 1,555 youngsters will be attending Charlevoix schools this year, compared to 1,568 during the 1970-71 school year.

Most of the decrease, he said, will be in the Elementary School.

Kaufman said Charlevoix teachers will return at the same salaries they received last year, because of President Nixon's freeze on wages.

According to the latest interpretation of the President's Executive Order, teachers will not receive the normal increment that would have been due them under terms of the 1970-71 contract.

Teachers will hold their organizational meeting over coffee and doughnuts Thursday, Sept. 2, at 8:30 a.m. in the Middle School.

After the initial meeting, they will set their classrooms in order before a noon luncheon at the Elementary School cafeteria.

They will wind up their classroom preparation in the afternoon, returning the first day of school.

Non-certified school personnel will attend a luncheon at the American Legion Hall Sept. 3, prepared by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Six new teachers have joined the staff this year, according to the superintendent's office.

Mrs. Patricia Carland will be "crisis" teacher at the Elementary School. She received her M.A from Western Michigan University and lives in Albion. She taught one year in Kalamazoo.

Miss Lola Josifek will teach first grade. A resident of East Jordan, Miss Josifek is a graduate of Central Michigan University. This is her first year as a teacher.

Miss Janet Langland will be Special Education teacher at the Elementary School. A native of Muskegon, Miss Langland has her B.S. degree from the University of Michigan. She also is a first-year teacher.

Richard A. McLenon will teach the newly organized auto mechanics course at the High School. He comes from Trenton, Mich., and has his M.A. from Eastern Michigan University. He has taught at Shepherd, Mich., for three years.

Miss Nancy Ryswick will teach Spanish and English at the High School. Miss Ryswick comes from Fremont and received her B.A. from Hope College. She is a first-year teacher.

Miss Kathleen Rae Wagner will teach fifth grade at the Middle School. Miss Wagner comes from Warren, Mich., and has her B.A. from Oakland University. She also is a first-year teacher.

27-Pounder Breaks State Coho Record

John Todd of Canton, Ohio, on Aug. 20 claimed title as Michigan's new coho fishing king and came within a few pounds of making a name for himself worldwide when he hauled in a 27-pound, 13-ounce silver salmon offshore from Manistee.

MIKE CRAIN received the Larry McBride Memorial trophy for sportsmanship at the close of the city's softball season Friday night. Trophy was presented by Middle School Principal Max Novak, a city sports commissioner. Named for the late Larry McBride, the trophy is presented annually to the player who displays the greatest amount of true sportsmanship in the opinion of league officials. More softball pictures appear on Pages 8 and 9.

B-52 Widow Thanks City With Donation to Deaf

Mrs. John M. Simonfy, jr., widow of one of the nine airmen killed in the crash of a B-52 off Charlevoix Jan. 7, 1971, has made a donation to a scholarship fund of the Clarke School for the Deaf in Massachusetts in the name of the people of Charlevoix.

In a letter to Mayor Andrew Essenburg, Fred D. Knittle, the school's director of development, said Mrs. Simonfy made a donation to the Lt. Col. John M. Simonfy Jr. Memorial Scholarship Fund "because she was so impressed by the way the people of Charlevoix responded so heart warmingly to the deaths of the nine men aboard the B-52.

"She felt this was a positive way to express her appreciation," Knittle wrote.

"We at Clarke School felt a special closeness to Lt. Col. Simonfy and his family," Knittle continued. "His son, Christopher, is enrolled here as a student. He personally had many times expressed his hopes of becoming a teacher of the deaf when he retired from the Military. Because of his personal interest, he would have made an excellent teacher."

"Thank you again for the kindness extended to the families of the men who were killed," Knittle concluded.

In July, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce invited the families of the dead airmen to Charlevoix to attend the unveiling of a plaque commemorating the nine airmen. The plaque will be placed in Kennedy Park near the spot where the plane crashed.

Mayor Essenburg read the letter from the Clarke School official at the regular meeting of the City Council Monday night.

In other business the council:

–Heard an appeal by Robert Cook and Lewis Juilleret to be relieved of paying interest on their Hampton Village Special Assessment which was contested in the courts for three years. Cook and Juilleret said they are willing to pay the assessment as finally approved, but they feel they shouldn't be charged interest from the time the assessment was originally levied. Cook said he joined the lawsuit against the assessment because the city had erred in calculating the amounts due. The council said it was unable to grant the two Eaton-ave. residents any relief in paying the interest.

Only U.P. Indians Covered by Treaty

Charlevoix area Indians do not have special hunting and fishing rights under the 1854 treaty between the federal government and Chippewa Indians, according to a decision reached Monday by the state Supreme Court.

The court ruled that the treaty rights belong only to a group of Indians in the Keeweenaw Bay area of the Upper Peninsula.

The ruling was in reply to a petition filed by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley who asked that the court either rehear or clarify its April ruling. At that time the high court granted unlimited hunting and fishing rights to Indians mentioned in the Chippewa treaty of 1854.

Indians throughout Michigan have interpreted the April ruling to mean that they have unlimited hunting and fishing rights, regardless of state restrictions on the taking of game.

Department of Natural Resources officials have expressed concern that Indians engaged in commercial fishing will deplete recently planted stocks of lake trout and other fish.

In its decision Monday, the Supreme Court failed to mention commercial fishing rights of the Keweenaw Indians, another area in which clarification had been sought.

The 'Most Asked' Questions on Money Freeze

Charlevoix businessmen, industrialists, wage earners, renters, housewives and others still have plenty of unanswered questions relative to President Nixon's 90-day wage-price-rent freeze announced Aug. 15.

Following are answers to some of the questions you may have asked, regarding the freeze. The answers are from rulings issued by the Cost of Living Council, appointed by the President and chaired by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

The information was supplied to the Courier by the Michigan Retailers Association.

PRICES

Q. May price increases announced prior to Aug. 15 take effect in the future?

A. No. All prices, unless specifically exempted, are frozen according to terms of the order.

Q. Are previously announced increased tuition rates for the 1971-72 school year permitted by the freeze?

A. Yes. These are considered transaction prices, since commitments have been made, and there are a number of cases where payments have been made.

Q. Are stock and bond prices included in the freeze?

A. No.

Q. Will the freeze apply to insurance rates?

A. Yes, and to all other similar fees and rates.

Q. Are wholesale and retail prices included in the freeze?

A. Yes.

Q. How do you price new products?

A. Use the price of the most nearly comparable product sold by your closest comparable competitor.

Q. How should imports be priced with the imposition of the temporary 10 percent import surcharge?

A. The additional dollar and cents cost may be passed on to each purchaser.

Q. Is there any price control over exports?

A. No.

Q. If farm prices or "raw agricultural products" are exempt, does this exemption of raw products follow through to retail?

A. Yes, if they move all the way in raw or unprocessed state. A head of lettuce is exempt from farm to housewife. Fresh eggs are not covered. Meat in the meat case is covered. Oranges aren't, but orange juice is. Fresh fish is, but frozen fish isn't.

WAGES

Q. Are deferred wage or salary increases which have been negotiated to take effect in the future permitted by the freeze?

A. No.

Q. Are future cost-of-living increases built into wage contracts or provided by management exempt?

A. No. There will be no cost-of-living increases during the 90-day freeze.

Q. Are fees for professional services such as doctors, and lawyers included in the freeze order?

A. Yes. No increases in rates or fees for particular services are permitted during the freeze

Q. How does the freeze affect people who work on commission or piece rates?

A. Commission rates or piece rates cannot be increased over those existing in the base period.

Q. How will wages and salaries be determined for new jobs?

A. Scales will be determined on the basis of comparable jobs within the affected business or firm. If no comparability exists within such entities, such scales will be determined on the basis of comparable jobs in nearby firms.

Q. What effect does the Executive Order have on cost-of-living wage or salary increases ordered by a municipal government and to become effective subsequent to the date of the Executive Order?

A. State and local government are subject to the Executive Order freezing wages and prices.

Q. Are the wages of such state and local governmental employes as firemen, policemen and the like included in the freeze order?

A. They are subject to the freeze just as are all wages in private industry.

Q. Will increases in the salaries of teachers be allowed?

A. If the contract period started before Aug. 15, the salary increases may be granted. If the contract period starts after Aug. 15, the increase is not allowed.

Q. Are federal government employes' wages and salaries frozen?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the policy on promotions?

A. 1. Bonafide promotions that constitute an advancement to an established job with greater responsibility are allowed.

2. Increases in certified apprentice and learner's rates under programs established prior to Aug. 15 are allowed.

3. Merit and longevity increases are not allowed.

RENT

Q. How will the rent ceiling be determined for new or previously unrented units?

A. The standard will be that generally prevailing for comparable units in the immediate area.

Q. Are apartment and other rent fees included in the freeze?

A. Yes.

TAXES

Q. Are state and local tax rates frozen during this period?

A. No.

Q. In cases where surcharges or other sales or excise taxes have been increased, is the ceiling for the price paid by the customer (including these taxes) raised by a like amount?

A. Yes. The price the customer pays is equal to the base price, plus these taxes. This ruling applies to imported goods as well as other goods which are directly taxed.

GENERAL

Q. Must auto dealers continue to charge the 7 percent excise tax on 1971 year-end automobile sales?

A. Yes. The excise tax remains in effect and must be collected until such time as Congress rescinds it. The President has requested authority to rescind the excise tax, retroactive to Aug. 15. If this authority is approved by Congress, rebates will be made to automobile purchasers.

Pageant, Bridge Walk To Keep Straits Busy

In keeping with St Ignace's 300th birthday celebration, the annual presentation of the Pere Marquette Pageant, "The Black Gown Tree," over the Labor Day weekend will be bigger and better than ever.

"We are going all-out to make our portrayal of the life of Pere Marquette, founder of our community, the best ever, because this is our Tri-Centennial year," said Robert Sposito, Tri-Centennial Committee chairman, and P.M. Brown jr., Historical Production Association president.

"The Production Association has been extremely fortunate this year in obtaining the services of a new director. The presentation of the hour-long musical dramatization of Marquette's life, featuring a cast of more than 100, starts at 2:30 p.m. on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday afternoons preceding Labor Day," said Brown.

Dr. John C. McCabe, currently director of Communication Arts at Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, will be the director. A native of Detroit, Dr. McCabe has degrees from the University of Detroit and Fordham University. He received his Ph.D. in English literature from the Shakespeare Institute, Stratford on Avon, England.

He has taught theatre at Wayne State University, City College of New York, and for ten years headed the Department of Theatre at New York University. With the founding of Mackinac College, McCabe realized an opportunity to achieve a dream of a lifetime: living in Northern Michigan where he had spent much of his childhood.

He founded the Department of Theatre at Mackinac College. Now he is author in residence at Lake Superior State College and director of the Theatre of Communication Arts.

"The opportunity to direct 'The Black Gown Tree' has great potential. We are going forward with many changes this year and during the coming years as well. As experience dictates, we shall build the production into one of national significance," Dr. McCabe said.

Performances of "The Black Gown Tree" will be given at Kiwanis Beach, considered the actual place where Marquette and his Huron followers were welcomed by the Ottawa in 1671. The beach is directly opposite the old Mission Church on the grounds of which are buried the remains of Pere Marquette.

Following the presentation of "The Black Gown Tree" on the weekend preceding Labor Day will be the annual Mackinac Bridge Walk, scheduled to begin at 7:30 a.m. on Labor Day morning at the fare plaza (St. Ignace side). It is expected that the Walk will attract from 15,000 to 20,000 persons.

Ag Office to Field Questions on Freeze

All residents of Charlevoix County may obtain answers to questions on operation and intrepretation of the Presidential order of Aug. 15 on prices, rents, wages, and salaries from the Charlevoix County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office, according to Robert W. Reidel, Chairman of the County ASC Committee.

Headed by Joanne Carpenter, county executive director, the two-man office is located in the Boyne City Post Office building, room 204. The telephone number is JU 2-6231 and the mailing address is Federal Building, Boyne City, Mich. 49712.

County ASCS offices throughout the United States have been chosen as information centers to answer questions from all citizens on President Nixon's Executive Order which is designed to stem inflation and strengthen the national economy.

The Charlevoix County ASCS Office is receiving official answers to questions concerning the President's action, and any person in Charlevoix County who wants or needs precise information should get in touch with the County Office, Reidel said.

"Ours and all ASCS offices throughout the nation will function as information centers in all locations outside of highly urbanized areas," Reidel said.

County ASCS offices are not to handle complaints or appeals, he said. They will serve only to provide official information. Persons with complaints will register them with the most convenient district or sub-district office of the Internal Revenue Service.

"Neither will intrepretations or guesses be made by ASCS county office people. They will answer only those questions for which they have been supplied answers. If they don't know the answer to a specific question, they will say so. If a member of the public wants the county office, to obtain an answer, the question, will go by phone or mail to the nearest IRS district office," Reidel said.

Normal function of ASCS county offices is to administer farm action programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture on the local level. County Committee Chairman Reidel said ASCS service to farmers will continue without interruption.

"Our county office people welcome the opportunity to serve their country and are happy to make the extra effort in this crucial period," he said.

Big Salmon Season Predicted

The introduction of early spawning Alaskan coho and the prospects of latching onto a 60-pound chinook should give Michigan a record-setting salmon year to rival such dominant West Coast fishing states as Washington and Oregon, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

And if salmon fishing success so far this season is an indication of things to come, anglers could catch one million coho and chinook for the first time since salmon were planted in Michigan waters five years ago. Last year, nearly 860,000 salmon were caught in the state.

The Department of Natural Resources increased 1970 spring salmon plantings in the state so that 31 streams–three more than last year–will have mature runs.

Last spring's plantings of Alaskan cohos at the mouths of parent streams in Lake Superior and northern Lake Michigan have encouraged heavier than normal fishing pressure during the low-yeild times of late July and early August.

A major reason for this salmon fishing success is the presence of the early spawning Alaskans, which began concentrating at the mouth parent streams in late July.

Gathering spots for the Alaskan coho for spawning are at the mouth of these streams: Falls, Anna and Dead rivers off Lake Superior; Big Cedar, Whitefish, Manistique, Bear and Little Manistee rivers, Thompson, Porter and Brewery creeks off Lake Michigan, and Carp River off Lake Huron.

Regular salmon runs also have started with the peak expected to begin in mid-September on the Great Lakes and continuing through the first two weeks of October. Heaviest activity in streams will be during October.

Although 13 streams have now been planted with chinook, the best chinook catches will be from 1968 plantings since this king-sized partner of the coho usually takes three to four years to mature. This variety will run 20 to 40 pounds with 1969 plantings weighing from 15 to 25 pounds and '70 plantings between five and 12 pounds.

A few giant chinook in the 50 to 60-pound range may be taken from Lake Michigan. These are from 1967 plantings. Coho, which mature at three years, generally will run eight to 18 pounds with a few four-year-olds at 25 to 33 pounds.

The state record for chinook is a 42-pounder caught in Lake Michigan near Manistee last September. The largest coho caught by hook and line is a 27-pound, 12-ounce fish from Lake Michigan off Leelanau County last December. However, a 33-pound, three-ounce coho was taken in Little Manistee River weir below the Six Mile Bridge last October.

Coho and chinook pressure once again will be heaviest along Lake Michigan, where 3.1 million coho and 1.5 million chinook were planted in the spring of 1970 compared to only 500,000 coho and 600,000 chinook in Lake Huron and 500,000 coho and 150,000 chinook in Lake Superior.

Make two people happy with an unexpected call.

There's a little love out there . . . for you. Love you experience all too infrequently. A birthday card. An occasional letter. The Christmas phone call. Why not break the pattern, with an unexpected call? You'll make two people happy . . . someone you love, and you.

Another nice thing. If you talk for one minute, you pay for one minute. Not three. And, as always, there's no quicker or more personal way to say "I love you"—or even "I like you an awful lot"—than by phone. So if you want to make two people happy . . . don't hesitate to call!

State, AEC to Monitor Michigan Nuclear Plants

The State of Michigan and the Atomic Energy Commission have signed a contract, for a cooperative program of environmental monitoring of nuclear power plants in Michigan. The agreement is part of the Commission's program for enlisting the cooperation of states in collecting and evaluating environmental radiation data.

The contract was signed by Maurice S. Reizen, Director of Michigan's Department of Public Health and Dr. Clifford K. Beck, AEC's Deputy Director of Regulation.

Under the contract, Michigan and the AEC will plan and carry out radiological monitoring programs in and around selected nuclear power plants. The onsite and offsite activities will include collecting and analyzing samples, measuring radiation levels and obtaining data from licensees' records of releases of radioactive effluents.

The purpose of the monitoring programs is to provide the AEC with timely independent information and data for (1) evaluating the normal background levels of radiation which exist naturally in Michigan at those facilities which are under construction; (2) determining the adequacy of controls being exercised by licensees over radioactive effluents at operating facilities and (3) determining the potential radiation exposure to the public attributable to facility operations.

The Environmental Protection Agency, though not a party to the agreement, has participated in planning the monitoring program and will have access to the date obtained.

Initially, monitoring programs will be undertaken at the Power Reactor Development Company's Enrico Fermi Atomic Plant Unit 1, Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Plant and Palisades Plant and Indiana & Michigan Electric Company's Donald C. Cook plants.

The State and the AEC will share any data and information obtained in the programs at the individual sites. In addition to distributing the information to other interested federal, state or local agencies, the AEC and Michigan will collaborate in making the program findings publicly available through appropriate publications.

HERE'S YESTERDAY'S UNANSWERED QUESTIONS...

Did you wonder, when you had your carpets cleaned last time by the conventional method:

WHERE DID THE DIRT GO?

The answer was clear a few days later when that dirt came back to the top.

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE STICKY SOAP & SHAMPOO RESIDUE?

TODAY THERE IS AN ANSWER

A new method of CLEANING your carpet the SAFE, THOROUGH WAY. It takes the dirt out of the carpets. We SHOW you where the dirt goes. YOU DON'T HAVE TO ASK.

The average 3 bedroom home will produce an approximately 80 gallons of black, dirty water eliminating the accumulated dirt from previous shampooing.

NOVAK'S WIN

Novak's won the City Fastpitch Title and they did it the hard way. They finished the second round in a tie with First State Bank then beat the Bankers 1-0 to enable them to get into the championship game with those same Bankers.

Then Larry Potter cooled the Bank boys' bats with a no-hitter and Novak's emerged city champions.

In the first game Nate Boss and Larry Potter matched each other pitch for pitch. But a early mistake came back to haunt the Bankers. Stew Coleman banged the second pitch of the game over the scoreboard in left field for a home run and the game's only run. Potter mowed down First State with Steve Smith's sixth inning infield hit being the only one the losers could muster.

Boss was just as tough as he allowed only two other hits besides the home run. Both were collected by Coleman.

Meanwhile his teammates got his two runs in the third on a walk, an error, and a base hit by Norm Ostrum. The final run in the 3-0 victory came in the fourth when Terry Blissett and Charles Novak combined singles.

Potter walked three men while pitching his no-hitter masterpiece with two of them reaching third base. But his teammates fielded flawlessly and when the dust cleared, Charlevoix had a new fastpitch champion.

TOPSIDE TOPS

The Topside Bar won the crucial final regular game of the second round beating Medusa 12-4. Stewart Coleman's two-run homer in the first got the winners off and running. Then Terry Blissett and Lee Cross both homered in the third and it was all over. Jim Kluge's sixth inning homer added insult to injury. Medusa sluggers Larry Nunamaker and Pat Kerr each homered but they received little help from their teammates. The win enabled Topside to finish with a 8-1 record for the second round title. The same record gave them the first round so no playoff was necessary.

BURGER CHEF CHAMPS

Burger Chef scored eight runs in the first inning then made them stand up for an 8-2 win. Kathy Turner had two hits for the winners. Edwards had won the first round and Burger Chef had taken the second to set up the playoff.

The Blue Sox emerged the champions after disposing of the Gold Sox in a special playoff to determine the second round winner, then beat the Red Sox, first round winner, 4-0 in the championship game.

This and That...Special thanks to the excellent job of umpiring in this year's program...Norm Helms, Jerry Burke, Andy Peters, Kraag Lieberman, Ike Boss, and Mike Borths. A special tip of the hat to Norm Helms and his loyality in umpiring every night during the 65 playing date season.

Mrs. Bergmann Won't Be Easy to Replace

The Charlevoix-Emmet Probate Court has lost an able and dedicated public servant in the early retirement of Mrs. Robert (Lillian) Bergmann, the court's juvenile officer in Charlevoix for the past six years.

It is one thing to deal with healthy, average, everyday kids from wholesome families. They have a minimum of problems and few hang-ups.

It is quite another to deal with wayward youngsters, many from broken homes, who are totally unsure of themselves, their role in society and what is expected of them.

It was these unfortunate youngsters that Mrs. Bergmann met most often in the course of her work as juvenile officer.

Fortunately, Mrs. Bergmann spoke their language. She had an uncanny knack of getting to the heart of their problems with a few deft questions. She also knew almost intuitively when a youngster was leveling with her and when he was improving on the truth.

And it didn't take him long to realize that Mrs. Bergmann cared about him and what happened to him, even if no one else did.

Many such youngsters ended up as residents of the Bergmann home on Boyne City-rd. when there was no place else for them to turn.

Mrs. Bergmann could be as tough as a drill sergeant when the situation demanded.

But more often she could accomplish just as much as herself --- a mother and grandmother who knows kids and loves them.

Mrs. Bergmann's effectiveness as juvenile officer can be attested to by our school administrators who found themselves referring youngsters to her for guidance even before they got into serious trouble with the law.

Mrs. Bergmann's reasons for leaving her post are strictly personal, resulting from philosophical differences in the administration of the office between herself and Probate Judge John Murphy.

However, we know that Mrs. Bergmann will not be easily replaced. The most important qualities she brought to her work were not those that are gleaned from textbooks, court manuals or even long experience. They come from the heart and there they must remain.

The Courier earnestly hopes that not too much time will elapse before Mrs. Bergmann finds another channel for her unique ability to help youngsters in trouble.

In the meantime, she will be sorely missed throughout the county.

C of C Rounds Out Fair-Weather Calendar

If the Chamber of Commerce's two latest events — a bicycle tour around Lake Charlevoix on Sept. 11 and a downtown "Fleamarket" Sept. 25 — come off as planned, Charlevoix will have nine — count 'em — nine Chamber sponsored events on its fair-weather calendar.

There is the C of C's dinner-dance in May, the Michigan Amateur Golf Championship matches in June, the Hobbycraft Show and the Venetian Festival in July, Sidewalk Days and the Waterfront Art Fair in August, the bicycle tour and the Fleamarket in September, and the color cruise and the final C of C dinner-dance in October.

All of which means that your chamber, under the guidance of Manager Tom Merta, is on the ball.

Most communities the size of Charlevoix manage only one or two chamber-sponsored activities a year. With nine, Charlevoix is surely leading the pack.

And the Fleamarket sounds like a natural for the end of September. Anyone with anything to sell is welcome to rent space in East Park for the day to hawk his wares. It is shaping up to be a gigantic rummage sale, antique bazaar and country fair rolled into one.

Now that we have spring, summer and fall taken care of, what about winter?

A costume ball at Mardi Gras time?

A winter carnival in East Park, built around an ice rink, exhibition skating and races (with plenty of audience participation to keep warm.)

Snowmobile races and safaris.

Ski races at Mt. McSauba?

Old-fashioned sleigh rides?

We really ought to share them.

Fast Boats Damaging Lake Shore

Dear Editor:

This appeal could rightly be captioned: "Are you a wake?"

With this year's high water, the narrow stretches of the South Arm take quite a beating on the shore when larger boats go through at such speeds as create a large wake. The Ironton Ferry does us service by whistling at offenders, but it is beyond its call of duty.

The more exposed docks we suffered, shoreline is lost, small boats banged about, and gear lost.

May I suggest a posted warning on each side of the shore north of the ferry, and south in the vicinity of Reedy Point?

It might help call to the attention of cruisers the damage they are unwittingly inflicting. If they are "awake"—slow down!

Gratefully,

Mom Answers Viet Son on Long Hair

Aug. 19, 1971

Dear Mr. Clock:

The following is a portion of a letter we received from our son in Vietnam, along with my answer. I hope you will print it. Maybe it will help people understand some of our young boys today.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Roberts jr.
1022 Griffin Rd.
East Jordan, Mich.

(Helen Roberts)

Dear Mom and Dad:

All the guys that I am with now said that when they get back to the world, they are going to grow their hair long. When they do people are going to call them hippies and make fun of them when just a month before that they were in Vietnam, getting shot at, living in the mud for you and all the people in the world. When they make it back to the world alive people are down on them because they want to live their own life, not yours. Next time you see a long haired boy, just think he may have saved my life in Vietnam.

Think about this and then think about the long haired boys.

We are the unlucky
Led by the unqualified
To do the unnecessary
For the ungrateful

For those who fought for it, freedom is something the protected will never know:

Gary

My answer to his letter

Dear Gary,

After reading your very touching letter, I'm not at all surprised you feel the way you do. You have always voiced your opinions very strongly on anything you believe is right. Now that you have found out what freedom and war is all about I really expected a letter like that.

You have always been the thinker in the family and could never stand to see the smallest creature killed or injured. For this reason I hoped you would never have to fight. This is one of your best qualities, not sissy or feminine, so don't be embarrassed about it. I hope this war doesn't change it and leave a lasting effect on your life.

I'm sure your brother Ron, who was there before you and wounded in the rice paddies of Vietnam and all the other soldiers who have ever fought in any war, the parents and wives who lost their sons and husbands, all of them know the price we really pay for freedom.

In your letter you said we are ungrateful which is not true: I'm sure I speak for all Americans when I say we are very grateful. While we are enjoying life you are over there fighting in the mud and jungles for what you believe is right.

I agree, the protected will never really ever know what freedom really is. Since you volunteered to serve your country, and volunteered to serve in Vietnam I'm sure you think you are doing it for a worthwhile cause.

You have always set your standards high and I know whatever you decide to do with your life you will do. Your father and I are very proud of you and all the other boys over there.

Though nothing looks nicer to a parent of a teenage son than what we consider a masculine haircut, should you decide to wear long hair when you return, we will understand. If it weren't for boys like you our lives would be a lot different. We pray for your safety and all the other boys in the jungles of Vietnam.

Love, Mom and Dad

Sees Need For More Tennis Courts

August 23, 1971

Re: Additional Tennis Facilities

Gentlemen:

In reply to a recent question you had in your "Window Box" I would like to comment as follows.

I, as well as a number of my friends, spend considerable time in Charlevoix during the summer and winter months.

It is quite surprising that a city such as Charlevoix with the summer tourist business does not have adequate tennis facilities.

The two courts that you have had available this summer are not adequate for anyone who is used to playing tennis on regular courts.

The city of Petoskey has fine tennis facilities and it would seem to me that Charlevoix should have something equal to what Petoskey has.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Sid Israel

Jumping Jenny

If Jennifer, almost five, didn't have her heart set on entering kindergarten next week, I would put her on a plane and send her down to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Center in Houston, Texas, and let them have a look at her.

I think she has discovered something our astronauts might like to know about on their next trip to the moon.

Jennifer can sit in a high chair, with her feet a good 12 inches off the floor, and still manage to levitate the chair and herself an inch or more straight into the air.

If you don't think this is a pretty snazzy trick for a pre-kindergartener, I'd like you to try it yourself. It simply can't be done, but Jennifer does it three times a day at mealtimes and she is willing to put on exhibitions between meals, if you ask her.

I don't know precisely when she started to fly under her own power. I do know that for years I had to shove her chair up to the dining room table whenever we sat down to eat.

Then, all of a sudden, I don't have to help her any longer. She simply jumps into her chair, wherever it happens to be in the room, and with two or three of her magic bounds she is at her place at the table.

When I first called this unusual phenomenon to Judy's attention, she insisted that Jennifer had at least one foot on the floor. So I asked Jennifer for her first command performance.

She obligingly moved her chair well away from the table and hopped aboard. Judy was astonished to see the chair and Jennifer leap abruptly into the air and advance toward the table.

Then, just to show she meant business, Jennifer maneuvered her jack-rabbit chair in a circle before she finally landed in front of her dinner plate.

"It's utterly impossible," Judy complained. "There is no way she could sit in that chair and have it jump into the air."

"I know," I said. "I've been watching her for days and I can't figure it out. I didn't want to say anything for fear you'd worry."

"I've got it!" Judy beamed. "She leaves the front legs on the floor, leans forward, the back legs lift up and the chair scoots forward."

I was sure that all four legs left the floor, so while Jennifer's dinner got cold I asked her to put on another show for us. Sure enough the whole chair sprang into the air, with a 40-pound kid in the saddle.

That's why I think Jennifer might have hit upon something the astronauts might use, particularly since the pull of gravity on the moon is only a fraction of what it is on earth.

We all know that the trickiest part of any moon visit is the take-off for the return trip. Let's suppose that one of our future mooncraft encountered trouble on take-off. The carburetor iced up or they ran out of gas or something.

What are they going to do? Sit there until Kingdom Come, waiting for Triple-A?

No, sir. Not if Jennifer can teach them the secret of levitation. If that little kid can lift herself and her heavy chromium chair right off the floor, why it would be no trick at all for two grown men to put themselves into moon orbit even without a rocketship. All they would need are two high chairs and a little ooomph.

Look, Ma! No Head!

By JIM FITZGERALD

"They are warm-hearted, generous men who do not want to see lady deer and baby deer killed. And they are willing to put their money where their hearts are," said Frack.

He was talking about the commissioners of my favorite county (Lapeer). They had just given $400 to the local deer hunters association. The money will buy "No Doe Hunting" signs which will be distributed free to landowners who agree that women and children should be last when they are deer.

Frack is full of deer droppings. That $400 was tax money – my money. And the commissioners were not acting out of sympathy for poor Mama Deer and the kids. They were acting under pressure from a bunch of sports who are angry because they've had to drive home from too many deer camps without bleeding trophies strapped to their fenders.

The Great White Hunter's theory is that there aren't enough bucks for him to kill because the dumb state lets hunters kill does. If all the does are killed, who is going to mother the bucks? Not the game warden, by damn.

But the state says there are too many deer and "the crop must be harvested" before it starves to death, or dents fenders, or eats some farmer's corn (After the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, Al Capone explained that the victims had to be harvested before they fell dead of malnutrition, possibly in traffic, or started swiping the cops' apples off fruitstands).

A pox on both the he-man sports and the "harvesting" state.

I don't begrudge the $400. In fact, I'd rather see 'em spend $800 and forbid all killing of deer, male, female or convertible.

To each his own sport. And I can see where shooting a gun is a sport. But why not shoot skeet or empty bottles on top of a fence? In my most liberal moments, I cannot understand the person who looks through the sight of a high-powered rifle, sees the soft eyes of an innocent deer, and pulls the stupid trigger. Look Ma, no head! Whoopee.

Would you believe golf is no fun unless you can hit a cow in the head with the ball?

And please, Mr. Hunter, don't ask me if I eat hamburger and prime rib. I can understand a slaughterhouse and it won't bug me until the butchering is featured on TV's American Sportsman with Rock Hudson knocking the steer's brains out with a golden hammer.

There's gotta be a difference between killing for pleasure, glorying in the bloodshed, and killing for food because there's no other way.

Some of my best friends go hunting but most of them insist they head north for the fresh air, fellowship and picturesque taverns. They wouldn't shoot a deer unless it attacked their waitress. God bless them, one and all. Waitresses should be preserved, even if not tipped.

But the animals should also be preserved. They should be killed only in self defense. (You can quote me at the next meeting of your neighborhood deer hunters association. But remember, there is no open season on newspaper columnists. We are at the top of the endangered species list.)

Maybe the state is right. Maybe an unharvested crop of deer will some day gallop down the freeway and eat all our food. I would only ask that you don't shoot until you see the whites of their tails in front of you in the A&P checkout line.

Q. I have read a great deal lately about an off-track betting proposal to help raise revenue for the state of Michigan. Exactly how would this horse wagering measure work if it becomes law and what are the advantages and disadvantages of such a program? J.W., Gaylord

A. The intent of the off-track betting bill is to raise revenue for the state and local governments by making an established form of legalized gambling more readily available to Michigan citizens. The bill would establish six betting outlets governed by a central agency in an initial stage. If successful, the system would be expanded later. The pari-mutual agency would be able to establish betting parlors in cities or townships of 20,000 or more population, if local government gave authorization. Additional off-track betting establishments could be provided for every 100,000 population in the governmental unit. Local units of less than 20,000 population could request a betting outlet, but compliance with the request would be left to the discretion of the central agency.

Although proponents of the plan, who refer to it as "voluntary taxation", believe it will raise some $40 million annually, there are some very serious reservations held about the bill by its opponents. Some of them are simply opposed to state-sanctioned gambling. Others see a danger of organized crime involvement, although some safeguards are included in the bill to prevent this occurrence.

Q. I have a nineteen-year-old son who is having great difficulty finding employment because he is handicapped. He is an ambitious boy, but cannot get a job earning a living wage because employers fear he will hurt himself further while working. Isn't there some form of state insurance he can obtain?

A. I am aware of the fact that many persons with physical handicaps are having difficulty obtaining employment because many employers are fearful that their condition will result in further injury, thus leaving them liable for possible long-term payment of Workmen's Compensation benefits. For this reason, I am supporting legislation to relieve many of the employers' concerns.

In the meantime, I would recommend that your son contact the Vocational Rehabilitation Office in your area. They have various job training and job placement programs for persons with physical handicaps. He should also contact the Governor's Commission on Employment of the Handicapped, Mr. Ralph E. Cummins, Executive Secretary, Michigan Department of Education, Lansing, Michigan. He may be able to refer your son to employers in the area who make an effort to employ the handicapped.

(Please address your questions and comments to Senator Davis, State Capitol Building, Lansing, Michigan 48902)

Stone-Age Civilization Threatened by Settlers

An unusual agency is protecting the tribe recently found living in the Stone Age in the Philippines.

The Tasaday Manube, a tribe of less than 100 persons discovered deep in the rain forests of Mindanao, are hunters and trappers who use stone tools and have never tasted salt or sugar.

Shy but intelligent, the Tasadays are being looked after by Panamin, the acronym for the Philippine government's Presidential Arm for National Minorities.

STRIFE PERVADES REGION

To survive, the Tasadays will need the support of Panamin and its energetic leader, Manuel Elizalde jr. Hill tribes in the area already have suffered at the hands of settlers, miners, and lumbermen seeking their land.

Elizalde, 34, is described in the August National Geographic as a "wealthy, Harvard-educated" member of President Ferdinand E. Marcos' cabinet who "cares more about the hard-pressed national minorities than about his family fortune or his life."

Kenneth MacLeish, a senior assistant editor of the magazine, accompanied Secretary Elizalde on a rescue mission in the troubled region.

RESCUE WOMAN

A tribesman who refused to give up his land had been killed and his wife wounded by raiders' machine guns. The woman had been hiding in the jungle for two weeks, and the wounds on her face, leg, and foot were festering.

As the rescue party prepared to fly into the mountains, Elizalde thrust a submachine gun into MacLeish's hands with the explanation: "No knowing who's around."

The writer directed the hill people in cutting a small clearing, while National Geographic photographer Dean Conger hiked into the brush with other tribesmen who carried the woman out. American helicopter pilot Denis Rinehart, a Viet Nam veteran, flew her to safety.

WILD, WILD SOUTH

Mindanao, resembling the American West of a century ago, is the southernmost island in the Philippines. Sparsely settled, almost lawless, it is called by Filipinos their "Wild, Wild South."

On the 36,537-square-mile island, Panamin tries to help threatened Higaonon, Mansaka, T'boli, Ubo, and other tribesmen.

"We have our frontiersmen, as did your Wild, Wild West, and they're a rough, tough lot," Mr. Elizalde told the magazine editor. "But we mustn't forget why they're here.

"After World War II the government urged settlers to go to undeveloped Mindanao and start civilizing it. The nation was--and is--suffering a population explosion and no one cared much about how land was acquired."

GOVERNMENT HELPS

Today the government cares, and is aiding the endangered tribes. MacLeish met a Higaonon chief who, after being accused of slaying the lumbermen who raped and killed his family, received amnesty from President Marcos.

Panamin, whose representatives travel armed, provides medical treatment and schooling, and is helping the hill people build villages in order to retain the land they had roamed for centuries.

Now Panamin also is the champion of the Tasaday Manube.

E. Georgi, Ski & Shore board chairman. "We also will take advantage of a superb view by situating 25 individual building sites along the crest of the bluff. The view from these sites will be protected by a ban on construction of homes between them and the shoreline.

Five-hundred feet of Torch Lake frontage is reserved as a bathing beach for exclusive use of home-owners and their guests. The remaining 1,200 feet of shoreline is available for private boat docks."

In keeping with the wilderness appearance of much of the development, Georgi said, each individual building site will be served by a narrow, winding, private road.

Sales are being handled by Ski & Shore Properties, Inc. Individual home sites range in price from $5,000 to $12,000.

Kathryn M. Egler Wins Scholarship

The Custer-Kerry Scholarship has been awarded this year to Kathryn M. Egler, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Egler of 102 Auld-st. Charlevoix.

Miss Egler's father works for Charlevoix Hospital and she herself has worked at the hospital for the past 15 months, both full and part-time, as a data processing equipment operator.

Miss Egler was graduated from Charlevoix High School last June and will enroll at Michigan State University in September as a pre-med student.

The scholarship fund was established last year by the J.L. Shipman family, who maintain a summer home on Torch Lake, after their son was injured in an automobile accident and was treated at Charlevoix Hospital.

Realizing that all employes at the hospital played important roles in the welfare of their son, the Shipmans established the scholarship fund for the benefit of the children of hospital employes.

The winner is selected annually be a committee of three department heads.

George Nipson, owner of the Charlevoix Chemical Co. regarding the availability of industrial park property formerly sold to Robert Dyksterhouse for expansion of his Electromachine Co. plant on U.S. 31 north. The property was to revert to the city if improvements weren't made within a specified time limit. Both City Attorney Robert Hoffman and City Administrator Thomas Hanna said they have asked Dyksterhouse for a quit claim deed so that the land can be resold to Nipson, who intends to build a warehouse.

–Received a report from Michael Tillotson of the District Health Department relative to the condition of the Roy Pike house at 112 Polmer-st. which the neighbors have called a safety hazard. Tillotson agreed. He wrote: "The front porch is in a state of disrepair, boards were rotted and cracked. The foundation was open to vermin in several places and is cracked and is not in good repair."

–Learned that the city can go ahead with the construction of two tennis courts, using $10,536 in state Recreation Bond money.

–Agreed to accept an offer by Boland and Cornelius, Inc., of Buffalo, to pay for 75 percent of the damage done last spring by one of the firm's coal boats, the Fred Manske, to pilings near the city dock. Cost of replacing the pilings was $5,700, of which Boland and Cornelius will pay $4,300.

Meeting at the Board of Appeals, the council gave permission to Ruhl Metzger, 102 E. Upright-st., to build a garage three feet from the alley next to his home. His closest neighbor, Fochtman Motor Co., said it has no objection.

The board also waived rear yard restrictions for the new commercial building Clare Staley is erecting on Bridge-st. on the site of the former Erber used car lot. The board specified that the building should conform to the rear line of the Murdick building to the north.

Safety Course Set For Young Hunters

Registration for the first annual county-wide Young Hunters Safety clinic to be held at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club Saturday, Sept. 11, will be accepted until 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 4, at any sporting goods shop or hardware in the county where hunting licenses are sold, according to Frank Zednicek, president of the Rod and Gun Club.

The clinic is being held in cooperation with Hunters Safety Week under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to meet the needs of young people who, for the first time this year, are required by the state to show proof of hunting safety training before they can obtain hunting license. This applies only to those young people in the 12 through 16 year age group who will be purchasing hunting licenses for the first time.

Under legislation effective Sept. 1, a license to hunt will not be issued to a person under 17 years of age unless the applicant presents proof of previous hunting experience in the form of a prior hunting license issued in his name; a certificate of competency in hunting safety or a certificate of achievement issued to him by a hunting safety instructor as the result of passing a hunting safety examination such as will be offered at the Sept. 11 clinic.

There will be no charge for the clinic but a $2 fee will be collected by the DNR for certificates issued in order to purchase a license. If those taking the course do not have the $2 they will be required to write to the state in order to obtain a certificate necessary to purchase a license.

"This will take time, possibly as much as two months, and with the small game season opening this month, you could lose a lot of hunting time," Zednicek advised.

Site of the one-day course will be the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club property three miles north of Charlevoix on US 31.

The clinic will be open to all prospective hunters who will be 12 years old by Sept. 1 or those who have not reached their 17th birthday by this date.

All participants must furnish their own transportation to the club property. They are advised to wear outdoor clothing because the course will be given under field conditions, regardless of the weather, and to bring their own lunch, snacks and a beverage for their will be no sale of these at the club grounds.

A panel of certified instructors will be on hand to teach the required courses under the guidance of Zednicek, club president, and Harley Burris of Boyne City, representing the Department of Natural Resources. Other instructors will be Willis Peters, Robert Tripp, Vane Smith, Al Shindorf, Jack Mol, Robert Somerville and Les White. Club members and others will be present to assist.

There will be an exhibition of the use of shot guns, rifles and pistols by experts in these fields.

Classes will start at 9 a.m. when participants receive assignments to instruction groups. They will receive instruction in such subjects as gun characteristics, ammunition, safe handling and storage, farmer-hunter relations, comfort and survival, archery and field use of guns.

After classes are completed, students will be given a standard hunter safety examination, compiled by the Department of Natural Resources. Those who pass the examination will then be allowed to receive their certificates if they have the $2 fee with them.

"If you have a son or daughter in the 12 through 16 year age group who plans to obtain a hunting license for the first time this year, it is imperative that he or she enroll for the course" Zednicek advised.

Freeze

Q. Does the freeze terminate bargaining for wage changes during the 90-day period or can these proceed, with understanding that they cannot take effect until the federal government permits?

A. The freeze does not terminate bargaining for wage changes during the 90-day period. However, no wage increase negotiated during the 90-day period can go into effect during the period of the freeze.

Q. Are motel and hotel rates included in the freeze?

A. Yes.

Q. I want to sell something I own. I have no idea what its price was during the month prior to Aug. 15. What should I do?

A. Inquire locally as to what comparable items sold for during the period July 15-Aug. 15. Note down and retain these facts for your own records before selling.

Q. If a business reduces services and maintains the same price, is this permitted by the freeze?

A. No. This amounts to an increase in price for a product.

Q. Can merchants and other commercial business pass on to consumers the cost of an increase in local and state taxes; i.e., property taxes or business tax increases?

A. No.

Q. Can an employer reduce wages and other benefits to employes and use the President's freeze as a justification?

A. The President's program does not require a reduction in compensation levels below those in effect on Aug. 15.

BRUCE DAUGHERTY, formerly of Rochester, Mich., poses on stern of his 42-year-old sailboat, the "Dauntless" in slip of Irish Boat Shop where Daugherty stopped for repairs last week. Daugherty and his wife, who are enroute from Algonac to Naples, Fla., were marooned five days on Hog Island before the pilot of a passing aircraft noticed their plight.

Sailing Family Marooned Five Days on Hog Island

But Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Daugherty, late of Rochester, Mich., should wear the title as well.

They are piloting their 42-year-old craft from Algonac on the St. Clair River to Naples, Fla., via the Mississippi River.

And to be frank about it, they are encountering more problems than Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer aboard their raft.

The couple and their two children, Cortney, 16, and Darcy, 17, left Algonac July 21 and the first leg of the journey went smoothly.

After a layover at Mackinaw, they headed west into Lake Michigan and encountered gigantic southerly swells as they passed the tip of Waugoshance Point. The boat began taking on more water than the bilge pumps could get rid of, so Daugherty headed his boat straight for uninhabited Hog Island where he grounded her.

That was on a Tuesday, July 27. They were marooned on the island five days, until Saturday, Aug. 1, when a passing aircraft pilot noticed they were in distress.

By this time, the pounding surf had rammed the keel through its housing and the boat was inoperable.

Rescuers came from Beaver Island and towed the craft to Phil Gregg's drydock. The family spent the month of August on the island making repairs.

The work included installation of a completely new fiberglass bottom.

Because of the long delay, the Daughertys decided to send their sons on to Naples, Fla., to enroll in school.

On Aug. 30, the boat was ready to set sail again and the Daughertys left Paradise Bay and sailed to the south end of Beaver Island where once again they encountered fairly heavy seas and the craft began taking on water. Furthermore, the hull was leaking.

Daugherty thinks he could have made it to Charlevoix, but a Coast Guard boat hove on the scene and crew members suggested towing the craft to the mainland for further repairs last Tuesday.

Patches were placed on the bottom at the Irish Boat Shop and the Daughertys were ready to resume their journey by mid-afternoon Wednesday, with Leland as the first night's destination.

Daugherty figures it will take him another six or seven weeks to reach Florida, where he intends to have the boat overhauled, with a ferro-cement overlay.

He said the Dauntless was built in 1929 at the McLouth Shipyard at Marine City, Mich.

On open water, the Daughertys travel under sail. However, negotiating the Mississippi River and other inland waterways, the mast comes down and the vessel powered by a 60 hp Grey marine engine.

Gun Safety Clinic Scheduled Saturday

A gun safety course for hunters aged 12 to 16 will be held this Saturday, Aug. 11, at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club grounds on U.S. 31 North, beginning at 9 a.m.

The course is sponsored by the Rod and Gun Club and the Department of Natural Resources to help young nimrods qualify for hunting licenses under a new state law.

In order to be issued licenses, first-year hunters and those unable to produce their 1970 licenses are required to take the course.

Students should wear outdoor clothing and to bring a sack lunch and beverage. No refreshments will be sold at the clubhouse.

Assisting in the course will be Frank Zednicek, president of the Rod and Gun Club; Conservation Officer Harley Burris of Boyne City, Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol, Willis Peters, Robert Tripp, Vane Smith, Al Shindorf, Robert Sommerville and Les White.

There is no charge for the course, but a $2 fee will be collected by the DNR for certificates issued in order to purchase a license.

Bicycle Rider Andrea Baker Struck by Car

Andrea Baker, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Baker of the Lake Terrace Mobile Court, was treated at Charlevoix Hospital for abrasions Sept. 1 when she was hit by an automobile on U.S. 31 North in front of the trailer park.

Andrea was riding her bicycle south on the highway when she was struck from the rear by an automobile driven by Mrs. Michael Crain, 1208 Bridge-st.

LIGHTS ablaze, the coal carrier Fred. A. Manske approaches the U.S. 31 drawbridge in Charlevoix enroute to Lake Michigan via Pine River Channel. The nighttime spectacle usually attracts dozens of onlookers.

40-Mile Bike Hike Is Saturday

More than a dozen Charlevoix riders have signed up to take part in the first Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce bike hike around Lake Charlevoix next Saturday, according to Tom Merta, C of C secretary-manager.

The riders will rendezvous at Edwards' IGA parking lot at 8 a.m., proceed north on U.S. 31 to the Boyne City-rd. and then east to Boyne City.

After lunch in Boyne City, the riders will travel follow the Lake Charlevoix shore to the Ironton ferry, then west on M-66 to Charlevoix.

Merta estimates the 40-mile trip will take between six and seven hours, including the lunch break.

Foster Homes Needed

More day care and full-time foster care homes are needed in Charlevoix County, according to Dick Baker, children's worker for the Department of Social Service.

Baker says he presently has a list of 27 certified day care homes, but he could use 10 more.

Baker also has 13 full-time foster homes listed, but could use 10 to 15 more.

He says the greatest need is for homes for teenage boys.

"Many people are willing to take infants and toddlers into their homes, but they don't want teenagers, particularly boys," he says.

He said that if the parents are receiving social assistance, or have a marginal income, the cost of foster care is borne by the Department of Social Services, up to a maximum of $3 a day per child.

The list of foster homes is also made available to non-welfare recipients whose children require care while the parents work.

In order to quality for the list, a home must have a state license. The procedure involves TB tests for the foster parents, a social history report and an inspection of the home.

Violation of the licensing requirements is a misdemeanor, carrying a maximum penalty of a $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

The department also could use more child care aides for referral to working parents.

Aides differ from foster parents in that they come to the home while the parents are away.

Persons interested in signing up as foster parents or child care aides should contact Baker's office at the Charlevoix County Building.

Federal Program Outlined

The federal government has earmarked $1.2 million for northwest Michigan to provide jobs for the unemployed with local units of government.

Announcement of the grant was made by Bill G. Rowden, acting director of the Northwest Michigan Economic Development District.

Under the recently funded federal emergency employment act, the federal government will pay 90 percent of the total cost of putting locally unemployed people to work for local units of government.

Nearly all positions with local government are eligible to be funded by the act, Rowden said.

Any local governmental unit with positions unfilled because of limited budget may use the program to fill vacant slots with locally unemployed people.

Local units of government are construed to mean counties, cities, villages, townships, school districts, community colleges and other legislatively created units.

Private employers and non-profit corporations working with the government are not included.

Northwest Michigan Economic Development District will discuss details of the funding with government representatives at a meeting

1,028 Horses Live in County

Dobbin hasn't gone the way of the dodo bird after all.

An equine census conducted by 4-H Club members and leaders during August shows that Charlevoix County has 1,028 horses in residence.

Charlevoix is one of 48 of Michigan's 83 counties to have more than 1,000 horses living within its borders.

The state-wide census was undertaken by the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service at the request of the U.S. Department of Agricultures in the wake of an outbreak of Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE, for short) in Texas.

The disease causes sleeping sickness in horses and other equine species. It also can infect man, although the results are not usually serious.

The Agriculture Department wanted to know how many horses live in the various states, in order to have sufficient vaccine ready should the disease spread.

The survey showed Michiganders own 171,005 horses, ponies, mules and donkeys — which came as a surprise to people who keep track of such things.

Before the census, most experts figured Michigan's horse population at about 100,000 — some 71,000 shy of the mark.

Jake Wamhoff, assistant to the state extension director, said the 4-H'ers "did a fine job" in assisting with the census.

Wamhoff said the previous horse surveys counted only those animals on farms. The Hospital Annual Meet, Election Set for Sept. 21

The Charlevoix Hospital Association will conduct it's annual meeting and election of trustees Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 8 p.m. in the Community Room at the City Hall.

Ordinarily held in August, the meeting has been moved to September to allow time for completion of the annual audit, according to Hospital Administrator Richard Kreuger.

The terms of trustees William Peck, Gerald Stauhlin, Julius Gilbert and Fay Davis are expiring. Nominations to fill the vacancies will be made from the floor.

Other members of the board are Gordon Freedman, Fred Willis, Rollie Dudik, Jack G. Grubaugh, Max Novak, Tom Smith and Dr. Harry Custer, representing the medical staff.

Also on the agenda will be proposals to streamline the board of directors to increase efficiency and provide improved patient care.

A report also will be given on attempts to improve emergency service. During July and August, the Emergency Department treated 603 patients — or an average of about 10 a day.

Kreuger says the Emergency Department is probably one of the most active in northwestern Michigan for the size of the hospital and medical staff.

Also up for discussion will be a coronary-intensive care unit which will provide continuous monitoring of the condition of heart attack victims via a telephone hook-up with Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

The equipment will cost an estimated $12,000 plus an additional $50,000 a year for training and staffing.

Changes in the Obstetrics Department also will come up for consideration. Since the advent of "The Pill," the 10-bed OB department is seldom used to capacity and the board is considering better utilization of space.

A report also will be given on the purchase of $50,000 worth of new X-Ray equip-

ABOUT 20,000 robust outdoorsmen and almost as many dogs and cats made their annual pilgrimage to the Straits of Mackinac on Labor Day to walk "Big Mac." Among the four-legged creatures taking the five-mile hike was Whipper Snapper, a two-month-old kitten, owned by Bob Davis of Route 1, Durand.

Pressure Canning Prevents Botulism

With fruits and vegetables coming into their prime in Charlevoix area gardens, some timely advice on home canning comes from Michigan State University via the food marketing information center.

Sheila Morley says that home canning is making a comeback, but accompanying its revival are many of the same dangers of yesteryear. For veteran canners and newcomers alike, Mrs. Morley suggests some important ground rules.

"First, pressure canning is the only method recommended by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and other authorities for canning low-acid foods," Mrs. Morley says. "This includes all vegetables (except tomatoes and ripe pimento peppers), and all meats, poultry and fish."

Open-kettle canning is not considered a good method. Canning in the oven is downright dangerous. Pressure canning is the only reliable way to insure against botulism (severe food poisoning).

When pressure canning, first read or re-read the instructions that come with each pressure canner, Mrs. Morley advises.

Check the equipment carefully--especially the sealing ring and automatic air vent. If the canner hasn't been used in some time, they may need replacing.

A final tip: use food that's fresh, sound and clean. Missing quality cannot be restored by canning, and you'll want to put your own labor to best use, Mrs. Morley points out. Be sure also to get the product into the containers as soon as possible.

Library Notes

There are new titles available on the library shelves to please everyone. There is a row of gun-shooting Westerns; a row of shivering and unbelievable science fiction books, and several shelves of Who-dun-its.

"Too Far to Walk" by veteran writer John Hershey is a striking new novel in which the author probes deeply, but with rich humor, into the aimless boredom, and rebellion of a group of undergraduates in a New England college. John Fist, the hero, was an over-achiever in his first year at the college, then he suddenly lost his drive, his sense of purpose and identity. One of his friends promises him all the extreme experiences of modern life—war, beachcombing, poverty, protests and total freedom. Eventually in this absorbing novel, Fist realizes that identity cannot come to him artificially through any escape, drug on indulgence, but must be dredged up from deep within. This is a rich and moving and distinguished novel about some very real contemporaries written by one of America's most popular authors.

"The Name Above the Title" is the autobiography of Frank Capra, one of the few really great men in moviedom. The history of Hollywood and the story of Frank Capra's 40-year career there run parallel: the rise of the motion picture from Mark Sennett through the triumphant years of the best-loved movies ever made. This fine book, with wonderful photographs, is full of good stories about such famous stars as Jean Arthur, Barbara Stanwyck, Katherine Hepburn, Spencer Tracy, Bette Davis, Clark Gable, Frank Sinatra, Gary Cooper and hosts of others. "The Name Above the Title" offers both good entertainment and many fine memories that you can take with you.

"The Day of the Jackal" is a first novel by Frederick Forsyth, an impressive young Britisher who, at 19, was a fighter pilot in the Royal Air Force. A journalism career was followed by several years with the BBC, his service ending in his coverage of the war in Biafra. This exciting new novel is the story of a proposed plot to assassinate General de Gaulle. The code name of the killer: Jackel. His price: half a million dollars. That everyone knows de Gaulle died a natural death does not for an instant detract from the reality of this driving and remarkable novel of terror and suspense.

The introduction to "Freezing Point" is the most striking dust jacket we've seen in a long time. Made of heavy silver paper, it looks and even feels like a cube of ice. The sub-title of this amazing book is "Cold As A Matter Of Life and Death." It was written by Lucy Kavaler who has already authored some of the most important books of this era including "Mushrooms, Molds and Miracles" and "The Wonders of Algae" and "Dangerous Air." In this new book Lucy Kavaler achieves the same sort of intensive treatment of an unusual scientific subject that readers have welcomed in her past books. It is a large book with many chapters. There is a study of Cold as an Environment, one on Animal Adaptations, Cold as a means of survival, Cold a new era in medicine and one on Dishes of Ice Cream as well as a delightful chapter entitled "Of Nero, TV Dinners and the Iceman."

Suggests Monument For Fr. Marquette

Sen. Robert W. Davis (R-36th District) has introduced a resolution in the Senate urging establishment in the St. Ignace area of a "fitting, permanent, appropriate and significant monument in recognition of the explorations and great work" of Father Jacques Marquette, famed Jesuit explorer.

The resolution introduced by Sen. Davis notes that Fr. Marquette founded St. Ignace in 1671 and made it his base of operations for his expeditions and missionary work between the Straits of Mackinac and the Mississippi river.

The resolution, which declared that "Fr. Marquette is recognized as one of America's most noted early explorers," noted that he died in 1675 and "his bones were eventually buried in 1677" in St. Ignace.

It said that no community on the Great Lakes has a "more authentic or genuine or closer claim to this great man than the city of St. Ignace and that "the citizens of St. Ignace area have perpetuated Fr. Marquette's memory after the discovery of his grave in the early 1880's with a memorial park."

Sen. Davis said "St. Ignace is in the center of the Great Lakes area that Father Marquette explored and is a focal point for a tremendous tourist travel."

Sen. Davis added that St. Ignace "has many prominent and significant sites overlooking these beautiful Great Lakes adjacent to interstate highways that can be utilized as a meaningful place to properly memorialize Father Marquette."

Color Cruise Listed

The days of September thru December are exciting days for a Michigan vacation according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

From mid-September through October, the vivid hues of autumn emblazon both peninsulas, attracting thousands of visitors and vacationers. Complementing this color panorama are numerous events scheduled throughout the state.

A traditional Labor Day event is the annual Mackinac Bridge Walk. Sept. 6 is the day, this year, when pedestrians will be allowed to walk the 5 mile span from St. Ignace to Mackinaw City.

The September-December Michigan Calendar of Travel Events, just released by the Michigan Tourist Council lists 51 events taking place during the month including the American Amateur Baseball Congress National Finals, Sept. 10-13 in Battle Creek; for automobile enthusiasts, the Old Car Festival at Greenfield Village, Sept. 11 and 12. Sept. 25, Colorama at Watersmeet gives visitors an opportunity to see the unspoiled beauty of some of Michigan's vast forest lands, sparkling lakes and streams.

The colorful month of October is filled with activities to please the whole family. Oct. 1-3, Central Michigan Snowmobile Show, Mt. Pleasant; Oct. 3, Pride of Monroe House Tour, Monroe; Oct. 10, Color Cruise at Charlevoix. Other color tours, sports shows, antique shows, fairs and festivals throughout the state are plentiful.

As the color of autumn fades and the hint of winter becomes prominent Michigan vacationers can enjoy such things as the Red Coat Round Up, Nov. 13-16 at Grayling; the Royal Lipizzan Stallion Show, Cobo Arena, Detroit, Nov. 26-28; or the Cross Country Ski Races, Central Division, at Calumet, Nov. 28.

Highlights from the calendar for December are flavored with the holiday spirit. The younger generation, particularly, will enjoy Fantasyland at Lincoln Park. Of interest to the whole family will be the display of Christmas Trees Around the World at the Nature Center in Kalamazoo Dec. 6-26, and, the Snowmobile Olympus at the Fairgrounds in Ironwood.

During the past several meetings the Lions Club have reported several successful ventures, including a great success on the chicken barbecue held during Venetian weekend and the success of their sponsored Boy Scout Troop No. 43 who used the club trailer at the Art Fair.

On Monday, Aug. 23, the club was honored to have Forrest Evasheski, former athletic director at the University of Iowa as guest speaker.

At the same meeting Bob Nowakowski was named the new membership chairman, attendance winners were announced, and committees were appointed to make plans for the annual picnic to be held in September.

Fair to Good Season in Store for Hunters

Prospects for Michigan's fall hunting seasons are generally fair to good for most species, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

A roundup of observations by wildlife specialists indicate better - than - last - year prospects for grouse, wood cock, ducks, quail, squirrels and rabbits. The outlook for deer is only fair. Bear hunting in the Upper Peninsula is expected to be good.

In the Upper Peninsula where the winter was favorable and nesting conditions were good, the ruffed grouse population appears to be up 15 to 20 percent from last year when "pat" hunting was rated fair to good.

The native woodcock population is reported to be as high as it was in 1970 in the Upper Peninsula. This, coupled with flights of migratory birds, should make woodcock hunting especially rewarding above the Straits in late September.

Success of duck hunting in the Upper Peninsula is largely dependent upon migrating waterfowl, and prospects are good. Reports from the prairie provinces of Canada and from Ontario indicate populations of most species are up from last year.

Deer hunting this year in the Upper Peninsula is expected to be only fair. Last winter was unusually severe in the better deer range and losses were significant. Effects of the winter will be felt by hunters in a lowered number of yearling bucks.

The Upper Peninsula's bear population is as high or higher than it was last year. This means that the special Sept. 10-Oct. 31 season, when hunting with dogs is permitted, should be successful. Archers can be optimistic about their Oct. 1-Nov. 14 bear season above the Straits. Bears also will be legal game in the Upper Peninsula during the regular deer season. Nov 15-Nov. 30.

Bear hunting in the Lower Peninsula will be by permit only in the counties of Alcona, Alpena, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Iosco, Kalkaska, Montmorency, Ogemaw, Oscoda, Otsego, Presque Isle, and Roscommon.

Improved hunting for grouse and woodcock are predicted for the northern half of the Lower Peninsula. A favorable winter and a better than average nesting season should pay off in more "pats" and "timber doodles," say Department biologists.

Prospects are especially promising for duck hunters in this part of the state. Production of native ducks has been good, despite a prolonged dry spell. Rivers and streams, lakes, marshes, and potholes in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula have been highly productive this year.

The deer situation in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula will be about what is expected for the Upper Peninsula—only fair. David A. Arnold, Department deer specialist, comments: "The winter didn't cause the problems here that it did farther north, but success will probably be near the level of a year ago, which was lower than for several years."

According to Arnold, deer populations are better in a band about 50 miles wide from Lake and Newaygo counties northeastward to Alcona and Alpena counties.

For the southern half of the Lower Peninsula, prospects are brightest for duck hunters. The favorable conditions of the northern half of the Lower Peninsula are even more favorable in the southern counties.

This part of the state is Michigan's traditional "pheasant country," but ringneck hunting is expected to be only fair. Prospects are brightest for the central and southwest counties.

Although Southern Michigan deer numbers have been on the increase, hunting opportunities are limited by the fact that most of the land is privately owned. Highest deer concentrations are in the south-central counties.

Quail hunting should be fair in counties open to taking bobwhites: Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Clinton, Eaton, Genesee, Gratiot, Hillsdale, Ingham, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lenawee, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Saginaw, St. Clair, St. Joseph, Shiawassee, Washtenaw, and Wayne.

Cottontail rabbit hunting should be fair to good through the winter in most of the Lower Peninsula, and snowshoe (varying hare) populations are normal in Michigan's northern counties.

Predictions are that fox squirrel hunting in the Lower Peninsula will be good, especially in farm woodlots in southern counties. No significant changes from last year are reported for gray and black squirrels in the Upper Peninsula.

Michigan to Try Out New Test for Drivers

The next time you renew your driver license, you may take your reexamination with "DAVE."

Michigan Secretary of State Richard H. Austin has announced the start of the pilot program to test the Driver Audio-Visual Examining system, nicknamed "DAVE", a new system using sound-filmstrip projector units similar to a small television set.

The primary purpose of DAVE is to have currently-licensed drivers to re-evaluate their driving habits and outline traffic regulations and defensive driving techniques, Austin said.

"We are going to be testing the new system in several of our examining bureaus to make sure all 'bugs' are out before we expand the program statewide," he said.

The pilot machines are being set up at branch offices in Lansing, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Charlotte, Howell, and Corunna, 227 N. Shiawassee.

"During our field-trials, every applicant taking a vision test on the DAVE system will also be given a vision test on the telebinocular device that has been in use for many years. We are doing this as a means of double-check the accuracy of that portion of the test," Austin said.

The pilot program will run about 60 days. If found feasible, the entire project will be put into operation in late December or early January.

The DAVE system had its origin back in 1967 but its development got into high gear in February of 1969 when the Michigan Department of State was awarded a 50-50 matching fund grant by the U.S. Department of Transportation to establish such a testing program, Austin said.

The applicant will first be given the vision test, checking peripheral vision and eye strength.

Once the vision test has been completed, the program will advance to a series of 10 "knowledge type questions" relating to safety and driving regulations. After each question, the applicant will have slightly more than five seconds to mark his answer on a score sheet.

Total cost of the program when implemented statewide, including development costs, will be about $222,000, of which one-half has been contributed by the federal government.

According to Austin, the DAVE test is not a "pass-fail" examination in the sense that a driver must have a certain score to 'pass.' Rather, it is an essential new effort to prompt licensed drivers to re-evaluate their driving habits and update their knowledge of the more critical requirements of modern-day driving.

Once instituted, the DAVE system will give the Department the opportunity for a more meaningful, face-to-face contact with all renewal applicants, and a chance to discuss individual driving problems or new laws, Austin said.

"In addition, the Department will be better able to plan public information programs and similar activities aimed at correcting some of the deficiencies in knowledge that are brought to our attention through regular and periodic analysis of test questions," he said.

"The contention is that a driver who is well informed concerning traffic laws, emergency procedures, and defensive driving concepts, for example, will be better equipped to survive in today's traffic than a driver who is not so well informed," Austin said.

"We have faith that the new program will better equip today's driver to the point where the DAVE system will have a significant positive impact on the accident picture.

"It may not be a bad idea for Michigan motorists to check their driver license right now. If it's about to expire, you may be meeting DAVE sooner than expected," Austin said.

Ohio, Iowa Teenagers Refurnish Indian Church

By BERNICE WEXSTAFF

Something good has been happening at Greensky Hill this summer: Not one but two contingents of church dedicated young people – the first group from Iowa, the second from Dayton, Ohio – have cut the tall grass surrounding the new circle of Council Trees and painted the trim on the 125-year-old church.

The seven boys and two girls were chaperoned by the Reverend Everett H. Aldstadt of the Fairview church and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johns.

According to the girls, Cindy Lamb and Jan Carrigan, it has been a great summer clearing the brush surrounding the outdoor tabernacle, filling in the deeper holes in the wide yard that is Greensky Hill Indian Church holdings, and working alongside their chaperons and male contemporaries with paint brush, rake and hoe.

Of course there was considerable play with the work. After the tents were put in order, meals prepared in the church kitchen and dishes washed there were plenty of "rap" sessions and games.

When asked how the group selected their summer's objective, Rev. Aldstadt told of the Board of Missions' long list of mission projects and the group quite simply picked out the Greensky Hill mission at Charlevoix as not too far yet not too near home base. They say they are glad they picked Greensky Hill as here they had quick access to the clear, clean waters of Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

There's small doubt but that the Fairview Methodist youths had a summer to remember at Greensky Hill and the church members are glad they came to help them with their summer housekeeping and worship with the congregation at their summer services for the benefit of all.

However, Greensky Hill is not the first of these mission projects in northern Michigan. Two summers ago a larger group came from University Methodist Church, East Lansing, to do their bit for the Indian Methodist Church at Kewadin. On this occasion the group not only built a recreation building from the foundation up but brought along such essential furnishings as a stove, refrigerator, tables and chairs to complete the project.

On checking with other denominations it is learned that the Methodists are not alone in striving to provide useful work and summer fun for their youth. The Presbyterians have a long list of mission projects. Mrs. Fred Mahaffie of the Belvedere Club whose home church is located in Kalamazoo tells of the youth trips to Appalachia and the work in those area of need.

Mrs. Robert Pfeiffer, longtime summer resident of Oyster Bay on Lake Charlevoix's north shore, who with her husband, Rev. Robert Pfeiffer, now makes California her winter home, tells of Episcopal youths of Lauguna Beach who undertook the chore of painting the home of a handicapped person who was not even a member of the church.

These youths are not the new breed of "Jesus Freaks." These dedicated young people are working within the framework of organized churches to give new meaning to both the established church and their own personal relationship to the "faith of their fathers."

CINDY LAMB and Jan Carrigan of Dayton, Ohio, were among the young people who helped spruce up the Greensky Hill Indian Church this summer.

Did Right Court Hear Indian Case?

The Michigan Supreme Court decision last week relative to Indian hunting and fishing rights raises an entirely new question:

Did the right court hear the case?

The high court held that only Chippewa Indians living in the Keweenaw Bay region of the Upper Peninsula are subject to provisions of an 1854 treaty granting Indians unlimited hunting and fishing privileges.

The decision was intended to be a clarification of a high-court edict handed down in April which upheld Indian rights under the ancient treaty.

Indians throughout Michigan interpreted that ruling to mean that they were to enjoy unlimited hunting and fishing privileges.

A handful of Indians even ventured into commercial fishing operations, to the chagrin of Department of Natural Resources people who feared a rapid depletion of recently restocked lake trout in the Great Lakes.

The same Indians who hailed the original high court decision are now wondering if the right court heard the case, particularly since the "clarification" decision limits hunting and fishing privileges to Indians in the Keweenaw Bay area.

And maybe they have a point. The treaty was between the United States government and the Indians. It seems the case should more properly have been heard by a federal court rather than a state court, since the state, technically, was no party to the original agreement.

Although Indians outside the Keweenaw Bay area have made no move as yet to appeal the case in federal court, such litigation probably will not be long in coming.

The results will be eagerly awaited among Indians in Charlevoix County whose hunting and fishing privileges have been rescinded by the second state Supreme Court decision.

A Widow's Tribute to Charlevoix

Although it is almost inconceivable that any "good" could come out of the deaths of the nine U.S. airmen aboard the B-52 which crashed off Charlevoix last Jan. 7, the widow of one of the victims is attempting to salvage the hopes and ambitions of her late husband.

Mrs. John M. Simonfy jr. has made a donation to the Lt. Col. John M. Simonfy Jr. Memorial Scholarship Fund at the Clarke School for the Deaf in the name of the people of Charlevoix.

The gift was prompted by the "warm-heartedness" displayed by Charlevoixans during the dedication of a plaque last July commemorating the lost airmen.

A letter from Clarke School announcing the gift mentioned that the Simonfys' son, Christopher, attends the school and that the boy's father intended to become a teacher of the deaf after his retirement from military service.

Because of Mrs. Simonfy's gift, we feel we know at least one of the victims better than we did and we feel his loss more deeply.

Clarke School for the Deaf,

History of Charlevoix: First Settlers Arrive

(Following is the first installment of the pamphlet "Brief History of Charlevoix, Michigan — 1857-1870" compiled by Eleanor Ratigan, assistant librarian at the Charlevoix Public Library.)

THE SETTLERS ARRIVE

By Eleanor Ratigan

Until Michigan became a state in 1837, the area now known as Charlevoix was part of the historic Michilimackinac country. In 1840, a certain portion of the state was laid off as a separate county and designated by the name of Keskkauko (also spelled Reshkanko and Keskonko).

On March 8th, 1843, the name was changed to Charlevoix in honor of Father Pierre Francis Zavier de Charlevoix, one of the early missionaries and explorers.

During the early 1840's, only occasional fishermen, traders, hunters and missionaries reached the area. The village of Pine Lake was virtually an undeveloped and unexplored area of dense woods with lakes and streams bubbling with fish. Bordering the natural curve of a large bay in Lake Michigan were high sand dunes. Cutting into the bay was Pine River, a tiny stream, choked with fallen timber from both banks, very shallow, with a swift current. It was not navigable for boats of any size.

On the north bank was a high bluff surmounted by five pine trees that could be seen from some distance and which, no doubt, gave the subsequent village the name of Pine River.

Government maps called it "Green River" and the lake from which it flowed (now known as Lake Charlevoix) was called Long Lake. The country was an unbroken forest from Bear River (now Petoskey) on the north to Elk Rapids on the south.

There were no Indians at Pine River until 1857 when two bands came from Northport and settled in the area. Shawan-da-sa was chief of the band that settled at Susan Lake. There were no roads or trails between Bear River (Petoskey) and Elk Rapids. The only communication was by boat or along the shore of Lake Michigan.

After King Strang brought his Mormon followers to the Beaver Island in 1847, a few of the Saints, disenchanted with Strang's philosophy and doctrines, moved to Charlevoix, but they were not compatible with the first few early settlers. The early pioneers and the Mormons were never able to live together in peace.

A skirmish between the fishermen and a company of Mormons was the first event of any unusual character connected with Charlevoix.

After this so-called Battle of Pine River, the settlement was virtually abandoned until the spring of 1854 when two Mormon families arrived. George Preston and Galen B. Cole, with their families, were the first actual pioneers.

Medad Thompson and his family arrived in 1854 and John S. Dixon and his family arrived in 1855. They were not Mormons.

In 1853, the counties of Emmet and Charlevoix were organized under the name of Emmet, and provisions were made for organizing the town of Charlevoix to embrace the territory of the county. In the winter of 1869, a bill was passed by the legislature organizing the county of Charlevoix.

During the season of 1857, there were a number of new arrivals, but the winter of 1857-58 was so severe that a few of the discouraged and hungry settlers moved away. Provisions were so low in the barrel that the men had to walk to Traverse City, carrying the supplies home on their backs. At that time there was only an Indian trail and a very crude logging road.

Compares Road to Sahara

August 30, 1971

Charlevoix County Road Commission
1051 E. Division
Boyne City, Michigan

Gentlemen:

In the spring of 1971, you cut through a road at Boulder and Western, Boulder Park, Charlevoix Township, Michigan.

When the weather is dry, the road throws up more dust than a sandstorm on the Sahara Desert, blanketing our homes with dust.

When the weather is wet the road becomes a mire with cars bogging down in the middle requiring masculine back-power or the AAA towing service to move through the soggy sand.

Would you please lay down the road properly or let it return to the wild-field that it was before your bull-dozers ripped off the grass and top soil creating Boulder Park's Dust Bowl.

Sincerely,

Monte M. Korn
President
Boulder Park Association

Q. The news media has been talking lately about Resolution G-G, which has passed the House and is now pending in the Senate. I would like as much information as possible regarding Resolution G-G. O.S., Charlevoix.

A. Many questions are being asked these days about Resolution G-G which, if approved by the Senate as a follow-up to House approval, could lead to a change in the State Constitution. Here are some of the questions being asked and the answers:

Q. Specifically, what would the resolution do if passed by a two-thirds vote of the Senate?

A. It would give Michigan voters an opportunity to change Article IX of the state Constitution, which deals with Finance and Taxation.

Q. How would it change the Constitution?

A. It would change the present provision pertaining to the property tax as a primary source of school operating financing and remove the present constitutional provision against a graduated income tax.

Q. Would it totally eliminate the property tax as a source of school funds?

A. No. Even its backers agree that three mills would be imposed for vocational education, special education and compensatory education and one-half mill for intermediate school districts.

Q. Would this be the absolute maximum for school purposes?

A. No. By a vote of the people six mills could be added for "enrichment purposes."

Q. Would it be possible to levy further taxes on property for other purposes under this constitutional change?

A. Yes, Up to 7¼ mills could be levied for county purposes, 1½ mills for township purposes and one mill for community colleges.

Q. Is that the absolute limit?

A. No. the proposal would permit increasing the "existing millages allowed by law" up to 14 mills for county and township and 2½ mills for community colleges for up to 20 years if approved by a vote of the people.

Q. What, then, would be the absolute limit?

A. The proposal says "in no event shall the aggregate of the limitations for county, township, community colleges, and school districts exceed 26 mills on each dollar of valuation."

Q. Is a levy of 26 mills, then, the absolute property tax limit?

A. No. the limit does not apply to taxes imposed for building and site purposes "or for payment of principal and interest on bonds or other evidence of indebtedness or for the payment of assessments or contract obligations in anticipation of which bonds are issued, which taxes may be imposed without limitation as to rate or amount; or to taxes imposed for any other purpose by any city, village, charter county, charter township, charter authority or other authority, the tax limitations of which are provided by charter or by general law."

The Case For Vo-Ed

Just when you think that everybody and his little brother is sold on the idea of vocational education, you run into someone who isn't.

Last week a well-dressed, well-spoken ex-Charlevoixan, who still owns property in town, stopped at the office to pay a bill.

She took a seat while I made out the sales ticket, and after our business was completed we proceeded to talk about one thing and another.

Like most conversations, ours eventually turned to schools and taxes.

She thinks it is a crime that the Charlevoix School District buys residential property and then sends classes of boys out to build a house.

She also thinks it is a waste of taxpayers' money to teach such subjects as auto mechanics, particularly when it involves the expenditure of good greenbacks to buy a garage.

Our conversation started me wondering how many other taxpayers in the Charlevoix School District are opposed to the new drift toward vocational education that has taken place in recent years in these parts. If there is one objector, there are probably many more.

My visitor thinks school is no place to teach such things as building trades and auto mechanics. She believes they are more properly taught on-the-job, after a fellow leaves school.

And she wonders how such subjects can be taught at all, with state prohibitions against the use of machinery by young people.

They are all good questions and I am beginning to wonder how thorough a job our educators have done in exploring the in's and out's of vocational education as it is shaping up in Charlevoix.

As a long-time advocate of vocational education programs, I attempted to answer my visitor's questions the best I could—but I tend to be a little emotional on the subject and I doubt that I made myself absolutely clear.

So if you will give me a couple of minutes, I'd like to give my views on the subject. And if your views differ, feel free to set them down on paper and we'll be happy to run them.

First off, I feel that any youngster who is in the clutches of our educational system for 13 years should emerge from school with some kind of saleable skill, whether or not he intends to go on to college.

This is not to belittle college-bound courses in any way. They are absolutely essential for the young fellow who intends to further his education on the college level.

But there are a good many of our youngsters who are simply not destined to walk in the Gardens of Academe and waft the blossoms of advanced education.

Graduation for them must mean a lifetime of work and the least they can expect from society is some kind of school training that will help them earn a living.

The more skills we can teach our young while they are in school, the better. After all, these are their learning years.

Of course, not every one enrolled in building trades classes is going to go on to be a carpenter, plumber, bricklayer, painter or electrician. But if he is not going on to college, exposure to such skills is going to be a lot more valuable to him than essay writing or social sciences once he leaves high school.

It is unfortunate, perhaps, that we live in a college-oriented society. The philosophy has somehow taken root in this country that a fellow has to attend school 16 or 20 years in order to make something of himself.

Yet plenty of college graduates are going hungry, while a good number of high school dropouts are doing very well for themselves, thank you.

Our schools, ideally, should be geared to accommodate the needs of all our students, not just those favored few with the money and brains to wade through four years of college curricula.

Can we afford such a school system?

Of course we can. We might better ask ourselves whether we can afford not to have such a school system, in view of the vast sums now expended to keep our under educated high school graduates on the county dole.

Next Question

By JIM FITZGERALD

The latest gimmick in column writing enables the columnist to tell you everything he always wanted you to know but you'd never ask, you jerk. The columnist interviews himself, answering his own questions:

Question: The mayor of your favorite town just opened a new freeway by sawing a log. This is just the latest take-off on the traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony. Banks now cut ribbons of $5 bills when they open branches, and grocery stores cut strings of baloney. Can you add anything to this bit of Americana?

Answer: Certainly. The other day, soon after our family checked into a motel, I noticed my 13-year-old son taking a full bottle of gin from my portable bar. He headed for the bathroom with it. I asked him what he was doing. His explanation revealed that he has combined ribbon cutting with the christening of ships. He said he was going to use the bottle of gin to break the sanitary ribbon on the toilet seat.

Q – You and your wife and son recently spent three days in Detroit watching the Tigers play baseball. Earlier this season you went on the road, watching them play in Cleveland and New York. How come you go to so many Tiger games?

A – Because I can't stand to stay home and listen on the radio, or watch them on TV. Announcers George Kell and Ernie Harwell and their assistants are the biggest ho-hummers on the air. It is bad enough that they are boring. But their blatant partisanship is even worse. They never knock a Tiger. Tigers are all great players and fine human beings. Once this year Dalton Jones was playing right field and TV showed plainly that he messed up two fly balls that a crippled infant could have caught. Kell didn't even mention the awful goofs. What kind of reporting is that? The trouble is that Kell and company are Tiger employees and it is poor business to knock the boss in public. Sports announcers should be employed by their radio and TV stations, not by the home team. Would you trust a labor reporter if he were on the GM payroll?

Q – Read any good books lately?

A – I just finished Frank Beard's diary of a year on the professional golf tour. It is not so good as it is incredible. Apparently without realizing it, Beard revealed himself to be 1 of the world's great cheapskates. He took his wife and 3 small children on tour and insisted that they all stay in 1 motel room. He complained bitterly about the noise and diapers but refused to rent 2 rooms "because I just can't see wasting the money." That year Beard won more than any other pro golfer, over $125,000. He could have rented 3 rooms and hired Howard Johnson to make the beds.

Q – Currently, what is your must unfavorite TV commercial?

A – That one where the boob housewife refuses to trade her box of Tide for 100 boxes of anything else, no matter how hard the huckster coaxes her. You can worry about crime in the streets. I worry about stupidity in the supermarkets. According to TV, the A & P is full of giggling women with mush for brains. They are constantly pursued up and down the aisles by smiling men with TV cameras hidden in their noses. I say bring back the old-fashioned grocery store where you simply handed the grocer your list and you didn't have to slap his hands for squeezing your toilet paper.

Q – Is it ture that you celebrated your 45th birthday in an old-fashioned ice cream parlour?

A – Yes, at Farrell's, in Flint; a great place where everyone sings happy birthday and they give you a free Sundae. The experience in clean living didn't hurt me a bit but the walls of the Alibi Bar crumbled that same night. Onward and Upward.

Law Helps You Fight Pollution

By ATTORNEY GENERAL
FRANK J. KELLEY

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

Michigan's Environmental Protection Act of 1970, the first of its kind in the nation, has given every Michigan resident important legal weapons to fight harmful pollution.

The act permits any person to bring an action in circuit court for the protection of air, water, or other natural resources from pollution, impairment, or destruction.

Prior to the passage of this law, a private citizen had no legally recognized interest in protecting the environment as a whole; he could only bring legal action against pollution which caused direct and measurable harm to himself or his property.

The Environmental Protection Act applies to the conduct of private individuals, corporations, partnerships, associations, and the state and its political subdivisions (including cities, townships, and counties). Thus, under the act a private citizen can sue a city for discharging sewage into a river or lake, or for allowing a municipal power plant to pollute the air with dense smoke.

If the defendant's conduct falls under the authority of a state administrative agency (such as the Air Pollution Control Commission), the court may remit the parties to that agency for its normal proceedings. The court, however, retains ultimate authority to rule on the environmental effects of the defendant's conduct.

Defendants are protected against "harassment" suits by two features of the act: First, the court may require the complaining party to post a $500 bond to cover court costs in the event he loses the suit, and, secondly, the defendant may prevail if he can prove that there is no reasonable and prudent alternative to his conduct, and that his conduct is consistent with the public health, safety, and welfare, in light of the state's interest in protection of its natural resources.

The 1970 Act serves as much more than a supplement to Michigan's 1929 Water Resources Act and 1965 Air Pollution Control Act. It endows every citizen with the right to an unimpaired environment, and with the means to enforce that right.

Colossus May Rise Again at Rhodes

The medieval battlements and buildings erected by the fabled Knights of St. John dominate the old section of the island's capital, also called Rhodes, the National Geographic Society says.

Above it all towers the palace of the knights' grand master, a squat, solid citadel built more for defense than luxury. Cascades of purple bougainvillea spill over its ramparts.

STORMED BY SULTAN

Driven from the Holy Land, the religious warriors made the 545-square-mile Aegean island their headquarters in 1291 and successfully defended it against the Turks for more than two centuries. They finally were overwhelmed in 1522 by Sultan Suleiman I who supposedly lost 90,000 of his 200,000 men in the assault.

The knights fought so valiantly that the Sultan spared the survivors and allowed them to sail for the island of Malta.

Lying only 12 miles from the Asia Minor coast, Rhodes served as a convenient stepping stone for many invasions.

MANY FLAGS

The island was given to Greece in 1948 under terms of the peace.

Greece gladly has braced itself to welcome Rhodes' newest invasion force—waves of vacationers attracted by the island's comparatively low prices, sweeping beaches, gentle climate, and scenic villages. Among visitors this fall will be the Society of American Travel Writers, in convention.

Legend has it that Helen of Troy visited Rhodes and the hilltop temple of Athena near Lindos. The little town, one of the most famous in the ancient world, gleams a brilliant white. Elaborate Byzantine designs adorn its whitewashed stone houses.

NEWCOMER INSPIRED ARTS

Lindos helped to found and develop the city of Rhodes—and for its pains was soon pushed into the background by its illustrious offspring. The new capital on the northern end of the island moved the Greek geographer Strabo to write:

"The town of Rhodes is, with its different ports, its streets, its walls and general aspect, a city so splendid that I do not know another one which could be its equal."

CULTURAL CENTER

Inspired by the site, artisans and proud citizens fashioned 3,000 lifelike statues for public squares, temples, and streets. Rhodes' maritime laws became models for posterity. Its school of rhetoric attracted Cicero, Julius Caesar, Brutus, Cassius, and Tiberius.

Nothing, however, matched the great Colossus of Rhodes. One of the seven wonders of the ancient world, the enormous bronze statue rose to a height of more than 100 feet and took 12 years to build. It was toppled by an earthquake in 227 B.C., and the pieces eventually were sold as scrap.

The collossus may rise again. Many on the island favor a modern aluminum version which would straddle the harbor, allowing ships to pass through its legs.

recent head count included those on farms as well as those in rural non-farm areas, riding stables, zoos, parks, racetracks and other locations.

According to veterinarians at Michigan State University, there are still no confirmed cases of VEE in horses outside Texas. However, recent casualty figures there showed 1,480 horses dead from the disease and another 1,800 infected.

About 20 states already have started vaccinating horses, according to Dr. Oscar Swanstrom, extension specialist in veterinary medicine at MSU.

The survey showed that Antrim County has only 468 horses, Emmet, 662; Otsego 436; and Grand Traverse, 1,568.

Washtenaw County (Ann Arbor) has the most with 6,066, followed by Genesee County (Flint) with 5,275 and heavily populated Wayne County (Detroit) with 5,170.

Alger County in the Upper Peninsula had the fewest – 131.

From July, 1970, through June, 1971, the X-Ray Department processed 1,717 out-patients and 1,518 in-patients. During July and August of 1971, the department processes 462 out-patients and 324 in-patients.

The meeting is open to all members of the Charlevoix Hospital Association, which includes practically everyone in Charlevoix County over 21 years of age. The by-laws require only that members support the hospital by means of gifts to community chests, welfare funds and other agencies.

Kreuger says he hopes for a big turnout at the meeting to sound out community sentiment relative to hospital operations.

FISH Unit To Hold First Meet Sept. 8

A FISH organizational meeting will be held on Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the First State Bank at 111 State-st., Charlevoix.

"The interest, or lack of it, shown at this meeting will, no doubt, largely determine whether or not, such an organization is established," according to Rev. Duane E. Imig of the Charlevoix County Ministerial Alliance.

FISH is an organization founded in England in 1961 that had its origin in on Anglican church. The fish was used by early Christions as an identifying symbol in time of need.

Today's FISH organization consists of people caring for their fellowman in this modern time of need and willing to be identified by answering this call.

FISH is composed of Christian people wishing to express their love and concern for their neighbors. There is no charge for any service provided, there are no lectures to be heard. Some of the services might be emergency transportation, emergency baby sitting, cooking and housework in case of the aged or illness, and many other activities.

The group operates through a 24-hour telephone answering service that provides the number of a contact person. This person takes the message and the need, then contacts another to perform the task, remaining free to answer the next call.

The number of the contact person is changed every 24 hours. In this way no one person is tied to a phone for longer than a day at a time.

Library Seeks Data

Historians and genealogists take note:

The Charlevoix Library is in the process of compiling a second pamphlet on the history of Charlevoix.

The period to be covered in the new booklet is the decade from 1870 to 1880, according to Mrs. William Ratigan, assistant librarian.

Anyone having documented information concerning family settlement or births or deaths during the period are asked to submit the information to the Library.

"The material must be factual and accurate," Mrs. Ratigan says. "Specific dates are important. Any pertinent material dealing with this decade will be examined and included in the forth-coming pamphlet providing names and dates can be substantiated."

The Library's first booklet oh Charlevoix history, covering the period 1857 to 1870, was published earlier this year.

Bay Shore Site Must Relocate By Sept. '72

The Radar Bomb Scoring Site at Bay Shore probably will move to a new location next year, Lt. Col. Fred Davison, commanding officer, told the Charlevoix City Council Monday night.

Col. Davison thanked the council for its efforts to keep the site at Bay Shore, but pointed out that the Federal Aviation Agency has given the unit permission to operate only until September of 1972.

The site's proximity to Consumer Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant is the major reason for the move, although the route of incoming low-level flights has been moved several miles to the east since the crash of the B-52 in Lake Michigan last January.

Col. Davison told the Courier that the Strategic Air Command also believes there will be some benefit in moving to the site to a location where incoming planes will be tracked over land rather than over water.

Col. Davison said that he and his men have put down deep roots in the Charlevoix area and regret leaving.

After Col. Davison left the room, Mayor Andrew Essenberg urged the aldermen as individuals to write to Cong. Philip Ruppe and other representatives to see what can be done to keep the Bomb Scoring Site at Bay Shore.

He said that the airmen and their families are good neighbors that the Charlevoix area can ill afford to lose.

In other business the council:

–Heard a request by Tom LaBlance of the LaBlance Insurance Agency to explain the dividend portion of the firm's workman's compensation package before bids are accepted. The council agreed.

–Heard a new complaint by Robert Sommerville, James Jensen and Fred Looze that the Roy Pike dwelling on Palmer-st. is a health and safety hazard. Sommerville said very little has been done in the past three months to make the uninhabited building more presentable.

–Heard a report by attorney John Michael who is handling the Shaw-Henderson litigation that he has asked the federal Appeals Court in Cincinnati to dismiss the case after repeated violations of federal court procedure by Shaw-Henderson attorney Charles Boyle of Chicago. If the suit is not dismissed, Michael has asked for more time to review evidence to be placed before the court. He charges specifically that Boyle has introduced new evidence in the appellate court which was not introduced in federal District Court in Grand Rapids.

–Purchased two vehicles on bids from the Charlevoix Oil Co. A Chevrolet utility truck will cost $2,730.51 and an automobile $3,040.20.

–OK'd a dance license for Grey Gables.

34 Are Registered For 'Fleamarket'

Charlevoix's first "Fleamarket" scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 25, is getting off to a surprising start, according to Tom Merta, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager.

Among the unusual items for sale will be bathtubs, shower stalls, hand-made leather-good, guns and rifles, canned goods, motorcycles, snowmobiles, a 1968 Pontiac, baked goods, antiques, rugs; a dining room set, hand-made hinges, ski equipment and children's clothing.

Exhibitors are coming from Midland, Traverse City, Mackinaw City, Petoskey, Boyne City, Ellsworth and East Jordan — as well as Charlevoix.

If the event is a success, it will become one of the Chamber's regularly sponsored September events.

In addition to individual booths, the Fleamarket also will feature booths by church and civic organizations as fund-raising projects. Items for sale will be donated by members.

Merta says there is still some display space available. To reserve your niche in the park, simply stop at the Chamber office on Bridge-st. and pay your $1 registration fee.

School Report Shows Need for Borrowing

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, approved the financial report for the 1970-71 school year, accepted a bid for the Building Trades house in Hampton Village, approved the hot lunch program eligibility policy, adopted a policy regarding complimentary tickets for athletic events, approved President Jerrald Redeker's appointment of an auto shop advisory committee and tabled two issues relating to expenditures of money.

The financial report listed the assets of the school district as $199,734 with a general fund balance of $71,033, the differential between the assets and the liabilities. The actual cash on hand on June 30 available to the general fund was $78,031 on the same date salaries earned and payable was $111,977, thus cash available was not enough to meet salary obligations. Therefore it became necessary to borrow $325,000 during the 1971-72 school year to operate the school district until taxes are received. (The report in its entirety will be published in the Charlevoix Courier).

The bid for the Building Trades house in the amount of $27,500 net was submitted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Kauffman. The two percent deposit accompanied the bid. The bid was accepted. This was the second bid received for the house. The first bidder withdrew his offer when he ran into financing problems.

The new policy for free or reduced price lunches was approved. The income scale in determining the eligibility for the free or reduced price lunches ranges from $2,200 for a family of one to $8,780 for a family of 12. Application for the free or reduced meals may be obtained through the school.

After a lengthy discussion regarding the distribution of complimentary tickets to athletic events, the board adopted a new policy whereby tickets will be available on request to all teachers, school employes and others who render services to the school, exclusive of their spouses and children. This does not apply to Senior Citizens who are issued special school activities tickets.

The policy was adopted after the Sports Boosters objected to what they termed the "wholesale distribution" of complimentary tickets.

The appointment of Richard Fochtman, John Schmidt, Earl Muma, Ronald Peterson and Kenneth Empey to the Auto Repair Advisory Committee by President Redeker was approved. The committee will work closely with the new auto repair instructor, Richard McLennen, and Robert Cook, program coordinator, in establishing the program to be conducted

Saw Sub, Sailed Same

The first submarine to submerge in Lake Charlevoix took its maiden dip on Sunday afternoon with Robert Timms aboard.

The two-man vessel, called the Nautilette, was built by Frank Rigsby of Ft. Wayne, Ind., who trailered it to Charlevoix to demonstrate it for William Garten, manufacturer of shipwreck furniture, and his partner, Timms.

Garten makes all kinds of home furnishings from the timbers of schooners sunk in northern Michigan waters.

The battery-powered vessel is 16 ft., 4 inches long and has three plexiglas turrets for observation.

It can operate to depths of 500 feet and is designed chiefly for oceanographers and salvage workers.

Garten and Timms agree that it also would be helpful in examining and retrieving sunken schooners.

On Sunday, Rigsby and Timms dove near the sunken schooner Keuka, located on the bottom of Lake Charlevoix just off Ferry-ave. beach.

Timms said the late afternoon light on an overcast day was poor, but that they traveled the length of the Keuka at a depth of about 50 feet. They stayed down about 45 minutes.

Later Garten boarded the craft from the deck of his workboat, which was moored above the wreck.

BOB TIMMS OF CHARLEVOIX lowers himself into two-man sub during demonstration Sunday afternoon at Ferry-ave. Beach. The 16-foot, 4-inch Nautilette was built by Frank Rigsby of Ft. Wayne, Ind. He put on a demonstration for Timms and Bill Garten, who build shipwreck furniture

Weight Watchers Plans Open Meeting

Weight Watchers of Northern Michigan, Inc., has slated an open meeting at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix on Wednesday, Sept. 15, at 7 p.m.

Interested persons are invited to attend the meeting without charge or obligation to learn how the Weight Watchers program helps take off unwanted pounds.

Weight Watchers teaches a planned eating program based on observations of physicians and nutritionists. It is designed not only to help members lose weight but also to re-educate their eating habits so they will maintain a desired weight for the rest of their lives.

Members meet each week for an educational class. Weight losses (or gains) are recorded and lecturers give tips on proper diet and offer recipes for making the Weight Watchers regimen appealing.

In Charlevoix, meetings are held every Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Community Reformed Church.

Long Locks On Men Pose New Hazard

Long hair, which once was a safety problem for only female employes, is now a hazard for the man on the job as well, according to the Michigan Department of Labor.

On jobs around machinery a tight fitting cap or hat should be worn to keep long hair from becoming entangled in machines and literally scalping the worker, the department says. Long hair is also a hazard around open flames unless precautions are taken to properly cover the head.

Loose fitting clothing, open shirts, billowy sleeves and beads are items which also now endanger both men and women who work around machines.

In addition to dressing safely for work, the department also urged the wearing of safety glasses, safety shoes and other protective equipment prescribed for various jobs.

Welfare Fund Aids Children

By BETH GENEIT

Robert Wasoski, chairman of Children's Welfare for the service groups in Charlevoix, has reported on several emergencies and cases handled by the group composed of the VFW and American Legion and the Auxiliaries of each.

Poppy Day sales netted for children's welfare in the area of which some has been used for physical examinations for children of a family which are required each year.

Some $135 dollars was furnished for physically and mentally handicapped children participating in the "Summer Olympics" and several cases were reported where assistance has been given for emergency relief of veterans' families and children.

Plans are now being made by all groups to arrange the annual Christmas parties to children of veterans.

Ferris Honors Garrett Miller

Garrett C. Miller, a business administration student from Charlevoix, was one of 260 students at Ferris State College honored for scholastic excellence during the summer quarter, according to Dr. James V. Farrell, vice president for academic affairs.

To be named to the Academic Honors List a student must earn at least a 3.25 average on a 4.0 basis and carry a full academic load. A full load is defined as 14 quarter hours or 33.0 clock hours of credit.

You Need Permit To Kill Water Weeds

In an all-out move to safeguard Michigan waters against possible contamination from chemical weed killers, the Department of Natural Resources is now requiring permits for the use of any aquatic herbicide to be applied in public lakes, ponds, or streams.

The DNR's broadened permit rule, administered through its Fisheries Division office in Lansing, continues to exclude private waters where there is no threat of outflows into public watercourses.

DNR officials ordered sweeping extension of the permit requirement after they learned that a previously exempted herbicide was being released in headwater lakes of river systems which were tapped downstream for public water supplies.

That chemical and others not originally covered by the permit system were—and still are—considered environmentally safe by the DNR. It has no record that any of them have posed the slightest hazard to human health or that they have endangered fish and wildlife.

"However," explains DNR Director Ralph A. MacMullan, "we believe it is in the best public interest to take every precaution against such possible problems; remote as they seem to be. When there is even a scant chance that someone's health may be at stake, we must tighten controls as we have done to make sure that nothing goes wrong."

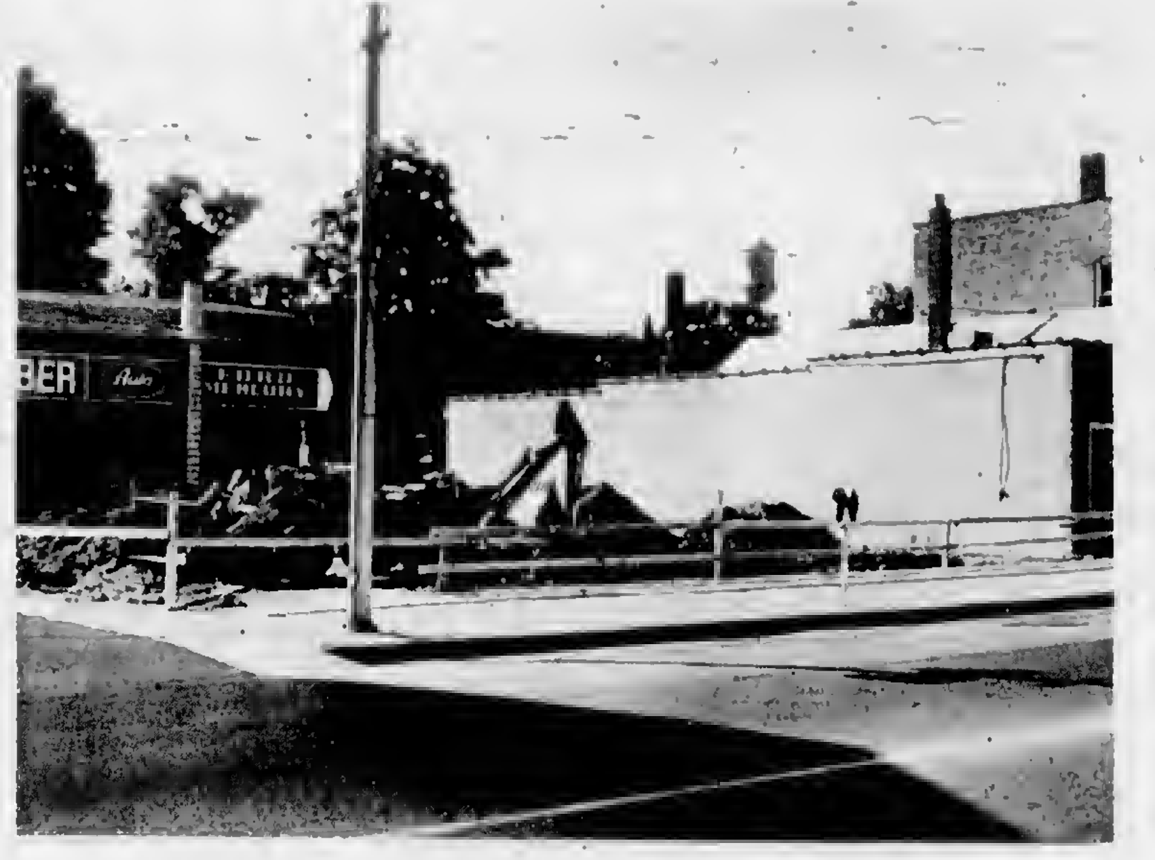
MacMullan reports that the DNR will have to cut back in some of its other activities this year to absorb the heavier workload and higher administrative coasts which will be faced under the expanded permit system.

Among the commonly used water-weed killers now added to the DNR's blanket permit list for public waters are Aquathol, Diquat, and varieties of 2-4-D.

Persons seeking permits to use any such herbicides must satisfy the DNR that they can –and will–release the chemicals at proper rates and control their treatments within problem areas to adequately safeguard public water values.

Those same protective conditions were built into the previous permit system which covered more potent aquatic herbicides.

As under that system, permits covered by the broadened program must be obtained through the DNR's Fisheries Division office, located in the Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing. Persons seeking these permits may initially contact DNR fisheries men in their local areas.



A NEW commercial building is under construction on Bridge-st. on the site of the former Erber used car lot. Owner of the property is Clare Staley, proprietor of Staley's Hardware. Staley isn't sure who will occupy the building. The cement block structure will measure 55 by 70 feet. Contractor is Petrie Construction of East Jordan.

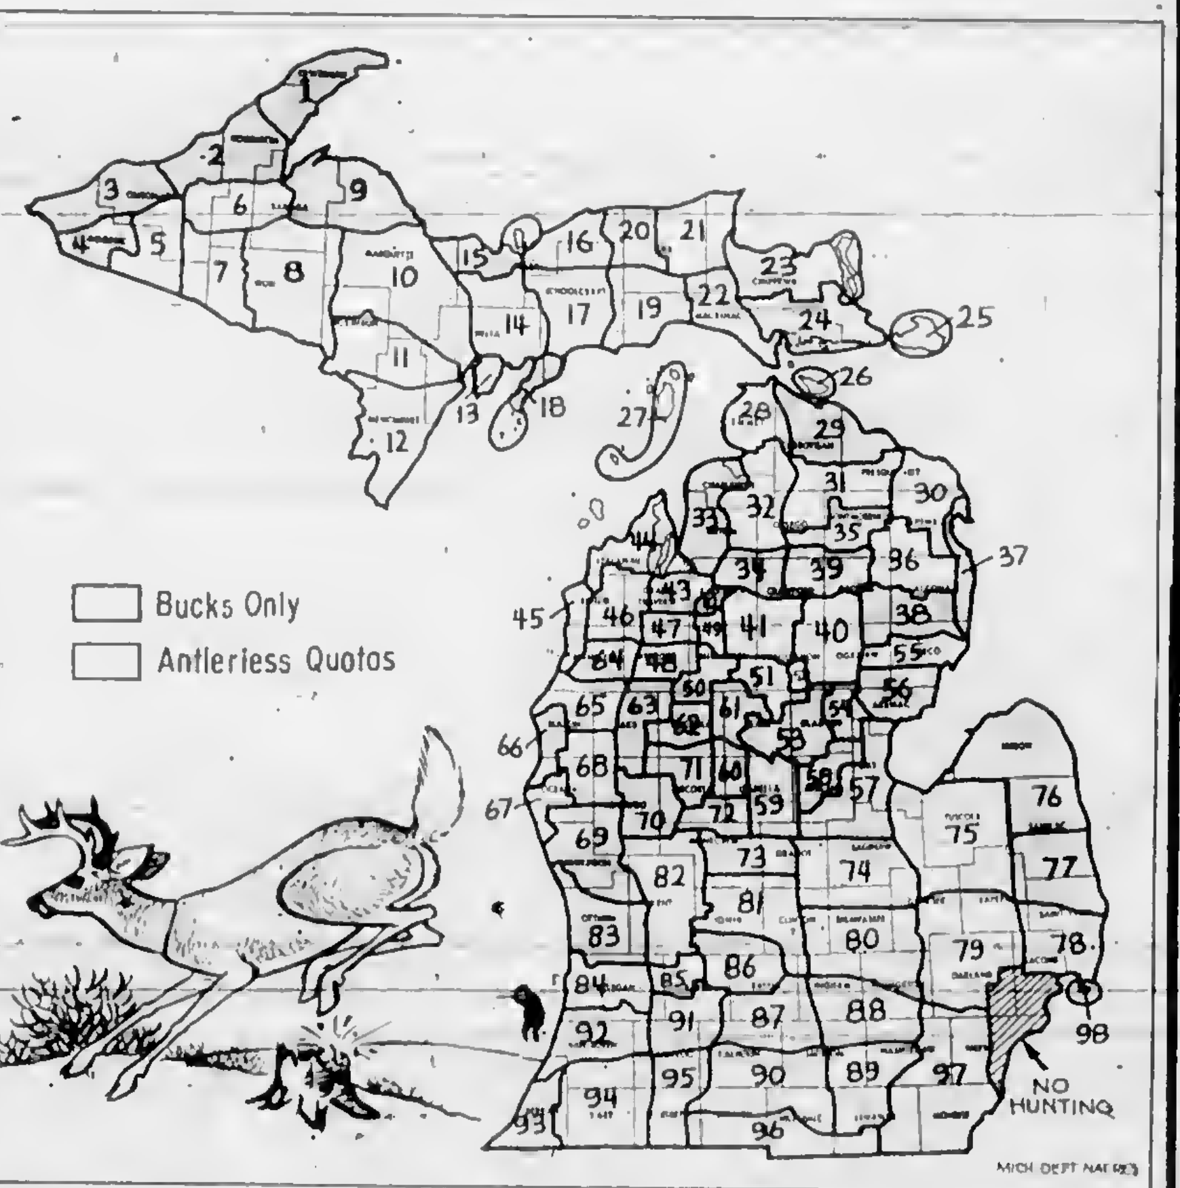
Deer Hunting Format for '71



Of Michigan's 98 permanent deer management areas, the 64 shown here will be open to antlerless deer hunting during the state's Nov. 15-30 firearm season on whitetails. Hunters are reminded that Sept. 30 is the deadline to postmark applications for permits to hunt antlerless deer in these areas where the collective take of these animals is expected to total about 19,000. Sportsmen may pick up permit application forms at local license dealers when they buy their 1971 firearm deer licenses. Instructions for filling out those forms are carried in copies of Michigan's rules for deer and bear hunting, also available at license dealers. State-wide, 89,500 antlerless deer hunting permits are offered for this season. Of those, about 32,920 will go for Upper Peninsula hunters whose expected take of antlerless deer is scaled at 6,120 animals. For the northern Lower Peninsula, where this fall's antlerless kill quota has been chopped nearly in half from 1970, some 37,340 permits are open to applications. The harvest quota for that region is 8,760 antlerless animals. Some 19,240 permits will be issued to hunters in southern Lower Michigan where this season's antlerless deer take is programmed at 4,140 animals.

Library Notes

With the children back in school, it's easy-reading time, and the Library suggests the following titles for deserving mothers' R and R.

Michael Campbell has come along with a comic masterpiece that wins favor with all readers. It has to do with Harriet de Courcey, an ancient, thin lady whose husband bolted with the family silver to the Isle of Wight. Now she lives in solitary splendor at Dublin's Glocca Morra Guest House, running up bills with reckless abandon and waiting for something to happen. Things began to happen when her nephew publishes a highly libelous novel about her. There is a chance for Harriet to make a mint of money in a libel suit or to become immortalized by its circulation. Then her long-lost husband returns for a divorce, and we leave the final ending of this delightful and effervescent novel to the reader! "Nothing Doing" by Michael Campbell. Highly recommended.

Arthur Cavanaugh, with the gift of the born storyteller, has recently published another novel that re-creates the mysteries, the warmth, the small and large tragedies of childhood. "Leaving Home" is the story of Robbie Connerty, the youngest in a large, loving Brooklyn Irish family. But in spite of warmth and affection, Robbie is afraid that he is somehow unwanted. The small signs gradually acquire weight with the passing years and only become unraveled when it is almost too late. There are dozens of characters around Robbie—his gentle father, his mother, his brothers and sisters; friends and relatives. Robbie searches each one hoping to discover himself and then he finds it, as we all do, by leaving home.

"The Borefoot Man" is a new novel by Davis Grubb. It is probably the most searing and convincing work to come out of the American agony in the 1930's since Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."

The author turns to the scarred hills of West Virginia for his background and to the savagery and courage of the coal miners who live there. His hero is Farjeon, the stranger, driving from his farm by the Depression, who wanders into the town of Glory in mid-strike. He loses his pregnant wife in the fight between the striking miners and the armed strikebreakers who oppose them. Like a wounded animal, Farjeon stays with the defeated miners to revenge himself on the killers. "Barefoot Man" is a powerful and original novel written by an author who has been compared to D.H. Lawrence.

Stories of survival have been so popular lately that the Library is constantly receiving requests for them. "The Crossing" by Brian Rothery is a new title. It is a slim volume which tells of Peter Jacobson, a trained 20th-century logician, who finds himself confronted by mankind's oldest problem—survival in a hostile environment. Trapped alone in a frozen Greenland wilderness, he must somehow get to the other side of an icy river to reach his food and supplies. The author, a distinguished computer expert, has based his hero's dilemma on his own personal experience during an expedition to Baffin Island in the Canadian Arctic, and has drawn on his expertise in the computer field for his hero's unique approach to that dilemma. This is an unusual and exceptionally well-written book.

County Bank Gals Win First State Title

Of all the athletic teams the city of Charlevoix has sent forth to do battle over the years, it took a girl's softball team to bring home Charlevoix's first state title.

Needless to say the team deserves a hearty "well done" from the home town folks after winning the Class "D" softball crown at Coldwater over the Labor Day weekend.

The team is sponsored by the Charlevoix County State Bank and is managed by Dave Smith, a former Charlevoix High School and Central Michigan University athlete who now teaches and coaches in Saginaw.

Members of the team are Georgia Lusk, Sue Seese, Barbara Gallagher, Tricia Young, Pam Russell, Chris Carey, Mary Plum, Arlene Blisett, Ellen and Erin Arvilla, Julie Supernaw, Connie Doan, Marsha Keck, Betty Brainard and Kitty Dominic.

To win the title the Charlevoix gals defeated Vivienne's Beauty Shop of Grand Rapids 9 to 8; Marine City, 12 to 4; Flint IMA 15 to 6 and the Daly Drive-In, Livonia, 5 to 4.

The Courier adds its accolades to those of the County Bank, which toasted the champs at a banquet Saturday night at the Woodshed.

It's not every day Charlevoix wins a state title. Or every year. Or every decade. Or every century, for that matter.

Why Not 'Scenery Bank' To Protect Wild Land?

The controversial "Monroe Creek Impoundment", which many of us thought had died aborning several years ago, is still alive and kicking, according to developer Frank Shelden of Detroit.

In case you have forgotten, Shelden plans to cut down a 400-acre cedar swamp on the west side of M-66 between Ironton and East Jordan, build a dam across Monroe Creek, flood the swamp and establish a 1,500 homesite development with the man-made lake as the focal point.

The Department of Natural Resources has run hot and cold on the development. Some officials think it's a good idea. Others are aghast at the very thought of converting such a vast amount of game cover into an artificial lake.

Still others are fearful of thermal pollution of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix because of the warming influence of the new lake.

Shelden contends that the swamp doesn't shelter as much game as some people believe and he says that water drawn off the bottom of the lake actually will be cooler than present Monroe Creek water entering the South Arm during hot weather.

Regardless of who is right, we believe the time has come for the state to take a long, hard look at resort developments of the size and scope of the Monroe Creek Impoundment in northern Michigan.

Unless the state steps in, the day is fast approaching when the rolling woodlands of Charlevoix County — the same woodlands our many visitors come north to enjoy — will be replaced by an endless panorama of suburban housing of the type that can be found around any major city.

And if there's one thing we don't need in Charlevoix County it's a "Livonia of the North," or a "Dearborn of the North" or even a "Bloomfield Hills of the North."

Without a doubt, the northwest corner of the Lower Peninsula is one of the most beautiful areas of the State. The beauty derives from a pleasing combination of woods, waters and sparkling clean air, coupled with a scarcity of population which keeps the water relatively clean and the air relatively pure.

Visitors by the thousands flock to Charlevoix County every summer to enjoy the very things the developers will destroy if they continue to subdivide every new pasture and woodlot without let or hindrance.

Is it selfish for the residents of Charlevoix County to attempt to keep the area much as it is today? We think not, because if the land developers take over there will be nothing left for any of us to enjoy — even the little fellow who buys a half-acre lot in Charlevoix County to get away from the city rat race.

What can the state do?

How about a "Scenery Bank", something like the federal government's soil bank.

Let's give our farmers and other holders of vast tracts of land either a tax break — or an outright stipend — to do nothing with their property at all except sit on it.

The federal government does it with crop land. Why can't the state do it with scenic land?

Another possible solution would be to require land developers to install tertiary treatment sewage plants and municipal water systems before they sell their first lot.

The very cost of such improvements would force the developers to move their projects close to established communities, leaving our wilderness lands intact.

We are sure that Frank Shelden means well. He wants to make a model community of the Monroe Creek Impoundment, complete with a golf course and tennis courts.

But we are sorry he has elected to destroy a cedar swamp in the process. You can't build a good cedar swamp today for love nor money.

Q: What effect will the California ruling on property tax have on my own property tax? A.D., Indian River

A: The ruling of the California Supreme Court that bans local property taxes as a means of financing education is being watched with great interest in Michigan. Those who have been pushing such a plan in Michigan are delighted and see in the ruling a good chance that the precedent set by the California Supreme Court will carry over into Michigan.

Courts traditionally have a way of citing rulings by other courts as a basis for their own rulings.

Actually, the California ruling cannot be considered of major import in Michigan because the drive to lower school property taxes in Michigan already is in high gear.

Although the proposed change in the Michigan Constitution to effect the property tax reduction may not be up to a vote of the people this fall, few capitol observers doubt that the idea can long be held off.

The big question is not so much whether property taxes will be reduced —or perhaps eliminated—as means of financing education in Michigan but, rather, what taxes will be instituted to take the place of the lost property taxes.

Q. It is my understanding that as a student at Michigan State University, I will be able to register and vote in East Lansing. What are your views regarding college students being allowed to vote where they attend school?

A. It came as no surprise to capitol observers when the Democrat-oriented Michigan State Supreme Court ruled that college students must be allowed to vote where they are attending school.

Polls have consistently shown that a majority of college students lean toward the Democrat party. The ruling provides Democrats with large concentrations of potential party voters.

The ruling, however, also provides potential danger for property owners in cities like East Lansing, Ypsilanti, Kalamazoo, Mt. Pleasant, Ann Arbor and Marquette where large concentrations of college students can, if they wish, outvote regular residents.

It is not difficult to recognize that students could gang up and take control of city councils, vote prohibitive taxes for unsound social schemes (since they have nothing to lose), take their diplomas and head back home—leaving regular residents saddled with taxes they can ill afford to pay.

Bernard Apol, State Elections Director, also sees the possibility of college students voting both in their home communities and in the towns where they temporarily live while attending school.

U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell points out that giving college students the right to vote in their temporary residences discriminates in their favor against the eight million servicemen who are also temporarily away from home.

But, in Michigan, the Supreme Court has spoken and that is the law unless it is overturned by appeal to a higher court.

Smokey Says:

MATCHES... not for kids!

Children can prevent fires, by not playing with matches!

Clockwise — Why?

By BOB CLOCK

What possesses an otherwise rational person to get up at 5 o'clock in the morning, drive 50 miles and walk across the five-mile-long Mackinac Bridge from stem to stern?

What demon coerces a paunchy gentleman of 43 to hop on his bicycle and pedal 40 miles around Lake Charlevoix on an otherwise perfect fall day?

I don't know, but I wish I did.

The bridge walk, of course, is behind me. And although the bike hike is still ahead at this writing, I fully expect to show up at Edwards' IGA parking lot at 8 a.m. Saturday to take part in that foolhardy event.

Why?

As I said, I don't know. But I suspect that it has something to do with the fact that most persons with relatively sedentary jobs suffer from an acute lack of action and derring-do in their day-to-day lives.

I don't think you would find many race car drivers, stunt pilots or tightrope walkers trudging across Big Mac on a sunny Labor Day morning. They're at home in bed where the Good Lord intended them to be.

But you'll find plenty of grandmothers, housewives, file clerks, and newspaper editors out there on the bridge, puffing along as though their lives depended on it.

An in a sense they do. Goodness knows how many of us would yawn ourselves to death if something like the Bridge Walk or a bike hike didn't come along every so often to give a robust change-of-pace to the lock-step of daily living.

I've been afflicted with this particular malady ever since I was a kid.

I always welcomed strikes against the Detroit Street Railways (DSR) in Detroit because it gave me a good excuse to walk all kinds of places that I would normally travel to via streetcar or bus. I enjoyed a strange satisfaction marching through unfamiliar neighborhoods that I knew only vaguely through the grimey windows of public conveyances.

In college, I picked apples or harvested sugar beets on weekends, not so much for the money as to satisfy a yearning to do something different for a change.

Later, while stationed with the Army in Japan, I joined the ranks of GI imbeciles who wasted a perfectly good three-day pass climbing the lava-strewn slopes of Mt. Fujiyama. All 12,395 feet of it. I still have the walking stick I used and the little pennant and temple bells I was presented when I reached the top.

And although the details of most of the things that happened to me 20 years ago have faded with time, I can still recall in agonizing detail my trip to the top of Japan's most fabled mountain.

What really worries me is that my affliction is contagious. It was my seven-year-old daughter Katie who insisted that she and I walk the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day.

And it was Katie who was determined to trudge every step of the way, even after her knees began to buckle on the suspension span.

And it was Katie who gave me dirty looks when I merely suggested that I carry her "just a little way" on my shoulders.

And it was Katie who bellied up to a bar table at the Dixie Tavern in Mackinaw City when the walk was over, as happy as a kid can get, sipping ginger ale and munching pretzels as we discussed our great adventure.

But the big question remaining is "Why?"

If anyone can give me a decent answer, I'll swim from Charlevoix to St. James in a gunny sack.

Bomb Those Buses

By JIM FITZGERALD

Please pass the dynamite. Our daughter is bused to school but not to the school closest to our home.

Our son doesn't attend the school nearest home either. But he walks to school. I don't mind blowing up a bus but it doesn't seem fair to break the kid's leg just to bug the school board. Come to think, he does ride his bike sometimes. I could let the air out of his tires.

Our school district is about the largest, geographically, in Michigan. Some students attend school 20 miles from where they live. Every day they are bused past dozens of schools closer to their homes.

Obviously, this is a terrible thing. Our district should be ripe for revolt. Bombs should be sold at roadside stands. But there's no excitement at all. No protests. Just peace. I've had to drink all my Molotov cocktails. Some days even the most active activist can't find any action. But how come.....

The TV news showed the dynamited buses burning in Pontiac, just a few miles down the highway. A middle-aged woman looked fiercely into the camera and said the destroyed buses were "the most beautiful sight I have ever seen."

Now there is an activist to be admired. She obviously has political ambitions. She will end up in the state capitol, sharing an office with Pontiac's Rep. Arthur Law, another beautiful person. The day before the buses were bombed, Law urged his constituents to ignore the stupid law and keep their kids off the buses. (I wish Rep. Law would change his name to Humperdink. It is difficult to type a lower case "l" while writing about him and a stupid law in the same paragraph.)

So how come they get all the fun and violence in Pontiac, and in a lot of other towns, but none in my school district? Why doesn't our bus system make parents angry enough to fight?

I'm certainly glad you asked. Our district has a skin problem. Too much white and not enough black.

You see, parents everywhere used to be the same. They didn't care when one room schools were consolidated into 1,573-room educational complexes. They didn't care that this meant Junior had to be bused to high school 30 miles away, even though there was an elementary school building around the corner from home, and a junior high building just up the block, and eight abandoned Little Red Schoolhouses within walking distance. The bus trip was necessary because it meant a better education for Junior.

But lately, the federal government and the courts have been looking at school systems in such towns as Pontiac. They discovered some school boards were "discriminating to perpetuate segregation." This means the black Juniors were separated from the white Juniors. As always, the black kids got the short end of the stick and kids of both colors lost the chance to learn to know and maybe even love each other. Most parents like this segregation because it makes it easier to raise the kids to be good little bigots like Ma and Pa.

The courts ordered these schools to start achieving "racial balance" even if they had to use buses to do it. And that's what put the lighted fuse in all those buses.

Busing is fine for Junior if it means he'll learn more. But if the dumb bus is going to deposit Junior next to a Negro, that's not a better education. That's a kid of another color. Dynamite the damn buses.

And don't you dare call the bomber racists, for goodness sakes.

U.S. Plans Open House For 200th Birthday

An all-embracing, global guest list is being prepared for the United States observance of its 200th birthday.

Invitations to visit America in 1976 are being sent to groups as broadly diversified as the peoples who comprise this Nation, the National Geographic Society says.

As part of a project called "Open House U.S.A.," organizations across the country are urging their opposite numbers abroad to come and see them during the Bicentennial Year.

MANY GROUPS ENLISTED

The invitations are going out from fraternal and service clubs, professional and historical societies, civic bodies, and international organizations to members of sister cities and affiliated groups abroad.

The hosts offer to open their homes to their guests and invite them to observe and participate in the numerous festivals and commemorative programs planned by various towns, cities, and states.

Open House U.S.A. was conceived by the Wally Byam Foundation, named for a manufacturer of travel trailers. Several years ago the foundation organized a program called Caravan America, to encourage foreign visitors to see wider areas of the United States.

It provided funds, cars, and trailers to take families from Britain, France, West Germany, and Switzerland on cross-country trips. The motor tours also included families of foreign diplomats stationed in Washington, D.C.

From these activities came the idea for Open House U.S.A., which was adopted in July 1970 by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission as part of the Government's program for the observance.

OTHERS JOIN CAMPAIGN

As the list of groups extending overseas invitations grows, other organizations have pledged their support. The Recreational Vehicle Institute has offered to obtain 1,000 campers, trailers, and motor homes to be donated by firms for use by persons visiting the United States during 1976.

The Society of American Travel Writers has agreed to turn its 1974 annual convention into a flying trip around the world, to deliver invitations to peoples in other lands to join in America's Bicentennial celebration.

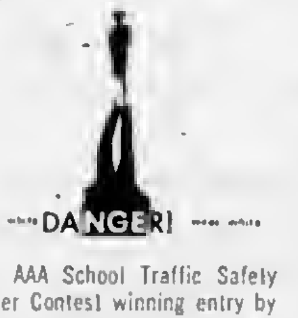
Open House U.S.A. has been chartered in the Nation's Capital as a nonprofit company to solicit funds from private foundations and other groups for partial travel grants. It also is organizing the mass of invitations and acceptances, and the related entertainment.

"Open House U.S.A. should inspire beautification drives to get the United States ready for its birthday party," said Mrs. Carolyn Bennett Patterson, chairman of the Byam Foundation and an assistant editor of National Geographic. "It also will help correct the balance of payments in this Nation's travel account, since Americans spend more abroad than foreign tourists spend here.

"But the program's greatest significance should be in the international goodwill we believe this effort will engender."

AAA Safety Tips

Darkness Doubles



This AAA School Traffic Safety Poster Contest winning entry by Arthur Venti of King's Park High School, Kings Park, New York, illustrates an important pedestrian safety rule. Nighttime greatly reduces driver visibility, and the smart pedestrian protects himself from this "double danger" by wearing or carrying something white or luminescent when he ventures forth after sundown.

City's First Teacher Earned $1 a Week

(Following is the second installment of "A Brief History of Charlevoix, Michigan" compiled by Eleanor Ratigan.)

THE FIRST SCHOOLHOUSE

In the fall of 1861 it was decided to build a schoolhouse. A "bee" was called and a small log building was put up on the bank of Pine Lake not far from where the Belvedere Hotel was located. It was of cobblestone, just high enough for a person of ordinary height to stand erect without cracking his head on the roof. The building was 16 x 18 feet. Split basswood logs resting on pegs served as benches.

The first school was taught in the winter of 1861-62 by Mrs. M.J. Stockman who received a salary of one dollar a week. Mrs. Stockman's pupils were: Joseph, Charles and Frances Dixon; John, Mary Ann and Janet Miller; Malvina Hancock, Oscar D. Albert, E. and Mary Mason; Ned Aldrich; Esther and Sophia Horton; Angeleine Kidder, and Frances and Ida Vosburch.

In 1864, arrangements were made with the firm of Fox & Rose of Northport to build a dock to a sufficient depth so that steamboats could reach the community. This made it possible for the settlement to become an important wooding station for steamers. The cutting of wood here, as well as on the Manitous and in Northport, furnished employment for a large number of men. Since the supply came mainly from the shore of Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix), and since the lumber had to be transported to Lake Michigan, Mr. Amos Fox and Mrs. H.O. Rose built a small tug called the Commodore Nutt.

The deepening of the channel of Pine River in some of its shallower parts required considerable engineering skill, the aid of teams and road scrapers, and the expenditure of a large amount of muscular force in towing.

An unusually severe storm in October carried away about 100 feet of the dock and did considerable damage to the rest, but the firm — composed of pioneer businessmen — recovered from the disaster and the dock was repaired and completed by the following spring.

In 1867, Mr. Dixon surveyed and platted a part of what is now the city of Charlevoix in the sheltered basin lying south of the lower river and west of Round Lake. In the same year Fox & Rose constructed a railroad from their woodyard on the river to the dock and also in this year a post office was established in Charlevoix. The mails were brought to Charlevoix twice a week by a crippled Indian who carried the mail by a strap over his forehead.

At this time, the entire number of clearings in the village did not exceed a dozen with a half dozen houses in the clearing. The Fountain City house was the hub of the community. The shores of Pine Lake were heavily timbered with the finest maple, beech, birch and elm, with cedar in the lowlands.

In the spring of 1868, the firm of Reddington, Nelson & Co. erected a grist mill on the bank of Pine River.

In the fall of 1868 Major Edward H. Green, the first lawyer, arrived and located in the county.

During this time, Charlevoix was the county seat of Emmet County. The records were brought over from Little Traverse and court was held in the Althouse building. The supervisors also met here but the next spring Charlevoix County was organized and was no longer associated with Emmet.

The year 1869 was an important year. Charlevoix County was organized and the village of Charlevoix became the county seat. In April, the Sentinel, the first newspaper, was established.

School Report Shows Need for Borrowing

A request to organize a Pep club in the high school was presented by Vane H. Smith, high school principal, and, after some discussion, the matter tabled until a later date. It was the concession of opinion that there was a need for such a club but until the teacher negotiations are completed no decision should be made.

The need for a study of building needs and curriculum expansion was discussed at length. Supt. Robert L. Miller said that while there was no pressing need for expansion at the present time, there was a need to study even a five year projection of curriculum and growth to plan for future needs. "If you defer this planning, you are delaying your accomplishments in these area," he said in conclusion. The board agreed on the need but voted to table the issue until the first meeting in November.

In other action the board voted to continue with the purchase of a lot in Hampton Village as a site for this year's Building Trades house and an option on a second lot for next year.

--To continue with the lease and option arrangements on the Southgate property on US 31 S. as the 'home' of the auto repair class. Bruce Donaldson has offered the property to the school on a lease and option to buy basis.

--Accepted a piece of sculpture from Nathan Cummings, internationally recognized art collector, who has given the school district many art objects. It is to be placed in front of the high school. The school district will underwrite the cost of a base for the piece.

--Voted to engage Mrs. Mark Wiltse at $2.25 an hour as a library aide in the Middle School and Mrs. James Bell for one hour daily at the same rate as an elementary school playground director during the noon hour.

--Accepted the recommendation that the two cars advertised for sale earlier be used for another year. No satisfactory bids were received for the two vehicles.

--Heard Supt. Miller report on recent School Aid legislation which he described as "the greatest legislative boondoggle in modern history". He explained the legislation that would require a school district to give up a percentage of its State Aid for a state-controlled contingency fund with no assurance when or if the school district would receive the funds. In the case of the Charlevoix school district it would mean approximately $33,000 that would be held up until next spring or lost completely from anticipated funds. He concluded by stating that "the state of Michigan has been sold a gigantic bill of goods by Gov. Milliken."

--Heard a report by Vane H. Smith, high school principal, on proposed changes in the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

--Named Supt. Miller to represent the school district at the 50th anniversary observance of the School of Education at the University of Michigan.

--Discussed briefly the resolutions the school district's delegates to the annual meeting of M.A.S.B. would support.

--Heard Sept. 27 set as the date of the next meeting.

--Heard opening of school reports by the three principals, Smith of the high school, Max Novak of the Middle School and Glenn B. Snider of the elementary school.

71 Teenagers Complete Gun Course

Seventy-one youngsters from Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and Boyne Falls took part in Charlevoix County's first gun safety course Saturday at the Rod and Gun Club.

The course, which enables youngsters to meet requirements for 1971 hunting licenses, was sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources in cooperation with the Rod and Gun Club.

Because of inclement weather, the course was held indoors in the morning. However in the afternoon the group moved outside for safety demonstrations.

The course was taught by Conservation Officer Harley Burris of Boyne City, Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol, Willis Peters, Robert Tripp, Vane Smith, Al Shindorf, Robert Sommerville and Les White.

First-year hunters between the ages of 12 and 16 must take a gun safety course before they are eligible to buy hunting licenses under a new state law.

Retirement System in Traverse City Oct. 6. Alternates are Alderman, Robert Gill and Lloyd Kuebler.

--Heard a letter from Mrs. J.M. Simonfy jr., widow of Lt. Col. Simonfy killed in the crash of the B-52, asking permission to use Mayor Essenburg's remarks at the dedication of the B-52 plaque in July on a second plaque to be installed at the Clarke School for the Deaf.

--Passed a resolution with Alderman Gill dissenting to offer the Intermediate School District a gift of city-owned land for the proposed school office. The district requested the land prior to the last council meeting. The city has two sites available, one on Mercer-blvd. and the other near the third hole of the golf course on Mt. McSauba-rd. Gill said he wasn't sure such a gift would be in keeping with deed restrictions on the Mercer-blvd. land.

--Learned from City Superintendent Thomas Hanna that there were no bidders for sidewalk work in the city.

--Heard a second report by Hanna that he sees little hope that the city can take advantage of a federal government program to create government jobs for unemployed workers. He said Charlevoix County has been allocated $106,200, which will create only 16 to 18 jobs in the entire county.

--Approved payment of bills totaling $166,507.99.

Meeting as the Board of Appeals, the council waived side and rear lot restrictions for erection of a 10 ft. by 10 ft. utility building at the Franklin Curtis residence at 201 Dixon-ave.

After the meeting, members of the docks and harbors committee were subpoenaed to appear in District Court Thursday as witnesses at the trial of Art Reibel, charged with illegally using city dock space leased to the Beaver Island Boat Co.

Motorcycle Crash Fatal

Youth Lay Injured All Night Friday

Edwin Peter Zeitler jr., 17, died Monday morning at Munson Hospital in Traverse City of injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident either some time Friday night or early Saturday morning.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Zeitler of Garfield-ave., the youth was found unconscious about 10:30 Saturday morning on Carpenter-ave., the apparent victim of a motorcycle mishap.

Gordon Rower, an employe of the Medusa Portland Cement Co., came upon the injured youth and his Honda 160 motorcycle during a trip to the Medusa spoil pile at the end of Carpenter-ave. He notified the city ambulance and the Sheriff's office.

Zeitler was taken to Charlevoix Hospital and transferred immediately to Munson Hospital in Traverse City for treatment of a severe head injury.

Zeitler, a junior at Charlevoix High School, and three companions – Clayton Sarasin, Alfred Corp and Ray Whitley – had gone camping to Bells Bay Friday night. Zeitler took his motorcycle along.

After giving rides to his friends, Zeitler took off by himself and when he didn't return to camp the boys assumed he had gone home.

The youth apparently lay injured on Carpenter-ave. all night until Rower found him the next morning.

Sheriff's deputies theorize that Zeitler was traveling east on Carpenter-ave. when his motorcycle hit a rock jutting from the roadbed.

The motorcycle leaped approximately 20 feet through the air, bending the wheels on impact and skidding another 10 feet. No helmet was found at the scene.

Funeral will be held at 9 a.m. Wednesday at St. Marys Church, the Rev. E. Francis Denay officiating. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

The body is at the Winchester Funeral Home where the rosary was to be recited Tuesday at 8:15 p.m.

Young Zeitler was born in Charlevoix Jan. 21, 1954, and attended St. Marys School before entering the Charlevoix School System.

He was an avid outdoorsman and enjoyed hunting and fishing.

A PICTORIAL history of the early years of Charlevoix has been presented to the Charlevoix Library by photographer-writer Bob Miles. The 62 page book is one of four Miles plans to do on Charlevoix. In addition to the library volume, Miles has compiled similar books for members of his family. The book is on display at the library. Here Miles presents book to Librarian Dorothy Olmstead.

College Bound Students Reminded of Test Sked

Charlevoix Senior High School students planning to attend college will have five opportunities to take the ACT battery of tests during the 1971-72 school years, according to Dr. William Ratigan, counselor.

Registration deadline for taking the test on the first of the five national testing dates is Sept. 27. The test will be administered Oct. 16 at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Last year, about one million students in the U.S. and overseas wrote the five-part test, which is required or recommended for applicants at more than 1,800 colleges, universities, two-year colleges, scholarship agencies and athletic conferences.

The ACT battery will be administered five times during the school year on Oct. 16, Dec. 11, Feb. 26, April 22 and July 15.

Registration periods for the tests are Aug. 23 to Sept. 27 (the present registration period); Oct. 4 to Nov. 15; Nov. 29 to Jan. 31; Feb. 14 to March 27; and April 10 to June 19.

Students can obtain registration packets and other ACT information at the High School Counseling Center.

The ACT test battery includes a series of tests designed to measure a student's ability to perform the kinds of intellectual tasks typically required of college students. Subjects covered are English, math, social studies and natural sciences.

Another part of the examination consists of questions about the student's academic and non-academic background, immediate plans for college and career aspirations.

Fee for the test, which takes about three and one-half hours, is $6, payable by check or money order to the ACT Registration Department. Results are sent to colleges and other institutions designated by the students.

The Counseling Center recommends that students write the ACT test either late in their junior year or early in the senior year, in order to allow students, their parents and counselors to make maximum use of the results in pre-college planning.

Colleges and universities in Michigan that accept the ACT for counseling and placement include North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, attended by about half of Charlevoix High School's college-bound students; Western Michigan University, Central Michigan University, Eastern Michigan University, Northern Michigan University, Michigan State University, Lake Superior State College, Michigan Technological University, Northwestern Michigan College at Traverse City and most other community and junior colleges in the state.

So-called "College Board" tests are required by the University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Albion, Alma and others.

Some colleges accept either of the two national tests. They include Michigan State, Eastern, Aquinas and General Motors Institute.

Still other colleges, including Ferris State, do not require such tests or have tests of their own making to fit their own needs.

3 Chest Divisions Start Solicitations

Charlevoix's 1971 Community Chest drive is moving into high gear, according to President John Lachman.

Commercial, professional and industrial divisions will begin their solicitations Sept. 27 and continue through Oct. 9.

The commercial division is headed by Gordon Wellman, the professional by Mrs. Donald Berlage and the industrial by Lachman.

The special gifts solicitation is already completed and two other divisions – residential and out-lying residential – will solicit funds from Oct. 4 to Oct. 16.

Goal in the drive is $22,028, which will be divided among 13 local, 18 state and 18 national health, welfare and recreation agencies.

Most of the money – $18,000 will stay in Charlevoix, going to general and emergency funds of the Community Nurse, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Michigan Children's Aid Society, Northwest Branch; the city Recreation Program, the Charlevoix Association for Retarded Children, Mt. McSauba, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Big Brothers and Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood Association.

Boosters To Meet Sept. 22

The Charlevoix Band Boosters will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the band room at the High School, according to Mrs. Don Brown, president.

Mrs. Brown urges all members to attend, since the discussion will center around fund-raising projects and how the money will be spent.

Families pay $2 to be included on the calendar and organizations pay 25 cents per meeting listed.

THE SKYLINE of St. James on Beaver Island is changing. A new motel, constructed and owned by Walt Wojan, now bridges the gap between Vernon (Dick) LaFreniere's general store and Stanley Floyd's car rental outlet.

Rayders Defeat Benzie

Charlevoix Red Rayders won their first game of the season Friday, defeating Benzie Central 20-6 in a non-conference opener.

Charlevoix scored in the first three quarters, with Benzie's lone marker coming in the last seconds of the final period.

In the first period, Charlevoix fumbled on the kick-off but recovered the ball for a sustained drive which culminated in a TD pass from Tim Carey to Larry Potter. The conversion was good.

In the second period, Potter again was credited with the marker after the ball was relayed from Tim Carey to Bill Carey. The conversion was good again.

In other Michigan Huron Shores Conference action, Cheboygan defeated Gaylord 42 to 6; Rogers City defeated Ogemaw Hills, 37 to 22; Cadillac beat Petoskey, 8 to 0; and Roscommon trounced Boyne City 28 to 0.

The Rayders play their first conference game Friday at Kipke Field with Rogers City.

Control Kids At Games, Parents Asked

Charlevoix High School Athletic Director Dale Burge and school administrators ask that parents keep a tighter rein on their youngsters at Red Rayder football games.

At the first game Friday, many youngsters left the stands and were playing under the bleachers and elsewhere along the sidelines.

School officials say the youngsters not only are likely to hurt themselves, but they keep others from enjoying the action on the field.

REV. DUANE IMIG, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church, moderated initial meeting of FISH in the First State Bank Community. The organization will offer all kinds of assistance to persons in need. One telephone call will set the wheels of the county-wide volunteer organization in motion.

FISH Group Hopes To Sign-Up Volunteers

Eleven Charlevoix, Horton Bay and Boyne City residents met at the First State Bank Sept. 8 to discuss plans for starting a FISH organization in Charlevoix County.

Started in England 10 years ago, FISH organizations are simply groups of people who stand ready to lend assistance to others in time of need.

Possible services include doing housework for the aged or ill, providing transportation where none other is available, taking elderly persons out to shop, cooking a meal for a family while the mother is unavailable, shoveling snow, visiting the sick, reading for the blind, interpreting for migrant workers, donating blood, baby sitting, providing lodging in emergencies, or just being a good friend in time of need.

The Charlevoix meeting was called by the County Ministerial Alliance and was chaired by Rev. Duane Imig of the Bethany Lutheran Church.

Rev. Imig explained how the county chapter, if it is organized, will operate via a telephone number which will be well advertised throughout the county. A person in need will simply dial the number and the duty officer for the day will take the call and secure assistance from among members of the FISH organization.

At present the group is investigating printing costs for a brochure to explain the program and seek volunteers in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.

When a large enough cadre of volunteers signs up, the organization will make arrangements for a telephone number begin operations.

Attending the first meeting were Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Mrs. Paul Donnelly, Mrs. Dawson Way, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Juillcret, Mrs. Clifton Sundber, Mrs. Gordon Moeller, Rev. Elmer Faust and Rev. John Cail, all of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Clifford Coon and John Morken of Boyne City and Rev. Seward Walton of Horton Bay.

Fire Damages Home Ceiling

Fire originating in a space heater damaged the ceiling of a cottage owned by Duane Taylor at 403½ Dixon-ave. about 1:30 a.m. Monday.

The home is occupied by Mrs. Anthony Wojan.

Reibel Guilty In Dock Case

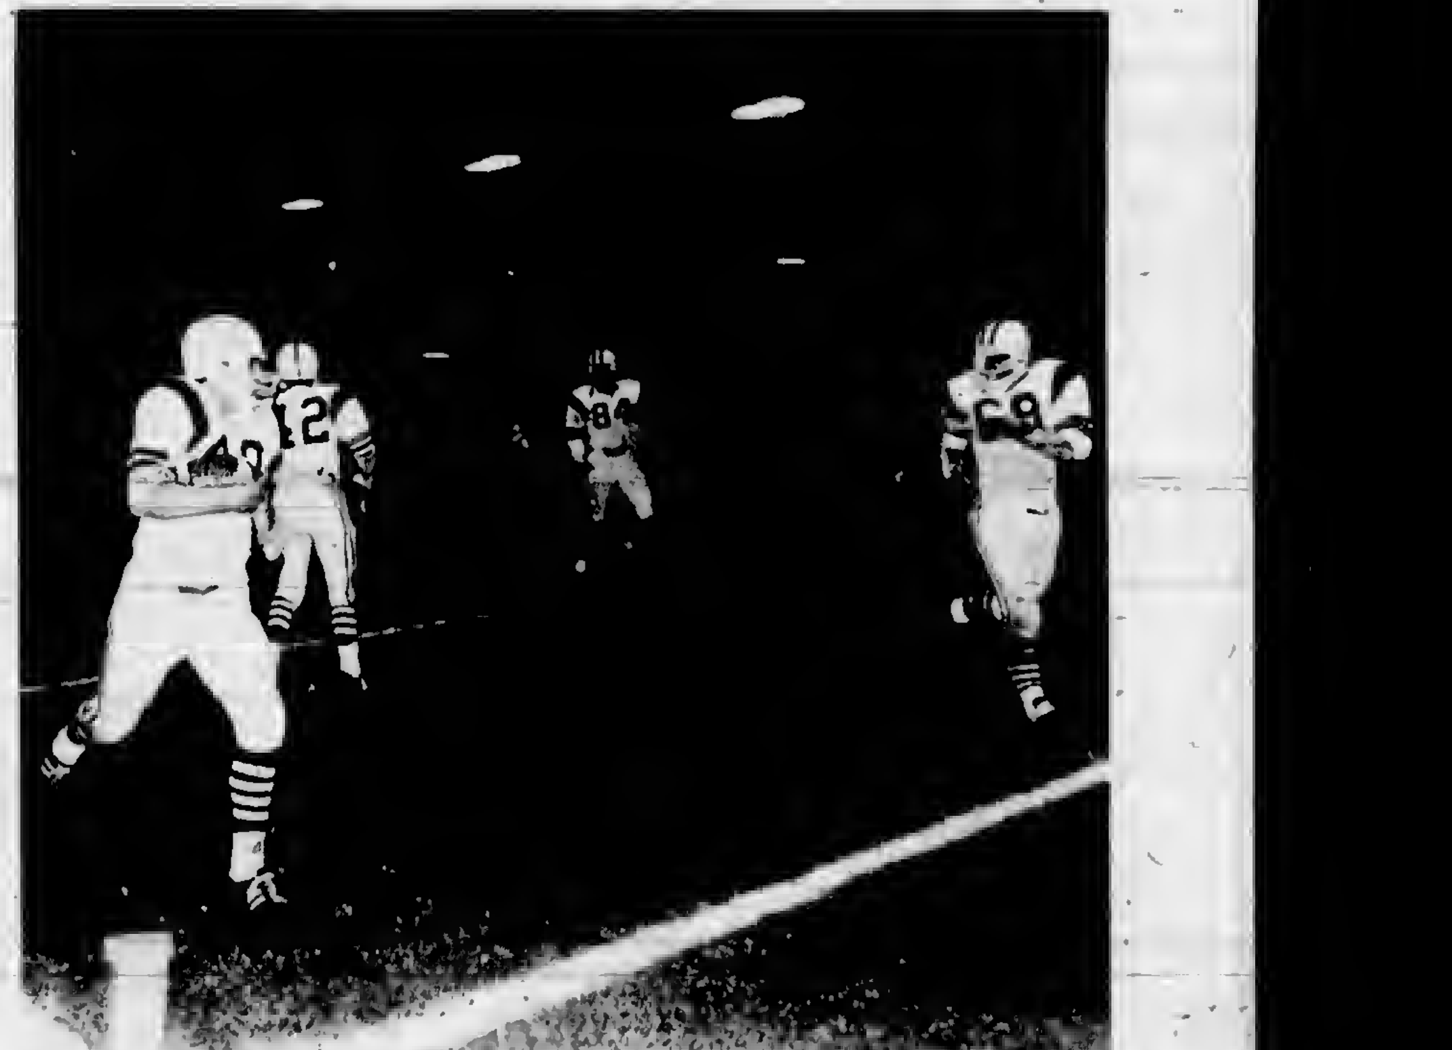
It took a District Court jury about five minutes Thursday to find attorney Arthur R. Reibel, 38, Charlevoix, guilty of violating a city docking ordinance.

Reibel was found guilty of using dock space leased by the city to the Beaver Island Boat Co. for his newly organized water transport company.

The case was heard by District Judge W. Richard Smith, who will announce sentence later.

Reibel had asked the City Council for permission to use the Beaver Islander dock space, but was denied on grounds that the dock is already leased to the boat company.

Members of the jury were Norma Peck, Jake Deschermeier, Louise Popp, Bruce Morgan, Alma Wing and Clyde Warner.



BALL CARRIER Tim Carey (40) has clear sailing ahead in the Red Rayders first game of the season Friday with Benzie Central. Running interference is Ed Olach (69).

Mich. Bell Hearing Adjourned

Public hearing on Michigan Bell Telephone Company's application for a $59.7 million rate increase have been adjourned until Oct. 11.

The Michigan Commerce Department's Public Service Commission said the adjournment will permit Michigan Bell to submit financial data for the first six months of this year and for Commission auditors to audit the company's books for that period.

Michigan bell has been using the year ending last Dec. 31 as its test year. When hearings resume, the year ending June 30 will be used as the test year.

Public hearings on Michigan Bell's request for a rate increase began May 26 and more than 4,400 pages of testimony have been heard during 29 days of hearings that have been held so far.

The hearings are being conducted by Commissioner Lenton G. Sculthorp of Marshall and Chief Hearings Examiner Alfred Sullivan.

PSC Chairman Willis F. Ward of Detroit said the adjournment will enable the Commission to study the utility's latest cost and revenue figures before it makes a decision on the application.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) I heard that since my wife and I both work we won't have enough taxes withheld from our paychecks to keep from owing money at tax time. What can we do to change this?

A) Estimate the amount of tax that will be withheld from your wages this year and the tax you will owe. This can be done by consulting tables available from your employer or local IRS office.

Then adjust your withholding to take care of any expected tax liability by filing a withholding certificate, Form W-4, with your employer, claiming fewer exemptions and, if necessary, having additional dollar amounts withheld.

Q) I went to a turkey dinner sponsored by my church. Can I deduct the cost of the ticket as a charitable contribution?

A) Part of the cost may be deductible. If you paid more than the fair market value of the supper, the excess would be a charitable contribution. For example, if the supper had a fair market value of $3 and you paid $8 for a ticket, the excess of $5 will be a contribution to the church, if the net proceeds of the supper go exclusively to the church. This is true even if you don't use the ticket.

Q) Are Social Security benefits taxable?

A) No. Social Security benefits are not taxable, whether they are received from the federal government or from a state under the federal Social Security program.

Q) My son will begin college in the fall on a $1,000 scholarship. Will this scholarship have any effect on whether I can claim him as a dependent next year?

A) No. Amounts received by a child, stepchild, or adopted child as a scholarship are not included in determining total support.

Q) I'm a doctor and I subscribe to a medical journal. Can I deduct the subscription price of the publication when I file my return next year?

A) Yes. Subscriptions to professional journals related to your business or profession are a deductible business expense. Also, if you are an employee, you may deduct the subscription price of the publication as an employee business expense incurred in earning taxable income if you itemize deductions.

State Land Zoned For Oil, Gas Leases

All State-owned land in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula has now been zoned for oil and gas leasing purposes.

Through the efforts of field and staff representatives of various Divisions of the Department of Natural Resources, every 40-acre parcel of State-owned land has been designated by color codes on individual county base maps.

The present lease status of the parcel, the type of ownership (whether surface only, mineral only, or both) and the degree of environmental importance in regard to oil activity has been coded on the maps.

The base maps have been photographed. Interested persons may view these reproductions through Sept. 25, at the D.N.R. District Offices in Cadillac, Gaylord and Mio, or the Regional Office in Roscommon.

The original maps have been retained in Lansing and are available for review by the public. They are located in the Forestry Division Office, Stevens T. Mason Building, and may be reviewed during the same two week period.

A public hearing on zoning of state-owned land in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula for oil and gas leasing purposes will be held in Lansing. The hearing will commence at 1 p.m., Oct. 1, 1971, in the auditorium, Seven Story Office Building, Lansing.

200 feet of secluded, wooded, frontage located on private road near Charlevoix. Ideal building site. Has good storage building and drive now. Price $40,000.

Lt. Col. Hamlin Cited For Service in Vietnam

Lt. Col. Thomas M. Hamlin, son of Mrs. Charles Hamlin of Charlevoix, has been awarded the Legion of Merit for "exceptional meritorious service" while serving as commanding officer of the Second Battalion, Fifth Marines, in Vietnam from July 19, 1970, to March 22, 1971.

Presentation of the award was made Aug. 30 by Brig. Gen. Samuel Jaskilka in ceremonies at the Command and Staff College, attended by Col. Hamlin's wife, Ann, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.O. Hillard of Detroit.

According to citation accompanying the medal, Col. Hamlin "performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner. Displaying superb leadership and sound judgment, he skillfully deployed elements of his Battalion over wide areas of the Que Son Mountains and other sectors of Quang Nam Province while participating in a series of major combat operations, including operations Barren Green and Lyon Valley.

"Under his dynamic and courageous leadership, his Battalion inflicted severe casualties on numerically superior North Vietnamese Army and Viet Cong forces, captured large quantities of supplies and equipment, and blocked persistent attempts by the enemy to interdict friendly supply routes.

"The decisive manner in which he planned, coordinated and directed the actions of his Battalion during Operation Imperial Lake resulted in numerous enemy soldiers killed or captured and large quantities of enemy ordnance, rations, supplies and equipment confiscated.

"In this operation, Lieutenant Colonel Hamlin, while operating from remote tactical command posts high in the densly-jungled Que Son Mountains during monsoon weather, expertly deployed his rifle companies in such effective search and clear operations that many enemy base camps containing significant amounts of food and weapons were discovered and destroyed, thereby denying the hostile forces across to the DaNang Vital Area and forcing those who survived to find new sanctuaries.

"On numerous occasions, he fearlessly led Quick Reaction Forces in operations which involved a high degree of air ground coordination and skillfully employed all available supporting arms during aggressive heliborne assault actions. Primarily as a result of his tireless leadership, the Quick Action Force operations reached a peak of efficiency in keeping the enemy off balance while inflicting heavy casualties.

"His extraordinary initiative and determination earned the respect and admiration of all who served with him and contributed immeasurably to the accomplishment of his command's mission. By his leadership, professional acumen and unwavering devotion to duty, Lieutenant Colonel Hamlin rendered distinguished service to his country and thereby upheld the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and of the United States Naval Service."

The citation was signed "For the President" by Lt. Gen. William K. Jones, U.S. Marine Corps, Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific.

By Beth Genelt

The Lower Eleventh District of the American Legion and Auxiliary held their quarterly meeting at the Post Home in Charlevoix on Sunday, Sept. 12.

Members of Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226 and the Auxiliary hosted the gathering which drew 110 representatives from ten lower peninsula cities.

The joint meeting began with a dinner served at the Post Home. Following the dinner Commander Ray Wood introduced the visiting dignitaries which included District Committeeman Art Black of Harbor Springs, State Vice Commander Jim Renard and State Auxiliary President Dorothy Finkbeiner of Saline.

A fruit basket gift was presented to Mr. Black, and door prizes were awarded. The prizes were furnished by Edwards IGA, Lexalite Corp., Wise Cleaners, Rock and Relic Shop, Murdicks, Bartlett Carpet and Tile, Parsels, Paul-Reed, First State Bank, Williams Cigar, Krogers, Olesons and the Capri Motel.

Director of the Legion Children's Home at Otter Lake, Giles Reeves, gave a report on present operations at the Home.

Following the joint meeting the Auxiliary remained at the Hall for their meeting and the Legion members moved to the St. Mary's School cafeteria for their business meeting. The Legionnaires heard reports on several current projects and formulated several resolutions to be presented at the Fall Conference to be held at Kalamazoo in October.

The local Post was presented the Joe Cain Award - a plaque given to the Post obtaining the highest percent increase of membership for 1971.

The Auxiliary meeting was led by District President Sophie Stafford of Alpena. State President Dorothy Finkbeiner gave a talk on the 1972 slogan "Torch of Freedom". Another report was given by member Edna Wilkins of East Jordan, who attended the state and national conventions which were held at Lansing and Houston, Texas. Dates were set for future meetings, including the Fall Round-up to be held at Charlevoix on Oct. 10 and the next District meeting to be held at Alpena on Dec. 12.

Safety Casts New Shadow On School Busing Dilemma

While the Pontiac was in the throes of its new court-ordered school busing program last week, word came from Capt. Edward McGarvey of the state Department of Education's school bus section that Michigan had its worst school bus fatality record in history last year.

Reporting to the Michigan Federation of Safety Organizations, McGarvey said Michigan counted 17 school bus-related fatalities last year, six of whom were adults and 11 pupils.

He said new bus inspection programs and expanded driver education training programs should begin paying off soon, but pointed out that there is still too much laxity by local school administrators in hiring and qualifying drivers.

Of the 11 pupils killed last year, eight apparently were struck by autos while walking to or from their bus stops.

So far this school year, one youngster already has been killed in a school bus-related accident.

McGarvey says that five of the children killed last year were under 10 years of age and he has proposed the adoption of a state-wide regulation endorsed by the National Safety Council which would require children under 10 years of age, unless accompanied by a crossing guard or older person, to remain on the same side of a road as their residence until the school bus stops and activates its flasher lights.

McGarvey's proposal appears to be sound. But an even sounder proposal would be a federal law demanding that every youngster attend the school closest to his home—regardless of race.

Court orders requiring the busing of students to achieve racial integration in the classroom are ridiculous, particularly if the safety of a single child—white or black—is placed in jeopardy.

It is criminal—or should be—to expect a child to face highway hazards to attend school miles from his home, particularly when there is a school within easy walking distance.

Who Are The 'Others?' Reader Asks

Sir:

I am totally fascinated by your Sept. 8 "Courier" story listing the 1971 U.S. Census for Charlevoix County as:

"...16,277 white, 17 Negroes, 214 Indians and 33 'other'."

What are they? Whigs? Tories? Abominable snowmen? Or people who refuse their welfare checks?

(Editor's Note: I was afraid someone would ask. According to County Extension Director Ed Rebman, who released the Census figures, the "others" are Japanese, Chinese, Filipinos, Hawaiians and Koreans.

Back in the "good old days," when everything concerning race was cut and dried, there were three races: The Mongoloid race, including Asiatics and American Indians; The Negroid race, made up largely of people of African descent; and the Caucasian Race, which embraces peoples of varying hues, from the fair-haired blonds of the Scandanavian countries to the dusky blacks and browns of the Indian subcontinent and the Island of Ceylon.

Some purists insisted on a fourth racial grouping, the Astraloids, including Australian aborigines, and other peoples of southern Asia and the Pacific islands.

Oddly enough, some anthropologists included the fair-haired Ainus of northern Japan with the Astraloids. Others preferred to classify the Ainus as Caucasians. I don't think the Ainus cared much, one way or the other.

But as I said, that was back in the "good old days" when everything concerning race was cut and dried.)

Clockwise

The Bike Ride

By BOB CLOCK

Nineteen northern Michigan residents – all of them old enough to know better – have completed the first Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce bike hike around Lake Charlevoix and it appears that the ride will become an annual event.

In fact, the participants had such a good time that before the trip was over they were talking about a second trip – possibly in October – either along the same route or on other scenic by-ways in northern Michigan.

If you are interested, contact Chamber of Commerce Manager Tom Merta.

The first trip was relatively easy, thanks to the pioneering efforts of Hal Hill, who prepared himself for the ride by taking progressively longer bike jaunts along the Boyne City-rd. for several weeks prior to the big event itself.

BIKE RIDERS crossed the South Arm on the Ironton Ferry. Ahead lies the man-killing Ironton Ferry hill.

Hal discovered that in bicycling long distances – as is the case in any major endeavor – it is easier to break the long haul into a series of short hops interspersed by rest breaks.

No author sits down and writes a complete novel at one sitting. He does it paragraph by paragraph, chapter by chapter. Hunting shacks and skyscrapers are constructed log by log, brick by brick, story by story, never in one fell-swoop.

The same is true of bicycle riding.

Hal suggested that we ride for 20 minutes, then rest for five, ride another 20, then rest for five. The five-minute rest break sounds about right, because if you stop for much longer the muscles begin to tighten up.

Using Hal's plan, it was surprising how rapidly and effortlessly the miles slipped by.

Our group left Edwards' IGA parking lot at 8:15 a.m. and 20 minutes later we were at the former Tunison farmhouse on Susan Lake. During our first rest stop, Hal handed out butter-rum flavored life savers, which he called "the best quick-energy food on the market."

The second leg of the trip took us to Maple Grove-rd. where Hal again passed around the life-savers.

Our third stop was at the general store in Hortons' Bay where we availed ourselves of the park benches on the front porch. Some of the riders bought pop. Others broke out sandwiches and other edibles and drinkables from their bike packs.

Unfortunately, a light rain had started, but there was never any question about calling off the trip – or even extending our Hortons' Bay stop. Bikes run in the rain just as well as in fair weather. However, some riders discovered that tire-brakes don't work so well when the tire is wet.

Shortly after 10 a.m. the first riders in our group arrived at Boyne City, far earlier than the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce had expected us. We had been invited for coffee, but the pot had scarcely started to perk.

Instead we went over to the Sunnyside restaurant for a very early lunch. It's odd how hungry we were so soon after breakfast.

Marla Stoneham, who rode with the second group, discovered at Boyne City that she had only 15 pounds pressure in her rear tire. She had the tire pumped up at the Standard station and wheeled her bike across the street to where the rest of us were parked in front of the restaurant. Seconds later, Pop! Her tire blew up, knocking over three other bikes.

Leaving Boyne City, we followed the same ride-and-rest schedule, with stops at Advance, Whiting Park and at a farm about three miles south of the Ironton Ferry.

At the ferry, the two groups met again for the trip across the South Arm to Ironton. Crossing the lake, everyone eyed the Ironton Ferry hill suspiciously. Some said flatly that they would walk their bikes up; others thought they'd give it a try. As it turned out, most of the riders actually did pedal to the top, arriving with purple faces and lolling tongues.

Oddly enough, the last lap into Charlevoix was the hardest. First there was the big Sequanota Hill to contend with. Then west of the hill the riders encountered 25 mph headwinds off Lake Michigan, which made for rough pedaling even though the terrain is flat as a pool table.

The riders rendezvoused for the last time at Juilleret's restaurant where they compared notes and muscle spasms.

The trip took about four hours riding time, which figures out to about 10 miles per hour.

Let's see now. If we rode eight hours a day, we could make it to sunny California in only 31 days.

First Pine River Bridge Was Only Four Feet Wide

(Following is the third installment of "A Brief History of Charlevoix, Michigan" compiled by Eleanor Ratigan.)

THE FIRST BRIDGE

In 1868 it became obvious that the school house was not large enough. When the legal voters did not seem inclined to take action, the women took the affair into their own hands. They held a fund-raising fair on the 6th of December and raised $75. This was expended the next year toward building a schoolhouse. It was occupied for a three-month summer term of school. The building stood near the corner of State and Antrim-sts.

The first bridge across Pine River was a foot bridge about four feet wide and some two feet above the water, constructed by small piles which had been driven by hand, with stringers laid over and planking on top. A few planks were left loose for the passage of small boats.

This early bridge was replaced by a highway pile bridge about 16 feet above the water with a draw or lift section to let small boats through. The lift was operated by a rope running to a winch on the south shore, and it took nearly the entire population to manipulate the bridge.

In 1868, Reddington, Nelson & Co. erected the present sawmill of the Charlevoix Lumber Company, and the local demand for lumber presented an urgent need for facilities to market the surplus products. The improvement and deepening of the river into Round Lake received first attention. It was realized that any improvement of the channel, to have any degree of permanence, would require a protection or breakwater to keep the sand from filling the channel during the frequent storms.

Accordingly, about 200 feet of the Fox & Rose pile dock was filled with slabs from the mill, the tug was then used to force a channel of some five or six feet of depth to the lake of equal depth, and on Oct. 8, 1869, the little vessel Mendota was towed into Round Lake, and soon cleared with a full load consisting of a few thousand feet of lumber. The period of navigation even in this limited way was extremely short-lived because the fall storms played havoc with the slab protection pier and distributed its component parts far and wide along the beach.

A survey of the harbor was made in 1868 by Major Wheeler, U.S. engineer, who made an erroneous report in which he stated that there were insurmountable obstacles in the way of improvement and that a harbor of refuge was not required owing to the proximity of natural harbors of Northport, Little Traverse and Beaver Island.

In driving the piles for the Fox & Rose dock, a hardpan of conglomerate had been struck which necessitated bridging over a span of some 30 feet. This hardpan extended under the river channel and was the insurmountable barrier to which the engineer referred.

As it turned out, the subsequent work proved that the effect of this formation was almost negligible in the prosecution of the work; however it was apparent that if the river was to be improved, the people themselves would have to pay for it.

The U.S. engineer who surveyed the harbor reported that it would cost approximately $200,000. In the final analysis, after the people of Charlevoix did the work themselves, the entire cost of the work did not exceed $700.

The dredging of the channel by the townspeople was merely another example of the unity these early settlers felt for their small village. They did not recognize obstacles.

If it Fitz

Sob Brothers

By JIM FITZGERALD

No longer will I hide my red eyes behind a newspaper. From now on I'll blubber out loud, just like a woman.

"It is unfair that men are made to feel ashamed if they cry." So decreed the American Psychological Assn in convention in Washington the other day.

Yeah.

A woman can bawl anywhere, anytime. My wife cries tears of joy at grand openings of shopping centers. She cries patriotic tears when flags go up at railroad crossings. She cries tears of sympathy when the Tiger manager yanks a pitcher. Once we watched a bum named Sparma walk four men in a row and the fans booed him something terrible. She sobbed so hard I had to help her from the park.

But nobody ever makes fun of her. They just peg her for another warm-hearted dame who must be a wonderful person and a grand friend to dumb animals.

But let some guy bawl in public and he is immediately pegged as a freak, possibly perverted and certainly a Mama's boy. People laugh at him.

An example: Recently I was trapped in the same room with that dreadful TV show, This Is Your Life. The surprised subject was fat Junior Samples from the Grand Old Opry by way of Hee Haw. I guest Junior is a comedian but you'd never have guessed it that night. He cried huge tears for 30 straight minutes, even during the commercials. They brought out some clown who'd sold him a bag of feed in 1930 and Junior collapsed, a lachrymose lump, completely overcome by nostalgia.

My wife and daughter fell into each other's arms laughing. "Look at that big boob," they said.

If it had been a woman, they would have matched her sob for sob.

Why is that, doctor?

One of the convening psychologists explained it simply: "I can't help feeling, in situations where I want to cry, that a woman—as well as a man—would question my masculinity if I did." Men, he said, are forced to put their masculinity on the line again and again. And it isn't fair. If both sexes are to have equal opportunities and equal awards, as the women libbers insist, the right to cry must be included. The world would be a better place.

Sad movies and TV shows make me cry. There's a TV program called The Courtship of Eddie's Father that grabs me every time, even on reruns. This little kid is always giving his prized goldfish to his worst enemy. Then the enemy kicks Eddie anyway and he must turn to a Chinese cook for comfort because his mother died of a horrible disease before he was born. At this point some member of my nosy family peeks behind my newspaper and hollers, "Hey everybody, Dad's got red eyes again."

I can then either run from the room in shame, or stay and insist that my eyes are watering because I'm allergic to the stupid cats which I certainly wish my Eddie would give to his worst enemy.

Either way, it is humiliating and an injustice to the masculine sex. A man should be able to cry, just like a woman, without fear of derision. After all, who can determine the sex of a tear?

Women's lib, meet men's sob.

Jordan Hatchery to Mark Century of Fish Research

The Jordan River National Fish Hatchery at Alba will hold an openhouse on Sept. 25 and 26 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. to mark the 100th anniversary of fish conservation by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The hatchery raises lake trout and releases about 2,800,000 each year into Lakes Michigan and Superior.

The station is located deep in the Jordan River Valley about three miles north of Alba. The entrance to the hatchery is a blacktop road off U.S. 131.

Built in the 1960's, the Jordan River Hatchery is one of the most modern in the long history of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

In the early days of the United States, little thought was given to the preservation or wise use of natural resources. Fish and game were abundant and man harvested them without concern for the future.

As long as there were new waters to fish and new forests to hunt, there was little concern if local supplies became depleted.

But as the land became settled and once distant horizons no longer existed, some Americans began to realize that fish and wildlife were far from inexhaustible.

On March 8, 1871, President U.S. Grant appointed Spencer Fullerton Baird as commissioner of Fish and Fisheries with the mandate to determine 'whether any and what diminuation in the number of food-fishes of the coast and lakes of the United States has taken place," and suggest remedial measures.

At first, the U.S. Fish Commission operated as an independent agency, with an initial appropriation of only $5,000. But in 1872 Baird, at the urging of the American Fish Cultural Association, petitioned Congress for $15,000 for propagation of food fishes.

Livingston Stone, a noted fish culturist of the day, was sent to California by the Commission to collect eggs of Pacific salmon for distribution throughout the country. Stone's primitive hatchery on the McCloud River near Redding, Pa., was the beginning of the National Fish Hatchery System which today numbers nearly one hundred.

During the same period, the Commission also conducted a number of scientific studies of fish and their life histories as the basis for economic and fishing statistical programs.

In 1903, the Fish Commission was transferred to the Department of Commerce as the U.S. Bureau of Fisheries. The reorganization Act of 1939 transferred the Bureau of Fisheries into the Department of the interior and consolidated it with the Bureau of Biological Survey, started in 1885.

The new agency, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, assumed broad responsibilities as it undertook to study and manage virtually all forms of wildlife as well as fish.

Then in 1956 the Fish and Wildlife Service was divided into the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife and the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, both remaining under the Department of the Interior.

In 1970, the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries was renamed the National Marine Fisheries Service and was transferred to the Department of Commerce.'

The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife is charged with:

—Operating National fish hatcheries, fish cultural development center and disease control laboratories.

—Preserving rare and endangered species of wildlife.

—Performing fish and wildlife research.

—Managing fish and wildlife populations on federal lands.

—Studying and controlling animal species which threaten man's well being.

—Acquiring and improving land for waterfowl habitat.

THE JORDAN River National Fish Hatchery at Alba will help its parent organization the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife celebrate its 100th anniversary by holding openhouse Sept. 25 and 26 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Crosser Heads Council

Charles Crosser, assistant superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, was elected president of the Charlevoix County Council of Social Agencies for the 1971-72 fiscal year.

Serving with him will be Mrs. Jessie Brock, Department of Social Services secretary, vice president; and Mrs. Jean Miles, District Health nurse, program chairman.

The position of secretary-treasurer remains to be filled.

The council, which has been in existence for several years, recently came up with a statement of its aim, namely that of "creating awareness and efficient utilization of existing social service resources, through interagency communication and cooperation, for the purpose of meeting individual and family needs."

OLDSMOBILE offers 25 different models in its 1972 lineup, including three station wagons, the Cutlass Cruiser (background) the Vista Cruiser (foreground) and the spacious Custom Cruiser.

Bounce-Back Bumper Offered by Oldsmobile

Oldsmobile's restyled 1972 cars incorporate several major engineering advancements, including an innovative spring steel bumper support system designed to greatly reduce low impact collision damage.

The new system is being introduced initially as the front bumper on the 1972 Delta 88's, 98s and the Custom Cruiser station wagon. An Oldsmobile exclusive, the spring steel bumper support system permits these 1972 Oldsmobiles to strike a stationary object or another car at minor (parking lot) speed without damage to the bumper bar itself, the surrounding sheet metal, or any other part of the car.

The spring steel supports yield upon impact and spring back to their original position.

In addition, both front and rear bumpers of the 88's and 98's, and the front bumper of the Toronado are equipped with protective rubber strips for better light impact performance. Bumper guards continue optional on the 1972 Cutlasses, Delta 88's, 98's, and Custom Cruiser.

In other areas of public concern, the 1972 Oldsmobiles are being built with an even more intensive quality control system. The company has expanded its reliability recheck program to cover 100 percent of production at its main assembly plant in Lansing. All cars undergo hundreds of inspection checks during assembly, but, in addition, are now re-inspected upon completion as they pass through a brand new 45,000 square foot facility. In the reinspection process, the car's electrical and mechanical operations are fully rechecked, as are the dial and gauge functions, lubricant levels, and the underhood, underbody and trunk areas.

A third area of public concern is the control of automotive emissions. Here, too, Oldsmobile engineers have more than met the increasingly stringent federal and California exhaust emission requirements. All of Oldsmobile's 1972 engines are equipped with valve rotators on both intake and exhaust valves, a feature pioneered by Oldsmobile in 1970. Compared to uncontrolled engines, the 1972 Oldsmobile power plants emit less than 1 6th the amounts of hydro-carbons and carbon monoxide.

In styling, all 1972 Oldsmobiles have undergone substantial front and rear improvements with specific exterior appearance changes and bright new interiors.

The number of Oldsmobile models in 1972 is reduced from 28 to 25. The Delta Custom series has been discontinued, leaving the Delta 88 and an expanded Delta Royale line of cars. The Delta Royale is produced in four models; hardtop coupe and sedan, a pillar sedan and a convertible.

The 4-4-2, formerly marketed as a separate series, is now optional in the Cutlass coupes and Cutlass Supreme convertible. The handling characteristics of the 4-4-2's suspension system and power train are now more widely available.

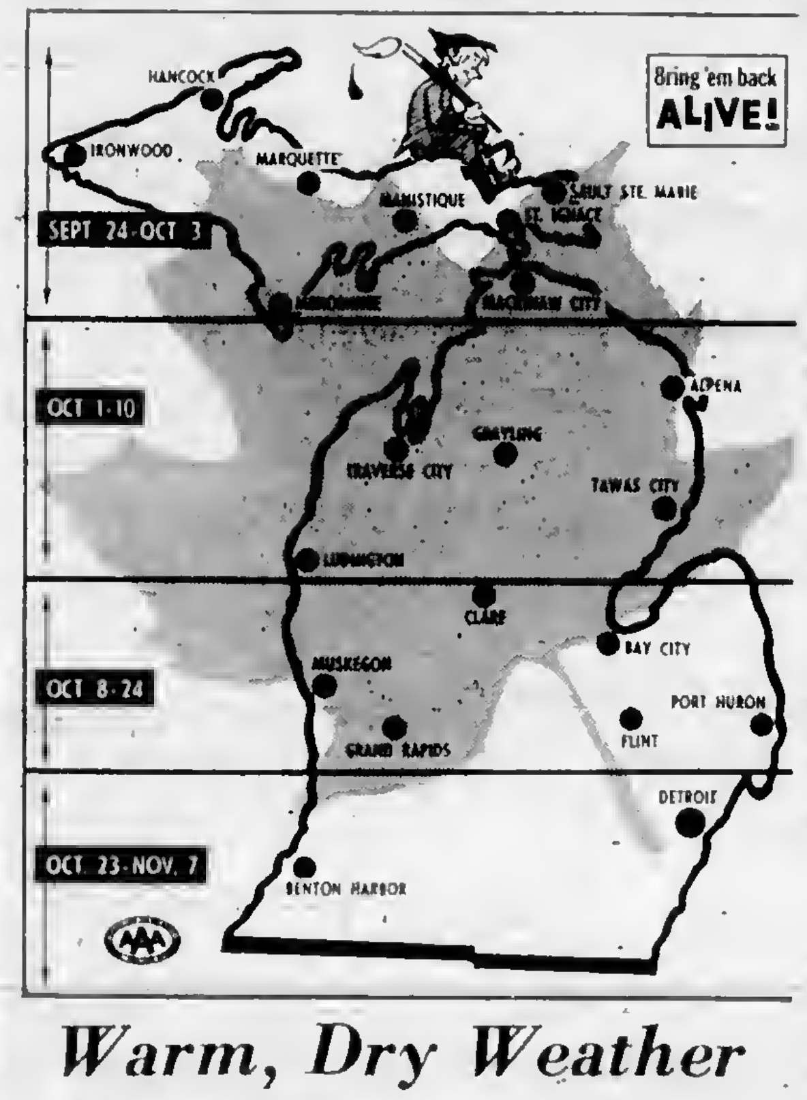
The Turbo Hydra-Matic 400 transmission is standard equipment in 1972 on all Oldsmobiles equipped with the 455 cubic inch engine. A modified version of the 400 is standard on those Delta 88's and Vista Cruisers ordered with the 350 cubic inch engine.

The Turbo Hydra-Matic 350 continues as an option on all Cutlass models. The standard engine in these cars is the 350 cubic inch V-8. The L-6 engine has been discontinued.

On all of the full-size 1972 Oldsmobiles, the very successful "G" ride suspension system is continued, with tuning refinements to achieve even higher standards of ride, comfort and handling.

An example of a tuning change, on the Delta 88's, 98's and the Custom Cruiser, is the relocation of the righthand engine mount to correct the imbalance resulting from engine accessories not being evenly distributed about the engine centerline. The new mount location equalizes the forces transmitted through the mounts into the frame and makes the car more pleasing from the standpoint of ride smoothness and quietness.

Other mechanical improvements found on the 1972 Oldsmobiles include more fade-resistant drum brakes on the Cutlass models, the use of air outlets in the door lock pillars in the flow-thru ventilation system on all full-size models, thus eliminating decklid air exhaust louvers.



Warm, Dry Weather Means Colorful Fall

While Mother Nature's autumnal color spectacular is often attributed to everything from Jack Frost to dry weather, the real explanation lies in the earth's tilt, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

As the tilted earth speeds through space toward its winter position, the northern hemisphere moves away from the sun, shortening the amount of daylight. This triggers a biological switch that causes trees and other plants to stop producing chlorophyll.

Actually fall colors are present in leaves all summer. When daylight wanes, chlorophyll is no longer made fast enough. The green leaf color diminishes and hidden hues begin to show.

"The end product of this involved process is expected to draw 600,000 motorists onto Michigan highways between now and early November for fall color tours," according to Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

"From all indications, this fall's color show should be the best in years. To view it," Ratke adds, "tourists are expected to spend almost $48 million - up five percent from last year."

The reason this year's color tour should be better than usual is that warm, dry weather - which the state is experiencing - intensifies fall colors in woods and fields.

"Many people have the assumption that an early frost will produce good color, when actually it is detrimental," states Ratke.

Vivid fall hues usually last two weeks in an area, but heavy rains and high winds can cause an abbreviated season by knocking and blowing leaves from their branches.

"When and where color in an area is best depends on the location and the types of trees involved," according to Ratke.

Oak trees usually show color late in the season, elms early, and maples in mid-season.

Northern third of Lower Peninsula – Oct. 1 to 10.

Central Michigan – Oct. 8 to 24.

Southern Michigan – Oct. 23 to Nov. 7.

"Many chambers of commerce have special color tour maps for 'windshield tourists' and have posted routes," Ratke says.

For example, the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce has mapped four routings along 200 miles of road. The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a "Color Cruise" Oct. 10 aboard the motor launch Beaver Islander.

University to Offer 3 Courses in City

Michigan State University will offer three credit courses, two of which may be taken on a non-credit basis, this Fall Term at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. The announcement is made by Dr. Milton J. Hagelberg, Director of the MSU Continuing Education Center in Traverse City.

English 829 (3) Twentieth Century Literature will meet on Mondays from 7-10 p.m., Sept. 27 through Nov. 29. English and American literature from 1900 to the present time will be studied with attention given to foreign backgrounds. Social Science 423 (3) The Family in Contemporary America will meet on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., Sept. 22 through Dec. 1. The class will analyse the modern American family, its relationship to society, and its contribution to personality. Dr. Milton J. Hagelberg, MSU Regional Director, will be the instructor. This course may also be taken on a non-credit basis for a fee of $30.00.

Persons interested in taking either the Family or the Literature course on a non-credit basis may participate in all the class sessions. Mrs. Thelma Sibinic and two sons of Ypsilanti were guests several days at the home of the former's father, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saunders.

Mrs. Evelyn Sudman and children David and Cheryl of Central Lake were guests on Sunday at the home of her father.

Our summer is over and it was far too short. Signs of fall are here. The color is beginning to show in several places, school has started and many of our summer friends and visitors have returned to their winter homes. Others are making plans to leave for the winter months. We wish each one the best of everything and we home-bodies will look forward to having each one return for another summer season.

Shower Fetes Mother-to-Be

By Beth Geneit

Mrs. William Rodarmer was the honored guest at a shower given Wednesday evening, Sept. 15, at the W. Upright home of Mrs. Jerry Balch with Mrs. Marion Wright and Mrs. Richard Louiselle as co-hostesses.

A social evening was spent with games being played and a prize awarded to Mrs. Garry Loder.

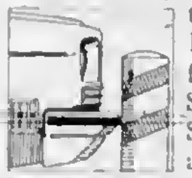
Twenty-seven guests were seated at a table decorated in the traditional blue and pink motif, centered by a large stork.

Mrs. Rodarmer was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

The '72 Oldsmobiles are here.

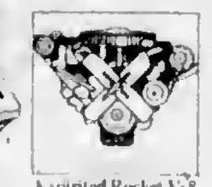
You'll like the changes you see in the showroom. The ones you feel on the open road. And one you may discover in your local supermarket parking lot.

DELTA 88 ROYALE There's more built-in toughness. A new front bumper absorbs minor parking lot impacts: it flexes, gives a little—then returns to position. On the road, its "G-Ride" System helps deliver exceptional ride and handling, with Supershocks, computer-matched springs, and other interrelated components. And Delta 88 now includes more standard equipment: power steering, power front disc brakes, power ventilation, automatic transmission—and a long list of GM safety features. Delta 88: Strong. Tough. Smooth. Not just another pretty car.



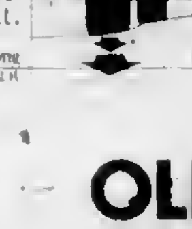
Its new front bumper takes bumps in a new way.

CUTLASS SUPREME You want real luxury, comfort and room—but not a big car. You want handling and maneuverability, but not a compact. Cutlass Supreme gives you what you want on a 112-inch wheelbase. Formal roofline. Room for six. Deluxe interiors. Under the hood, a Rocket 350 V-8. A "little limousine"—priced within your reach . . . that's Cutlass Supreme. What a step-up, holy cow! If your friends could see you now!



A spirited Rocket V-8 is standard on every Cutlass.

TORONADO The one personal luxury car that puts it all together in quite a different way. Toronado's Rocket 455 power goes to the front wheels to pull the car over the road with superb traction, ride and handling. Inside, Toronado is spacious and comfortable. There is ample room for six, including their feet—for there is no hump on the floor. In luxury, in styling, in quality, it is uniquely Toronado. There's nothing common about it.



Front drive pulls the car along instead of pushing it.

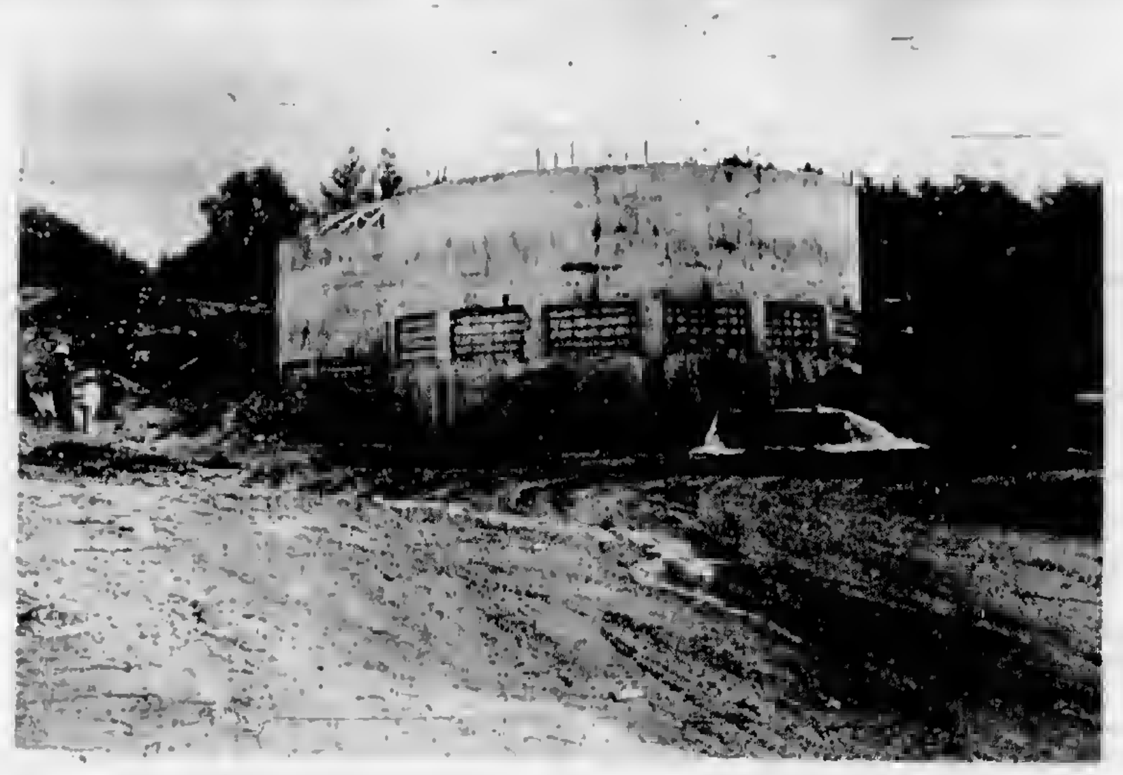
A Progress Report On Sewage Plant



WORK IS progressing on schedule on Charlevoix's new waste water treatment plant on Lakeshore-dr., without too much interference from the weather. The twin digesters above are ready for roofing.

TWIN SLUDGE tanks are a part of Charlevoix's new tertiary waste water treatment plant. Completion is scheduled by December 1 of 1972.

A DRAGLINE gobbles up peninsula into Lake Michigan created by dredging for the sewage plant's outfall sewer. The line will carry effluent from the plant one-quarter mile into Lake Michigan.

PIPE FOR the forced main which will connect the new waste water treatment plant with the old sewage plant is stockpiled on Park ave. William Porter of East Jordan will lay the new main. Work will probably start in the Bridge St.-Park ave. area this fall.

Pontiac Offers 32 Models, Engineering Innovations

Pontiac Motor Division's 1972 line-up features a new intermediate luxury series and a long list of engineering innovations, including a new energy-absorbing bumper for all full-size Pontiacs.

From its compact Ventura II to the top-of-the-line Grand Ville, Pontiac covers the automobile market with 32 models, including 17 Pontiacs, eight LeMans intermediates, four Firebirds, two Venturas and the Grand Prix. All will be in dealer showrooms Sept. 23.

The new addition to the intermediate line is the Luxury LeMans. Featuring a distinctive grille, a chrome-plated front valance panel, lower body side moldings, rear wheel opening covers, a horizontal rear deck molding and special interiors, the Luxury will be available in two and four-door hardtop models.

The energy absorbing system consists of two telescoping steel boxes which contain urethane positioned between the bumper and the frame of the car. Since the urethane blocks are not damaged by an impact, the bumper can be struck numerous times during the life of the car and continue to absorb energy. A rubber strip running—horizontally across the bumper protects it from scratches.

This bumper will be standard on the Catalina, Catalina Brougham, Bonneville, Grand Ville, Safari and Grand Safari.

In addition, the rear bumper on the regular Pontiacs has been modified in both the frame bar and the mounting brackets. As on the front, a rubber strip protects against damage.

Pontiac again will offer a wide selection of eight engines, ranging from a 250 cubic-inch six-cylinder to a high-performance 455 HO V-8. All will operate efficiently on low-lead or unleaded 91-octane regular fuel.

Power front disc brakes are standard on all full-size Pontiacs, the Grand Prix, Trans Am and LeMans station wagons. They are optional on all other models. Self-adjusting manual drum brakes are standard on the Ventura II, LeMans and Luxury, while self-adjusting manual front disc brakes are included on the basic Firebird, Esprit and Formula.

Power steering is standard on the Trans Am, all big Pontiacs and the Grand Prix. It is optional on all other cars. A new custom cushion steering wheel with a wood grain texture inset is offered for 1972.

Inside, all models feature distinctive trims and richly padded instrument panels with easy-to-reach accessories and controls. The Firebird and big Pontiac instrument panels are designed so that any bulb can be changed in 60 seconds.

Eight interior colors blend with a wide range of exterior choices. Cordova tops are available in five colors (light covert, tan, metallic pewter, black and white) and convertible tops are offered in three choices (light covert, black and white).

The 1972 line-up is identical to last year except in the intermediates where there are five fewer models as a result of the following changes: + T-37 (three models in 1971) discontinued. + GTO (two-door hardtop in 1971) becomes an option on the LeMans two-door hardtop and two-door coupe.

+ LeMans Sport (two-door hardtop, convertible and four-door hardtop last year) becomes a bucket seat option on the LeMans two-door hardtop. The convertible moves to the LeMans series and the four-door hardtop is discontinued.

+ LeMans - Six models last year (two-door coupe, two-door hardtop, four-door sedan, four-door hardtop, and two and three-seat station wagons). This is the same for 1972, except the four-door hardtop has been discontinued.

MINI-PRICE, maxi-buy: The 1972 Dodge Colt has a 97.5 cubic-inch engine, reclining seats, and adjustable steering column as standard. Two seat wagon (top) and two-door hardtop are two of the four models offered.

Dodge Colt Trots Toward New Gains

The Dodge Colt starts its first full model year with some engineering improvements, a great reception and a very bright future.

The Dodge entry in the mini car sweepstakes entered the domestic market on a piecemeal regional marketing basis beginning in January of 1971 and scored a major success in each market as it was introduced.

"By the introduction of the 1972 Model, the Dodge Colt will be in every major metro market in the nation," according to Arthur G. Kirchner, Dodge general sales manager. "We're anticipating 60,000 Colts in 1972, nearly twice as many as the 36,000 we marketed in the nine-month period of the 1971 Colt model year."

"By 1975," he said, "Dodge expects to be receiving 125,000 Colts for the American automobile marketplace."

Running improvements have been completed on Colt since its first introduction to newsmen in the final quarter of 1970.

Drive train noise was reduced by decreasing the diameter of the end of the shaft while the efficiency of the breaking system on the Colt was improved through the addition of cooling air scoops to the front wheel discs. Rear wheel brake cylinders have been enlarged to improve the balance.

Self-adjusting rear brakes and new, larger front disc brakes will be added to the Dodge Colt in the 1972 model year.

The Colt will get two esthetic changes for 1972 with the addition of moulded carpet and two new metallic colors—green and brown.

The Dodge Colt will continue availability in four models, a low-line coupe, two-door hardtop, four-door sedan, and four-door station wagon.

A few of the more obvious standard Colt "extras" include: an adjustable steering column, front disc brakes, full-synchromesh, four-speed transmission and flow-through ventilation, and a 97.5 cubic inch (1600cc) overhead cam, four-cylinder Hemi engine.

Torino, Thunderbird Spark Ford Offering

A completely redesigned Torino and Thunderbird, featuring major under-the-skin changes and increased interior room, highlight Ford Division's 1972 product story.

TORINO

Ford Division's most changed offering in 1972 is the Torino. The popular intermediate features new dimensions, sheet metal and chassis in its greatest change since it was introduced as the 1962 Fairlane.

THUNDERBIRD

The 1972 Thunderbird, the division's other all-new car, features new exterior styling and significantly increased interior room. The Thunderbird has a new front and a totally redesigned rear suspension system called "Posi-Ride." The car also will offer as standard equipment Michelin steel belted radial ply tires which, when coupled with the new suspension, give Thunderbird better handling and ride than ever before. Thunderbird is offered in a single two-door hardtop model.

FORD

Front and rear styles are new for the 1972 Ford. All models feature egg-crate design center and side grilles with a center protection bar, and a restyled rear deck lid. The LTD series has a distinctive grille and rear end treatment that sets it apart from the rest of the Ford line.

PINTO

In keeping with the announced policy that Pinto would not change for several years, the 1972 Pinto sedan is virtually unchanged but offers refinements to further owner enjoyment. The only exterior difference is the rear window of the Runabout model which extends eight inches lower than on the '71 version, improving rearward visibility and adding a sportier appearance.

MAVERICK

Maverick's original style and easy-to-repair features are retained in 1972. With more than 700,000 sales to its credit, Maverick's changes include a new insulation package for quieter ride, new color combinations and the availability of steel belted radial ply tires.

MUSTANG

Mustang, America's first and most successful sporty compact, has refinements for 1972 that complement the major changes made last year. New for 1972 is the upgrading of the base car which includes as standard equipment wheel covers, racing mirrors, rocker and wheellip moldings and a deluxe two-spoke steering wheel. The convertible has an upgraded standard interior and a new optional Exterior Decor Group is offered.

THE FORD Maverick (top) and the Torino are among Ford Division's offerings for 1972. The Maverick retains the styling which made it a leader in the compact market. The Torino features an egg-crate textured grille framed in bright molding.

AMERICAN MOTORS INTRODUCES THE GUARANTEED CAR.

If anything goes wrong with one of our 72's and it's our fault, we'll fix it free. Anything.

AMERICAN MOTORS 1972 BUYER PROTECTION PLAN.

For years, car buyers in this country have been saying that instead of shiny new chrome every year, what they really want is a good car they can count on.

Here's how it works:

A STRONG GUARANTEE IN PLAIN ENGLISH.

When you buy a new 1972 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship.

This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.

All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an American Motors dealer.

This guarantee gives you 12-month or 12,000-mile coverage on a lot of things most car warranties don't. It covers air conditioning, battery, radio, wiper blades, front end alignment, light bulbs—literally everything we put on the car except tires.

In other words, if something we did goes wrong with one of our '72's, you won't have to pay for the parts or the labor. We will.

A MORE THOROUGHLY-CHECKED CAR. FROM THE FACTORY AND THE DEALER.

Naturally, we wouldn't be backing our cars like this if we weren't more sure of them than we've ever been before. For 1972, we've put in more quality control steps, more tests and more people to see that every car leaving our factory is as perfect as man and machine can make it.

At the dealer's, it's checked over again.

Every car (not one of 50, one of 5, every one) is road-tested for starting, handling, braking and overall performance. When the serviceman completes the test, he signs his report and slides it over the sun visor, where you can see it.

And, when a man signs his name to something, you can be sure he's done his job. And done it right.

A LOANER CAR WHEN YOU NEED IT. FREE.

Not only do we offer you a strong guarantee, we've set up a system to back it up without inconveniencing you.

If you have to leave your '72 overnight for guarantee repairs, over 2,000 dealers will loan you one of their cars. A nice, clean, well-equipped car in good condition. Free.

A DIRECT LINE TO DETROIT. TOLL-FREE.

We're making some big promises, and we fully intend to keep them. But, just in case you have a problem, we have a way of handling it. When you buy a '72, you get the name and toll-free number of a person in Detroit.

If you call, we promise you you'll get results. And fast.

These aren't just fancy words.

We mean it.

Nobody in the business does as much for you after you buy a car, and it takes a lot of time, men and money to do all these things.

But we think it's worth it.

Since we're giving American car-buyers exactly what they say they want, we should sell more cars than we've ever sold before.

American Motors

STARTING TODAY, THESE AMERICAN MOTORS DEALERS WILL DO MORE FOR YOU AFTER YOU BUY A CAR THAN ANY OTHER DEALER IN TOWN.

Quality is Called Keynote of 1972 Chevrolets

New Models Will Be Shown Sept. 23

Quality is the keynote of the Chevrolet Motor Division's 1972 product program.

John Z. DeLorean, general manager, pledged that the 1972 models scheduled for public introduction Sept. 23 will be the best in Chevrolet's history.

"From the luxury Caprice to the economy Vega," DeLorean said, "we have limited the changes in our 1972 models to refinements and product improvements; while we concentrate on building each car better than ever before.

"Every one of our car lines is designed to meet the consumer emphasis on maximum value and quality in an automotive purchase.

"By providing with our 1972 models a better, more trouble-free way to see America, we hope to stimulate new public awareness of the individual freedom for enjoyable family travel offered by the automobile."

He said new manufacturing and assembly and quality audit procedures and motivational programs to stimulate added pride of workmanship among Chevrolet's 100,000 employes are among steps toward improved quality.

DeLorean also said the division is implementing new programs to guide Chevrolet dealers in giving improved customer service.

The full-sized Chevrolet for 1972 has new front and rear styling. It also has heavier, stronger bumpers that extend farther away from the body sheet metal as part of the improved bumper impact protection.

Chevelle, Monte Carlo and Camaro have front end styling refinements and all car lines including Station Wagons, Nova and Corvette have engine, chassis and durability improvements. An anti-theft warning system becomes standard on Corvette.

Chevrolet's newest car—the top selling Vega—keeps its promise of styling continuity. Improvements include addition of a glovebox and the availability during the model year of an optional Turbo Hydramatic three-speed automatic transmission.

Chevrolet continues to offer the industry's widest assortment of station wagons in 1972. Big Chevrolet-styled wagons have the Glide-Away disappearing tailgate; the mid-size Chevelle-styled wagons have dual-action gates and the small Vega Kammback has a one-piece rear window-gate that swings up for easy accessibility.

All Chevrolet engines for 1972 have improved exhaust emission controls. As was the case in 1971, all engines have been designed to operate efficiently and with lower exhaust emissions on regular, low-lead or no-lead gasoline.

Chevrolet for 1972 publishes net or as-installed horsepower ratings. The net test method follows the recommended procedure of the Society of Automotive Engineers and simulates actual performance as installed in an automobile.

Every 1972 Chevrolet has extensive safety features for occupant protection, accident prevention and anti-theft protection.

New front end among refinements of

Chevrolet's Monte Carlo Coupe for '72

Chevrolet's personal luxury car has a new wider grille and parking lights set between the grille and Power-Beam headlights for 1972. A bright center windsplit blends into the six-foot long hood. Variable ratio power steering and power disc/drum brakes are standard. Luxury interiors, rugged body and chassis components and agile handling contribute to Monte Carlo's steadily increasing sales. All 1972 Chevrolets will be introduced Thursday, September 23.

1972 Edition of Chevrolet's Vega

Keeping a promise to continue its styling, Chevrolet's fast selling economy car adds interior refinements such as a glove box and a perforated headliner for all models. Standard front disc brakes, steel side door beams and an exclusive aluminum overhead cam engine are among Vega's features. 1972 Chevrolets will be introduced September 23.

THE 1972 CADILLAC Sedan De Ville (top) highlights a new front end with a new lighting arrangement, a new grille and an improved bumper. The traditional Cadillac cross-hatch grille has horizontal accent bars and appears to float within the new moulding that frames the grille. The parking lamp has been moved out of the bumper area to a location between the head lamps. The front bumper impact capability has been increased to withstand a five-mile-an-hour car-to-car impact. All standard Cadillacs are powered by a 472 cubic inch engine. An all new grille with a strong vertical motif highlights the 1972 Eldorado Convertible (bottom). New chrome mouldings over the grille and head lamps add to the new front end look. A new wheel disc on the Eldorado features finely tailored concentric rings which are open for efficient brake cooling.

New Cadillacs Emphasize Durability, Safety, Luxury

Significant engineering improvements, distinctive styling refinements and an increased impact resisting bumper system add emphasis to the durability, safety and luxury of all 1972 Cadillacs, according to George R. Elges, general manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

In 1972, Cadillac's 70th Anniversary Year, the Division will offer nine models in three series—Calais, De Ville and Fleetwood.

"The overall dimensions of the new Cadillacs are basically the same as last year except for overall length which has been increased slightly to provide for added bumper protection," Mr. Elges said.

"The 1972 front bumper impact capability has been increased on all Cadillacs to withstand a five mile-an-hour car-to-car situation," Elges said. "Bumper bars, vertical bumper guards with rubber impact strips, mountings and reinforced frame are standard on all Cadillacs.

"The new Cadillac impact resisting system significantly increases protection of the front end sheet metal, lights and other components," he noted. For added protection, horizontal rubber strips extending the full width of the bumper face are offered as an option. These strips, with a fine white bead, complement the horizontal motif and add to the styling newness.

In addition to the improved bumpers, the 1972 Cadillacs feature a new grille and lighting arrangement, for a new front end appearance.

The traditional Cadillac cross-hatch grille has horizontal accent bars, and appears to float within the bold new molding that frames the grille.

The new front end design highlights widely-spaced head lamps set into individual bezels. The parking lamp has been moved out of the vulnerable bumper area to a new location between the head lamps.

A chrome center hood molding has been added to all standard Cadillacs for 1972. In addition, the "V" emblem returns to the hood and rear deck lid on the De Ville and Calais models.

The side view of the car highlights the tubular shape of the body. A strong design line from the top of the front fender blends into the sculpture of the body and sweeps to the rear bumper.

In the rear the bumper is refined and incorporates an optional rubber impact strip across the width of the bumper bar face. The vertical tail lamps contain the stoplight, directional signal and taillight with a winged crest on each lens.

A 472 cubic inch engine again will power all standard Cadillacs, with a 500 cubic inch engine featured on the Eldorado.

"The Eldorado for 1972 will be as exciting as ever and feature the tailored and chiseled lines that set this luxury personal car apart from all others," Mr. Elges said. The vertical character of the fender ends in the front and rear and crisp profiles throughout the entire car highlight the Eldorado.

There is an all new grille for 1972 exclusive to the Eldorado with a vertical motif, and new chrome moldings over the grille and head lamps to add a subtle but distinctive change to the front end appearance.

Fresh new wheel discs feature finely tailored concentric rings which are open for efficient brake cooling.

Rubber impact strips have been added to the vertical ends of the rear bumper as an option for added bumper bar protection.

A new option for the Eldorado convertible is a hard plastic boot cover which is convenient to install and provides a neater appearance.

There are 21 exterior colors offered in 1972, and 16 of them are new. There are 15 standard colors and 6 firemist.

"Cadillac interiors for 1972 are fitted with luxurious and tasteful appointments that contribute to the comfort and satisfaction of even the most discriminating owner," Elges said.

The instrument panel has the cluster controls angled toward the driver and located for maximum recognition, accessibility and convenience.

Grille bars have been added to the defroster openings at the base of the front windshield on all models to prevent articles from dropping into the air duct.

The dual comfort seat has been extended to the Eldorados as an option for 1972.

To further enhance the outstanding rolling smoothness attained in 1971, additional improvements have been made in the frame, body reinforcements, shock absorbers and body mounts—all finely tuned to assure a softer and quieter ride.

More efficient starting is assured on the 1972 Cadillac engines as a result of a recalibrated choke and carburetor. Driveability has been improved by the use of a speed controlled spark in place of the transmission controlled spark advance.

The front suspension on the standard cars has been modified to use the integral front wheel hub and disc brake rotor as well as a new front wheel spindle.

The Eldorado rear suspension geometry has been modified for 1972 to provide more precise steering and even greater directional stability.

The reliability of the air conditioning system has been further improved with a new freon level monitoring sensor.

Test Is Required To Win Scholarship

Both state scholarships and tuition grants, of up to $800, are awarded to Michigan students who plan to attend colleges in Michigan.

According to Dr. Ratigan, local guidance director, scholarships are awarded to students enrolled in public or private Michigan colleges on the basis of the State Competitive Scholarship Examination, their high school records, and demonstrated financial need.

Tuition grants, a separate source of assistance, are awarded on the basis of demonstrated need and enrollment at a private Michigan College, such as Alma or Albion colleges, Davenport College of Business, and many more.

Complete information and registration envelopes and materials are now available at the Charlevoix High School Counseling Center.

Dr. Ratigan emphasized the fact that, to be eligible for state scholarship consideration, Charlevoix seniors or graduates without previous college experience must register for the State Competitive Scholarship Examination by the deadline of October 25 (preferrably at least a week before this date) and take the test on Saturday, Nov. 13, of this year.

Semifinalists are selected according to examination scores and will automatically receive notice in December. Students who take the test but do not qualify as scholarship semifinalists may still receive a tuition grant provided they plan to attend a private college in Michigan.

In either case the family must submit a Parents' Confidential Statement to College Scholarship Service. Financial need is determined from two sources: college costs and family resources.

Among materials at the High School Counseling Center are the above forms and also a pamphlet, "A Letter To Parents", to assist them in financial planning for their college-bound. Parents are also invited to contact the Counseling Center (phone 547-2811) for more information.

Dr. Ratigan pointed out that the State Competitive Examination is the start but by no means the end of the road as far as financial assistance for either seniors headed for college or for vocational school.

State guaranteed loans of up to $1,000 a year are available. Certain colleges and vocational schools make up their own "package deals," incorporating scholarships, grants, loans, and work programs.

Students may be automatically eligible for Social Security, Vocational Rehabilitation, or Veteran's benefits.

They may receive help from local or national industries, private organizations, and benevolent societies. But in order to receive help, they must take the initiative with their parents and start exploring the possibilities – one of which is signing up for the State Competitive Scholarship Examination at the High School Counseling Center, preferrably a week prior to the deadline date of this coming Oct. 25.

Davis Backs Ballot on School Tax

State Sen. Robert W. Davis (R-37th District) has announced strong support of Gov. William Milliken's drive to put a school property tax relief amendment on the ballot in the 1972 general election.

"It is extremely regrettable that House Democrats blocked such a vote this year by insisting that the people of Michigan would have to approve a graduated income tax in order to achieve school property tax relief."

Sen. Davis said he felt that the present method of heavy emphasis on the property tax as a primary source of educational income was extremely unfair. "I want the people in the 37th District to know that I not only support property tax relief, but tried to do something about it in the Senate."

"I introduced Senate Joint Resolution M, which was the same type of Resolution as House Joint Resolution GG, without the Graduated Income Tax. This was voted on in the Senate with 18 affirmative Republican votes, and 1 Democratic vote. So the Senate did make an attempt to reduce the property taxes in this State. Because we have failed to secure the 26 votes necessary, I heartily endorse a Republican campaign to put the issue of school property tax relief to a vote of the people in 1972, and will actively take part in the drive," stated Senator Davis.

"While I shall actively campaign to change our method of financing education, I do not want anyone to think for one moment that eliminating the school property tax will mean the elimination of all school taxes. People should be reminded that income lost by elimination of school property taxes will have to be made up by the imposition of some other form of taxation—primarily an increase in the state income tax. I feel it is imperative to support a petition drive," concluded Senator Davis.

Indian Memorial Park May Preserve Bells Bay

Proposed creation of an 8,000-acre Woodland Indian National Memorial on the Lake Michigan shore south of Charlevoix has raised hopes that the Bells Bay area may not be lost for recreational purposes after all.

Although the project has been in the works for several months, the Midland Daily News reported last week that the national cultural park has been recommended by a U.S. Department of the Interior task force in a report forwarded to Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton for action.

The project presumably would include land in the Bells Bay area now under development by the Kenting Corp. of Birmingham.

The plan reportedly has the support of Gov. William Milliken, and Sens. Robert Griffin and Phillip Hart.

The park would combine elements of cultural preservation, cultural interchange between the present Indians and the other citizens of Michigan and the United States, and a wide range of recreational activities.

The site chosen by the Task Force is an 8,000 acre tract on the shore of Lake Michigan between Charlevoix on the North, the Village of Norwood on the South, and bounded on the East by U.S. 31.

Much of the site is already in state ownership, the report notes. The site includes approximately seven miles of sand and pebble beaches, and contains many rich archeological sites.

Plans for the Memorial call for preserving a large segment of the forest in the condition in which it was known by the Indian residents of Michigan before the arrival of the European explorers. There would be visitor centers and museums, interpretation of archeological sites, and recreational facilities such as campgrounds, picnic areas, and beaches. These would include such things as children's summer camp programs where genuine Indian lore and crafts would be taught by real Indians.

In addition, the plan calls for locating state and federal offices having to do with Indian affairs on the Memorial site. A planned community is included in the concept, to provide housing and services for the people who would staff and supply the Memorial complex, thus preventing an unsightly "motel and drive-in row" from developing just outside the boundaries, as has happened to some of the older National Parks.

The original idea for creating the Woodlands Indian National Memorial came from the Intertribal Council of Michigan, an organization representing the four reservations remaining in the state.

The task force includes private citizens, a representative of the Intertribal Council, and state and federal officials from a variety of functions, including the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, USDA Department of Forestry, and U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. Chairman of the Task Force is Mr. Bruce J. Miller, Assistant Director for Cooperative Programs, National Park Service.

Two Midland area men served on the task force: Benedict Quigno, of Mt. Pleasant, a member of the Intertribal Council, and Peter Wright of Dow Corning Corporation. Another Dow Corning man, Howard Christensen, has also worked on the project from its beginning, and sat as an ex-officio member of the Task Force.

"It should be pointed out," Quigno stated, "that in projects like this the Indians often are unable to follow through on their own ideas because they don't have the financial resources to provide people to work on it. Both Dow Corning and The Dow Chemical Co. have helped us greatly, both by generously allowing their people to assist us on company time, and by providing a grant to hire a full-time Indian staffer for two years until we were able to get government funding to continue."

Administration of the Woodlands Indian National Memorial is to be shared by the National Park Service, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and the Intertribal Council of Michigan. The Memorial would be run as a single entity, however. Land use, roads and trails, buildings and facilities, and other ecological and environmental considerations will generally follow National Park Service guidelines.

According to Quigno, the next steps to be taken in the creation of the new cultural park will be to seek legislation authorizing the Memorial and funding for further planning and development.

Members of the Interior Department's 14-man Task Force include Sam Milstein, deputy director - recreation, Department of Natural Resources; and Dr. Charles E. Cleland, curator of anthropology, Michigan State University. Dr. Cleland has been engaged in archeological work in the area for several years.

Homesites Eyed In North Side Industrial Park

Former Mayor William Fochtman and representatives of Ski & Shore Realty suggested to the City Council Monday night that 55 acres in the city's north-side industrial park be earmarked for residential development.

Fochtman was accompanied to the meeting by Gene Ostling and Dick Georgi who showed the council a proposed plat of 70 residential lots in the area. The land lies between Mercer-blvd. and Martin-rd., east of the Durrance property.

Fochtman said the property, which is close to the new Elementary School, would be better used for residential purposes rather than industry. Because of the distance from the existing sewer main, he said the lots would have to have septic tanks. However, city water is available at one corner of the property.

The parcel includes 17 acres which has been sold to Robert Dyksterhouse on condition that he construct a manufacturing plant. However the council says Dyksterhouse has failed to live up to terms of the agreement and is attempting to have the property returned for re-sale to George Nipson of the Charlevoix Chemical Co. who wants to build a warehouse on the site.

The land also includes a parcel on Mercer-blvd. offered gratis to the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District two weeks ago as the site of the district's proposed office building.

Mayor Andrew Essenburg agreed that the council's first job will be to decide just how it wants the land used before considering any kind of development.

The Intermediate Board, which met at the same time as the council, decided to meet shortly with officials from Charlevoix and Boyne City to discuss land offers for the new office building. Both communities offered land, but neither one specified a given amount.

In other business the council:

–Referred three bids on general liability, fleet and workman's compensation insurance to committee. Charles Elzinga's Farm Bureau bid was low at $9,394.85, followed by the Charlevoix Agency, $10,533.31; and the LaBlance Agency, $11,670. All three firms offered performance dividends on workman's compensation, which could reduce the cost as much as $1,700.

–Sent to committee two bids for sidewalk and curb repairs. M.P.S. (Schwerm) Inc. of Traverse City submitted bids of 95 cents a square foot for four-inch sidewalk, $1.05 a square foot for six-inch sidewalk and $9.50 a lineal foot for curbing. Lake Construction bid $1.40 a square foot for four-inch sidewalk; $1.60 a square foot for six-inch sidewalk; and $4 a lineal foot for curbing.

–Referred to Roy Smith of McNamee, Porter and Seeley of Ann Arbor two bids for repair and painting of the water tower and tank. K. Kessler Co. of Fremont, Ohio, bid $14,370 and Universal Construction, Indianapolis, Ind., bid $12,500.

–Received word from the law firm Michael and Berlage that the city has 60 days to file a brief on a law suit appeal relative to ownership of the foot of Alice-st. Circuit Court has established the city's title to the land, but Robert Hamilton, whose family has used the land for years as part of the Hamilton & Son

Rustlers Slaughter Angus Calf

Cattle rustlers struck in Charlevoix County over the weekend, according to Sheriff Philo Sumner.

Russell F. Dohm of Black-rd. reported to the Sheriff's Department Saturday morning that one of his Black Angus calves had been slaughtered in his pasture and the carcass removed.

Dohm said he was unaware that anything had happened to his herd until Ralph Richardson stopped at his home about 10:30 Saturday morning to report blood stains in Ferry-rd., which runs along the south side of Dohm's property.

Dohm investigated and found the calf's stomach and intestines about 250 feet inside his pasture, north of Ferry-rd.

A head-count of his herd revealed that it had been reduced from 46 to 45.

Dohm says the incident probably occurred early Saturday morning, since the blood stains were still fresh when he arrived at the scene.

A post holding up a single strand of barbed wire had been knocked over, but there were no tire tracks visible on a low mud bank between the road bed and the pasture.

However, the remaining cattle apparently were unnerved by the incident and had congregated in that area of the field, lowing and trampling the turf when Dohm arrived.

Dohm believes that several men and a vehicle at least the size of a pick-up truck were involved.

He theorizes that one of the men left the truck near the corner of his pasture and walked into the field with a rifle. The truck apparently continued west and then turned around, judging from tire marks.

The rustler shot the animal in the field and gutted it on the spot. When his companions returned, they apparently carried the animal to the waiting truck.

He said the calf was nine months old and weighed about 500 pounds, 400 pounds dressed, which would have required the efforts of four or more men.

Dohm says the calf was worth about $200 at today's prices, only half of which is covered by insurance.

A puzzling aspect of the deed was the absence of a blood trail between the scene of the slaughter and the roadway. However, cattle milling in the area could have obliterated evidence.

Dohm says this is the first time he has had any trouble with rustlers since going into the cattle business in the 1950's.

Sheriff's deputies are continuing their investigation.

20 Local Government Jobs Created in County

Acting with speed unprecedented for a governmental agency, the Emergency Employment Task Force took only two days to approve a Charlevoix County application for $106,200 in federal funds to create government jobs for 20 unemployed persons.

Local government contributions will boost the project cost to $119,400, which will create 12 jobs in the county, two in the city of East Jordan and one each in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, the Charlevoix School District, the Twin Valley School District, the Boyne Falls School District, the city of Boyne City and the village of Boyne Falls.

The city of Charlevoix did not apply for any of the emergency job money.

William Mercer, county planning director, said the application for funds was submitted to the Task Force last Wednesday and approval was received on Friday.

Eligible to apply for the local government jobs are persons who have been unemployed for seven days or longer. Unemployed persons who formerly worked for a hiring governmental unit may not apply for work with the same unit unless they have been laid off for more than 30 days.

Under the program, Charlevoix County will hire two Road Commission laborers; the Social Services Department will take on a custodian and two ward clerks; secretaries will be employed by the Planning Department and the Health Department; the Sheriff's Department will acquire two radio dispatch trainees; a custodian will be hired by the Custodial Department; the Equalization Department will hire a field man trainee and the Register of Deeds Department will hire an office clerk.

In other units of government, school districts of Charlevoix, Twin Valley and Boyne Falls will hire custodians; the Intermediate School District will hire an office clerk; Boyne City will hire a secretary and East Jordan will hire a man to work in the Water Department and another as a patrolman trainee.

Salaries range from $316.67 a month for the Intermediate Bergmann shot the bear three times without causing serious injury. His last shot – and the last bullet in his chamber was fired from a distance of six feet while the animal was charging.

HOSPITAL LOSES REVENUE

Medicare Sleuths Send Patients Home Early

Stringently enforced Medicaid and Medicare regulations governing the length of time a patient spends in the hospital resulted in a sharp decrease in revenue at the Charlevoix Hospital during the past year.

At the annual meeting Sept. 21 at the City Hall, board members revealed that the average length of stay at the hospital dropped from seven days to six days between 1969-'70 and 1970-'71, reducing the percent of occupancy from 52 percent to 45 percent.

Dr. Harry Custer, medical member of the board, explained that under the federal medical programs, the hospital is remunerated for patient care on the basis of bed chart data, hastening the departure of many patients from the hospital.

He said such early departures could lengthen the period of convalescence.

The shortened hospital stays resulted in a decrease of hospital last year of $77,500. At the close of the 1970 fiscal year, the hospital showed an income of $1,500. At the close of the 1971 fiscal year, the deficit amounted to $76,000.

The figures do not take into account the gift of a Michigan-ave. home to the hospital which was sold for $48,000.

The financial statement, read by Board Member William Peck, showed gross patient service revenue dropped $37,500, from $701,500 to $664,000 and that the number of patient days dropped from 8,500 to 7,700.

However, operating expenses rose from $694,000 to $734,500.

Salaries rose four percent, from $406,000 to $423,500, but the cost of employe fringe benefits dropped from $35,500 to $32,000, because of changes in personnel.

The bad debt percentage rose from 2 percent to 4 percent.

A decrease in the number of obstetrical patients also was cited as reason for the drop in revenue. The hospital had 166 OB patients last year, compared to 145 for the year just ended.

Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger pointed out that most of the lost revenue would have been made up if patients stayed one day longer at the hospital.

In other business:

–A report on Hospital Guild activities was given by Mrs. Gordon Freedman, in the absence of President Mrs. Barbara Gallagher.

–Mrs. Eleanor Schultz was elected to the Board of Directors, succeeding Fay Davis. Re-elected were Gerald Staublin, Julius Gilbert and William Peck.

–Dr. Custer reported on the progress of establishing a coronary care unit in memory of the late Dr. Lawrence Grate. He said legal question have been raised concerning the legality of accepting patients with cardiac problems without such a unit."

Courier Helps Vets Find Jobs

As a service to Charlevoix area veterans, the Courier is offering free help-wanted ads to returning servicemen unable to find employment.

Details of the offer appear on Pg. 2 of this week's Courier.

Red Pine Cones Worth $6 a Bushel

Area Forester Jack Lockwood reports that the Department of Natural Resources office in Boyne City is now paying $6 a bushel for mature red pine cones.

Lockwood said the cones are harvested for their seeds which are used in reforestation projects.

He added that only mature cones will be accepted. Maturity is indicated when a cone has turned purple.

Another test for maturity is whether the cone will float in a pan of kerosene.

Prof. House Addresses Assessors

Prof. A. House of the Michigan State University Extension Service was the guest speaker at the first session of the Property Assessment course being conducted at North Central Michigan College. The course is designed to assist assessors to meet certification requirements which become effective State-wide on Dec. 31, 1971.

Although the course is designed to meet the requirements for the State Board of Assessors Level 1 certification examination, realtors and other professionals have enrolled.

Prof. House stated that this is not an uncommon practice in courses of this type and that the course usually benefits from the contributions of the varied groups represented.

The course meets at 7 p.m., on Tuesday night for the fall and spring semester and will terminate with the administering of the certification examination by the Michigan State Tax Commission.

Because of the interest expressed and the uniqueness of this program, enrollment will be held open through Tuesday, the 27th of October.

Takes Part in Ritual

Navy Fireman Apprentice Patrick M. Fitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Fitch of East Jordan, participated in one of Naval tradition's oldest and most heralded rituals when his ship, USS Edward McDonnell, crossed the Equator during her current Western Pacific deployment.

He has been designated a "Shellback", having been declared so by the seafaring legendary ominous court of "King Neptune" after his ship entered the Southern Hemisphere off the coast of Equador, South America.

Mrs. Jack Rader Elected Hospital Guild President

Mrs. Jack E. Rader was elected president of the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix hospital at the 17th annual meeting held recently at the hospital succeeding Mrs. James W. Gallagher.

Other officers who assumed their duties at the same time are Mrs. James Driggett, vice president; Mrs. Albert Seger, secretary and Mrs. Eleanor Schultz, treasurer. A corresponding secretary will be named at a later date.

Mrs. Gallagher, Mrs. Gordon L. Freedman and Frances Milner were elected to the executive committee.

Reports on the year's activities prepared by Mrs. Gallagher showed that the Guild had purchased fireproof drapes for the hospital solarium at a cost of $542.00; a croupette for the nursery at $419.75 and a youth bed for the children's ward for $224.65. At the present time the Guild plans to underwrite the cost of an emergency lighting system at the hospital at an estimated cost of $500.

In addition, the group offers two scholarships annually, a professional nursing scholarship for $300 given at the rate of $100 for three years and a hospital services scholarship for a lesser amount. Mrs. David Fowler was chairman of the scholarship committee during the past year.

The Guild makes complete layettes that are given to hospitalized indigent mothers. Mrs. Clifford Riley, chairman of this committee, reported 14 had been given out during the year and that another 20 are on hand.

Another service provided by the guild is that of puppets for children admitted to the children's department. Mrs. Gerald Staublin and Mrs. Conrad Klooster Jr., co-chairmen, report 91 were given to patients and 52 are on hand.

The guild also provides favors for patients tray at all major holidays during the year. Mrs. Dale Glass said this had been accomplished with the assistant of scout troops and other groups.

Mrs. Fred Davison heads another service offered by the guild, television rentals for patients. The guild owns three televisions which are always in service and are considering the purchase of a fourth.

Mrs. Freedman and Miss Milner, co-chairman of the library cart, in their report said that the guild provides 12 popular magazines, one daily newspaper and one weekly newspaper for the benefit of the patients. The cart, which is taken to patients' rooms three days each week, also supplies books and sundries including stationery, note paper, pens and a host of other supplies. These are available from the cart at all times.

Mrs. Harry Gebeau, in her report, called attention to the fact that the guild offers memorials to be given in memory of or in honor of someone. When contributions are made in the name of someone, a card is sent to inform the family or the person being honored of the gift. In making her report she said that this was an excellent way to remember someone 'who has everything.'

Mrs. Floyd Chamberlain, chairman of the knitting committee which provides bonnets and sweaters for layettes, was not present to make a report. However, her committee was credited with providing these articles for all layettes on hand.

Mrs. Donald Couse, chairman of the volunteer services committee, reported that guild members had provided 395 hours of volunteer service during the year. Volunteers assist with trays, feed patients pass ice water from a cooler and assist in various other ways when needed.

A seasonal service offered by the guild is the decorating of the hospital for the holidays. This is done through the cooperation of all guild members.

The guild had no major fund-raising project during the year but will assist with the proposed coronary-intensive care unit planned for the hospital.

Richard L. Krueger, hospital administrator, was introduced to the members present and acknowledged not only the many services provided by the guild but its gifts to the hospital. He said such an organization could do much to serve as a liaison between the hospital and the community it serves, which, in this case, is Charlevoix county and a major part of Antrim county as well as the area's summer residents. He touched briefly on the plans for the installation of a coronary-intensive care department and asked the guild's support in the project.

The guild has 312 members who come from all sections of the area served by the hospital. The membership includes 102 active, 168 inactive and 42 summer residents.

At the close of the annual meeting, Mrs. Rader, who had presided at the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Gallagher who was hospitalized, named the following committee chairman for the coming year with others to be added at a later date: membership, Mrs. Driggett; legislation, Mrs. Robert Neff; library cart, Mrs. Freedman and Miss Milner; scholarship, Mrs. Robert Tollas; tray favors, Mrs. Glass; sewing, Mrs. Conrad Klooster; layettes, Mrs. Riley and knitting, Mrs. Chamberlain; memorials, Mrs. Gebeau; telephone, Mrs. Staublin and social, Mrs. Fay Davis.

After the business session, refreshments were served at a table centered with an arrangement of asters. Mrs. Klooster was social chairman.

the past year the school district met all criteria of both accrediting organizations.

The General Fund Balance sheet and the statement of revenue and expenditures indicates that the General Fund of the Charlevoix Public Schools is financially sound. The General Fund balance is $71,033.47, which is the differential between the assets and liabilities. Please note that the actual cash on hand on June 30, 1971, available to the General Fund is $78,031.86. On the same date salaries earned and payable were $111,977.89. Thus, on July 1, 1971, the cash available was not sufficient to meet salaries earned and payable. It will be necessary to borrow approximately $325,000 during the 1971-72 school year to operate the school district until all taxes are received.

During the past school year, the total number of classrooms available were adequate to house the students of the school district. However, facilities of a special nature to accommodate the educational program of the district are in some cases inadequate. I would recommend that the district study their building needs for the immediate future and propose a program of building additions and renovation since it appears at this time that a major building program remains somewhere in the future.

During the past school year, programs were added or expanded in the areas of art, music, industrial arts, home economics and building trades. It has been necessary to curtail some of those programs during the 1971-72 school year. We should continue to work diligently to provide a well rounded educational program that will meet the needs of all the students of the district. As previously planned, an auto shop program has been added during the 1971-72 school year which will round out a fine vocational education program for a school of our size.

The community support of education is greatly appreciated by the board of education, the administration, the teachers and the students. While the State has failed thus far to achieve educational reform and property tax relief, we must continue to try to provide greater educational opportunities for the whole community.

State Control Of Education Is PTO Topic

"State Control of Education" will be the discussion topic at the first meeting of the Charlevoix Parent-Teacher Organization Wednesday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m. at the High School cafeteria.

New teachers will be introduced, including those in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District who are working with Charlevoix youngsters.

Refreshments will be provided by the High School Culinary Arts Class.

Dues will be accepted at the meeting and copies of the PTO program for the coming year will be distributed.

Parents and teachers are urged to attend so that they can get to know each other better.

Charlevoix Adopts U.S. Lunch Program

The Charlevoix Board of Education agreed at its Sept. 13 meeting to again take advantage of federally-sponsored free or reduced price lunches to the elementary school, the only school in the district still serving Type A hot lunches.

Eligibility for the program will be determined by the size of the family and the family's yearly income. A letter explaining the program will be sent to the parents of elementary school children this week, along with an application blank, according to Business Manager Harold J. Kaufman.

The income scale ranges from $2,220 for a family of one to $8,780 for a family of twelve, including parents and other dependents. For each additional family member, the income limit increases $520.

Under the program, each child receiving a free or reduced price lunch will be given a weekly ticket identical to those used by children who purchase a weekly lunch ticket. Names of children determined to be eligible for free or reduced price meals will not be published, posted or announced in any manner.

Children receiving the free or reduced price lunches will not be required to (a) work for their meals, (b) use a separate lunchroom, serving line or section of the lunchroom, (c) enter the lunchroom through a different entrance than is used by children who are paying the full price for meals, (d) eat lunch at a different time from paying students, (e) use a different medium of exchange in the lunchroom than is used by paying children, or (f) receive a different meal than is provided for paying children.

Children from families whose income level is comparable to or has already qualified them for public assistance such as Aid to Dependent Children, shall be determined as eligible for the receipt of free or reduced price meals.

The program will go into effect as soon as final approval is received from the State.

The Middle School and the High School are serving Stewart sandwiches and a la carte items this year and are not eligible for participation in the program.

Hurons Scalp Rayders 20-8

Charlevoix Red Rayders were handed their first defeat of the season Friday at the hands of the Rogers City Hurons, 20-8.

Charlevoix's lone TD came toward the close of the second quarter on a five-yard pass from Tim Carey to Bill Carey. The cousins also made good the conversion, although Bill Carey collided with Huron Russell Fairbanks in the endzone and both were felled momentarily.

Rogers City took a first period 6-0 lead over the Rayders when Jack Fairbanks passed to Ralph Santini who ran 31 yards for the marker. The conversion was lost.

Midway through the second period, the Hurons scored again on a pass from Fairbanks to Cliff Redes who ran 22 yards to paydirt. The score was 14-0 before Charlevoix's TD play.

In the third period, Fairbanks scored his own TD leaving the board at 20-8, where it remained throughout the final stanza.

In other conference action, Cheboygan defeated Petoskey, 5-0; and Gaylord trounced Boyne City 14-7.

This Friday, Charlevoix plays at St. Ignace, Gaylord travels to Petoskey and Cheboygan plays at Boyne City. Rogers City will host former league member Traverse City St. Francis in a non-conference meet.

Girl Scout Troops Need More Leaders

The Girl Scout movement in Charlevoix may have to be discontinued unless more leaders are found---now.

This grave information was passed on to the Courier last week by Mrs. Robert (Barbara) Timms, who has been coordinating the Girl Scout program in Charlevoix for several years.

So far this school year, Mrs. Timms has signed up only three leaders for Girl Scout, Junior Scout and Brownie Scout programs. They are Mrs. John Lignell, Mrs. Jack Fels and Mrs. Harold Gibbs.

The Scouts could easily use a dozen or more leaders and assistants to make the programs work.

Last year, some 125 Girl Scouts, Juniors and Brownies were enrolled in Scout troops in Charlevoix. The youngsters learned handicraft skills, enjoyed camping experiences and in general benefitted from the wholesome camaraderie and sense-of-purpose that are built into the Scouting movement.

At a time when the young people of America are sorely in need of adult guidance and companionship, it would be a pity for Charlevoix to lose its Girl Scout organization.

Mrs. Timms says that potential leaders should not be afraid to get their feet wet. All leaders will be given ample instruction as to the function of Scout leaders, how to conduct troop meetings and Scout projects.

The annual Girl Scout registration will be held Sept. 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix City Hall.

Mrs. Timms hopes a larger number of girls sign up. She also hopes that many of them will be accompanied by their mothers and big sisters who will volunteer at the same time to give of their time, their talents and their energy to the Girl Scout program.

Developer Defends Monroe Creek Project

Your thoughtful editorial on a "scenery bank", and your qualms over our proposed Monroe Creek recreational development, is one of the best comments I have seen on the problem that is facing all of us in the north country, that is, how do we accommodate people from other areas and still preserve our rich inheritance of beauty.

Several points in favor of our Timber Valley Lake development should be mentioned. They make this project, in our minds, unusual and desirable.

1. It is removed. The land involved lies a mile west of M-66 and will be quite secluded and inconspicuous.

2. Most of our people's recreational activities will take place on the property itself. We will provide a lake for water sports and fishing, a golf course, beach, etc. Thus there will be little additional pressure on pre-existing lakes and other recreational facilities in the area.

3. We are not subdividing the shores of a beautiful, wild lake which has existed since the glaciers left the land. We are creating a fine, deep, new lake out of a privately owned valley of very limited present use and scenic value.

4. The project will eventually accommodate 1,500 homesites, and do it gracefully and well in some 1,500 acres. How much better this is than restricting all future homesite development to 10 acres (which gets around all platting controls)! The latter would spread the same number of families over 15,000 acres, and if this were the pattern followed all over Michigan it would be the death knell of all private wild lands.

5. Environmental benefits are substantial. Dr. Frank Hooper, Prof. of Fisheries and Zoology at the University of Michigan, testified before the DNR that our lake will actually benefit the waters of Monroe Creek (and thus help retard the undesirable enrichment of Lake Charlevoix.) And the lake itself, which will have public access, will be a fine fishing resource.

But the most important consideration is that, short of our government preventing people from buying private land, people from the cities are going to continue to wish to come to Charlevoix County to purchase their places in the sun, just as people in Charlevoix County are going to continue to want to consume city products, from cars to college degrees. No city, no county is an island.

The question, then, is how do we do this? Is the area going to accommodate its new people well (gracefully and efficiently) or badly (with ugliness, sprawl and disasterous environmental degradation)?

Such thoughtful analysis as shows in hour editorial (and which was part of our original concept of our recreational development project) is a wonderful thing—and raises hope that our fresh, green land may remain that way.

At Least They're Honest

By JIM FITZGERALD

When Robert Miles wrote that nasty letter about me, several years ago, I didn't know he was Grand Dragon of the Michigan Ku Klux Klan.

I figured he was just one more in a long line of unhappy readers who think I should hang up my typewriter and return to the Chrysler assembly line. Except Miles' letter was more articulate than most, and more full of venom. And it bugged me because I couldn't figure from it exactly what I'd written to turn him so far off.

But I soon found out. The letter appeared in the Press in Livingston County where Miles lives. The editor filled me in on Miles' undersheet activities. Such a fine fellow could hardly be expected to think much of a jerk like me. It isn't just that. I'm continually rapping the racists. Gosh, I even wrote that my college daughter was welcome to date a Negro, and bring him home for Christmas dinner, if she could find a black boy who would forgive her white skin.

Statements like that really upset a Kluxer, even the more modern typo such as Miles. In recent years he has courted publicity, inviting the press to Klan meetings, and he generally comes off as a reasonable, likable, nonviolent man who doesn't hate Negroes. He just doesn't want black and white mixing and he can probably show you in the Bible where God feels the same way.

Miles is currently in the headlines because of his arrest by the FBI for conspiracy in connection with the bombing of school buses in Pontiac. I find it hard to believe he is that dumb—or the FBI is that smart. But that's for the courts to decide.

I don't find it hard to believe that Miles would be against busing to achieve racial integration. But thousands of people are against that—people who are horrified by the Klan. That's the sad thing. You don't have to be a Kluxer to be opposed to mixing black and white.

You can be a white liberal who attends fund-raising parties for the Black Panthers. You might even be black. But when it comes to Black Joe climbing into bed with White Jane, you see red. You want to throw up. Heck, you're still having trouble accepting Catholics marrying Protestants, Isadore Steinberg courting Rosie O'Grady, and the Lone Ranger bunking so close to Tonto.

That's what it's all about; the tattered old bromide: "Would you want your sister to marry one?"

The cocktailhour liberals can give you a lot of doubletalk about how they want to improve the lot of the black man. But most of them talk from behind their trimmed hedges and precious property-values in Suburbia. They'd welcome a black neighbor as long as he is Willie Mays or Ralph Bunche. Otherwise, there goes the neighborhood and you can't blame a man for protecting his investment, can you?

At least Miles and his Klan are honest. They're dead against "mongrelization" of the white race. And they know the surest way to prevent White Jane from marrying Black Joe is to keep a fence between them. The Klan works to keep that fence strong and the men in sheets get a lot of help from hypocrites who say the fence is a terrible thing—except where it touches their backyard, and please don't put any windows in it.

The Klan and the hypocrites are equally wrong, as time will prove. The only real answer is "mongrelization." Love thy neighbor, like The Man said. As viewed from the moon, we aro all neighbors.

The world will be a better place when none of us give a damn who our sister marries, just so long as she gets the guy she wants and he treats her right.

Which opinion should bring another letter from Mr. Miles.

Why Medals For Killing?

Bob Clock
Editor
Charlevoix Courier

Dear Bob:

It is fantastic we still give "meritorious service awards" for "inflicting severe casualties", "killing numerous enemy — soldiers", "destroying significant amounts of food", and "search and clear operations." (Courier, Sept. 21).

Lt. Calley was recently court martialed for similarly described activities.

Where are the awards for those who refuse to kill?

Bali Hai

By BOB CLOCK

Last Thursday, which was one of the wildest, windiest days in these parts since November 1970, I had a beer on North Fox Island in the middle of Lake Michigan.

Let me tell you how it happened.

A couple of weeks ago, the Courier ran an editorial relative to the Monroe Creek Impoundment between Ironton and East Jordan. The project calls for construction of a dam across Monroe Creek in South Arm Township and the platting of some 1,500 resort homesites.

Needless to say, the Courier didn't think much of the idea and still doesn't.

But the editorial gave us an opportunity to meet with the developer, one Frank Shelden, a soft-spoken, personable, erudite bachelor from Ann Arbor.

Shelden flew his twin-engine plane from Ann Arbor to Charlevoix on Thursday, armed with letters, drawings and maps to show us what the Monroe Creek Impoundment is all about.

The scope of Shelden's project is staggering and one glimpse at his huge plat map showing the dam, tier after tier of homesites, a golf course, a marina and sites for condominiums is enough to send an ecologist heading for the tall timber.

Shelden feels:

1. That the Monroe Creek valley is going to be developed sooner or later and he would just as soon do it sooner and right.

2. That there is too much pressure already on existing lakes and that his man-made lake (which will be constructed at the expense of a cedar swamp) will help relieve some of that pressure, and

3. That the new lake actually will help prolong the life of Lake Charlevoix (into which Monroe Creek empties) by acting as a settling basin for silt and nutrients.

Shelden spent two hours at the Courier office discussing his development, and you can't spend that much time with a fellow without learning something about him.

Shelden belongs to the same Shelden family which developed the Shelden Shopping Center at the intersection of Farmington-rd. and Plymouth-rd. in Livonia, a project which should be familiar to most transplanted Detroiters. I remember it as a nifty little shopping center, but Shelden says it never did well financially.

He and his brother also platted land along Lake St. Clair in the Grosse Pointes, which is and always will be a pretty snazzy place to be from.

He has attended Yale University and Wayne State university and has taught geology at both Wayne and the University of Michigan.

He writes publishable fiction under non-de-plumes which he wouldn't devulge.

He enjoys fine music and is a patron of the arts.

And above all, for the past 13 years he has been the sole owner of North Fox Island.

Ever since the Clocks moved to Charlevoix more than six years ago, North and South Fox Islands have been our own personal Bali Hai's. Several evenings a week we either walk, bicycle or ride down to the foot of Dixon-ave. to make sure our islands are still there.

Since they lie 26 miles due west, they are sometimes shrouded in fog or mist. But in clear weather they stand out sharply against the evening sky—dark blotches on the horizon.

South Fox, comes into view first because of its size and high dunes. But if you'll let your eye travel north you'll see North Fox, a tear-drop of land like the dot on an "i."

I had never even hoped to visit either of the islands, because my only locomotion across open water is the dog paddle. But Shelden changed all that.

Before he left town Thursday, he stopped at the Courier office again to drop off a letter to the editor which appears elsewhere on this page. Then he causally mentioned that he was flying to North Fox Island to remove some milk and meat from the refrigerator, left there inadvertently the week before. Would we like to go along?

Although I'm not much of a flier (If man was meant to sail through the air, God would have given him wings!), I couldn't say no, even though the wind was churning Lake Michigan like a mixmaster.

We left shortly after 4 p.m. in the company of Del Wood, whose father, Barry, has done most of Shelden's construction on the island.

FRANK SHELDEN (right), owner of North Fox Island, looks for driftwood on deserted shoreline with Del Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Wood of Charlevoix. Shelden travels to and from his home on the island by plane.

Fifteen minutes later we were touching down on Shelden's sod airstrip on North Fox Island, one of the prettiest chunks of real estate in Michigan.

It gave me sort of an odd feeling knowing that we three were the only human beings on the island.

Del hurried to a garage near the tie-down area, opened the doors and backed Shelden's jeep outside. Del doesn't have his driver's license yet, but there are no State Troopers on North Fox Island.

Shelden and I climbed aboard and Del drove us about a mile over a graveled road to Shelden's summer cottage, a hexagonal-shaped building high on a bluff overlooking Lake Michigan and South Fox Island.

Shelden cleaned out the refrigerator and offered me a beer—slightly warm since the generator had been turned off for almost a week. I accepted, sort of to celebrate our safe arrival on the island. I really never expected to make it in one piece.

Then Shelden found windbreakers for the three of us and we took off in the jeep again for a tour of the 840-acre island. To my surprise, the island is surprisingly hilly, more so than it appears from the mainland, and it offers at least one dune easily as high as Mt. McSauba.

The timber, mostly hardwood, stretches from the forest floor to the sky and apparently has never been cut over, at the least on the northern end of the island. Some areas are covered with what Shelden calls "ground hemlock," a low-lying evergreen that I have never seen on the mainland.

We touched the shore in several places. The beaches are sand or stone by turn, with stone predominating.

We saw two deer, one just a white flag crossing the road ahead of us. The other was a magnificent buck which vaulted up a high escarpment next to the road as we approached.

There are no skunks, raccoons, porcupines, opposum or red or grey squirrels on the island. Just deer, rabbits, fox and ground squirrels.

From time to time we would catch glimpses of Beaver Island to the north, South Fox to the south and far off to the east a wisp of terra firma which was the mainland.

When the tour was over, we returned our windbreakers to the cottage and drove back to the airstrip where Del pulled the jeep into the garage and closed the doors.

Ten minutes later we were back in Charlevoix.

As I drove home across Pine River bridge, I caught a glimpse of the Fox Islands in the dying sun. Even though I had visited my Bali Hai's, they had remained as remote, as beautiful and as mysterious as ever.

Says Editor White-Washes Communists

Sept. 16, 1971

Dear Charlie,

Please do not send me the Courier any more. Save your money! I cannot swallow any more (or studied) stubborn, blind ignorance of that Bob Clock! I have sent him two packets of literature on communism so it isn't that he hasn't had a chance to learn. He constantly ignores face and whitewashes the Reds while downgrading, ignoring or denying any efforts the U.S. tries to make to prevent (slow down is better) the horrible "Red tide" from washing away our so-called "free world." I'm sick of betrayal, lies, stupid leaders, left-leaning news media and after studying about communism for 15 years, I will not tolerate Bob Clock and his pink "opinions." I'll write more later.

The application for funds pointed out that the number of jobs available in Charlevoix County has not kept pace with a population increase of 23.2 percent in the past decade.

"This trend has greatly increased the size and character of the labor force in the county, but has not been rapid enough to provide jobs for all in-migrants," the application stated.

In June, the last month for which figures are available, Charlevoix County had a labor force of 6,250, with 625, or 10 percent, unemployed.

School Board OK's Master Contract

The Charlevoix Board of Education, meeting in special session Monday night, ratified the master contract for teachers for the 1971-72 school year, approved the extra curricular activities for the school year, set the date for the annual budget hearing and accepted a bid for tax anticipation notes.

The master contract, ratified earlier in the day by the teachers, was ratified by the board by a vote of 4-2 with one member absent.

According to the contract, which will be dated Sept. 27, 1971, and which will go into effect when the President's freeze is lifted, teachers will receive a salary increase ranging from 5.2 percent for the lowest step on the scale to 3.2 for anyone with a Ph.D.

The first step in the scale, or a new teacher, will receive $7,758 annually with the salary scale increasing in 10 steps to a high of $11,255 for a bachelor's degree. Information regarding steps, other than those with bachelor's degrees, was not made available by the board.

The decision to approve the master contract followed a one hour and 25 minute executive meeting. The vote follows: Ayes, Richard Donaldson, Clement J. Wagner, Larry Warner and Burr Blanchard; nays, Jane Lieberman and Jerrold Redeker. Charles Elzinga was absent.

A delegation of 43 people including adults and students, were present for the discussion of extra-curricular activities. The majority were present because of their interest in the ski program which was approved.

Before approving the list as recommended, the board voted to include elementary school basketball on an instructional basis in an effort to make up, in part, for the physical education program that was cut from the curriculum.

Approved were football, four coaches, one less than last year; Varsity, Junior Varsity, Freshman, junior high; girls basketball, wrestling, boys ski, girls ski, golf, boys' track and girls' track, one coach each. The new program changes the status of girls basketball into a league sport and adds a girls ski and girls track coach.

It also includes one sponsor each for the Girls Athletic Association, newspaper, year book, drama-forensics, marching band and concert band, and for five clubs. This will include the Pep club, Spanish, Latin, F.H.A. and a new science-oriented club, aeronautics, and two class sponsors for each of the four classes in the high school.

Elementary basketball will require two coaches, one for the boys and a second for the girls, on an hourly basis.

The official budget hearing for the Charlevoix public school was scheduled for Monday, Oct. 11. The business manager was authorized to advertise the same as required by law.

Three bids were received on $200,000 in tax anticipation bonds. The lowest bid, that of the Charlevoix County State Bank at an annual interest rate of 3.4 percent, was accepted. Other bids were submitted by Manley, Bennett, McDonald & Co. of Detroit at a rate of 3.4476 percent and Michigan National Bank of Grand Rapids, 3.4199 percent.

The board was asked to make a decision regarding a bus driver whose vision is only 20 200 in one eye. The vision problem has existed since the man was 12 years of age. He has been a bus driver with a good safety record for six years and annually is examined for a chauffeur's license. The examining doctor signed the man's blue examination card and advised that he was probably a better driver than someone with 20 20 vision. Since there is no policy regarding such a matter, the board approved his hiring and advised the policy committee to include a policy in the proposed set of policies. At the same time it was brought out that three of the 12 bus drivers have not had examinations, which they should have had before school opened. The board asked that they be advised they have two days to get their examinations and return their cards.

In other action, the board approved a Materials Center budget of $39,000 to be paid from the one mill tax levy for this purpose that expires this year.

–Designated signatories for checking accounts with Harold J. Kaufman or Marie Blissett signing for the Hot Lunch account; Kaufman or Elizabeth Meadows for both the Middle School lunch account and the High School Culinary Arts account.

–Heard reports on the MASB convention from Redeker and from Supt. Robert L. Miller.

The boat will leave the Charlevoix city dock and cruise the length of Lake Charlevoix.

The number of tickets has been limited to 200. They are on sale at the C. of C. office or may be purchased from Charlevoix merchants.

For the past several years, the cruise has been a sellout, according to C of C Manager Tom Merta.

ONE OF THE largest crowds ever to meet in the hospitality of the First State Bank convened Friday night to protest development of a Woodland Indian National Memorial park south of Charlevoix. Residents of the area fear they will be evicted from their homes and their land condemned.

Residents Fear Eviction If Park Is Established

More than 150 Charlevoix County residents, angered because they had not been consulted about plans for an 8,000-acre Woodland Indian National Memorial in Charlevoix and Norwood Townships, have petitioned Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton to withhold approval of the project until they know more about it.

Led by Mrs. Rosalie Ottinger of Clipperview Subdivision, opponents of the project met at the First State Bank Friday evening to determine what steps should be taken to halt the project.

Rep. Richard Friske, who co-chairmaned the meeting with Mrs. Ottinger and Norwood Township Supervisor Clyde Warner, termed the project a federal government "land grab."

Residents of the area fear that their property will be condemned for the Indian memorial and they will be forced to move elsewhere.

They also are chagrined that the first word most of them heard of the project was via newsstories in the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review last week.

Warner said that even he, as township supervisor, hadn't been notified.

Friske said the first inkling he had that such a project was in the mind was in the Charlevoix Courier last week, although he said he had heard rumors that General Motors was buying up huge tracts of land south of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Ottinger said she already had contacted the law firm Running, Wise and Wilson for advice on how to proceed. She said she was advised to petition Secretary Morton to withhold his signature from the proposal. The law firm is handling objections to the proposed Sleeping Bear Dune National park in the Glen Haven area.

Mrs. Emma Wells objected to a statement in the Charlevoix Courier saying that most of the land is under state ownership. She said the state only owns 1,100 acres in the area under consideration.

The Courier article actually said that "much" of the site is owned by the state.

Victor Kishigo of Petoskey, representing the Inter-Tribal Council of Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dominic of Petoskey, who have been active in Indian affairs, were sharply split on the value of the project.

Kishigo said the Inter-Tribal Council has been working on the project for two years in an effort to preserve Woodland Indian historic sites along the Lake Michigan shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Dominic see little value in the project, pointing out that local Indians are more in need of jobs and educational opportunities.

No members of the 14-man task force which planned the Indian Memorial were on hand to answer questions and some members of the audience expressed their concern no one from the area was invited to join the group.

A member of the task force, Peter N. Wright, manager of public relations for the Dow Corning Corp. in Midland, was contacted concerning the development by the Courier Monday morning.

Wright pointed out that the project is little more than a plan for the area and that no mass condemnations of private property are in the offing.

"We anticipate that there will be a minimal disruption of private land ownership in the area," Wright said.

He characterized the question of land acquisition as "kind of iffy" at the moment. He said some present private operations in the area would fit in nicely with proposed park. He also said that it may be possible to purchase some private property with 100-year or lifetime leases to the present residents.

Wright said the task force has carefully weighed the

Van Haver, Reibel In Court

John Van Haver, former proprietor of Castle Van Haver on M-66 southeast of Charlevoix, has been the only witness to date in his lawsuit to secure monies reportedly owed him by the present owner, Arthur Reibel of Charlevoix.

The trial started Thursday in Charlevoix County Circuit Court before Judge James Fitzpatrick. Van Haver was on the stand two days for direct, re-direct and cross examination. Testimony will continue Oct. 11.

Van Haver claims Reibel still owes him just under $30,000 for the property, which formerly was operated as a tourist attraction featuring Van Haver's art castings.

Van Haver also is seeking damages of $75,000 for embarrassment caused him when Reibel allegedly failed to pay Van Haver's creditors, as stipulated in the sales agreement.

Teachers' Salary Hike Is Effective in November

The Charlevoix Board of Education last week agreed to release details of the 1971-72 master contract with the Charlevoix Education Association, providing for salary increases ranging from $234 for an M.A. teacher with 11 years' experience to $505 for a B.A. teacher with 10 years' experience.

By and large, the pay boost was not as large as the average $500 increase last year.

The new pay schedule will go into effect in November after President Nixon's freeze on wages and prices is lifted.

Although the new contract was approved by the board Sept. 25, details were not made public until later last week.

Under the new contract, beginning B.A. teachers will receive $7,758 a year, up $383 from last year's starting salary.

The top for B.A.'s after 10 years experience is $11,255, an increase of $505.

On the M.A. schedule, a beginning teacher will receive $8,297, compared to $7,925 last year, an increase of $372.

After 11 years' experience, an M.A. teacher will receive $12,634, up $234 from last year's $12,400.

The schedule also makes special provisions for B.A. teachers with 20 hours' credit over their degrees and M.A. teachers with 15 hours' over their degrees.

The salaries for educational specialists will range from $8,830 for a beginning teacher to $13,156 for an ed spec with 11 years' experience.

The schedule for Ph.D.'s (there's only one on the staff) ranges from $9,073 to $13,570 after 11 years.

The contract also provides:

–Full health and accident insurance.

–Twelve days of sick leave per year.

–One personal business day per year, cumulative to three.

–Four days leave for deaths in the teacher's immediate family and one day for deaths outside the family.

–Compensatory pay for days missed because of jury or witness duty.

–Time-off for Association officers to attend state or national meetings, not to exceed 15 days.

–Leaves of absence up to two years for military service or exchange teaching programs; one year to serve as an Association officer; four years to serve in public office; or one year for maternity.

Coaches will be remunerated on a percentage of the B.A. track, depending on their years of coaching experience.

Does Social Security Give You Your Money's Worth?

(The following editorial appeared in the Chattanooga News-Free Press and was reprinted in The Suburban Newspapers published in the Detroit area. It was passed on to the Courier by Tom Duke of Michigan-ave.)

Most people, when they buy something, like to be sure they are going to get their money's worth. Unfortunately, with Social Security, there is increasing evidence that young workers will never get their money's worth.

The Social Security system is a widely popular program. It is not going to be abandoned. In fact, increased benefits—and increased taxes—are a regular prospect. There are currently 26.9 million recipients. But many are going to pay into the Social Security system many more dollars than they will ever get out. The American people need to recognize this. Some of the facts were summarized recently by Barron's Financial Weekly.

The Social Security Administration reports that under the new Social Security bill now, before Congress, the average 18-year-old who goes to work and remains in the system till his retirement will make maximum contributions of $24,273.

These contributions would grow over the years at an average interest rate of, say, 5.5 percent to an employe contribution of $107,983. This amount would be matched by the employer—and represents a payroll cost that reduces the money available for the employe to earn. Thus the total Social Security contribution with interest comes to $215,966.

What could an average employe expect to get back from Social Security? The Social Security Administration, using normal life expectancy, says the average worker may get back a maximum of only $94,904. That's $13,079 less than his contribution and interest—and $121,062 less than the joint employe-employer contribution plus interest!

If this is the picture under the new bill, what about conditions under the existing Social Security law? Now, an 18-year-old beginning work has the prospect of paying in $19,270 over 46 years of work, with interest at 5.5 percent, bringing it to $85,724, and matching by employer plus interest bringing the grand total to $171,316.

But the maximum benefits he can expect for himself and his wife total only $80,888—or $90,560 less than is paid in.

Why is this? One of the huge reasons is that since the plan began in 1937, no one has paid in for what the Social Security Administration figures is a "full working life" of 46 years. Thus payments for older workers have been going out without sufficient contributions already having been made, meaning younger workers are paying for older workers.

If an 18-year-old could use the money he and his employer will contribute, plus interest to buy a private annuity instead of Social Security, it would pay him $17,316 a year, or a total of $224,242 over his expected life. Compare that with maximum Social Security benefits of $80,888.

Under the new bill being considered, the Social Security contributions would buy a private annuity paying $282,362 over the life expectancy used by Social Security. Compare that with Social Security benefits of $94,404.

The new bill calls for a tax of 5.4 percent on the employe and an equal amount on the employer—or a total of 10.8 percent of income up to $10,200, effective next January 1. This would mean an annual employe-employer payment of $1,101.60. It also projects other rises to an employe-employer total of 14.8 percent by 1987. By then, we may be sure, new demands and new laws will have raised it even higher.

In the face of these facts, an observation by Rep. John W. Byrnes, (R-Wis.), ranking member of the House Ways and Means Committee, should be considered by all:

"We simply must give as much attention to the burden we are imposing as to the benefits we are dispensing...We simply must remember that the income that a worker can currently devote to future contingencies is limited by his ability to meet the immediate needs of his family. If the cost of Social Security cuts too deeply into daily living requirements, people will begin to make unfavorable comparisons between current costs and distant benefits. If the time ever comes that current workers are unwilling to bear the cost of providing benefits to current retirees, the Social Security system will be in real danger..."

Questions On 'Freeze' Answered

This column of questions and answers on the Wage and Price Freeze is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about the Wage and Price Freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon.

Q. - I'll be getting out of the Army in two weeks and returning to my old job. Can I receive the pay increases I would have gotten if I had not been in the Service? A. - Yes. Veterans returning to their pre-military employment during the freeze are entitled to all the increases they would have received had they not served in the military. Employees are hired at the pay scale in existence during the 30-day base period of July 16 to August 14.

Q. - Are welfare payments covered by the freeze? A. - No. Welfare payments are not covered by the freeze. They are not payments for services rendered and, therefore, are not wages.

Q. - I'm a teacher. During the summer I received my master's degree and, as a result, I was to receive a pay increment this fall. Can I still get it? A. - Yes. Pay increments for teachers who receive their master's and other scheduled pay raises dependent upon employees completing certain educational requirements may be paid during the freeze, because these actions are bona fide promotions. The employer, however, must be able to certify that such an agreement was in existence.

If the effective date of the teacher's contract is after August 15, the increment must be no more than the amount that was granted last year.

Q. - Can my city government increase rates for gas and electricity? A. - No. State or local governments may not increase charges or fees for government-provided services. However, state and local tax rates, and fees for licenses or legal penalties, such as traffic tickets, are not frozen.

Q. - Can merchants pass on to consumers the cost of an increase in state or local taxes? A. - No. This is not permitted during the freeze.

Q. - What are some of the food products not subject to the freeze? A. - Raw agricultural products, such as fresh fruit and vegetables, fresh fish and seafood, honey, and other products that retain the same physical form they possessed when they left the farm gate, are not covered by the freeze.

All other agricultural and food products, such as frozen foods, slaughtered meats, etc., would be considered processed and subject to the freeze.

Q. - The lease on my apartment is about to expire. I know my landlord has raised rents for new tenants in similar apartments. Can he now raise my rent? A. - No. If a tenant's lease expires, his rent may not be raised to the level being paid by new tenants in similar units.

Navy, Marine Corps Offer Scholarships

Chief Floyd W. Honeysette, Navy recruiter located in the J.C. Penney Building in Petoskey, reminds high school seniors and graduates that the Navy and Marine Corps offer more than 1,700 four-year college scholarships at 49 college and universities across the country.

The scholarships, cover complete tuition and the cost of all books and instructional fees — plus a stipend of $50 a month.

Chief Honeysette said the Navy and Marine Corps are interested in well-rounded individuals who can reasonably be expected to complete a college course.

But he said academics isn't the only criteria for selection of candidates.

"We are also looking for the individual who is active in outside activities as well as in schoolwork," Chief Honeysette says, adding: "Don't miss this opportunity because you believe you cannot qualify."

Upon graduation, candidates will be awarded an officer's commission in either the Navy or Marine Corps, whichever they choose.

For further information, contact Chief Honeysette in Room 4 at the Penney Building or contact him at 347-4591.

Dan Beard Knew Meaning of Ecology

The ecology movement isn't as new as some people believe, according to Mrs. Jean Wulfman of Pine Point.

Mrs. Wulfman and her brother, the Rev. Donald Swinton of Newaygo, were going over some of the old books in the family library recently and came across a copy of "Dan Beard's Animal Book", copyrighted in 1907 and 1910.

The book, which was a favorite of both Mrs. Wulfman and her brother when they were youngsters, had this to say about man's careless treatment of natural resources:

"We have greedily sought the oil buried beneath the ground and wasted enough to supply generations of men with light and heat.

"We have tapped the veins of natural gas and, like the children that we are, allowed it to burn continuously because it was too much trouble or expense to turn it off during the daytime.

"We have annihilated beautiful and useful birds for the trifling temporary income their skins brought us, when sold to our women to be used as grotesque and uncanny ornaments for their dear heads and very much dearer hats.

"We have ruthlessly hunted and exterminated animals of priceless economic value for the petty price of their pelts or the savage joy derived from butchering them. "And now we stand with expanded chests crying, Look at the greatness of man, see how he has conquered Nature."

Mrs. Wulfman thinks there is a message in the old Dan Beard book that young Americans today will understand.

Most women who have changed to gas clothes dryers say, "For what one load used to cost, we now can dry five loads." And everyone says that the savings are substantial.

A gas dryer costs less to install, almost never needs repair, saves you money every time you use it.

Delicate fabrics get special treatment. Permanent press? You get no iron results. And gas dries faster, more evenly. It doesn't bake the life out of your clothes. Or put new wrinkles in them. Your wash comes out soft and fluffy. Sunshine fresh. And white things stay white.

Gas makes the big difference and costs less too.

Local Boys Invited To 'Fitness Festival'

All area boys 14 through 18 years of age are invited to attend a three-day Fitness Festival to be held Oct. 22, 23, 24 at Camp Greilick, near Traverse City.

A program combining camping, competitive events, and social activities is planned by The Scenic Trails Council and Explorer Post No. 2075 of Central Lake for all interested boys in northern Michigan.

Participants should be equipped for two nights of camping. All meals for the event will be planned and served by Post 2075. A charge of $2.50 per boy will be collected to offset costs of food and other supplies.

The Fitness Festival is designed as a "fun-type" competition featuring such events as sprint races, rope climb, tire run, canoe races, softball throw, supervised rifle range competition, and many others.

Awards will be given for winners of all events.

The Fitness Festival will open with registration and camp set up Friday evening, Oct. 22. Saturday will feature the competition between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday's program will conclude with a dance from 8 to 11, with live music. High School girls from area communities will be at Camp Greilick for the dance.

Sunday will begin with breakfast, followed by a church service for those wishing to attend, then camp break-up by noon.

Boys need not be involved in Scouting in any way to be eligible to attend.

Young men interested in participating in the Fitness Festival should send their name, address, and $2.50 to Boy Scouts of America, Scenic Trails Council, Traverse City, Mich. 49684.

Library notes

New and recommended titles on the library shelves this week include a very special book which every member of the family will enjoy. "Beastly Inventions" by Jean Craighead George is a surprising investigation into just how smart animals really are. The book answers the question: What do we do that animals can do better? And the list is endless. Animals have created effective social systems, built impressive buildings and are far better at adapting to their environment than man is. This is a fascinating tour of the extraordinary inventiveness within the kingdom, and this exceptional book shows that there are many things yet to be learned from our companions that crawl, fly, jump, wiggle, or swim their way around this earth of ours.

"Three-Cornered Heart" by Anne Fremantle is a high-spirited account of two colorful lives. Mrs. Fremantle's own story is that of a modern, liberal-minded woman carrying over into today's world the best of an earlier time, imparted by her remarkable mother. The author grew up in London during World War I. This is an unusual biography about an era which many of us remember. There is a fine section of photographs.

"The Tryanny of Noise" by Robert Alex Baron discusses the world's most prevalent pollution, who causes it, how it's hurting you and how to fight it. The author was awakened one morning in 1964 by this ear-shattering cacophony of subway construction in the street below his New York apartment. In a sense he hasn't slept since. Giving up a career as a successful theater manager, he has devoted all his time to learning all he can about noise and its control and passing the information on to others. Head of a leading anti-noise organization, he has appeared as an expert witness before Congressional committees and has given lectures throughout Europe and the United States.

"The Officer From Special Branch" by Toni Lilley, an Englishman who prefers not to reveal the other details of his personal affairs, is an absorbing new novel with excitement all the way through. In addition to being an exceptional book, it reveals some of the things which are done by security forces, in our name--the reality of ideological warfare.

"A Curious Life for a Lady" by Pat Barr is the story of Isabella Bird, a remarkable Victorian traveler. This entertaining and informative biography traces the career of one of the Victorian era's most unusual characters.

Unicameral Study Asked by Davis

Senator Robert W. Davis (R-37th District) will introduce a resolution calling for the establishment of a committee to study the pros and cons of a unicameral (one House) Legislature. A separate resolution will be introduced by Sen. Davis which will call for constitutional amendment which would trim the size of the Senate and House to 19 and 57 members respectively.

Sen. Davis intends on bringing both propositions before the Senate Republican Caucus to be held in Traverse City on Oct. 11-13. He will ask the caucus to support the establishment of the Unicameral Study Committee to start immediately. The Committee will study three separate approaches to the question.

1. Present System
2. Reduction in Members
3. Unicameral Legislature

"There are many legislators, including myself, who have not determined which is the best approach for the citizens of this State. Therefore, I think an in-depth study by the legislators themselves should be immediately undertaken," stated Senator Davis.

Sen. Davis further states that "we should not rush into any change in the legislative makeup or procedures without thorough discussion and study."

Urged Park Purchase

After taking a walk in the countryside north of New York City in 1844, William Cullen Bryant, the noted poet, urged that a large tract of the land be bought for public use while it was still inexpensive. The land was purchased 12 years later and is now known as Central Park.

By CHARLEY BORTHS

Some students of Charlevoix High School have formed an independent soccer team, a new sport in this area.

The team practices on Saturday mornings, and is assisted by Norm Probert, a teacher at Charlevoix High School.

This is the first year for soccer at Charlevoix High and as of now, no games have been scheduled, although the team members are highly enthusiastic about playing other schools.

Members of the team include Klaus Burmeister, Ted Schantz, Ed Bouma, Juan Porta, Steve Kantola, John Murdick, Paul Klooster, Dan Mort, and Jerry Buttlure.

3 Clubs Organize At CHS

By TED SCHANTZ

Three clubs have been approved so far this year by the Board of Education.

The SLAAM Club (Student Librarian Assistant Association of Michigan) got officially underway Wednesday with its first meeting. The club is for students who like working in the library and learning how to run projectors and photographic equipment. The club meets twice monthly.

The Aero Club is an organization that deals with aviation and flying model airplanes, including gas powered and radio remote control aircraft.

Any person unterested in flying can join this club by contacting sponsor James Jensen at the High School.

Jury System To Be Argued By Debaters

By SUE HAERTTER

This year the debate topic that all the high schools in the United States will be debating is, "Resolved: That the Jury System in the United States should be significantly changed."

In helping to prepare for this year's debate topic, Central Michigan University held a debate workshop for the student debaters. It consisted of lectures and an exhibition debate.

Cartoon Folk In Parade

By LAURI HEERES

The Student Council of Charlevoix High School held its first meeting Sept. 22, 1971. Fred Davison, president, presided at this meeting.

John Murdick was elected secretary-treasurer at the beginning of the meeting.

Homecoming: The Student Council decided on "Cartoon Characters" as the theme for the parade. It was also decided that the Council and Senior class should share the profits and payments for the Homecoming Dance.

Principal Vane Smith suggested that these ideas be incorporated; a Flash reporter be at all meetings, bulletins be posted of the minutes, a Faculty-Student Council be formed, and a Faculty-Advisor be present at all council meetings.

The meeting closed with the discussion of these points.

Jeanne Belfy National Merit Semifinalist

Jeanne Belfy, a senior at Charlevoix High School, is a semifinalist in the National Merit Scholarship Testing Program.

Miss Belfy qualified as a result of a high selection on the 1971 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Jeanne will now take a second exam, the results of which, along with an endorsement from the school and an achievements and interests report, will be evaluated to determine whether or not she qualifies as a finalist.

Scholarships of up to $1,500 a year are awarded to finalists. Winners will be announced in the spring.

Friske Says Nixon Groveling Before Reds

To the Editor

Dear Sir:

I will appreciate your publishing this letter in which I would like to state some of my apprehensions as to our President's planned trip to Communist China.

First let me say that this visit will not show our President's or the American people's friendship with the people of Communist China. In fact, it will do just the opposite. Our President and with him the American people will be giving prestige and support to the most cruel tyrants in history. These mass murderers are so justly hated by their victimized slaves that tens or hundreds of thousands lose their lives every year in attempts to revolt against or escape the imprisonment and prosecution to which they are subjected.

When the brutal rulers of Mainland China hosted the American ping-pong team our new media called it the great change in relations between the two countries. The only reason for their "friendly" acts now is to quiet opposition in America.

I ask my readers: If Hitler had invited the United States to a game of badminton we probably would have called off the Normandy invasion. I say this in reference to the supposed change that has allegedly developed in the United States and Communist China relations as a result of these ruthless rulers inviting an American amateur team to a game of ping-pong.

President Nixon has obviously closed his eyes to the facts of history. Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain could not see that Nazi Germany, when first he started to appease it, was a weak nation and could have, at that time, easily been contained. Instead Chamberlain appeased Hitler, just as President Nixon is now trying to appease Mao and Chou. Hitler and with him Germany grew stronger and stronger until finally in World War II, when Hitler threatened England's very existence, England was unable to save herself alone against the power of Hitler's Germany and its might. Fortunately for Britain in those bygone days, there was a mighty free and courageous United States which came to the rescue. In this regard, publisher William Loeb had this to say:

"But now, if Mr. Nixon's policy is allowed to succeed, and we build up and strengthen our Chinese enemy, there is no other nation that can come to our rescue when our back is against the wall because of our folly."

Wesley Powell, former Governor of New Hampshire, whose support of Nixon goes back at least to 1956, gave his view on Nixon's new policy on Red China as follows:

Even while Hitler was murdering his own people by the thousands and gulping little countries into his maniacal control, leaders of the free nation sat at his feet and proclaimed him a commpassionate hero because he promised not to fire a shot against them.

What in the world has caused President Richard Nixon to think that the result of this groveling will be any different?

Let us look at the "real nature" of Red China and their ruthless murderers based on their own recent statements and slogans.

When President Nixon accepted the invitation to visit Red China, was he aware that an editorial in the PEKING REVIEW of April 16, 1971, called him an "arch-criminal," and "arch-murderer," and "chief butcher"?

The July 2, 1971, issue of the PEKING REVIEW stated:

Marxism-Leninism holds that the fundamental question of revolution is political power and that the seizure of power by armed forces is the central task and highest form of revolution.

According to Dr. Michael of George Washington University these slogans present the theme that "revolution is the main trend in the world today."

An editorial in the CHICAGO TRIBUNE of July 25 quoted Lin Piao, Red Chinese Defense Minister as stating:

"U.S. imperialism, like a mad bull dashing from place to place, will finally be burned to ashes in the blazing fires of the people's wars."

I still recall the statements by soldiers of the Russian communist armies when asked when the war would be over. Their reply was always. "When communism has conquered the world."

I am told by relatives from behind the Iron Curtain that their (the communists') goals are still the same.

Who says that communists have mellowed?

Why are their subjects trying to escape through barbed wire or swim to safety or climb the Berlin Wall? Why are they shot to death by these mellowed communists? Why aren't the revolutionaries of this country leaving? Why is a sailor trying to escape beaten and dragged back to his ship by these communist goons?

These, then, are the monstrous, murdering barbarians that the President of the United States of America proposed to journey halfway around the world to meet with, and with whom — in Nixon's own words — he will attempt to "seek a normalization of relations."

Many people ask me: "Rep. Friske, what can I, or we, do?"

If you are opposed to President Nixon's sell-out to the Communist Chinese, and wish to alert others to the dangers of this new appeasement policy, these are my suggestions:

1. Write to your congressman and two senators. Give them your views on this crucial issue.
2. Write your state representative and state senator. Ask them to support my resolution in which I asked the President not to make this trip.
3. Write to President Nixon.
4. Write letters to the editors of your local papers.

Do it today for tomorrow may be too late.

New York, we should realize by now, is the goal that the Chinese Reds have set for themselves. They expect to get into the United Nations, under the atmosphere of the ping-pong matches, as their friends in the United States clear away any opposition. The campaign by Communist China's supporters is to bring the Mao Tse Tung regime into the United Nations and expel the Nationalist Chinese who have been in the U.N. since its very beginning.

Only we, the citizens of this free country of ours, can prevent this.

Will we do it?

Will you help?

For God, Family and Country,
Sincerely yours,
State Representative Richard Friske

Board Erred In Hiring One-Eyed Bus Driver

Should a man with only one good eye drive a school bus for the Charlevoix School District?

This was a question placed squarely before the Charlevoix Board of Education last Monday night and we believe the board came up with the wrong answer.

Although the driver had been suspended by Superintendent Robert Miller after his yearly physical examination revealed that he has only 20/200 vision in his right eye, the board agreed unanimously to rehire the driver and hope for the best.

We believe the board failed to act in accordance with the facts, particularly when the safety of Charlevoix school children is at stake.

The action places a heavy responsibility upon every individual member of the Board of Education, a responsibility which they, as public servants, should not be expected to bear.

If the driver in question is involved in an accident and youngsters are killed or injured, every member of the board must share in the responsibility since they have been made amply aware of the driver's disability.

The name of the driver is of little importance. What is important is the fact that he is technically blind in one eye and has been assigned the awesome responsibility of transporting Charlevoix youngsters to and from school, five days a week, under some of the most adverse driving conditions in the country.

We marvel that man with a visual disability should even apply for a job as a school bus driver. We are even more astounded that the Board of Education should continue to employ him after learning of his disability.

Even more surprising is the fact that not a single parent has called the school office to object, even though the board's action was duly reported last week in the Charlevoix Courier and the Petoskey News-Review.

Indian Park Planners Left Us in the Dark

Although we believe the proposed Woodland Indian National Memorial park south of Charlevoix might be just the ticket to preserve some of our wild land and still permit us to enjoy the benefits of tourism, we heartily sympathize with residents in the area who are attempting to stop the project until they know more about it.

The Task Force which proposed the park and placed the plans on the desk of Secretary of the Interior Rogers Morton has done an incredibly poor job of public relations.

Not a single resident of Charlevoix County was a member of the Task Force which drew up the plans. Although the County Planning Commission reportedly was apprised of the plans, no one living in the affected area was aware of what was taking place until stories about the development appeared in area newspapers last week.

Although there has been talk of the proposed Indian memorial park in the wind for sometime, attempts by the Courier to secure details were always thwarted by official secrecy. However, the possibility of an Indian monument in the area was mentioned in the Courier edition of July 14 in "Mainlining" and "Clockwise" columns.

We believe creation of the proposed park should have been made at a public meeting in Charlevoix, attended by Task Force members who would have been available to answer questions and assauge fears.

Residents of the area are understandably concerned about what is to become of them and their property --- if anything. And they have signed petitions asking that the project be held in abeyance until they learn more about it.

It is unlikely that the state and federal governments would undertake a program of vast land condemnation in the area -- although at this writing no one really knows for sure. We believe the proposed Indian monument is more of a plan for the area, a plan which would help to retain the wilderness characteristics of the region and preserve for all time rich archeological sites along the Lake Michigan shore.

We certainly hope that some members of the Task Force see fit to attend the next meeting of the residents of the area, scheduled for this Saturday at 8 p.m. at the First State Bank. Altogether too many questions remain unanswered.

Clockwise

The President Pays a Call

By BOB CLOCK

I was working at the office late Sunday night when my reveries over the typewriter were interrupted by someone jiggling the latch on the front door.

I thought it was Patrolman Pat Martin making his nightly door check and jumped to my feet to wave "Hello."

But it wasn't Patrolman Martin. It was a tall man in a black raincoat and misshapen black fedora that sent a rivulet of raindrops cascading off the end of his nose. I recognized him immediately and hurried to unlock the door.

"Mr. President!" I gasped. "What in the world are you doing in Charlevoix on a night like this? Come in and dry off."

"Thank you," my visitor said, stepping inside the office. "I appreciate your hospitality. I know it's an ungodly hour to come calling, but the President doesn't work a 40-hour week, as you know."

I explained that a visit from the President was a singular honor, regardless of the hour, and helped him off with his hat and coat. I ushered him in to the faded yellow arm chair next to my desk and poured him a cup of coffee.

The President sipped the hot brew gingerly before he started talking.

"On the advice of some of my top drawer advisors," he began slowly, "I am making a personal, sometimes incognito, visit to backwoods America to test reaction to some of my programs. Do I make myself absolutely clear?"

"So far, so good," I said. "But don't you have armies of opinion samplers at your disposal to tell you how you're doing in the boondocks?"

"Oh, yes. We draw information from all quarters," the President answered. "But it's not the same as getting out and sampling grass-roots opinion on your own. The pollsters sometimes tell you only what they think you want to hear. Take the freeze, for example."

"Ah, yes! The Freeze," I said. "What do you want to know about the freeze?"

"Has it worked in Charlevoix?" he asked.

"I don't know what you mean by that word 'worked'," I answered. "Our teachers didn't get the raise they were expecting in September and they're not too happy. None of the rest of us expected raises anyway, so it didn't make any difference. But when it comes to prices, that's another story. You hit us at the height of the tourist season when prices are out of sight anyway. Because of the freeze, prices haven't come down like they usually do in September, since all the merchants are waiting to see what the federal government does when the freeze ends. From the consumer's standpoint in Charlevoix, the freeze has hurt us."

The President took a little black book out of his vest pocket and jotted down a few words.

"Very interesting," he murmured, taking another sip of his coffee. "Now, what is the feeling in these parts about Red China. As you know, I plan to spend a few days in Peiping next year."

I hesitated a few moments to phrase my answer:

"There are some people in Charlevoix — mostly gourmets — who are in your corner all the way. They'd do anything for a good Chinese dinner, since there isn't a good Chinese restaurant within 100 miles. They are the same group of people who think it is time that the United States recognized Red China as a fact of life and made some attempt to live with it.

"However, there are others — and they perhaps are in the majority — who feel that the administration are kowtowing to the dirty Reds. Remember, this is John Birch Country and we take a pretty dim view of anything that isn't 100 percent red, white and blue Yankee Americanism."

"You must be kidding!" the President gasped, his square jaw dropping onto his vest. "I haven't heard of any activity in the John Birch Society in almost a decade."

"Then you haven't been in Charlevoix County," I said. "We have a very active cell here. And from all reports it is growing by leaps and bounds. Our state representative is a leader of the JBS, believe it or not."

The President drew a white handkerchief from his breast pocket and daubed beads of perspiration from his forehead.

"I am deeper into the boonies than I thought," he said, without any effort to disguise the anguish in his voice.

The President made a few more notations in his black book, shaking his head in disbelief all the while. When he finished, he looked up.

"Now," he said, "what can you tell me about local reaction to the proposed Woodland Indian National Memorial south of Charlevoix. As you know, the government is acutely aware that steps must be taken shortly to save a few corners of this beautiful country of ours from the land developers. The government also is interested in preserving for all time some area in the Great Lakes Region as a memorial to the Woodland Indians who roamed these woods for untold centuries before the white man arrived."

I know the President anticipated a favorable response and my ears began to burn.

"In all honesty, Mr. President, I must tell you that the people who live in the affected area don't like it one bit. They are afraid the government is going to root them out of their ancestral homes, or, even worse, create an Indian Reservation around them. They even held a meeting last Friday in Charlevoix and signed petitions asking the Secretary of the Interior to stop the project until they can learn more about it. It looks as though they don't want a memorial to the Woodland Indians, at least not in their backyards."

When I finished the President's face was pale and his hands were shaking.

"I can't believe it," he said sadly, looking down at his lap. I simply can't believe it. I thought this project, if nothing else, would win friends for the Administration in Michigan."

"You forget," I said, "That the John Birch Society is against government ownership of land. And this is John Birch Country."

Near tears, the President rose to his feet and thanked me for my time. I helped him with his coat and hat and escorted him to the door.

"By the way, sir," I asked as he prepared to leave, "how long have you been President of the Kewadin Elks Lodge?"

"I'm not really President yet," he smiled engagingly. "My term of office doesn't start until January."

Mr. Bob Clock, Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, MI 49720

Dear Bob:

Another summer has come and gone and with it another exciting time for many Charlevoix youth and adults: Our City Recreation program was once again a huge success, and as usual many people contributed. The Courier and you in particular, Bob, cooperated and made it possible that stories and pictures of our golf, swimming, softball, and special activities got into the hands of the public. For this we thank you very much.

I would like to also congratulate the girls from County State Bank's softball team and manager, Dave Smith, for bringing a softball slate championship to our town. Their dedication and efforts have paid off, and we can all share their accomplishments. It doesn't seem too many years have past since they first started playing as beginners in our girl's program.

We all should also thank the many volunteer people who gave of themselves this past season. As a result, Charlevoix's young people had the benefit of adult coaching and supervision in each of our 40-some softball teams. In my eyes, these people are all champions, and I know many people thank them for their investment in Charlevoix's greatest product--its youth.

Sincerely,
Dean Davenport
Recreation Director

Bay of Fundy Tides May Light Nova Scotia

Nova Scotia has revived an old dream, harnessing the giant tides in the Bay of Fundy to generate electricity.

More than a billion tons of water swell and recede twice daily in the 170-mile-long sea pocket separating the Canadian provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

When the moon and sun align to exert their maximum pull, tides at the head of the bay can rise and fall as much as 53 feet. Even a "normal" tide can exceed 40 feet, the National Georgraphic Society says.

ENGINEERS TEMPTED

The restless waters create a gigantic force. An estimated 200 million horsepower is at work in Fundy's daily surges, a tempting prospect for engineers who dream of using the enormous energy for cheap electricity.

People have talked about a power plant on the bay since 1919, but plans repeatedly have been shelved for one reason or another. A recent study by the Canadian Federal Government and the two provinces concluded that tidal power was unpractical because of the tight money market and the low cost of thermal and nuclear power.

Nova Scotia, however, decided to go it alone and has formed a $10 million Tidal Power Corporation as a "structure" for experimentation. Success could mean cheap power for eastern Canada and much of New England.

NO PLACE BUT UP

Several peculiarities of nature combine to cause the spectacular rise and fall of Fundy's waters. Shaped like a funnel, the bay's shorelines converge and its bottom slopes upward continuously from mouth to head. The insurging sea has no place to go but up.

Even more important the tides rise and fall in a peculiar motion that scientists call a "stationary wave," the sort produced by tilting a tub and letting the water slosh back and forth.

DEFINITE RHYTHM

Physicists know that the length and depth of a body of water determine the size and frequency of such waves. The dimensions of the Bay of Fundy give its tides a definite rhythm. And by geographic chance, Fundy's depth and lengths produce a pulse attuned to that of the outlying Atlantic Ocean.

Thus, the two forces--ocean tide and wave motion within the Bay--move at the same time to push the waters to phenomenal heights.

The leading edge of the rising tide, called a tidal bore, arrives with awesome force in the bay's river channels.

TIDE DESCRIBED

"We could see a white line across the river extending out over the bordering flats," recalls a National Geographic writer.

"It seemed to be moving slowly, an illusion created by distance. As it got nearer, I saw that this bore was, in fact, a thing of great power moving upriver at the speed of a sprinting man. Like the rolling surf, it tumbled relentlessly, dashing along and pillaging the banks, speeding across the flats, a two-to three-foot-high front of hissing water."

inclusion of Clipperview Subdivision in the project and said it probably will not be incorporated into the master plan.

Wright said the prime site under consideration is present state land in Charlevoix and Norwood Townships and the Keating Corp. property which was being developed as resort homesites until the task force expressed an interest in acquiring the land.

The area is rich in artifacts left by early Woodland Indians and several "digs" in the vicinity have been explored by Dr. Charles Cleland of Michigan State University in recent years.

Some members of the audience expressed dismay that no member of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission had attended the meeting.

However Ed Rebman, secretary of the commission, told the Courier Monday morning that the commission has received nothing in writing from the task force on the development. He said the commission was first made aware of the possibility of such an Indian Memorial via the Northwest Michigan Economic Development in either July or August.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a Concerned Citizens Committee was formed, headed by Mrs. Ottinger, assisted by Mrs. Larry Martin.

Members of the committee are Hugh Riker, Sally Bartosik, Mrs. Leo Drewa, Jerry Ohmer, Doris Pearl, Hubert Lietz, Alma Swanson, Emma Wells and Mrs. Dominic.

A second meeting of the group has been called for Saturday, Oct. 9, at 8 p.m. in the bank basement.

Wright says the task force also is planning a public meeting in Charlevoix in the near future.

Saints Defeat Rayders

The Rayders were crippled by the loss of Kevin Swanson from illness and the decision by Jerry Pease and Lee Simpson to give up the game.

For St. Ignace, Ed Lester dominated the game. The first TD was scored on a pass from Lester to Rick Powers who ran 54 yards for the marker. The same combination accounted for the conversion.

In the second quarter Mike Winston scored from the three but the conversion was lost. Winston later scored from the one-yard line and Lester ran the conversion for a score of 22-0.

In the third quarter, alone in the enzone, took a pass from Lester, bringing the count to 28-0.

In the final period, Joe Prout recovered a Charlevoix fumble and went the distance for the final Saints' TD.

This Friday, the Rayders will meet Boyne City at Kipke Field.

Opposition to Park Grows

E DIXON
MICHIGAN

JUNIUS DIXON and his son Ed, of Orwell, Ohio, pose beneath E. Dixon street sign, named for one of Charlevoix's first pioneers, John Dixon. The senior Dixon was born in Charlevoix in 1893 but left when he was a babe in arms. He made his first visit back to the old hometown last week.

Foes Rally to Halt Indian Memorial

Opposition to the proposed Woodland Indian National Memorial south of Charlevoix apparently is growing, judging from the turnout at the second meeting of the Concerned Citizens of Charlevoix County at the First State Bank Saturday night.

Approximately 175 residents of the area attended the meeting, most of them staunch opponents of the recently announced plan to establish an 8,000-acre memorial to the Woodland Indians in the area.

Most of the residents fear that the plan, sponsored by the state and federal governments and the Inter-Tribal Council of Michigan, will deprive them of their homes.

Members of the 14-man task force which drew up the plans were invited by telegram to attend the meeting, according to Chairman Mrs. Rosalie Ottinger of Clipperview. But none of them showed up. Members of the County Planning Commission also were invited to the meeting but none of them attended.

"Let's give them a round of applause for making it 100 percent," said a voice in the crowd, and the audience clapped.

Peter N. Wright, manager of public relations for the Dow-Corning Corp. at Midland and a member of the task force, told the Courier Monday that the task force will meet in Lansing on Oct. 20. One of the items on the agenda is the setting of a date for a public hearing on the project in Charlevoix.

Meanwhile, the Concerned Citizens sharpened their organization by establishing a membership fee of $5 a month for contributing members. Provision also was made for "sympathetic" members, who may belong to the organization without paying dues.

The money will be used to pay operating costs of the group, including possible legal fees. If the money is unused, it will go to a worthwhile Indian project.

Hugh Riker, who lives on U.S. 31 across the highway from the proposed memorial, read excerpts from the task force report which shows that the Charlevoix County site was chosen from among 27 under consideration. The list was finally narrowed to five: Skegemog Point, east of Traverse City; Dead Man's Hill in Antrim County; High Rollway in the Manistee River Valley; a site near Waters in Otsego and Crawford counties; and the Fisherman's Island site south of Charlevoix.

The last site was selected because 1,800 acres already is state owned, it has a sufficient "water base" and there is ample evidence that Woodland Indians actually lived in the area.

The area also includes Michigan's only natural outcropping of chert, a stone mined for centuries by Indians to make tools.

The group objected to the fact that the task force envisions motels, restaurants, stores, gift shops and other service facilities in the area.

"They're going to keep it from being commercialized by commercializing it," commented Mrs. Ottinger.

Bill Cooper of Charlevoix told the group that he was behind the plan when it involved merely the acquisition by the state of Keating Corp. property on the Lake Michigan shore south of Bells Bay. He said he worked closely for the state to acquire the land, but he had no idea that the project would develop into an 8,000-acre park.

Cooper suggested that opponents to the memorial write to Sen. Robert Davis, Rep. Richard Friske, U.S. Senators Philip A. Hart and Robert Griffin, and Cong. Phillip Ruppe. He also suggested letters to members of the planning Commission: Robert Davis of Horton Bay, Albert Hess of Walloon Lake, Dr. H.O. Messmore of Charlevoix, John Kujawski of Boyne City, Tom Wieland of Charlevoix, Art Steinbrecher of Boyne City, Walter Thorsen of East Jordan, Donald Berlage of Charlevoix, William Mercer of Charlevoix and Ed Rebman of Boyne City.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Emma Wells was elected co-chairman and Mrs. Thomas Loudenslager was elected secretary-treasurer.

Grandson of Pioneer Pays Call on City

After an absence of 78 years, Junius Dixon paid a call on his old home town last week.

The grandson of John Dixon, a Charlevoix pioneer who moved his family to the area in 1855 from Ohio, Junius Dixon was born in Charlevoix in 1893.

But he left with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dixon, when he was three months old and never returned until last Tuesday.

Dixon and his son, Ed, drove to Charlevoix from Orwell, Ohio, where they both make their home.

They paid their respects at the cemetery.

And they were glad they came.

A farmer most of his life, Dixon is now retired.

Two other grandchildren of John Dixon are still alive, Mrs. Daisy Dixon of Orwell and Mrs. William (Crystal) Dillon of Rocky River, Ohio.

Date Set For S-H Appeal

Special City Attorney John Michael reports that the Shaw-Henderson lawsuit against the city of Charlevoix will go before a three-man panel of federal appeals judges in Cincinnati Oct. 21 for oral argument.

Shaw - Henderson, headquartered in Cheboygan, contends that the city erred in granting a contract for the construction of city's new waste water treatment plant to Clark Construction Co. of Lansing because Clark failed to name one of its chief subcontractors on the bid form.

The Cheboygan firm says the omission allowed Clark to shop the piping job after the contract was granted.

Michael plans to attend the Oct. 21 court session with Steve Dykema, a member of the Grand Rapids law firm Mika, Meyers, Beckett and Jones which is handling the lawsuit for the city. Shaw-Henderson will be represented by attorney Charles Boyle of Chicago.

Shaw-Henderson received no satisfaction in federal District Court in Grand Rapids this summer and appealed the case.

Boaters Plan Halloween Masquerade

The Charlevoix Yacht Club will hold a masquerade Halloween Party Saturday, Oct. 30, at the Rod and Gun Club, located on U.S. 31 north.

Music for dancing has been planned, along with refreshments. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Tickets can be purchased from the following members: Jerry Left, Max Hosmer, Homer Brady, Richard Hodgson, Wayne Carter, and George. LaBlance. They also will be on sale at the door.

Council Puts Price On C-E Office Site

The Charlevoix City Council Monday formally offered the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District a 3.2 acre tract of land on Mercer-blvd. for the proposed C-E District administration building.

However, the land won't be sold for only $1, as originally intended. The price is $750 an acre.

City Attorney Robert Hoffman discovered over the weekend that the city could be faced with a lawsuit if land in the Industrial Park were sold for only a token price.

The council also set aside a 1.6 acre tract north of the building site for additional office building use. The C-E District will have a three-year option to pick up the additional land at the same price if it chooses.

Final decision on the project rests with the Intermediate Board, which also has been offered property in Boyne City and on M-75 between Boyne City and Boyne Falls.

The council's action culminated several week's deliberation on the proposed land sale, including a stormy special session Oct. 6 at which Alderman Robert Gill insisted on a more thorough appraisal of the offer, followed by a calmer committee-of-the-whole session Oct. 7 to work out details.

In it's offer to the C-E District, the city sets aside two 66-foot strips on the north and south of the proposed office property to be used as roadways into the remainder of the Industrial Park. The road to the south presently is a dirt lane called Taylor-blvd.

In other business the council:

--Learned in a letter from Philip E. Ruppe that the Air Force is still looking for a new site for relocation of the Bay Shore Bomb Scoring Site. In a letter to Mayor Andrew Essenburg, Ruppe included a memo from Col. B.M. Ettenson, chief of the Congressional Inquiry Division, saying that Consumers Power Co. asked to have the bomb runs moved at least 12½ miles from the nuclear plant at Big Rock Point in December, 1970, after learning that its insurers "were considering an increase in the plant insurance premium from $108,000 to $216,000 due to hazards to persons and facilities posed by the overflights." The RBS site is expected to be relocated next year. In the meantime, flights have been moved about five miles to the east.

--Accepted a bid by Universal Construction Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., to repair the water tower this fall at a cost of $2,250 and to paint the tower and tank, inside and out, next spring at a cost of $10,750.

--Accepted a bid of $9,394.85 for workman's compensation, fleet and general liability insurance submitted by Charles Elzinga, Farm Bureau agent.

--Postponed sidewalk repairs until spring when prices are expected to be more favorable.

--Send to committee a request from Freedman Artcraft Engineering Co. to purchase a parcel of former airport property on U.S. 31 for employe parking. Jack C. Grubaugh, general manager, offered $8,000 for the property on a land contract, payable over 10 years at 7 percent interest. The property was removed from the airport plan last year.

--Took under advisement a request by Max Selfridge and Tom Oleksy for a 212-foot extension of the water main on Newman-st.

--Received an offer to buy a Fairbanks-Morses generator at the power plant from International Power and Machinery Co. at a price of $12,500.

--Heard a request from Sister Mary Jane of St. Marys School for some kind of traffic control on Bridge-st. at Garfield-st. to protect children coming to and leaving school.

--Heard a report by Mrs. Rosalie Ottinger of Clipperview who opposes the proposed Woodland Indian Memorial project in her area. Mrs. Ottinger and her followers attended the meeting in the belief that Cong. Ruppe would be present to answer questions.

--Heard a report by City Superintendent Thomas Hanna on problems requiring study, including electric utilities, waste water and sewers, water, airport, cemetery, docks and harbors, rezoning, codification of ordinances, recreation, special assessment policy, industrial park land use and oarking.

Board of Education OK's Record Budget

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, approved a record budget of $1,313,370 following a public hearing, gave its approval to part of a recommended policy regarding school bus drivers and substitutes, approved teacher assignments and accepted a painting in memory of Sp. 4 Richard Plumm, a member of the class of 1969, who was killed in action in Vietnam in May, 1971.

The budget will be financed from revenue from tax sources totaling $911,615 or $865,300 in current taxes, $46,000 in delinquent taxes and interest and $315 in other taxes; an estimated $329,370 in State Aid which includes the $33,370 to be withheld by the state in a contingency fund until spring when a decision will be made as to whether or not the school will receive the monies; $735, tuition; $28,000, sale of property (house being built by the Building Trades class); $5,000, investment revenue; $5,000 miscellaneous revenue; $2,700, driver education; $6,000, vocational education; $1,450, NDEA; $8,500, P.L. 874 and $15,000 special education. This compares with $1,233,095 in revenue received from these sources last year.

Anticipated expenditures will include $906,000 for instruction against $839,325 spent last year; $61,300, administration ($58,540); $2,600 health services ($4,900); $101,400, transportation ($64,970); $113,700, operating ($123,665); $22,000, maintenance ($34,115); fixed charges, $72,200 ($55,435); $30,670, capital outlay ($41,250); $2,500, outgoing transfers ($3,520) and $1,000, transfer to other accounts.

The second figures, in each case, are the amounts spent for each of the categories. Also included were student

Camp Charlevoix To Close for Good

Camp Charlevoix, the scene of summer fun for an estimated 10,000 boys over the past 46 years, has closed for good.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Smith, the proprietors, plan to retire and their vast wooded campgrounds at the foot of Quarter line-rd. on Lake Charlevoix are in the process of being sold.

"I can't tell you who's buying it, but I can tell you it won't be subdivided and there won't be any condominiums," Smith said.

The Smiths plan a gigantic sale of camp furnishings and fixtures this weekend, including a stable of riding horses. (See ad on Pg. 12)

The camp was started in 1925 at a site near Ironton by the late Lewis Reimann. Two years later it was moved to its present location across the lake.

"The underbrush was so thick, the men had to crawl in on their stomachs to mark out the location of the cabins," Mrs. Smith said.

Smith started at the camp as a counselor 36 years ago and eventually purchased the property.

Ticket Sale

To avoid long lines at home games, advance tickets will be sold at the High School office on Thursday and Friday preceding each game, according to High School Principal Vane Smith. Both student and adult tickets will be on sale.

Booster Bowl Set Oct. 16 In Petoskey

The third annual "Booster Bowl" Football game pitting Central Michigan University freshmen against the freshman team from Eastern Michigan University will be played at Curtis Field in Petoskey at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, October 16.

Central Michigan is the "Host Team" and is undefeated in its two previous games and they are looking forward to extending their winning streak to three.

As a special attraction, the 135-piece Central Michigan University, "CHIPS" Marching Band will perform before, at half, and after the game.

Reserve seat tickets are available at the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce.

Fiscal 1970-71 was a significant year.

Cutbacks in state aid and local support limited to .2 of 1 mill reduced the General Fund balance to near zero. Special Education is in better balance; however, programs have been developed to the maximum that local and state revenues will permit.

On April 12 the electorate denied one (1) mill for area vocational education; however, approximately ten new programs have been planned for 1971-72, evidence of growing interest in vocational education.

The district initiated a three-year mobile vocational counseling program which was financed by federal and state monies at approximately 90 percent. The unit was used by an average of 2,500 students and teachers per month. In the current year, 1971-72, both students and adults can receive up-to-date information at the Unit within minutes from a high speed computer service based in Genesee County.

A Curriculum Resource Consultant has been added in the current year to serve special education personnel on both the local and intermediate district staffs. In 1970-71 1,244 students were served by special education programs.

Rayders Dump Boyne Ramblers for First Win

RAYDER TIM CAREY (40) runs afoul of Boyne City tackle as Randy Woods (14) moves in.

BALLCARRIER Steve McClellan (45) leaves one Boyne City tackle grounded, but Frank Leist (65) and Dennis Looze (42) are moving in fast.

Petoskey Northmen Are Next on Slate

Charlevoix Red Rayders pulled a close one from the fire in the last nine seconds of play Friday night, defeating the Boyne City Ramblers 14 to 8.

The victory was Charlevoix's first conference win of the season, although the Rayders defeated Benzie Central in the non-conference opener.

In other conference action, St. Ignace downed Cheboygan, 12 to 8, and Rogers City trounced Gaylord, 48 to 0. In a non-conference game, Petoskey defeated Rudyard, 40-14.

This Friday, Charlevoix plays at Petoskey, Cheboygan plays at Rogers City and Gaylord travels to St. Ignace. Traverse City St. Francis will meet Boyne City in a non-conference game at Boyne City.

The Rayders lost Larry Potter due to an ankle injury early in the game, but the team came back strong culminating a sustained drive with a TD at 6:40 by Joe Jones. Bill Carey passed to Tim Carey for the two-point conversion, making the scoreboard 8-0.

Boyne City came back with a TD of its own with Alan Newville reaching paydirt from the 11-yard line. The conversion also was good, tying the score at 8-8, where it stood for most of the game.

In the final nine seconds, Tim Carey found Bill Carey in the open and the pass found its mark. Bill Carey sprinted 40 yards for the winning TD, although the conversion was lost.

Homecoming Is Planned

The second meeting of the Charlevoix High School Student Council was held Monday, Oct. 4. Fred Davison, president, opened the meeting by appointing various committees for homecoming activities.

The main topic for discussion was the homecoming dance Oct. 22. It was resolved that the Student Council and the Senior Class combined will sponsor the dance. Profits will be split, the Council receiving 40 percent and the Senior Class 60 percent.

Location of the dance has not been decided.

Make two people happy with an unexpected call.

There's a little love out there . . . for you. Love you experience all too infrequently.
A birthday card. An occasional letter. The Christmas phone call.
Why not break the pattern, with an unexpected call? You'll make two people happy . . . someone you love, and you.

Another nice thing. If you talk for one minute, you pay for one minute. Not three. And, as always, there's no quicker or more personal way to say "I love you"—or even "I like you an awful lot"—than by phone. So if you want to make two people happy . . . don't hesitate to call!

Plan Escape Routes Before Home Burns

The great majority of the 12,200 lives taken by fires in rural and city homes last year were needlessly lost because families failed to plan and rehearse escape measures, according to the National Fire Protection Association.

Ernest C. Schuette, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor in Bellaire, urges all families to prepare a home life safety plan and rehearse the plan to make certain that everyone, especially children, know exactly what to do.

"The first rule of safety from fire is to escape," Schuette says, "Get everybody out at the very first sign of fire. But unless you have done some thinking and planning, you may not be able to get out safely.

Here are some pointers to help you:

1. Plan for at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house, especially bedrooms. Allow for blocking of stairways and halls by fire.

2. Keeping doors closed will allow extra escape time because closed doors will hold back flame and smoke.

3. For upper floor escape, a window may be your only alternate route. Use any available roof–porch, shed or garage – as ways down to safety. If necessary, install a ladder. Locate children in bedrooms with easy rooftop access.

4. Pick an outside assembly point where the family will meet for "roll call," and be sure everyone understands that the house must not be re-entered for any purpose.

5. Establish ways to call the fire department from an outside or a neighbor's phone, and do this as quickly as the house is clear of people.

In 1960, Corvair, Falcon and Valiant were introduced.

1972: Now there's only one.
PLYMOUTH Valiant.

In 1960, Chrysler, Ford and GM entered the compact field. Many Americans wanted smaller cars. For their low price. Economy. Ease of driving and parking. For several years, Corvair, Falcon and Valiant met these needs and did quite nicely, thank you.

Survival of the fittest.
Over the years, however, something happened. Buyers became disenchanted. Corvair eventually closed up shop in the late '60's. Falcon soon followed suit. One car didn't. Of the three, it's the only one left. Plymouth Valiant. We think that says a lot about the kind of cars we sell.

Trial and not much error.
Today's Valiant still has the values that make a good car a great car: torsion-bar suspension, 3-speed TorqueFlite automatic transmission as an option, unibody construction. And every Valiant is treated by a 7-step dip-and-spray anti-rust process. The point is, when we found a good thing, we stayed with it. And where possible, we improved it.

Along came Duster.
In 1969, we came up with a two-door version of the Valiant, called the Duster. Paced by Duster, Valiant has become one of America's hottest selling economy cars and a leader in its class in resale value.

There's a lot that's Valiant in all our cars.
For example, 9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road. It simply proves what most people already know. When it comes to building a car right, Chrysler-Plymouth lives up to its reputation for great engineering. We think this is the kind of car America wants—a car built to last. For the kind of car you want, see us. We're determined to be the kind of dealer you want, too.

Ferry to Transport Hunters to S. Fox

A Fox Island Ferry Service has been established to transport deer hunters from Northport to South Fox Island during the upcoming deer hunting season.

The 65-foot Isle Royale Queen II will make daily runs to the island leaving Northport at 7 a.m. daily.

The Coast Guard-approved vessel will be skippered by Capt. Lloyd Spears.

According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, there will be another liberal deer season on the scenic five-square-mile South Fox Island this fall. Hunting has been excellent there during the last two deer seasons.

In 1970 a herd of about 650 deer was reduced through hunting to 200 animals. This breeding herd has produced a 1971 fall deer herd of between 350 and 400 animals — too many for the overbrowsed deer range.

This year's bow and arrow season is from Oct. 1 to Nov. 14 inclusive. Archers may take one deer of either sex. A bow and arrow license is required.

In order to obtain much needed research data and to get the necessary kill the 1971 South Fox hunt will allow a two-deer bag limit of either sex and an extended season Nov. 15 to Dec. 19 inclusive. A 1971 Michigan deer license and a special permit ore required.

There will be an unrestricted number of gun hunters permitted on the island. Special permits must be obtained before hunting. The permits will be issued at the DNR temporory headquarters located on state-owned land near the northeast shore. No mail applications will be accepted.

Deer bagged during the firearms season must be presented to a DNR representative on South Fox Island for examination and sealing before the animal is consumed or removed from the Island.

Though hunters are permitted an unlimited amount of gear aboard the Queen, they should travel light on South Fox. The island has very rugged wooded hills. Last deer season those who camped with the least amount of equipment enjoyed their hunt more than those who burdened themselves with too much bulky equipment. Adequate shelter, cold weather sleeping bags and warm clothes are a necessity.

The fact thot an individual hunts on South Fox Islnnd under permit and kills one or two deer does not preclude his right to kill a buck on the mainland or to utilize an any-deer permit if he was lucky enough to get one in the drawing.

Schools Announce Test Plan

Charlevoix High School and the Charlevoix Middle School will administer the National Educational Development Tests (NEDT) during the week of Oct. 17, according to Dr. William Ratigan, director of guidance.

The testing program helps educators, parents and students plan together for the educational and vocational future of students.

"The NEDT will help us to help the student plan wisely for his future education and for his future career. It is a sound investment in sound planning," Dr. Ratigan said.

Middle School Counselor Condit Drury exploined that the program will reveal how well students con apply the skills they have acquired since entering school.

"It will help us recognize the strengths in each student's educational development and, at the same time, will pinpoint weaknesses," Drury said.

"This information will enable us to know how we can help a particular student while he is still in school, and will guide us in improving our program so that other youngsters can be helped in their education," he added.

The 7th and 10th grades will be tested this fall and the 8th grade will be tested during the second semester.

Library Notes

The Library would like to acknowledge a list of new books contributed by our patrons. "Bridge of No Return: The Ordeal of the U.S.S. Pueblo" was presented to the Library by the author, F. Carl Schumacher jr. the former Operations Officer aboard the Pueblo who, along with George C. Wilson, Military Correspondent for the Washington Post wrote this war thriller. Although it reads like an adventure yarn, it is not a yarn – but the truth. It is exciting at times often heartbreaking and eventually soul-sickening. But it is a story that had to be told. The Code of Conduct that failed the men of the Pueblo will fail others we send out to the hazards and horror of the Cold War.

Two other contributions will appeal to the men. The New York Times "Complete Manual of Home Repair" offers everything the homeowner, apartment dweller and amateur craftsman needs to know about home maintenance. The easy way to fix a dripping faucet, how to cope with leaking basement walls, how to wallpaper a room, refinish battered furniture, lay tile or linoleum, apply gold leaf to a picture frame – all this and a great deal more is contained in this book with clear, up-to-date instructions and more than 300 photographs and line drawings.

"The Homeowner's Complete Outdoor Building Book" by John Burton Brimer is another part of the popular Science Book series. It offers complete instructions and plans for shelters, fences, gates, trellises, walls, furniture, planter, pools, terraces, tool storage, driveways, bird houses and bird feeders. It is filled with photographs and detailed how-to drawings. The copy presented to the Library is a brand new, updated, revised and expanded edition, published in 1971.

"Tropical Fish" by Douglas Gohm will appeal to both children and adults, because each year more and more people discover the pleasures of keeping tropical fish. This comprehensive book was written to help the beginner achieve a worthwhile standard and the veteran fish fancier extend his activities and techniques. The beautiful color photographs are supplemented by the line drawings of David Carl Forbes who is renowned for the accuracy of his fish illustrations.

"Richard Hittleman's Yoga-28-day Exercise Plan" will, according to the author, become a lifetime program to keep your whole organism radiant with natural beauty and health. Without aches or strains, you'll learn the ancient secrets of breathing, concentration, nutrition, muscle control, poise and balance. There are large photographs on each page. The book begins with the first day with exercises for stretching and ends on the 28th day with an evaluation of your accomplishments.

Credit Union OK's Group Auto Plan

Group Auto Insurance plans for business, industry and government continue to make local mass marketing news.

Charlevoix Federal Credit Union located at 710 Bridge Street, is the latest area organization to employ a Group Auto plan through the facilities of Farm Bureau Insurance Group. The plan was initiated Sept. 30.

The 1,400 members can receive auto insurance benefits which are similar in concept to group health and group life programs.

Group Auto Insurance, providing protection to all qualified drivers within an organization, is an unusual fringe benefit which offers the convenience of payroll deduction and local claims service. Premium savings can average more than 15 percent, in comparison to non-group car insurance.

Why can Group Auto policyholders receive substantial rate reductions? Farm Bureau Insurance Group Executive Vice President, Nile L. Vermillion, answered the question. "Underwriting procedures were updated. Group rating and administration reduce individual insurance rates, including those for young drivers, while eliminating arbitrary cancellation by the insurer."

Developer of the Nation's first group-rated auto insurance plan, Farm Bureau Insurance Group has initiated Group Auto plans for 123 Michigan organizations. These include business firms, schools, credit unions and church and governmental units.

Each of these varied groups can select the plan most appropriate for them. Every driver within the group can select his own coverages while receiving a group discount and individual auto insurance policy.

Farm Bureau Insurance Group, licensed to operate only in Michigan, writes most types of coverages for approximately 250,000 rural and urban policyholders.

Footloose Cat Prefers Home On Holidays

There's a cat down Barnard way who is sentimental about being home for the holidays, according to correspondent Mrs. Jasper Warner.

The cat is a tom named T.G. owned by the Ray Cunningham family. And like all toms, T.G. likes to prowl.

A couple of years ago, T.G. disappeared for several weeks and on Christmas Eve showed up to join in the family celebration.

Three days later he was gone.

"He'll probably be back for the Fourth of July," someone in the family commented.

Sure enough, on July 3 T.G. showed up again, just in time for the fireworks and watermelon.

Two days later he was gone again, returning to spend Labor Day with the family.

The next morning he had taken off.

Dinner To Honor Griffin

The youngest senator in the U.S. Congress, Senator Bob Packwood (R-Ore.) will be the featured speaker at a National Birthday Dinner in honor of U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.) in Traverse City, Nov. 6.

The event marks the 48th birthday of Griffin, the Senate's assistant minority leader, and is one of 14 dinners to be held throughout the state. Eleven counties are participating in the Traverse City celebration.

Twenty U.S. Senators, three governors, and two cabinet officials will attend the various dinners. To be held in the Michigan Room of the Park Place Motor Inn, with a reception scheduled for 6:15 and dinner at 7:15, the event will be headed by general chairman Larry Hardy.

Clothing Identifies Americans

An 18-year-old Dutch exchange student, Anneke Leenen, is now staying with the Andy Essenberg family. Anneke's home town is Zoetermeer, a suburb of the Hague.

Anneke says she really likes the United States, although it is a lot different from home. Dutch families do more things together, while members of American families go their own ways.

Clothing styles don't play an important part of Dutch life. In the summertime, Anneke says there are a lot of Americans in Holland. It is quite easy to identify them by their clothing, all following certain fashions. Anneke believes that Dutch fashions are more influenced by the "Haute Couture"

Anneke is against the war in Vietnam, or any other war, feeling a peaceful solution to differences can always be found. Yet she believes the spread of Communism must be halted.

Anneke says, "Communism has to be stopped if we want to live in freedom."

Dutch Youth Critical Of U.S. Role in War

By MAUREEN PELTIER

A 17-year-old Dutch exchange student has been wandering the halls of C.H.S. for the last four weeks. His name is Eduard Bouma, alias Captain Holland. Ed is from Franeker, Friesland, Holland. He is living with the Jerry Left family.

When asked if he likes it here, Captain Holland responded positively. He says the people are all very friendly...and all those pretty girls!

The Captain says life in Holland doesn't center around the school so much as here. The social life is basically the same, with the exception that the Dutch people are more tolerant concerning race, hair length, alcohol, drugs, hippies and communists. Ed said he had heard so much about America before actually coming to the United States that he almost knew what to expect, and most of it is true!

Captain Holland loves to play and make music. He played for a year in Holland in a blues band. Ed has played the guitar for about four years and it has become one of his favorite ways of expressing himself. He also likes listening to modern and classical music, dating and reading.

Ed is against American participation in the Vietnam war. He says Americans have no right to be there theorizing one population and bombing another. He favors the idea of the 18-year-old vote, feeling it will bring some needed new blood into our political system. The Dutch political system is quite a bit like the English system. Ed says he prefers the Dutch socialistic type of government to ours.

Despite it being so much different here in America, Eduard Bouma seems to be getting along great. He is an extremely friendly person and a lot of fun to know.

SLAAM Not a Club

Last week the Flash reporter covering Club News for the Courier included an item on activities of SLAAM:

SLAAM stands for the student librarians who work as aides in the school library throughout the day.

They, also, participate in meetings and activities with other library students around the state.

They were included in the club news because they do actively work as a group. However, they are not one of the five clubs approved at a recent Board of Education meeting.

She is tall, has long blonde hair, and a neat German accent.

She came here because she liked to travel and wanted to see the United States.

The most unusual thing she recognized about Charlevoix is the architecture.

She attends Charlevoix High School and takes history, art, trigonometry, government and academic English.

CHS Club Activities

By VICKI SKELTON

PEP CLUB

The Charlevoix High School Pep Club held a meeting after school Oct. 6 to elect their officers for the coming year.

Terry Phelps was elected president; Rodger Crain was chosen as vice president; Cathy Begrow was elected treasurer; and the office of secretary was given to Trudy Ohmer.

After the officers were elected, the club discussed plans for this year's Homecoming activities. It was decided to whitewash windows in town, as it is traditional for the Pep Club to do, and to take charge of decorating the school for the occasion. It was debated as to whether or not the club should partake in the planning of other activities.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club of CHS held a meeting Thursday night, Oct. 7, to discuss plans for the year and to elect officers.

The meeting opened with Miss Ryswick, the club's advisor, presiding. The elections were held and Peggy Carey was chosen president; Carla Erber, vice president; Paula Merit, secretary; and Nina Lundtigen treasurer.

The club then decided to meet every other Thursday night and to charge each member fifty cents a semester for dues.

Tentative plans for the upcoming year include travelogs, plays or skits in Spanish, and a Mexican dinner.

Any student having had at least one year of Spanish, or any student who is currently taking Spanish is eligible for membership in the club.

Germany and U.S. Are Much Alike

Klaus Burmeister is a 17-year-old exchange student from Wanne-Eickel, Germany. He is spending one year with the Robert Malison family.

Klaus is presently enrolled as a senior in Charlevoix High School. His courses include U.S. Government, physical education, Speech 1, Academic English, English Literature, and Trigonometry.

Klaus' favorite hobbies are sailing, soccer, and skiing. He also enjoys dancing, playing cards and listening to pop music.

When Klaus was asked what he thought about Charlevoix, he commented, "I like it very much here, population, school, country, everything."

Klaus went on to say that there are not too many differences between America and Germany. He feels the main difference is the language. He also said prices in America are higher than those in Germany.

Klaus found that America is not what he expected it to be. He was told that American kids were quite snobbish but was happy to discover that they are not.

Asked about the Vietnam war, Klaus replied: "I think it is sometimes necessary that there are wars. So I would join the Army if another country would attack Germany without reason. I think that nobody should die in a war between two other countries. I myself would never go to Vietnam."

Coke Drive to Boost Senior Trip Fund

By STEVE KANTOLA

SENIORS

The Senior Class is busy working on plans for this year's Senior trip and is planning a coke drive in the near future.

On Oct. 22, the Senior Class and the student council will sponsor the homecoming dance. The dance will feature a group known as the "James Bradley Review".

At a recent class meeting the Senior Class discussed the different possibilities of building a float. Senior Class President Dan Tollas appointed several committees to get the float building operation underway.

JUNIORS

This year's Junior Class is beginning the year with projects to promote school and community spirit. They plan to start by selling "Rayder" buttons at the school and the surrounding neighborhoods.

After the Boyne-Charlevoix football game the class sponsored the dance.

Later in the year the Juniors have also planned to hold a rummage sale. This sale will be open to all members of the community. The date hasn't been set.

Proceeds from these activities will be used to help pay for future activities, such as the Junior-Senior Prom.

SOPHOMORES

The Sophomores will build a float beginning the week of October 11. The class officers preferred not to discuss their float theme or building plans.

Class President Kelly Smith appointed a committee to discuss ideas for fund raising. The ideas will be brought before the class for debate at the next class meeting.

FRESHMEN

VIA EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Small Towns Could Ease Urban Racial Problems

We hope the voters remember next November that it was our own U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, a Republican, who attempted to bring a measure of sanity to the issue of school busing to achieve racial integration in the classroom.

Sen. Griffin last Thursday introduced a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States containing these important words:

"This Constitution shall not be construed to require that pupils be assigned or transported to public schools on the basis of their race, color, religion or national origin."

In other words, Sen. Griffin doesn't think it is right to truck youngsters, black or white, all over hell's half acre just to achieve a pleasant salt and pepper effect in the classroom.

To take such a stand in these heated times was indeed an act of courage which is to be applauded.

Two of Michigan's federal judges, Damon Keith and Stephen Roth, have given the nod to just such busing in the cities of Pontiac and Detroit and the suburbs, turning southeastern Michigan into a hotbed of racial antagonism.

The Courier firmly believes that the busing of school children to achieve racial integration is another case of the federal government putting the cart before the horse. The nation will never achieve true integration in the classroom until it occurs in other segments of society, such as housing and job opportunities.

Our youngsters certainly are not responsible for the nation's racial dilemma and it is quite unfair to expect them to solve it.

The money which will be expended on new school buses, bus garages, drivers salaries, fuel and administration of the proposed busing programs could far better be spent improving inadequate schools wherever they exist, in ghettos or rural slums.

Another possible solution to the problem could well be an exchange student program involving the small towns of America where racial feelings do not run as hot and heavy as they do in metropolitan areas.

Every school year, Charlevoix families play host to any number of students from foreign countries. Would it not be possible to institute just such an exchange program with the inner cities of America?

If Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City each played host to 10 black students a year, one less classroom would be needed in Detroit's teeming inner city.

Certainly there are countless families in northern Michigan who would welcome a black student into their homes during the school year.

Such an exchange program would not only benefit ghetto students, many of whom have never been outside the inner city, but also would broaden the understanding of big city problems on the part of small town residents.

Of course, such a program would have to be entirely voluntary. We don't like the idea of Judges Keith and Roth telling us how to achieve racial integration, which is, at best, an intensely personal problem deserving of an intensely personal solution.

Sen. Griffin's Proposal On Busing for Integration

Following is the text of U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin's joint resolution on school busing presented to the Senate Oct. 7:

Today I am introducing a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The important words in the proposal are these:

"This Constitution shall not be construed to require that pupils be assigned or transported to public schools on the basis of their race, color, religion or national origin."

Mr. President, it is fundamentally wrong for any instrumentality of government--including a court--to discriminate in the treatment of children on the basis of race.

To assign and transport a child to a particular school farm from his home, solely because he happens to be black or white, runs counter to the basic guarantees of our Constitution, which includes the amendments thereto that have been adopted.

Forced busing is not only expensive but it represents a wasteful diversion of tax dollars that could, and should, be used to improve the quality of education.

Even more disturbing is the indication that forced busing actually works against the very objectives it is supposed to promote.

If we really want more racial harmony and an integrated society, common sense suggests that we will not achieve those goals by increasing racial tensions and by accelerating the flight from the cities to the suburbs and beyond.

We can, and we must, strive harder to reach those goals by making sure that job opportunities are really equal, that housing opportunities are really equal—and by improving the quality of education available to the poor, regardless of race.

When a court orders long-distance busing of children because they are black or because they are white, the court disregards and ignores a fundamental truth: Two wrongs do not make a right.

Whatever the sins of their fathers, unreasonable punishment ought not be imposed upon the children of a new generation who are guilty of nothing but being born black or white.

Racial discrimination is no less discriminatory just because it is court ordered.

As I have said before, it should not be necessary to add more and more amendments to the Constitution. It would not be necessary to add this one if the Supreme Court should see fit in the near future to clarify the confused and muddled state of the law which has led some district courts to order busing.

Fitzgerald Salvaged Our Image

Sept. 30, 1971

Bob Clock,
Editor,
Charlevoix Courier

Dear Bob,

Thank you, thank you for printing Jim Fitzgerald's column in Sept. 29 edition. Particularly after Sept. 8 front page regarding population states "Only 17 Negroes," underlined no less. This changes my opinion of the Courier being super conservative. All persons belonging to the light skinned race are racists because of the power behind them and the "17 Negro" line was typically racist.

Those of other shades cannot be racists (although they may harbor racist thoughts) because they are without power behind them (politically, economically, culturally, etc.)

J.F. treats the white liberal perhaps too unkindly, because them are the anti-racists which is what he probably is. I could be sure if as well as mentioning White Jane and Black Joe, he had mentioned White Joe and Black Jane.

Mrs. Jack Lambdin

Answers Letter On Medals

October 4, 1971

To The Editor:

Reference: Letter to the Editor on Sept. 28, 1971, protesting medals given during war.

Yes, medals are still given to those who perform their duty. A more astute person would have read the citation description thoroughly. "...denying the hostile forces access to the DaNang Vital Area...", was the key phrase. In that DaNang Vital Area were located all the troops (American Marines) withdrawing from Vietnam.

Someone had to assume the responsibility of protecting them as they left the battle area—turned in their weapons and obeyed the will of American protestors to get out of Vietnam.

That is exactly what the proud 2nd Battalion, 5th Marines was doing. The effectiveness of their mission was demonstrated just one week after they left Vietnam, when Firebase Maryann was attacked by the Vietcong-North Vietnamese and many Americans were killed.

Civilians are responsible for getting the United States into the war. Civilians are responsible for issuing the orders that sent the military to Vietnam. Civilians prolonged the war for economic reasons (check your Charlevoix Courier for articles on unemployment caused by the closing down of military suppliers in your area). Civilians have now demanded a speedy withdrawal. Surely, you would not deny those troops, anymore than yourself, the right to protect themselves as they follow your vacillating orders.

Do you as a citizen just complain...or do you actively participate in your government to bring about change? When you as a citizen have accepted your responsibility for these actions, then you come back and complain to me, the wife who waited. Complain to the children who feared and had nightmares worrying about their father. Complain to the family of Major Ram, who didn't come back, and to his six children, who will always worry and have nightmares. Or visit a Veterans Hospital and tell those men without legs and arms that they don't deserve a medal for accepting their responsibility. Or complain to the mother and father of an American killed in Vietnam...or better yet complain to the family of a prisoner still in Vietnam.

National Park Service Will Do First Rate Job

October 6th, 1971

Bob Clock, Editor
The Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Bob:

I see by the papers and hear on the air that you are "right in the middle" of the arguments, pro and con, on the establishment of the proposed Woodland Indian National Cultural Park near Charlevoix.

After reading most of the arguments and hearing their comments, it seems to me that most of the objections are based on the fact that certain factions and certain people were not consulted on a local basis.

In my travels, I have visited several parks and museums operated by the National Park Service, under the supervision of the Department of the interior and I have, without exception, found them to be outstanding.

I have in mind, at this writing, that fine museum to the Sioux Indians at Rapid City, South Dakota. I am certain the government has something similar in mind for the Woodland Indians of Michigan and the Great Lake States in the proposed Charlevoix cultural center.

I feel that government land agencies will be reasonable in their requests of those who now live within the boundaries of the proposed park and recreation center.

I am also sure the majority of Indians living in this area will be proud of this fine monument to them and their heritage.

Charlevoix, and this entire region, will also benefit as much as all other areas have where there is a National Park Service operation maintained and financed by federal funds.

We should forget our differences and all get behind this project as a fine endeavor for the protection of our environment, for the benefit of all of us, and futurue generations to enjoy in memory of the Woodland Indians.

Perhaps you don't know, but I have been a champion of the Indian and his mistreatment by government laws and agencies ever since the first treaty was written.

In the establishment of this proposed Woodland Indian National Memorial, we can at least feel we are partially compensating our Indian friends for the many injustices done in the past.

Hails Firms For Role in Park Plan

Charlevoix, Mich.
10-5-71

Mr. Bob Clock,
The Charlevoix Courier,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Dear Mr. Clock:

It is heart-warming to learn that two large corporations have unselfishly allowed their people to work on the proposed Indian National Memorial south of Charlevoix, and in addition, have provided financial assistance to further the plan until government funds may be available.

Last week, I understand, a group of local citizens met to discuss this development, also its' possible effect on residents now living within the proposed boundaries of the project. Some foresee eventual eviction from their homes and feel that legal advice is necessary to protect their interests. Certainly, it is understandable that they are disturbed although it is rather early to assess the situation. Published plans seem nebulous, chiefly of such stuff as dreams are made on.

Of course, the two corporations with their altrustic motivation will see that all parties interested in the project are treated fairly, and it follows they will also provide a fund for the representation of citizens who may face dispossession.

With implicit confidence in corporate integrity,

Geddie

Clockwise Easy Rider

By BOB CLOCK

The Courier received the following letter last week relative to the re-hiring by the Board of Education of Gordon Wolgamott as a school bus driver after Mr. Wolgamott's annual physical examination showed he has only 20/200 vision in one eye. The driver had been suspended by Superintendent Robert Miller, pending a decision by the board. The Courier took issue with the board on its decision to re-hire Mr. Wolgamott.

"Editor of the Charlevoix Courier:

"I am one of the many riders on bus 5 who the so-called "one-eyed" bus driver drives. You call him a "one-eyed" driver which is not true. He had two eyes just like everyone else does."

"Most people are fortunate to have all their sight. Some people don't have any at all. Well, I would like to tell you something if you will read further on. Gord isn't an "one-eyed" bus driver! The only thing that is wrong with his eye is that he can't see to read out of it, because he can't focus it, but otherwise he can see."

"He is not blind like you say. I hope you know there is more than one blindness not just total blindness. You are going to get a lot more letters concerning Gordon Wolgamott."

"I don't think that the school board made the wrong choice on letting him drove. As a matter of fact, a lot of us kids who ride his bus were worried because we really are concerned about him, we all love and respect him, too."

"I know of other people who are going to write and there are some who are urging others to write to you, and I hope they do. Gord has been a better bus driver than any other bus driver..."

"Well, this is all I have to say except I hope you change your opinion of him and also thank you for your time."

Rider of a
"one-eyed" driver

I am sorry our correspondent didn't sign his name, because he writes a fine letter and it is nice to know that there is no so-called generation gap in some segments of our society.

Although I have never met Mr. Wolgamott personally, I will take our reader's word for it that he is a superb bus driver. Our reader certainly has spent a good many hours aboard a school bus with Mr. Wolgamott at the wheel, and he must know what he is talking about.

I also am confident that Mr. Wolgamott enjoys the love and respect of all of his riders. The work that Mr. and Mrs. Wolgamott have done as foster parents for homeless children is legend in Charlevoix County.

But none of this alters the simple fact that Mr. Wolgamott is only partially sighted in one-eye. "Technically blind" is the way the professionals put it.

Mr. Wolgamott may drive a school bus for 100 years without scratching a fender, but that still doesn't relieve the Charlevoix Board of Education from any of its moral and financial responsibility if and when Mr. Wolgamott should become involved in an accident. That is what last week's Courier editorial was all about.

I believe the people should not expect their public servants to wear such a heavy mantle of responsibility—although it is far easier under the pressure of a public meeting to play the role of the good guys in the white hats.

Certainly we all regret the fact that Mr. Wolgamott is only partially sighted in one eye. But that doesn't change one iota the School Board's responsibility to the children who ride his bus, to their parents, to Mr. Wolgamott and to themselves.

I hope that the School Board loses no time in coming up with a firm policy regarding physical qualifications for Charlevoix school bus drivers and that vision corrected to 20/20 in both eyes in one of the requirements.

In the meantime, I hope it is some small consolation to Mr. Wolgamott to know that his riders are behind him 100 percent.

The Four-Minute Test

By JIM FITZGERALD

At breakfast this morning my wife greeted me with: "I was awake from 3 to 6 a.m. listening to you snore."

This isn't the worst. On other mornings she is even more evil because of something I did in her dream the night before.

"Boy, were you a dirty rat last night," she'll say. "You were two years late getting home for dinner and you had nerve enough to give me heck because the food was cold."

Our marriage is obviously in real trouble... So says one of the nation's most prominent psychiatrists, Dr. Leonard Zunin, director of the Institute for Reality Therapy in Brentwood, Calif. He recently said the success or failure of marriage can depend on what happens between a husband and wife during two 4-minute periods each day—when they wake up and when the husband gets home from work.

"These are periods of intense communication. And what comes through to the husband and wife is not only conveyed by spoken words. From 50 to 90 percent of the message is transmitted by body language," Dr. Zunin said.

"The body postures, attitudes and gestures of each mate make swift subconscious impressions on the mind of the other mate," he said.

Hoo boy. Please pass the lawyer.

When the alarm goes off at our house, I get up first and head for the bathroom. Sometimes I am careless and pull the blanket off my wife. "I am freezing," she says sweetly, "PUT THE BLANKET BACK!"

Thus, begins our crucial four minutes.

We next meet in the kitchen. Long ago my wife decreed that I must kiss her each morning just before breakfast, otherwise I don't love her. But this is hard to do when I have snored, or misbehaved in her dreams or pulled the blanket off her. She gives me a full dose of the "body language" and I can't catch her. She always has her back to me and, when I approach for the smooch, she moves away, from stove to toaster to refrigerator, acting all the time as if she doesn't know I'm on her trail, trying to fulfill my husbandly duty.

Finally, I give up and eat.

She sits down opposite me and asks: "Why didn't you kiss me good morning?"

"Because I am not the type who runs and kisses," I say.

And the first four minutes are up.

Things aren't any better during those important four minutes in the evening, when I return from a hard day's work.

"How come you're late?" she says.

"Why don't you greet me at the door with a smile and a drink, like in the movies?" I say.

"I made the drinks yesterday. It's your turn today," she says.

"I had a tough day at the office," I say.

"I called you at 4 o'clock and they said you weren't back from lunch yet," she says.

"I was out shopping for a new ring for my nose," I explain.

Then comes more body language. I can tell she is unhappy simply by the way she moves her right leg, eloquently propelling her well-shod foot into my shin.

And the four minutes are up.

Dear Ann Landers . . . .

Mechanical Cow May Replace Bossy

How now brown cow? A machine may know your secret.

Another inventor thinks he has found how to cut out old bossy's starring role in the ageless living-color spectacular: how a brown cow fed green grass produces white milk for churning into yellow butter.

Never, they say, will machine-made milk replace Grade A. However, a shadow may be cast on their convictions by the widespread success of another predicted loser, the vegetable oil butter substitute, margarine.

Down on the dairy farm it is hoped that this is merely one more fad that milk will outlast. The merits of milk and the ways of cows have been pondered from the time Stone Age man domesticated the marsh ox, the National Geographic Society says.

MECHANIZED MOO

Ever since then, in poet Ogden Nash's words, it has always been that:

"The cow is of the bovine ilk:
One end moo, the other milk."

Now an Englishman is the latest inventor trying to rebuild her. His new mechanical cow is all plastic tubing and angle irons, with huge jaws fed by a conveyer belt and a centrifuge for a stomach.

The jaws munch the grass, clover, or waste cabbage leaves, then the centrifuge spin-separates the fiber from the liquid, which is treated with chemicals and electric currents to eliminate mineral discolorations.

This clear, bland juice is fortified with vegetable oils, sugar, and other additives, then is homogenized and pasteurized. One ton of fodder a day makes 180 gallons of "leaf protein milk."

This would far exceed the 1,091-gallon annual production credited last year to each of America's 12,509,000 dairy cows--an average of less than three gallons a day.

CHAMPION OUT-MILKED

A mechanical milk-maker would humiliate even the world's champion milk producer of 1970, a contended holstein named Ballard from Frederic, Md., that produced 4,765 gallons.

services which cost $5,500. This plus another $20,730, resulted in expenditures totaling $1,251,910 last year.

In explaining the budget expenditures, Supt. Robert L. Miller said that last year's budget exceeded budget estimates in the cost of operation, maintenance, fixed costs (insurance) and student services.

Earmarked for instruction is $906,000 compared to $839,324 spent for this purpose last year: A breakdown shows $268,050 for elementary instruction, $137,700, middle school elementary, $135,825, Middle School Secondary and $340,925, secondary or high school. Last year this was categorized only as elementary ($420,150) and secondary, ($138,150)

Special education this year will cost an estimated $25,500 as compared to $20,700 last year.

Other anticipated costs will be $61,300 for administration which last year cost $58,540; $101,400 including $40,000 for salaries, transportation ($61,970); $113,700 including $58,500 for custodial salaries, for operation of the plant ($122,665); $22,000, maintenance of the plant ($34,115); $72,200, fixed costs including $45,000 for insurance, an increase of $11,000 over last year, and $17,150 for payments on the portable units and the auto shop ($55,435) and $30,670, capital outlay ($41,250)

In discussing the budget, Richard Donaldson of the finance committee, recommended that a full-time maintenance ~~man be~~ hired at a cost not to exceed $8,000 and that monies earmarked for the purchase of new buses be decreased by this amount in order to balance the budget. The cost of the bus will then be financed rather than paying cash.

Donaldson then called attention to the fact that although the 1971-72 budget is a record budget, it shows an increase of only 1.28 percent over last year

Larry Warner, chairman of the policy committee, presented to the board for its approval, the first of a number of policies being considered. It related to recommended standards for school bus drivers and substitutes. After reading them, Warner presented them for discussion. Policy GCC relating to character and emotional stability, Policy GCRA relating to physical examinations for bus drivers and substitutes, and Policy GCBA to age, training, knowledge requirements and license requirements for bus drivers and substitutes were approved after one section relating to age was amended to read "not older than 62 years of age except by the approval of a majority vote of the board on a yearly basis." This was added after a minimum age of 21 years was included in the requirements.

A fourth policy, OCD, relating to physical requirements for bus drivers and substitutes, was tabled until the next meeting in order to obtain more information regarding vision requirements.

A portrait of Sp. 4 Richard Plumm, who was killed in action in Vietnam in May, was presented to the board by the officers of the class of 1969 which had commissioned the painting.

Kroger Store to Close

Nov. 6 Will Be Last Day

The Kroger Co. store in Charlevoix will close its doors Nov. 6, according to store manager William Ormsby.

Don Davis, area advertising manager in Grand Rapids, told the Courier Friday that the closing had been discussed but that no decision had been reached.

However, Ormsby says he has been ordered to tell his employes that the last day of business is Saturday, Nov. 6.

He said the move is part of a state-wide effort to consolidate operations that that several such closings are anticipated across the state.

Ormsby said that most of the Charlevoix's store's 10 employes will be absorbed by Kroger's recently expanded store on U.S. 131 in Petoskey.

The closing will mark the end of more than 30 years of Kroger operations in Charlevoix.

The first Kroger store was opened here in the late 1930's in the building presently occupied by Portside Sports and The Clothes Horse on Bridge-st.

The store moved to its present location at the corner of Bridge and Hurlbut-sts. about 15 years ago.

The building was constructed by Wayne Smith of Petoskey who owned it for several years. Smith bought the property from the estate of the late Dr. Robert B. Armstrong, who maintained a home and office on the site.

Ormsby has managed the store for the past six years.

He said he has received a couple of offers of different positions with the Kroger Co.

Students will congregate at the Middle School on Mason-st. at 6:45 p.m. Thursday. The snake dance to the High School will begin at 7 p.m.

Meanwhile at 7, the Queen's court and co-captains will meet at the High School cafeteria with MC Bill Supernaw and Mrs. Jack Grubaugh.

When the students reach the school the Pep Rally begins, including the National Anthem by the High School Band, cheers and remarks by Duane Taylor, speaker.

On Friday at 6:30, floats, the Queen, her court, and cheerleaders will congregate at the Middle School for the street parade through town to Kipke Field.

Clarence Odmark will MC halftime activities, which include selections by the band, the float parade, introduction of 1970 Queen Marcia Brown who will crown the 1971 Queen.

Vets Plan Potluck

Northland Barracks No. 2710 will hold a potluck dinner Oct. 25 at 12:30 p.m. at the First State Bank to commemorate Veterans Day.

All veterans of World War I and their wives are invited. Bring a dish to pass and table service.

$40,850 Sought For Jobs

Charlevoix County applied on Friday for an additional $40,850 in federal funds under the Emergency Employment Act to create new jobs for unemployed persons in local government.

Bill Mercer, director of the County Planning Commission, says he expects approval of the application "sometime this week."

The money is in addition to $106,200 granted local units of government two weeks ago to provide additional jobs. The money will be matched by in-kind contributions of $13,200 by the participating units.

If the new application is approved, in-kind contributions will amount to $4,875.

The additional funds will provide seven jobs, all of which had to be deleted from the original application because there simply wasn't enough money to go around.

The County Road Commission will get two laborers at a monthly wage of $530.84; East Jordan will hire a city secretary at $333.67; Boyne Falls School District Will hire a secretary at $326.67; the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District will hire a secretary at $475; the Twin Valley School District will hire a custodian at $625; and the Northeast Michigan Community Action Program will hire a Head-Start organizer for East Jordan at $346.67.

To be eligible for the newly-created government positions a person must be unemployed for at least seven days. If he is returning to the same unit of government for which he formerly worked, he must be unemployed at least 30 days.

Mercer said that if the application is approved funds will probably be available beginning Nov. 1 for 12 months, with no provision for extension.

Jobs financed under the original grant were also for one year, but there is a good chance the grant will be extended in 1972, Mercer said.

2 Runaways Linked to Car Thefts

A 17-year-old East Jordan youth has been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and is being questioned in the theft of two cars.

The youth and a 14-year-old Charlevoix girl, were returned to Charlevoix Monday from Lake Orion where they were located at the home of a relative.

Police suspect the runaways are connected with the theft of a 1963 Ford owned by Arlene J. Bills of Howard City from the Archway Motel Friday night and the theft of a VW owned by Ralph Richardson Saturday morning. The Ford was discovered in a ditch in Eveline Township near Richardson's home. The VW was recovered north of Flint.

Chest Reports Collections

Tom LaBlance reports that Community Chest collections to date total $7,000 with two weeks to go in the drive.

Goal in the drive is $22,000 which will be disbursed to 13 local and county organizations, 18 state agencies and 18 national agencies.

Solicitors are urged to make their calls promptly and to report to their captains.

AN UNUSUAL nursery school program, financed by federal Title I money, is underway at the Charlevoix Elementary School. Eleven youngsters, aged 3½ to 4, from economically deprived families, are enrolled in the program which is designed to improve their motor skills and make them feel at ease in the classroom. The youngsters are bused to school in the morning and participate in the free lunch program before returning home shortly after noon. Field trips, including eating out at a restaurant and a train ride, are part of the program. The teacher is Mrs Pat Sherman (center), assisted by Mrs. Gloria Webster

Indian Foundation Seeks Funds for Legal Aid

More than two dozen Charlevoix area Indians and other interested townspeople turned out at the First State Bank hospitality room Saturday night for a meeting of the Indians of North America Foundation.

The Foundation was organized last year in Detroit to protect Indian rights and to raise money to defend Indians in court.

Jerry Sheppard of Oden, a trustee, moderated the meeting which included a discussion of aims and how to achieve them.

In addition to legal aid, the group also is interested in Indian health and welfare and hunting and fishing rights.

One of the immediate aims of the foundation is to raise money to test the hunting and fishing rights of non-reservation Indians.

Sheppard said an Indian from the Bay Mills Reservation in the Upper Peninsula has been arrested for violation of fishing laws, but that the outcome of that case will apply only to reservation Indians.

A member of the audience who identified himself only as "Danny" volunteered to be arrested in violation of fishing laws as a non-reservation Indian, but Sheppard cautioned him not to become embroiled with the law until funds are available to defend him.

Sheppard said that one of the major problems is the treatment of Indians by law enforcement officials. He charged that Indians are not treated the same as whites, adding that Indians who run afoul of the law often have their children taken away from them.

"Let's make sure the welfare office doesn't get its hands on one more Indian baby," he said.

He suggested a set-up whereby Indian children would be cared for by other Indian families while their parents straighten out their problems.

Willard Lambert sr. of Tower explained how the Foundation was started in Detroit 18 months ago after Indians in the area realized that they were being by-passed by apprentice training programs.

The Foundation presently is working closely with trade unions and management to secure more opportunities for Indians, with financial assistance from the federal government.

Vic Kishigo of Petoskey, who was invited to the meeting by Foundation officers, said underprivileged Indians in the area could use a source of legal aid. He pointed out that in many instances, Indians can't even afford the cost of a divorce.

The proposed Woodland Indian National Memorial south of Charlevoix also came up for discussion. Most members expressed dissatisfaction that they were not consulted about the project but they agreed not to take a stand on the issue until more information is available at a public meeting.

Mrs. Rosalie Ottinger of Clipperview, leader of a group fighting the project, told of a recent visit to the Sleeping Bear Dune area, which is in the process of becoming a national monument.

She said the entire area has had a cloud of economic depression for 10 years

Record Crowd At Inn

Some 134 northern Michigan clubwomen filled the Weathervane Inn's main dining room to capacity last Tuesday night for the annual convention banquet of the Northwestern District of the Michigan State Federation of Women's Club.

Weathervane Manager Dick Aull said it was the largest gathering ever to be accommodated for dinner at one time at the picturesque restaurant on Pine River Channel.

The banquet and style show were the highpoints of the three day convention, which was held at the First Congregational Church, the First State Bank community room and the Weathervane.

Among the resolutions adopted by the delegates was one protesting that improvements to the state capitol are being made on a cost-plus basis. The members believe such work should be put up for bids.

The organization also went on record as recognizing the need for more office space in Lansing for state officials, but they hope the present state capitol can be preserved.

The group also heard a report on the success of Girls Town for disturbed girls near Belleville and accepted an invitation to hold the 1972 convention in Muskegon.

High point of a luncheon at the Congregational Church on Wednesday was a number of songs from the 1920's sung by Mrs. Robert Tollas, Mrs. Wayne Beitel, Mrs. Charles Duerr, Mrs. Robert Martin, Mrs. Jerrald Redeker, Mrs. Tom Duke, Mrs. E.D. Hawley, Mrs. Robert Klooster, Mrs. Mildred Webster and Mrs. Edward Lewand. Accompanying them on the piano was Mrs. Robert Wexstaff. They choose the 20's because the federation is celebrating its 50th anniversary

Mrs. Martin Promoted by First State

Mrs. Elaine Martin has been appointed assistant cashier and an officer of the First State Bank, President Jerrald Redeker announced Monday.

Mrs. Martin, who has been with the bank 21 years with one break in her service, formerly was executive assistant.

The position of assistant cashier has been vacant since the promotion of Mrs. Maurice Dixon to the position of cashier several years ago.

Mrs. Martin's promotion was acted upon at a meeting of the board of directors Saturday.

7 Towns Send Reps To Legion Round-Up

By BETH GENEIT

The Lower 11th District of the American Legion Auxiliaries met at the local Post Home on Sunday, Oct. 10, for the Annual Fall Round-Up.

A potluck dinner was served at one o'clock. Seven Units were represented, including Charlevoix, Bellaire, East Jordan, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Wolverine and Ellsworth.

The theme for 1972 will be 'Showing More Patriotism'.

All members were urged to turn in their Betty Crocker coupons prior to the expiration date, Nov. 15. Each Unit is to furnish one book of trading stamps to be used for play equipment for the Retarded Children's Home at Fort Custer. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Furgeson

Furgesons to Mark 60th Anniversary

On Oct. 19, 1961, the Courier ran a story on how the Grant Furgesons of Hayes Township would be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at the 4-H Center in Petoskey.

A full decade later, the Courier is running virtually the same story — only the dates and ages are changed. The cast remains the same.

For on Sunday, Oct. 31, the same Grant Furgesons — pioneer residents of Hayes Township — will celebrate their 60th wedding an-

Mr. and Mrs. Furgeson were married in Charlevoix Oct. 31, 1911, and have been residents of Hayes Township ever since.

Furgeson, 86, was born in the township July 31, 1885, and has lived there all his life, except for several spent in the Upper Peninsula when he was a young man.

Mrs. Furgeson, 82, the former Leah Plante, was born at Garden, Mich., Aug. 17, 1889, and moved to the Charlevoix area as a young woman.

Ten years ago, Furgeson was still doing some farming; today he is virtually retired, although he still likes to work around the yard, according to his daughter, Mrs. Floyd (Viora) Baker of Charlevoix.

He served as a member of the Murray School Board for 38 years and was a former township road commissioner.

Hosting the open house with Mrs. Baker will be the rest of the Furgesons' children: Mrs. Harold (Dorothy) Finney of Rouge River, Ore., Mrs. Lawrence (Marie) Burkle of Petoskey; Leonard and LeRoy Furgeson of Petoskey; and Grant Furgeson jr., of Charlevoix.

The Furgesons have 16 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Governor Declares Vets' Day

Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Monday, Oct. 25, 1971, as Veterans Day in Michigan.

The proclamation reads: "Since the birth of our nation, Americans have served their country in uniform, thousands have sacrificed their lives in hope that one day their children will be able to live in a world free of greed, hate, and war."

"As Lincoln spoke more than one hundred years ago, we should 'highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain – that this nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom' ".

"This year, Veterans Day will be observed October 25. This is a day for all Americans to offer thanks to our veterans and to those who are in service whose personal sacrifices have, over the years, helped to preserve our heritage and freedom of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

"We can never repay our debt to these devoted people, for it is beyond price, but we can show our gratitude for their sacrifices they have made to protect their nation's liberties and to bring about a universal peace and brotherhood."

"Therefore, I, William G. Milliken, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby proclaim Monday; October 25, 1971, as in Michigan, and urge citizens to remember the sacrifices and contributions of all those men and women who have and are serving our nation."

Toledo War Is Subject Of New Book

There is no Toledo, Mich., except in the title of a new book just published: "The Rise and Fall of Toledo, Michigan...The Toledo War!"

The book published by the Michigan Historical Commission, was written by Sister Mary Karl George, president of Mercy College, Detroit.

Wars can be brutal, but this was not the case in the conflict of 1835. A wounded mule, garden theft, and soiled uniforms were the most serious casualties of the war, and for several months the threats of invading hordes from Ohio (and Michigan) held the border communities in suspense.

Although seemingly a series of comic events, the Toledo War led to significant boundary conclusions that are still unsettled. The Toledo Strip, that rich corner of northwestern Ohio, was awarded to Ohio, and for compensation the young Territory of Michigan had to settle for a huge slice of the Upper Peninsula, referred to by many as North America's icebox. Still to be settled is ownership of the submerged lands of Lake Erie near Toledo, known to contain valuable oil and mineral deposits.

This 84-page book has many useful maps, plus illustrations of the famous "Boy Governor" Stevens T. Mason, the Ohio turncoat-patriot Two Stickney, and many others.

The "Rise and Fall" sells for $1.50 and is available from the History Division, Department of State, Lansing 48918.

To Celebrate 50th At Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. R.T. Davis will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at an openhouse to be held at the Fellowship room of the First Baptist Church from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Hosting the event to which relatives and friends are invited will be their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack (Patricia) Houghtaling of Addison and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Davis of Williamston. Their five grandchildren will also be present.

Davis and the former Ruby Gleason were married at Harbor Springs Dec. 24, 1921. They lived in Petoskey where she was employed as a secretary by the late Frank L. Keating, an attorney.

In 1926, they moved to Charlevoix. Davis became superintendent of the Charlevoix, County Road Commission, a position he held for 19 years. In 1950 they moved to Tecumseh where he was in the construction business and she was employed in the city office. They returned here in 1960 to make their home on M-66 south of the city.

Mrs. Davis was born in Harbor Springs April 28, 1902 and following graduation from the Harbor Springs High School taught in a rural school for three years prior to her marriage. Davis was born in Pontiac June 11, 1899, and came to Emmet County as a child. He was employed by the Emmet County Road Commission before coming to Charlevoix.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Davis have been members of the First Baptist Church in Charlevoix for 40 years. He is a former deacon, trustee and usher. Mrs. Davis is presently serving as a trustee.

When the Davis' were married, they took her brother, Clare, then four years old, and her sister, Doris, eight, to live with them following the death of their mother. They continued to live with them until their graduations from the Charlevoix High School.

Two World-Record Coho Miss Chance at Title

Some of Michigan's coho fishermen have been "blowing it" lately when it comes to gaining world fame for themselves and this state's class of salmon catches.

That's the way Michigan's fisheries chief Wayne H. Tody puts it, and he's hoping that this state's sportfishing bid for a world record coho will stop being thwarted by recent "might-have-beens."

Apparently, the problem stems from the fact that Lake Michigan's coho are growing bigger than the average angler can believe.

In recent days, two of this state's anglers caught coho which topped the world mark of 31 pounds. However, they ended up as mere pretenders to the world's crown because they mistook their fish for being chinook.

By the time the fishermen found out the truth, their fish had been dressed out. In being cleaned, the coho lost the weight edge which would have made either one of them a new world champion. Before being dressed out, one of the fish weighed 35 pounds, the other 31½ pounds.

Things like that have Tody wringing his hands these days because he believes Michigan's coho fishing is in a class by itself and he wants a world record from this state to make his point official.

He observes:

"This state has only one shot at a world's record and that's from our coho fishing. From a prestige standpoint, capturing the world title for coho carries an international luster, something like winning the British Open in golf. It's a championship feat of world-wide proportions, and holds a super-star status among sportsfishermen."

In view of the pitfall which kept those two Michigan fishermen from gaining such greatness, Tody urges anglers to get proper identification of their trophy fish.

He suggests that they seek out charter boat operators or DNR fisheries men for expert identification of fish. Once that detail is checked out, anglers should have their whopping-size coho officially weighed on registered scales.

As Tody explained recently, such weigh-ins must be witnessed by two other people, who are required to sign an affidavit attesting to that fact. Anglers with coho in the world championship class should keep their fish available for display and save a 10-yard sample of their line so their trophies will be eligible for entry into Field and Stream records.

2 From Area Meeting With Task Force

Bill Mercer, director of the Charlevoix County Planning Department, and Walter Thorsen of East Jordan, chairman of the County Planning Commission, plan to attend a meeting of the Woodland Indian National Memorial task force in Lansing Wednesday, Oct. 20.

One purpose of the meeting is the setting of a date for a public information meeting on the proposed 8,000-acre Indian Memorial park south of Charlevoix.

Several residents of the area are fearful that they will be evicted from their homes and property if the park materializes and have organized a group known as the Concerned Citizens of Charlevoix County asking that the project be held in abeyance until they learn more about it.

Basic Over For Dan Ford

Army Pvt. Daniel A. Ford, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Ford, Route 1, Ellsworth, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U.S. Army Training Center, Armor, at Ft. Knox, Ky.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Lakers Must Obey Anti-Pollution Law

Federal District Court judges have counteracted the latest attempt of the Lake Carriers Association to exempt Great Lakes commercial vessels from Michigan's Watercraft Pollution Control Law, through a Sept. 15 denial to reinstate a restraining order against enforcement of that law.

The order would have prevented the Michigan Water Resources Commission from implementing the 1970 law provisions relating to commercial vessels. The Michigan law requires no-discharge sewage facilities board the ships.

"A three-man panel of jurists stated in its opinion that there was no evidence that 'immediate irreparable damage would be incurred by the carriers by the law's provisions. Water Resources Commission officials have expressed willingness to work with the carriers to develop a program for waste-holding equipment installation during the coming months. The carriers also have appealed their protest of the law to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Commission's chief engineer, Francis Frost, said the Commission and staff are pleased with the September 15 decision.

"This reinforces our hope that if this case is heard by the Supreme Court, a favorable decision will be handed down by that body," said Frost.

Some Great Lakes ships and foreign vessels do plan to comply with the law through installation of required sewage facilities, Frost said. Most recreational boat owners have cooperated with the Commission in similar installation of holding tanks or incinerating devices.

Northmen Slaughter Rayders

It's Gaylord Next For Homecoming

If you missed the first half and the last 30 seconds of the Charlevoix-Petoskey game Friday night, you would come to the conclusion that the 1971 Rayders are a pretty fair ball club.

They scored once, passing was fair and they put up a good defense.

But if you watched the Northmen rack up four TD's in the first half and then pull off two more fast tallies in the last 27 seconds, that makes it a different story. Which it was, 42 to 6.

Randy Woods was forced into the quarterback slot at the last minute when regular QB Tim Carey suffered a back injury. It was Woods' first turn at the helm and he did a creditable job, but more experience would have helped. Jon Jones' sprained ankle also hobbled the Rayders.

Charlevoix's lone TD came in the third period, culminating a 64-yard drive in 11 plays. Woods plunged the ball across from the one-yard line, but the conversion was lost.

Petoskey's first half TD's were scored by Chuck Cole, Mike Davies and Gary Urman, who scored twice. In the final seconds, a 60 yard pass from replacement QB Dave Kalchik to replacement end Dan Maxwell netted six points. Then, on the kick off, a lateral pass by Charlevoix was knocked into the endzone by Mark Foltz and Kalchik fell on the ball. The two TD's took place in 10 seconds.

This Friday, Charlevoix meets Gaylord at Kipke field for the annual Homecoming game.

Independent Cage Practice Starts Oct. 21

Independent Basketball League practice will begin Thursday, Oct. 21, from 7 until 10 p.m. at the Middle School gymnasium, according to program co-ordinator Sam Supernaw.

Supernaw says he expects to have from eight to 10 teams in the league this year.

He added that because of demands on the high school gymnasium, the league is moving to the Middle School this season.

Regular league play will begin in late November.

Supernaw says eagers who played last year should bring their uniforms to the first session, unless they have already been turned in.

The organizational meeting will be held at the first practice session and anyone expecting to play this season should try to be on hand.

Phone Plight Told

Kenneth T. Harrold, manager of Michigan Bell in Petoskey, took his case for higher telephone rates to the public on Oct. 8.

Harrold invited 75 community leaders from throughout the area to a luncheon at Stafford's Bay View Inn to tell them why Michigan Bell must be permitted by the Public Service Commission to increase its profit margin to attract new capital for improvements.

He said at present Michigan Bell is permitted profits of only 7.95 percent and that the firm's earnings per share have dropped for the past five years.

Warren Alexander, Michigan Bell's Northern Area Manager, said the firm would like to aim for profits of 9.3 percent, which would result in earnings per share of $5.40.

"Good communication is what we'll always have to sell, but we must pay investors a reasonable rate of return," he said.

Last year, the company asked the PSC for permission to generate $50 million in new funds, but was only given permission for a $14.8 million increase.

Maple Syrup Sweetens Youth Fund

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Youth Foundation had a fund balance of $15,241 at the closing of the club's 1971 books on Sept. 30, according to Secretary-Treasurer Ralph Hamilton.

Funds for the Youth Foundation are derived chiefly from the sale of maple syrup from Charlevoix trees.

The club entered the year with a balance on hand of $1,252.62 and earned $3,175.45 on syrup sales. Interest on certificates of deposit and memorials brought the total to $4,780.57.

Operating expenses totaled $1,573.58 and donations to camps and other youth activities totaled $1,725.66, for a checking account balance of $1,481.23.

However, the fund has $5,000 in certificates of deposit, $1,402.90 in inventory and $500 in supplies, bringing current assets to $8,384.13. Fixed assets, including the sugar shack and equipment, come to $6,856.89, for a total of $15,241.02.

Hamilton says the $5,000 in certificates of deposit is the nucleus of the swimming pool project.

Charlevoix was first to score with Randy Faust completing a 22-yard pass to Dan Austin. The Rayders were successful with the conversion point.

Commercial Foods New Vo-Ed Course

A new vocational course offered this year at Charlevoix High School is Commercial Foods. Mrs. Clarence Odmark and Mrs. Meadows are working together as advisors for the class. According to Mrs. Meadows, the primary goal is to teach students how to prepare food in large quantities, how to make menus and order food and how to maintain a food budget.

At present the class is in charge of school lunches at the high school. The entire program is ala carte. Such things as pizza, fishburgers, salads and chili have been made by the class. The have also begun selling ice cream again. The class hopes to purchase a french fryer soon in order to broaden their menus.

The class is also in charge of refreshments for special affairs held at the high school.

It is hoped that the program will become self-supporting and that it will entice students to stay at school for lunch. So far it seems to be working. Student reaction seems to be generally favorable.

When asked about the new course Mrs. Odmark said that she felt it was very interesting and worthwhile and she hopes it can be broadened in future years.

Algebra More Than Theory

By LAURA STAUBLIN

Who said algebra I was a theoretical math course? No one in Mrs. Max Novak's Algebra I classes certainly because the students are putting theory into practice.

In the yard in front of the high school, an acre has been staked off by Nancy Berg and Janet Boss. This acre has been measured to be 4 rods wide and 40 rods long.

Jim Donaldson, from the third hour algebra class, found the number of cubic feet of air for each of the 27 students. He multiplied the length, width and height of the room, then divided by 27. The answer turned out to be approximately 272 cubic feet of air for each person.

Charlevoix Could Use A Year-'Round Theater

Ever since the tourists left, there has been a little sign posted under the marques of Charlevoix's Palace Theater announcing "We Are on Vacation." The theater is closed and there is no indication when it will reopen.

Last year, the Palace closed in the fall and didn't reopen until late spring.

All of which means that Charlevoix is a town without a movie theater for nine months out of the year. And a town without a movie theater is certainly a dismal place to spend the winter.

From the standpoint of entertainment, the city was better off a half-century ago when the Lewis Grand Opera House brought an occasional stage show or musical review to town from time to time.

Are movies that important?

We think so, particularly in a town like Charlevoix where the winters are long and severe and where — to be honest about it — there isn't a great deal for either youngsters or adults to do on a long winter evening.

Being without a theater also could be having an adverse affect on our off-season tourist business, because even travelers don't want to spend all their time in motel rooms, poring over roadmaps to find the fastest route out of town.

In fact, we think it would give the whole community a shot-in-the-arm if we had a theater in business year-'round.

The restaurant trade certainly would pick up because of out-of-towners coming to Charlevoix "for dinner and a show."

Grocery and other retail stores would benefit from the increased traffic, particularly on Friday nights, which so many people set aside for shopping and entertainment.

As it now stands, Charlevoixans are going to Petoskey, Boyne City and Bellaire to the movies — and while they are there they are patronizing not just the theaters but other businesses as well.

What is the solution?

We'll pass that one to the Chamber of Commerce.

Perhaps the Lions Club of the Kiwanis Club would like to go into the theater business a few nights a week as a fund-raising project.

Maybe the schools could help.

Unless the Palace reopens soon, it is going to be another long, dreary winter for senior citizens who don't drive, for youngsters who don't have cars and for all other townspeople who would prefer to stay in Charlevoix for their movie entertainment, if any were available.

Kids 18 Can Sue, Bet And Drink After Dec. 31

One of the most significant accomplishments of the 1971 Michigan legislative session was the Age of Majority Act of 1971, according to Attorney General Frank Kelley. The Act is scheduled to take effect on Jan. 1, 1972.

In the broadest terms, the Act provides that persons at least 18 years of age shall have the same legal rights and duties as persons 21 years of age or older. It supercedes all state statutes which provide otherwise.

Among the many changes which the new law will effect in the status of 18-year-olds, the following are notable:

Such persons may sue or be sued on their own behalf, without the appointment of a special guardian.

The earnings of unmarried persons of age 18 or older are no longer subject to parental control, nor are such persons entitled to support from their parents.

Persons over 18 years of age may purchase and be served alcoholic beverages, and may frequent places where such beverages are served.

Such persons may place bets at pari mutuel windows, and may be licensed to operate poolrooms, bowling alleys and dance halls.

If injured in the course of employment, they may apply for workman's compensation benefits. If otherwise eligible, they may apply for welfare benefits.

Such persons may be licensed to carry a concealed weapon, if otherwise qualified. (It is extremely difficult to qualify for a concealed weapons permit.)

The Michigan Age of Majority Act should not be confused with the 26th Amendment to the United States Constitution, which became effective on June 30, 1971. That Amendment conferred upon persons at least 18 years of age the right to vote in all federal, state, and local elections.

Since stage law provides that registered voters may serve on juries, persons 18 years of age are now eligible to serve on juries in Michigan.

The Age of Majority Act, in short, will make all Michigan residents who are at least 18 years of age full-fledged legal adults.

Struggle Continues To End War

To the Editor:

Neither Common Cause nor many members of Congress have given up in the battle for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam. The one-man presidential ticket there has damaged the U.S. position. Rep. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts, a veteran Republican leader said recently:

"American for 10 years now has spent its blood and much of its spirit in Vietnam for, we were told, the right of the South Vietnamese to self-determination. Our effort and the suffering of Americans and Vietnamese alike certainly deserve a better reward than the farce of the one-man election campaign now just past there." He goes on...

"This is merely the latest of many compelling reasons why we much end the involvement in that worthless war now."

Speaking for retention of the Mansfield Amendment that called for withdrawal within nine months, Sen. Adlai Stevenson (D-Ill.), an effective new member of the Senate, said:

"Far from aiding the South Vietnamese aspiration for self-determination, our military presence there has become tragically and ironically the greatest single obstacle to a free government for the South Vietnamese people. Their election process has been corrupted by the power of President Thieu. He derived this power from the United States."

Think about a timetable on withdrawal from Vietnam.

Write Honorable Phil Ruppe (509 Cannon House Office Building, Washington D.C. 20515) asking him to vote for any bill that will set this timetable, hopefully by Dec. 31, 1971.

High Praise For Staff At Hospital

October 11, 1971

Charlevoix Courier Corp.
111 Bridge
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Gentlemen:

My wife and I as well as her mother and father wish to compliment the Charlevoix Hospital in its entirely.

While being admitted very thoroughly and courteously with my answering the necessary questions, the proficiency of the hospital was already being displayed. Efficient nursing and laboratory staff members were already functioning in a most impressive manner. Before I had finished admitting the patient, he was tucked in bed and obviously a more relaxed man for this immediate, extraordinary attention.

The doctor we called for my wife's father was really off duty but he arrived at the hospital immediately after our request. Although this all started to take place on a recent Friday evening when one might suspect fewer persons at hand to help, we had some preliminary lab results within thirty minutes of our arrival.

After the following week of treatment and tests, my father-in-law was released to return to Grand Rapids, a much healthier, happier person.

His Charlevoix doctor forwarded his X-Rays and a full report of the case to the Grand Rapids specialist. Having known and treated this patient for many years, the Grand Rapids doctor could no nothing but offer praise for the handling of my wife's father in Charlevoix. This also includes the stringent, detailed diet given to him to follow hereafter. Not one change was made in this but again only complimented by his Grand Rapids specialist.

The many kindnesses and courtesies given to this eighty-year old man by all of those with whom he had contact in the Charlevoix Hospital could not be more greatly appreciated.

Respectfully,
Carl Johnson, Jr.

Alaska Sable

The Alaska Sable is on the increase in the Charlevoix area, so drive carefully, keep your pets in at night and hold your noses.

Alaska Sable, of course, is a fur industry euphemism for that miserable little critter, the skunk, which certainly does seem to be proliferating in Charlevoix and environs.

If you have a chance to do much night driving, you'll see two or three at least hobbling across the highway in front of you. You'll also see that many or more dead on the road, the victims of hit run drivers.

Even if you don't see them, you know when they're around, thanks to a powerful secretion from their perineal glands which they release when they are startled. And apparently nothing startles a skunk more than being hit by a Mack truck.

A few years ago, skunks became a real problem in Charlevoix. They were regular frequenters of our downtown streets after dark. One night, when the Courier office was still on Clinton-st., I encountered one of them on the front stoop. I beat a hasty retreat down to the County Bank and cooled my heels for 10 minutes until he decided to move on.

About the same time, a rabid skunk surprised a farm wife in Norwood Township one morning and chased her into a shed. She slammed the door behind her, but the mean little critter tried to dig a hole under the door to get in.

Before it was over, the skunk had attacked two farm dogs and had fought with a cow and a calf, all of which had to be destroyed.

During the last skunk infestation, Conservation Officer Harley Burris of Boyne City came to Charlevoix's rescue, setting dozens of skunk traps all over town. When he captured one of the animals, he put it in the trunk of his car, cage and all, drove out to Bells Bay, released it and plunked a bullet through its head to make sure it didn't come back.

But the DNR said such activities were not in Burris' line of duties, so I don't know who is going to come to our rescue this time.

There is one animal living in the 200 block of Dixon-ave. who pays the Clocks a visit every other night or so. He also pays his respects on Fran Martin on Nicholls-st. No one has seen him yet that I know of, but you know when he's around, even if you have a bad head cold.

Fortunately, not all encounters with skunks turn out badly. I remember a story told by a friend of the family, a Mr. Murphy, when I was a boy. He was driving on a country road in Oakland County en route to an important business meeting when he encountered a mother skunk and several babies attempting to cross the road. The skunk took one youngster at a time and carefully nudged it with her nose from one shoulder to the other.

Our friend, of course, stopped his car to watch the procession. But it took an awful long time, and he soon realized that he would be late for his engagement unless he could speed things up a little. So while the mama skunk was trundling one youngster across the road, he left his car, walked over to the shoulder, gingerly picked up the remaining members of the brood in both hands and followed her. When he set the squirming baby skunks down next to their mother, she just looked up at him with a warm "thank you" look in her brown eyes.

There wasn't a trace of skunk odor and no one at the business meeting was aware that Mr. Murphy had been playing nursemaid to a family of polecats only a few minutes before.

According to your source book, skunks are either carnivorous or omniverous, the later meaning that they'll eat anything that comes down the pike. And they are particularly fond of bees. That's right, bees. Not honey.

A neighbor of ours back in Southfield kept several hives of bees in his backyard in hopes they would pollinate his fruit trees. But every warm summer evening the hives would be attacked by skunks who wanted to get at the bees. So our neighbor bought some skunk traps and every night about 11 p.m. would catch one of the little beasts, which would retaliate by releasing enough musk to make eyes water and stomachs turn for a quarter mile in all directions.

Finally, to keep peace with his neighbors, the beekeeper sold his hives and everyone breathed easier.

A woman called the constable's office one day to report that a skunk had gotten into her basement and she wanted to know how to get him out. The constable advised that she leave the cellar door open and deposit a trail of bread crumbs leading from the basement outside.

The next day the woman was back on the horn:

"Now I've got TWO skunks in my basement," she complained frantically to the constable.

Archie Sits Strangely

By JIM FITZGERALD

You might be impressed to learn that my family discussed The Last Supper at the dinner table the other evening. Real religious, huh?

Not really. Save your awe. The main subject of our conversation was actually Archie Bunker's TV show, All in the Family. The Last Supper just kind of slipped in at the end, unexpectedly, between I Love Lucy and Efrem Zimbalist jr.

Obviously the discussion was not as religious as it was intellectual.

All in the Family is supposed to be more than just another situation comedy in the awful mold of Bachelor Father and I Led Three Sons, or whatever that lousy thing is. Archie Bunker is the friendly neighborhood bigot. He is continually knocking the Jews and the niggers and the spics and the polacks and the wops. Fred MacMurray would never do anything like that.

Archie is wrong, of course, but he's also pretty funny. And the show is supposed to contain some worthwhile "social commentary". The idea is that you, the viewer, see a lot of yourself in Archie. And when you see what a jerk Archie is, you solemnly resolve to go forth and bigot no more.

Which is a noble concept. Although I wonder if Archie isn't maybe a hero to a lot of viewers, sort of a George Wallace in hard hat. Some people couldn't see bigotry in themselves if they looked in the mirror and saw Lester Maddox.

But I always did worry too much. Back to the important things...

I told my family the Bunker show is the same as every other situation comedy in one vital aspect. It lacks reality. The Bunker family crowd around the same side of the dinner table, just like Lucy's family, the Beverly Hillbillies and Mary, Tyler and Moore. This is artificial. If all four members of my family jammed together on the table north side of the kitchen table, leaving the south side vacant, a passing stranger would think we were either nuts or perverts.

My family naturally urged their Wise Old Dad to reveal why the TV people arrange their seating so peculiarly.

"So they can all face the camera," I explained.

"They all sat on one side of the table at The Last Supper," my son said. "What channel was that on?"

I ignored this Christian aside and pointed out another example of strange sitting on TV. When two men are in the front seat of a car, the passenger always sits smack up against the driver. Even if they both work for the FBI and drive Ford's widest idea, they still sit so cozy it's a miracle if their neighbors aren't talking.

"It's the only way they can both get their heads on a 21-inch screen at the same time," I exclaimed with modest pride at my perceptiveness.

It was at this fascinating point in the conversation that my family insisted on swinging the conversation away from show biz. They are jealous of my superior knowledge in this field.

My wife had recently made her modeling debut in an underground style show. Photos of the event were passed around the table and she said she hadn't realized what a deep dimple she had in her chin.

"It's handy for carrying nickels for the parking meter," I said.

"I carry them in my navel," she said.

"Oh, that's where I carry lint," I said. "But only during the 40 days before Easter."

Onward and Upward.

Mrs. Bergmann Defends Wolgamott as Bus Driver

(The following letter was sent by Mrs. Robert (Lillian F.) Bergmaan, former Charlevoix County juvenile officer, to Mrs. Robert Lieberman, a member of the Charlevoix Board of Education, relative to the Gordon Wolgamott, a school bus driver who has a visual disability in one eye.)

October 11, 1971
Charlevoix, Michigan

Mrs. Robert Lieberman
Charlevoix School Board Member
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Mrs. Lieberman,

It has come to my attention that an unjust attack has been launched against Mr. Gordon Wolgamott, Charlevoix school bus driver.

Although it is certainly true that Mr. Wolgamott does have some visual impairment, it is also true that he has been licensed by the State of Michigan Secretary of State's Office in Lansing for the past 17 years, more or less, as a chauffeur, to drive on our public highways. He also has nine years of experience driving school bus, three years in Antrim County, and six years in Charlevoix County, without incident.

It is unfortunate that the information taken from a school board minutes report was taken out of context, but this does happen, and I feel it is the responsibility of the Board to correct the error.

Mr. Wolgamott has given excellent service to the children on his bus route. He lives in Hayes township and has been responsible for transporting many of the Court children placed in my care, for the past six years. I feel that I personally was very much interested in the well being of my Court Wards, and, even tho' I was aware of Mr. Wolgamott's disability, (Learned when he was given a physical to qualify for a Foster Parent License, which is now in effect), I felt perfectly comfortable to have my children in his care.

It is inconceivable to me that you will not be deluged with supportive letters demanding that this person remain on his job. With a six year record of exemplary service he will be difficult to replace.

It must also be mentioned how important it is for a bus driver to have full control of his children while transporting them to their destination; Mr. Wolgamott has no discipline problems which indicate that the children respect him. He also is not a drinking man.

Before closing, I wish to establish that I appreciate the difficulty of the Board. I wish, in no way, to criticize your judgement and realize how serious a situation it would be if you do permit Mr. Wolgamott to remain and an accident ensues. However, I still feel his past performance speaks for itself. He has the same visual problem he had six years ago when he was passed by local Doctor's. He has been passed each year since then, by local Doctor's to drive school buses and transport our children.

As a person who has worked with the handicapped for the past fifteen years, I have found that if you want an above average job done, hire someone that has overcome a physical disability, they view each day as a new one, and never take anything for granted.

Sincerely,
Lillian F. Bergmann

Throaty Theater Organs Are Making a Comeback

After decades of disuse, theater organs are enjoying a modest comeback.

A combination of nostalgia, the proliferation of film clubs screening silent epics, and the efforts of a band of organ enthusiasts is giving the Mighty Wurlitzers a new lease on life.

At film revivals and concerts, audiences again can hear the thunderous chords and light glissandos that thrilled earlier generations of moviegoers.

WIDE RANGE OF EFFECTS

Before Hollywood learned how to put sound on film, pianos were used to accompany the action on silent screens. The pianos soon were replaced by organs because the larger instruments offered a wider range of effects.

In the 1920's some 6,500 organs were enthroned in movie palaces across the United States, the National Geographic Society says. Every major theater in the country had an organist on its payroll.

With fingers flying over two to four keyboards and hundreds of stops, while their feet skipped nimbly across rows of wooden pedals, the versatile musicians were as quick-witted as they were agile.

TEARS FLOWED

Improvising musical "bridges" between scenes, they kept pace with the stories' changing moods. Dolorous passages helped tears flow as the heroine was turned out into the snow by an angry parent or unscrupulous landlord.

Waltzes and ballads accompanied scenes of love and courtship. A single, piercing chord registered shock or surprise, and for the inevitable movie chase the organ shifted to allegro fortissimo.

"People didn't consciously hear the organ in silent-film days," Richard C. Simonton, founder of the American Association of Theater Organ Enthusiasts, once commented. "When it was done right, they were engrossed in the movie and oblivious to the music."

SOME WON ACCOLADES

But playing during intermissions and for vaudeville acts as well as during the films, some organists and their instruments gained national renown.

Foremost were Helen and Jesse Crawford, at the Paramount Theater in New York City. His organ rendition of "Valencia" in 1926 was the first solo instrumental record to sell a million copies.

"Trained nurses will be on hand to assist those who are overcome by the sheer magnitude of sound produced when the Sousa band is joined by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Crawford at the twin consoles of the Mighty Wurlitzer for the grand finale of the 'Stars and Stripes Forever,'" proclaimed a Paramount ad in 1927.

ORGANS MUTED

The advent of talking pictures rendered the organs mute. By 1935 they were walled in or cemented over as theaters were remodeled.

A few hundred survive. Many, slated for scrap as old buildings were demolished, were saved at the last moment in true silent-screen tradition by organ buffs rushing in with their checkbooks.

Some peal vibrantly at showings of vintage epics such as "Wings," and "The Mark of Zorro." A Philadelphian rescued a theater organ and assembled it in his supply warehouse to entertain workmen at lunchtime. Others crowd private homes, though one owner admitted:

"When I play it, the organ shakes my heating ducts loose."

Legal Aid

Mike Mitchell asked her if she opposed the proposed memorial on behalf of the Indians or herself.

"Let's be honest," she said. "I'm in it for Rosalie Ottinger."

In other business, officers revealed that the Foundation is investigating a claim that the federal government has never paid Indians for Beaver Island or North and South Fox Islands.

Other local Indians expressed concern that older Indians are dying without ever receiving government reparations for their land.

INDIANS from the Charlevoix area turned out Saturday night to hear an explanation of the goals of the North America Indian Foundation, established last year in Detroit. The Foundation is attempting to unite Michigan Indians in an effort to raise money for legal fees to safeguard Indian rights. The meeting was held at the First State Bank.

Candles, Oil Lamps Popular on N. Side

Coal oil lamps and candles were among the most sought-after items on Charlevoix's North Side on two occasions last week.

Tuesday night, North Side residents, at least those who were still up, were plunged into darkness at 1:22 a.m. when a car driven by Mark Hizelberger, 18, of Walled Lake struck a utility pole at the corner of Petoskey-ave. and Burns-st. The pole didn't snap, but the impact was strong enough to break electric lines.

Hizelberger and a passenger, Kathy Grove, 17, also of Walled Lake suffered minor injuries. Power was off for about one hour.

Wednesday evening about 6:20, darkness descended again when one phase of the city's three-phase circuit went out.

The outage affected the entire North Side, in addition to the Belvedere Club, Pine Point, the Mt. McSauba area and portions of Ferry-ave. and Eaton-ave.

The trouble was finally located in a connecting mechanism at the corner of Dixon-ave. and Chicago-ave. Power was restored after about two hours and 15 minutes, although current was shut off again briefly Thursday morning while repairs were made, according to City Superintendent Thomas Hanna.

During the evening blackout, Hanna's wife, Ann, was beseiged by telephone calls from North Side residents wondering what had happened to the power.

One frantic hostess called to say she had a half-cooked roast in her electric range and a house full of supper guests who were getting drunk because there was nothing to eat.

"If the power doesn't go on soon, I'm going to have to go down to Edwards and buy another bottle of whiskey," she complained to Mrs. Hanna.

BOY SCOUTS of Troop 11 look advantage of sunny October weather recently by holding a fall campout at Pickerel Lake near Vanderbilt. The campout initiated new Scouts into the arts of camping and hiking, with older Scouts undertaking advanced work. Ed Buday and Assistant Scoutmaster Jim Bell accompanied the group. Youths Plant Trees

Breakthrough, Charlevoix's Christian Coffee House on Park-ave., planted five blue spruce trees in East Park Friday afternoon as a living reminder that the youth of the community are willing to help keep Charlevoix beautiful.

The five trees were donated to Breakthrough by Franks Flowers of Charlevoix, and they were planted with the assistance of City Superintendent Thomas Hanna and city workers.

Why trees?

Fred Davison, a spokesman for Breakthrough, had this to say:

"We wanted to do something that would be of benefit to all persons in Charlevoix."

"The trees will represent the youth of our city. As the trees grow, so will planned youth activity."

"The trees are something that will be enjoyed, not only by the people living today, but also by future generations."

"The project is just one of many planned by the Breakthrough staff to promote constructive youth activity and community civic mindedness," he concluded.

Trout for Dinner!

FISHERMEN line the Charlevoix pierheads mornings, evenings and most of the day in-between as lake trout and steelheads make their pilgrimage up Pine River Channel. Although the success rate dropped off some late last week, Myrl Keller of the Great Lakes Fisheries Station says a brisk west wind will aid fishermen. Keller said the trout aren't quite ready to spawn but are moving into warmer waters to ripen their eggs. He expects fishing to be superb until mid-November.

JACK RODGERS of 7131 Houghton-dr., Davison, was proud of this seven-pound lake trout taken from the Charlevoix pierheads last week.

RAY BUSH of East Jordan poses with 15-pound steelhead he caught last week off the Charlevoix pierheads. The fish was the largest taken all week.

Extradition Of Boal Sought

The Charlevoix Police Department has asked the Attorney General's office in Lansing to start extradition proceedings against William Boal, formerly of Charlevoix, in connections with the alleged embezzlement of funds in excess of $100 from the Weathervane Inn in July of 1970.

Police Chief Jack Mol says Boal is being held by the Clark County Sheriff's Department in Las Vegas, Nev.

Mol says Boal was picked up by Las Vegas police on a misdemeanor, but a computer check revealed he was wanted in Charlevoix for embezzlement.

Boal, who was bookkeeper for the Weathervane Inn, Inc., was last seen in Charlevoix on Tuesday, July 28, 1970, when he left the restaurant-motel complex on Pine River Channel to make a bank deposit following the big Venetian Festival weekend.

His car was discovered at the Traverse City Airport some time later—by State Police.

Although Boal was charged with embezzlement of "funds in excess of $100", the loss reportedly ran into several thousands of dollars.

Chief Mol says Boal refused voluntary extradition to Michigan to stand trial and the lengthy extradition proceedings were started through the Attorney General's office.

Mol says it may be as long as six weeks before Boal can be returned to Charlevoix.

If extradition is granted, Boal will be returned to Charlevoix either in the company of State Police or officers from the Charlevoix Police Department.

Detroiters Buying Woodshed

The Charlevoix City Council Monday night:

—Endorsed a transfer of the Woodshed liquor license from W.R. (Dick) Wood to Jack Bourke and Fred Bagnasco of Detroit who are purchasing the business.

—Heard a report by special city attorney John Michael that things went well for the city at oral arguments in Cincinnati Oct. 21 before the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals relative to the Shaw-Henderson litigation. Shaw-Henderson is attempting to block payment of federal and state money for the sewage plant now under construction because of alleged irregularities in the Clark Construction Co. bid. Michael said the issue has become one of mootness, since the project is already 22 percent completed. He expects a decision by the three-man tribunal before the end of the year.

—Approved the appointment by John Campbell to the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission to succeed George Lusk.

--Sent to committee a request by Jim Bearss, to purchase three acres of city land in the vicinity of Norwood-rd. and the railroad spur for expansion of his machine shop.

—Received a letter from Mr. and Mrs Carl Rothenberger, co-signed by 15 of their May-st. neighbors, asking for extension of the sewer line to their homes. They pointed out that they first requested sewers five years ago and a study was made. Alderman Robert Gill pointed out that South Side sewer line extensions hinged upon completion of the May-st. interceptor sewer, which has been completed from Belvedere to Garfield-st. "They are $43,000 closer" to RETIRING GOP Chairman Oscar Stroud chats with Vice Chairman Mrs. Arthur Rouse and Murel Edinger, liaison man with the State Central committee following last Thursday's GOP meeting at the Courthouse. Mrs. Rouse will fill in for Stroud until a successor is elected.

Peter Winnick Killed In Burgess-rd. Accident

Peter J. Winnick, 64, of Hayes Township, was killed Friday evening about 7 p.m. when he was struck by a car near his farm home on Burgess-rd.

Mr. Winnick apparently had parked his car on the road shoulder and had crossed the roadway to attend to farm business when he was struck by a southbound pickup driven by Mrs. Earl (Sandra J.) Smith, 32, a neighbor on Burgess-rd.

Mrs. Smith told sheriff's deputies that she was blinded by the lights of Winnick's car and didn't see him until she hit him. The accident occurred in fog and rain.

Mr. Winnick was dead on arrival at Little Traverse Hospital where he was taken by Charlevoix city ambulance.

Funeral was held Monday at St. Mary's Church, the Rev. E. Francis Denay officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Winnick was born in Hayes Township Jan. 22, 1907, and was married in Chicago in 1928 to the former Pauline Antolik. He farmed all of his life and worked in recent years as a security guard at Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point plant. During World War II he served with the Air Force.

He was a member of St. Marys Church, the F.O.E. in Boyne City and Maple Grove Grange.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Jerome (Dorothy) Whitley of Midland and Mrs. Larry (Delores) Petersen of Southfield; a son, Peter F. Winnick of Charlevoix; 10 grandchildren; three brothers, Bud of Homer, Frank of Jackson and Thomas of Flint; a half-sister, Mrs. Margaret Chatterton of Flint, and his step-mother, Mrs. Julin Winnick of Flint.

School Board Fields Questions on Sports

Extra duty assignments for teachers, a list of departments where changes in textbooks are being proposed and a discussion of numerous phases of the athletic program following questions asked by Ralph Doan, president of the Sports Boosters club, were major issues discussed at the shortest meeting of the Charlevoix board of education in recent months.

Recommended extra duty assignments approved follow: Nelson Green and William Murray, senior class sponsors; Glen Taylor and Edwin Crook, eleventh grade sponsors; Mrs. Betty Henne and Bruce Morgan, tenth grade sponsors and Mrs. Marian Kohn and Mrs. Frances Novak, ninth grade sponsors.

Others are Clarence Odmark, concert band sponsor and Gary Stutzman, marching band sponsor; Mrs. Constance Ford, newspaper, yearbook, debate and forensics sponsor; Mrs. Henne and Mr. Crook, co-sponsors of the Pep Club; James Jensen, Aero Club sponsor; Mrs. Novak, Spanish Club sponsor; Nancy Ryswick, Spanish Club sponsor; Mrs. Janet Odmark, Home Economics club sponsor; Mrs. Marie Osterberg, Girls' Athletic Association and cheerleading sponsor and Peter Spjeles, freshman basketball coach.

A list of classes for which new textbooks are recommended for the 1972-73 school year was presented. Supt. Robert Miller said that the board must make a serious study of curriculum needs before making a decision regarding the proposal. Suggested areas for change include data processing, office machines, Spanish I and II, High School English, Shop Math, General Chemistry, General Physics, General Business and U.S. Government.

Ralph Doan, president of the Sports Boosters, and several members of the group were present to ask questions relating to school sports and activities.

His first question related to spectator buses. He was advised that the board felt that rather than abolish an entire program, it had cutback on parts of numerous programs and that spectator buses fell into his category. He was told that it was hoped that it would be possible to send buses to all but Petoskey and Boyne City, nearby schools.

Doan said he felt that student body participation at games was important if we were to have good teams. Richard Donaldson, vice chairman of the board who presided at the meeting, and Miller related the details of the school's finances and said this was the reason for the cutback in the use of buses for out-of-town games and field trips.

Doan inquired about a basketball program for the fifth and sixth grades and was told that this had not been studied. He was also told that

C-E Board Stalls On Building Site

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District spent more than an hour in executive session Monday night in an attempt to reach a decision on a site for the proposed C-E office building but was unable to reach agreement.

A special meeting was called for Friday at 7:30 to resolve the question.

Three sites have been made available to the district, including a tract of city-owned land on Mercer-blvd. in Charlevoix.

Boyne City also has offered property in Rotary Park and Everett Kircher, proprietor of Boyne Country, has offered the district land on M-75 west of Boyne Falls.

The board also is reportedly considering the lease of the Kroger property in Charlevoix.

Intermediate Superintendent Charles Robinson appeared perturbed by the delay in reaching a decision, pointing out that the bonding attorneys would be on the phone in the morning wanting to know what the board decided.

In other business, the board appointed Mrs. William (Judy) Juilleret of Harbor Springs to serve out the unexpired term of Mrs. Fran Hill, who has moved from the area.

To Observe Halloween On Saturday

Mayor Andrew Essenburg has declared Saturday, Oct. 30, as the night for Hallowe'en "tricks or treats" in Charlevoix.

Mayor Essenburg said many parents had asked him to move up the holiday. Other area communities also will observe Hallowe'en on Saturday.

Stroud Quits As Chairman Of Local GOP

Oscar Stroud, chairman of the Charlevoix County Republican Party for the past five years, resigned at a meeting of the GOP Executive Board at the Courthouse Oct. 21.

Stroud said he is "just getting tired," adding that he thinks it is time for new leadership to take over the helm.

The board accepted Stroud's resignation "with regrets" and started casting about for a new chairman.

Elected county officers agreed to take over the task of screening applicants and come up with a list at the next GOP meeting Nov. 11.

Bob Wise, owner of Wise Window Cleaning and Floor Service and GOP finance chairman, said he would be interested in the position.

Another possible is Ed Hansen, owner of Charlevoix's Zypher station. "If nominated I would run and if elected I would serve," Hansen told the board.

Stroud also said that attorney Donald Berlage of Charlevoix and William Taylor of East Jordan have expressed an interest in the position. An East Jordan groceryman, Taylor is chairman of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Until a successor is elected, Vice Chairman Mrs. Arthur Rouse of Boyne City will act as county GOP chairman.

William Cooper of Ironton, who has been active in the party for several years, said he is not interested in the party chairmanship. However he said he would continue to be vocal in party affairs:

"I am going to ride h... out of this party and its elective officials," he said. "If you're a Republican, you had better start supporting the Republican Party."

Cooper is critical of county officials who are elected on the Republican ticket but take little interest in party business between elections.

The general meeting opened with remarks by Murel Edinger, liaison man between the State Central Committee and local GOP organizations.

Edinger didn't hesitate to point out that State Central "hasn't been doing a heck of a lot" because of a whopping debt of almost $700,000 run up during election campaigns last year.

However, he said the debt was being paid off and that the telephone bill had been reduced to about $10,000.

He said the huge deficit resulted from over-spending by state-wide candidates who turned over their debts to State Central after the election.

In spite of the gloomy financial picture, Edinger said State Central is attempting to raise $400,000 this year and another $600,000 next year to secure the re-election of Sen. Robert Griffin in 1972. He said the total cost of Griffin's re-election campaign has been estimated at $1,250,000.

He said the GOP is sponsoring 14 fund-raising dinners across the state Nov. 6 to be attended by Griffin's colleagues in the Senate. The Charlevoix area dinner will be held in Traverse City and the speaker will be Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon. Bob Wise is the local ticket chairman for the event, which will be held at the Park Place Motor Inn.

Edinger said President Nixon will address the banquet-goers by telephone at the end of the program, with a response by Griffin.

Turning to the economy, Edinger charged that the TV networks have overplayed President Nixon's tax credits to big business and have given hardly any air time to the President's proposals to remove the excise tax on automobiles and to increase the income tax exemption from $650 to $750.

He said the tax credits will "spark the economy immediately" and that elimination of the excise tax on automobiles, which Sen. Griffin suggested to the President, will provide a shot-in-the-arm to Michigan's auto industry.

Speaking of state reapportionment and redistricting, Edinger said a non-partisan committee made up of four Democrats and four Republicans has been appointed to draw up new Senate and House boundaries.

However, he said the committee has 180 days after the 1970 Census figures are released to come up with a plan — but the figures have not been released yet by the Secretary of State's office.

Edinger said an influx of new residents to northern Michigan may change the political complexion of the area.

He said most of the newcomers are arriving from the strife-ridden metropolitan areas and that most of them are Democrats.

As evidence of the exodus north, Edinger said that the bank in Harrison is opening six new checking accounts each day.

Grover Geneit, county register of deeds, suggested that the party take a look at Senate Bill 1036, which he says will kill county government in northern Michigan. He said the bill provides machinery for abolition of county boards of commissioners and empowers a county manager to levy up to 10 additional mills, over and above the 15 mills already authorized.

Party member Ron Geer suggested that local Republicans do something to attract newly enfranchised young people into the party.

The meeting adjourned into the executive board session at which Chairman Stroud announced his resignation

Garden Club Elects Officers

This was the first meeting for the new year. The new officers are Mrs. John Michael as president; Mrs. Conrad Klooster, first vice president, Mrs. Edith Stenman, second vice president; Mrs. Tom Hanna, secretary; and Mrs. Paul Stantek, treasurer

Each one responded for roll call with a "Garden Clean Up Tip." A most interesting and entertaining film on "Nature's One Half Acre" was shown by Mrs. Conrad Klooster.
